Economic Highlights

It's a safe bet that nothing since World War II, with the single exception of the Korean conflict, has so thoroughly rocked this country as the graft revelations. And, according to reports on the contents of Congressional mail from the folks back home, nothing has so shocked and revolted the people.

Democratic party chairman McKinney recently said that he is sure the scandals will not be an issue of the 1952 campaign, on the grounds that the President and other Democrats are handling the situation, and will clean everything up neatly in short order. This, in the view of most observers, is whistling in the dark with a vengeance. The graft has been going on too long, and too many people in key administration jobs are directly or indirectly involved. On top of that, it was junior Republican senator, Williams of Delaware, who cracked open the tax frauds and has seen to it that the investigations kept going. And it is an interesting fact that some Democrats who have done valiant work on behalf of high ethical standards in government—such as Senator Kefauver and Douglas—are persona non grata at the White House.

The reaction of the American press to the scandals has been one of anger—just as was the case with the scandals of the Harding administration. As a general rule, the editorial attitude has been "turn the rascals out." This has been buttressed by most of the columnists, who are taking a similar line. And on the factual side, coverage of the news by both press and radio has been excellent.

The big thing, of course, has been the graft in the Internal Revenue Bureau. This has completely overshadowed the deep freeze and mink coat episodes, and for an excellent reason. As Robert Ruark put it, "We cannot understand a billion here, a billion there, because so few of us deal in billions that they just represent a long line of zeros. We cannot understand the deviations of the state department. The good Lord knows we cannot understand what has transpired with prices and ceilings and economics in general, because it is a solid cinch the people who perpetrate them do not understand them, either.

"But there is one thing we know, from Natchez to Mobile, and Memphis to St. Joe. Taxes we know. I know 'em, because I owe 'em. You know 'em. You know 'em because they squeeze 'em right out of your tired old take-home, and you never get through the one year without fretting about the next."

Everyone kicks at the tax collectors as a mater of course, but everyone has believed that Internal Revenue was honest as they come. Now that the Bureau has taken on the smell of an ancient fish, the general public has turned whopping mad. And on the level of general principle, it seems certain that many millions of average Americans feel like Holmes Alexander, who wrote, No tramp of a foreign invader has so shaken the temple of our freedom like the stealthy treat of thieves who are still at large within the government. And unless we wake up to these dangers, the Communist dream of decaying democracy can become our own nightmare."

Grass Roots Opinion

Somerset, Pa., Daily American: "It is surprising how many people there are who imagine that the government has a means for obtaining money that makes its gifts to the people real benefits. The fact is that the government has no means for obtaining money except taxes and loans to be paid from taxes."

Foley, Ala., Onlooker: "Because we believe the people of this nation are now being taxed to just about the limit of their endurance, we of The Onlooker are prone to oppose any measure which will add to our tax load. When we consider the great amount of tax money which is now being used to support a great portion of our population in idleness, we think our people will do well to frown on any measure which will tend to increase the tax burden."

Gatesville, N. C., Index: "It isn't that we are advocating inflexible rules, practices, and laws governing the farming industry. We still put some credence in the old law that 'changing times demand changing laws,' and we fully expect and look for old practices and laws to be improved as time moves along. Yet, too many changes, too much politics, fattening subsidies, and a super-abundance of 'spokesmen' for the farmer could so weaken the whole structure that it will either topple or grow into disfavor somewhat as organized labor did when it formed the Roosevelt partnership and then outgrew its britches because of the false notion that the country would stand for anything."

Canadian, Texas, Record: "Yes it is possible that if we continue to relinquish our personal dignity and our individualism to government we will one day wake up and find we have relinquished our country without a struggle."

* * *

"Either the state exists for the individual or the individual exists for the state. In the latter case you have dictatorship, whether you call it Communism, Fascism, or Peronism, and how far the dictator goes depends on his own ruthlessness and the character of the people under him."—The Wall Street Journal.

New Year View From Chilton County

Willie Shaw from over in Beat 13, Chilton County, made his first visit of the New Year in Montevallo Wednesday.

"What's the outlook in Chilton for 1952?" we asked him.

"Well," he said, "there will be a lot of politics as usual. We closed out the old year by voting against the big road bond issue, and against the proposition of building a new courthouse.

"As for the political candidates in 1952, I don't know who will win—the Populites or the Mugwumps."

"What do you mean by Mugwumps, Willie?"

"A Mugwump is a politician sitting on the fence with his mug on one side and his wump on the other."

"Anyway," concluded Mr. Shaw, "we are soon to have the paved road on the Jemison cut-off through Dry Valley, and it is going to be a good one."

Notice Concerning Drivers License

Effective January 4, 1952, the driver's license examiner will be in Columbiana all day Friday and Saturday until noon of each week, instead of Thursdays.

Late Report On Goodfellows

The following contributions to the Goodfellows Club were received too late for insertion in the last published list:

Mr. J. A. Brown, Sr.	$10.00
A Friend	5.00
Mrs. Glennie Nybeck	2.00
Mrs. J. S. Ward	1.00
Total	$18.00

The above with the amounts reported brings Montevallo's contributions to giving Santa to Shelby County's under priviledged children to within a few dollars of $200.00, which, while not as much as we had hoped for, is still a very great help and is greatly appreciated by the Chief Good Fellow and his co-workers over the county. Thank you and may God bless you with health and happiness throughout the New Year.

REV. McDILL

Rev. McDill On Church Broadcast

The Presbyterian (U.S.) series of The Protestant Hour will begin on Sunday, January 6, 1952, with Rev. Thomas H. McDill, Jr., as the speaker. Approximately 175 stations will broadcast this series of ten programs, continuing through Sunday, March 9, the series serving to undergird the special evangelistic season of the Presbyterian Church, U.S. from March 23 to April 13.

Rev. Thomas H. McDill, Jr., is professor-elect of Pastoral Counseling at Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Georgia. Mr. McDill was formerly ppastor of the First Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church of Atlanta.

The theme of this series of the protestant hour is "Christ in Daily Life".

The current series of the protestant hour marks the opening of the seventh year of continuous broadcasting of religious programs sponsored first by the Southern Religious Radio Conference and now by the Protestant Radio Conference. This cooperative broadcast includes like series sponsored by the Methodist, the Presbyterian (U.S.A.), the United Lutherans and the Episcopalians.

Mr. and Mrs. "Doc" Gregg, of Los Angeles, Calif., and their two boys spent the Christmas holidays here with relatives. Mrs. Gregg is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kendrick. "Doc" is a brother of the late "Deacon" Gregg.

M. ZIOLKOWSKI

M. Ziolkowski Piano Recital Friday Night

Miecislaw Ziolkowski, outstanding pianist in Alabama and former pupil of Paderewski, will present his annual recital in Palmer Auditorium on Friday, January 4.

The former Polish instructor and composer will play one of his own works, Fire Flies, along with Chopin, Liszt, Bach and a Rubenstein arrangement of Beethoven's Turkish March.

Affectionately known as "Mr. Z" by his students, the personable Mr. Ziolkowski has been a tradition on the campus for many years. He came to Alabama College at Montevallo a young bachelor, from the concert halls of Europe, and soon after married.

The complete program for January 4 includes: Fantasie and Fugue in G Minor by Bach-Liszt; Polonaise Fantasie by Chopin; Sonata in B flat minor by Chopin; Turkish March by Beethoven-Rubenstein; Fire Flies by Ziolkowski; Excursion by Barber and Tarantella by Liszt.

Friends of the College are cordially invited to attend the concert.

Card Of Thanks From Davis Family

The family of the late Mr. Henry T. Davis hereby express their thanks to their friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown them in their bereavement at the death of Mr. Davis.—Mrs. H. T. Davis, Ed Davis and John Davis, Montevallo; Leslie Davis, Valdosta, Ga.; Mrs. Christine Williams, Live Oak, Fla.; Mrs. Charles Glover, Tampa, Fla.; Mrs. James Stripling, Tallahassee, Fla.; Henry Davis, Ponchatoula, La.

Rotary Club Elects Officers

The Montevallo Rotary Club has elected new officers to take effect in July, 1952, as follows:

President, James A. Wyatt; vice-president, M. S. McGehee; secretary, M. Thornton; treasurer, Harold Anthony; additional members of the Board of Directors, J. Frank Baker, Herman Pauly, T. E. Watson.

Guest speaker for the meeting of the club this week is Mr. Ed Patterson, superintendent of Beaunit Mills of Childersburg.

Ebenezer Club Christmas Party

Mrs. Herman Pauly entertained the Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club at her home. The occasion was the annual Christmas party and gift exchange. Mrs. George Howell gave the devotional. Roll call was answered by Life In Germany Today.

The lovely Christmas pprogram was presented by Mrs. George Howell, Mrs. Nathan Frost, Mrs. Ferman Albright, Miss Ivy Swinford and Mrs. W. A. Nolen.

Mrs. Earl Swinford distributed the gifts from around the gaily decorated Christmas tree.

Mrs. W. A. Jones assisted Mrs. Pauly in serving refreshments to the following guests and members: Mrs. Carl Wyatt, Mrs. Jesse Faust, Mrs. Frank Green, Mrs. Robert Lovelady, Mrs. Frank Frost, Mrs. Ferman Albright, Mrs. Nathan Frost, Mrs. Amos Davis, Mrs. Gladys Allen, Miss Ivy Swinford, Mrs. George Howell, Mrs. Lester Stansell, Miss Minnie Harper, Mrs. W. A. Jones, Mrs. Grady Wyatt, Mrs. W. A. Nolen, Mrs. Earl Swinford, Mrs. J. H. Wyatt, Mrs. Dewey McDonough, Mrs. R. H. Davis, Miss Marion Cotney, Emily and Kitty Stansell, Jeanie and Paula Nolen, Tommie and Jimmie Wyatt.

Governor Persons Thanks Voters

Montgomery—Gov. Gordon Persons has expressed his appreciation for the great majority which Alabama voters gave Amendment No. 1, the $25,000,000 Road Bond Issue.

"Alabama citizens may rest assured," Persons said, "that the $50,000,000 for road improvements now to be available will be spent wisely." He added, "I want especially to thank those who worked so hard for passage of the amendment. They, as well as those who voted for good roads, have contributed to the progress of our state.

"Each county will be given a fair and square share of the fund," he said. "Not only will this added money help with modernization of our highways, but these improved roads will go a long ways toward cutting down on our terrible highway accident record."

Gasoline Stations To Give Out Safety Instructions

Montgomery—State Public Safety Director, L. B. Sullivan, said Alabama gasoline stations had been requested to distribute leaflets explaining the new motor vehicle safety act which becomes effective January 1, 1952.

Distribution of the leaflets is a first step in "a broad educational program" to acquaint the public with the new law, Sullivan said.

He said the leaflets explains what the law is, who it affects, what a motorist must do after an accident, and how quickly a motorist can lose his motoring privilege, and what he can do to avoid that misfortune.

Definition of a financial genius. A man who has made more money than his family can spend.

THE DOG NUISANCE

The community of Montevallo faces a challenge in the question of what we shall do about the nuisance of dogs running at large.

It does not make sense that we should have to put up with a situation where women and children are afraid to go about town because of the danger of being harrassed and attacked by packs of good-for-nothing dogs.

There is no reason we can see why any dog should be allowed to run at large in the community. There are many reasons why they should not be allowed to do so.

Apparently our people are getting thoroughly disgusted with the situation, and well they may be.

Let's take the dogs off our streets and keep them confined or else take them to the bone-yard.

Kent's Cow Is State Champion

Peterborough, N. H. — R. W. Kent, Siluria, Alabama, has made a state champion record with his registered Guernsey cow, Kent's Supreme Alice. Her priduction of 9,022 pounds of milk and 468 pounds of butterfat is the highest advanced registry record in the state of Alabama made by a senior 2-year-old milked twice daily for a ten-month period.

The sire of this cow, Owendale's Napoleon's Champion, also owned by Kent, has one daughter in the performance register of The American Guernsey Cattle Club.

Old Sparta Was Once Proud City

Old Sparta was, in the days before the Civil War, the county seat of Conecuh County. Located on the banks of the Conecuh River, Old Sparta became quite prosperous for a while. It boasted its own town square, numerous general stores, bars, law officers, and two first-rate hotels. An academy was built and teachers were imported from the North. Then the dreaded yellow fever scourage struck the little community. The plague was soon followed by the devastation inflicted upon the town by invading Federal troopers. Today, a pile of bricks here and there are all that remain of Old Sparta, a once proud frontier city.

Robert Coker Heads Pioneer Seed Firm Founded By His Father

HARTSVILLE, S. C.—The board of directors of Coker's Pedigreed Seed Company has elected Robert R. Coker head of the pioneer Southern seed-breeding firm founded by his father, the late David R. Coker, who began his cotton breeding work here a half century ago.

Mr. Coker succeeds the late Dr. George J. Wilds as president of the company which is engaged in seed production and agricultural research in four Southern states. Dr. Wilds, an eminent scientist who devoted his life to plant breeding, came here in 1908 to assist the founder in breeding work and became director of plant breeding in 1921. He served as president of the company from 1938 until his death in October.

ROBERT R. COKER

The new president, prominent in the raw cotton industry and at present the only Southern member of the 11-man Agricultural Research Policy Committee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been with the company 23 years, and became vice president in 1938 when his father died. From 1940 to 1945 he was a vice president of the National Cotton Council, helped organize the South Carolina Farm Bureau in 1944 and served as its first president.

Dr. J. W. Neely, native of Cotton Plant, Ark., well-known geneticist who has been engaged in plant breeding, especially cotton, for the last 20 years, both with the government and with the seed breeding industry, has been director of plant breeding and agricultural research since April 1, 1951. He was formerly senior geneticist for the Cotton Division, Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils and Agricultural Engineering.

DR. J. W. NEELY

Under the new set-up Dr. Neely is vice president and secretary, in addition to being director of plant breeding and agricultural research. E. H. Lawton of Hartsville, whose father, the late J. J. Lawton, was a co-worker with the company's founder, continues as a vice president.

Vacuum Cleaners Big Help In Aiding Medicine Intake

ANN ARBOR—Chronic asthma and bronchitis sufferers will find that their vacuum cleaner may be a big help to them in taking their medicine, three University of Michigan doctors have found.

If the vacuum cleaner has a blower exhaust, it can be easily and inexpensively rigged to an atomizing spray device which makes light work of daily home treatment, the doctors reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Extensive research results with various kinds of nebulizer (fine spray) equipment are described by Drs. John M. Sheldon, Robert G. Lovell and Kenneth P. Mathews of the Allergy Clinic.

Usually, patients with chronic chest and sinus infections must take mouth sprays of penicillin, streptomycin, adrenalin or other prescribed drugs, about four times a day.

The nebulizer can be hand operated, which is often exhausting for the very sick person, or it can be operated by a tank of compressed oxygen but this is a rather expensive mechanism for many persons, the doctors explained.

The doctors discovered that by using about ninety cents of tubing, a gallon jug and a vacuum cleaner with a blower exhaust, a very effective arrangement for operating a nebulizer could be provided.

Two strips of rubber tubing are used in the set-up. One tube is connected to the cleaner's exhaust outlet and a gallon jug half-filled with water. The other tube also connects with the jug while its other end is attached to the nebulizer.

When the vacuum cleaner is turned on, the blower forces air through the tubes and up into the compartment where the medicine is contained. The forced air blows the medicine into the respiratory passages in a fine spray. By passing through the water-filled jug, the air is cleaned of the room dust

Mr. Leslie Davis, of Valdosta, Ga., is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. H. T. Davis.

Uncle Sam Says

We're seeing the old year out this week. For those of us who've held on to our Defense Bonds, it was a prosperous year indeed. Help make 1952 a prosperous year by joining the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank. This time next year you can say to yourself, "I now own U. S. Defense Bonds. I've saved all that money, and I've helped Uncle Sam with it, too. Am I lucky." But it won't be luck at all, just the application of common sense.

AMERICA's truck users buy on down-to-earth facts, not fancy phrases.

That's why more of them buy Chevrolet trucks than any other make . . . nearly as many as the next two makes combined!

What they get for their money is a rugged, sturdy, dependable truck that's factory-matched to their jobs and payloads—right power, right capacity, right price—with savings in purchase over other trucks of comparable specifications, and a record of savings on the job that can't be topped.

Come in and let's get down to cases on how a Chevrolet truck can cut your hauling or delivery costs. You can't make a better buy—to save your money!

Campaign Is Organized To Conduct Solicitation For The March of Dimes

The county is organizing rapidly to carry on its campaign for funds for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Mrs. Conrad Fowler in Columbiana reports that the entire Vignette Club membership will serve as lieutenants and contact mothers in the campaign. The members are: Mrs. Norman Lefkovits, Mrs. Alvin Lefkovits, Mrs. George McCord, Mrs. Wales Wallace, Jr., Mrs. Elvin Hill, Mrs. Buck Faulkner, Mrs. Jay Faulkner, Mrs. J. B. Turner, Jr., Mrs. Bill White, Mrs. Margaret McGee, Mrs. James McDow, Mrs. Gerald Fulton, Mrs. Bruce Alverson, Mrs. Mrs. T. C. Rush, Jr., Mrs. Alvin Stinson, Mrs. Ben Skelton, Mrs. Cecile Leonard, Mrs. Ross Mullins, Mrs. E. B. Turner and Mrs. Conrad Fowler.

Mrs. H. L. Cobb, the community chairman for Westover, reports as her lieutenants for the drive: Mrs. J. C. Lott, Mrs. Bill Powers, Mrs. Nelson Archer, Mrs. Curtis Moore, Mrs. Oliver McManur, Mrs. Earl Whitfield, and Mrs. J. D. Carroll.

Dr. M. L. Orr, County Campaign Director, stresses that the need for funds this year is greater than ever before. Nine children in Shelby County contracted polio last year. In proportion to population, this number means that Shelby County had more cases than an epidemic. Although the cause of the dread disease has not yet been found, steady progress is being made. The National Foundation hopes to be able to spend half of the money received in the drive for research into causes and treatments for polio. In the past, however, it has had to spend so much on treating and caring for those who suddenly contracted polio that there has not been enough money left over for research. Dr. Orr emphasizes the need for increased donations to the National Foundation by showing that the number of polio cases in the nation gets bigger every year and the foundation can not keep ahead of the demand for its services. The March of Dimes will need lots more dimes this year if it is to continue to help the needy polio victims and try to find some way to prevent the disease.

Community chairmen for the drive are: Aldrich, Mrs. Paul Crenshaw; Calera, Mrs. Harry Anderson; Camp Branch, Mrs. Forest Templin; Chelsea, Mrs. Robert Brasher; Columbiana, Mrs. Conrad Fowler; Dogwood, Mrs. John Greene; Harpersville, Mrs. L. N. Wyatt; Helena, Mrs. Rual Stark; Mayberry, Mrs. Pay Terrell; Maylene, Mrs. Bob Lacey; Montevallo, Mr. Harold Anthony and Mr. Putnam Porter; Pelham, Mrs. P. G. Sailors; Shelby, Mrs. Cecil Davis; Siluria, Mrs. A. H. Holbrook; Sterrett, Mrs. Ray Bruner; Vincent, Mrs. B. C. Harris; Westover, Mrs. H. L. Cobb; Wilsonville, Mrs. Mary Revis; Wilton, Mrs. James W. Grant.

Negro Organization

On January 3 the Negroes of the county held a dinner at the Montevallo School to organize for the March of Dimes Drive. Mrs. Luther Penn is county chairman.

She reports that the community chairmen will be: Almont, Amos Nix; Calera, Mrs. Alice Harris; Columbiana, Mrs. Gertrude Mixon and Mrs. Irene Hall; Helena, Mrs. Carolyn Kelly; Montevallo, Jesse Peoples and K. D. Nunn; Siluria, Raymond Potis and Mrs. Hattie Stewart; Vincent, Rev. P. D. Riggins and Mrs. Vertie Ford; Wilsonville, Mrs. Blanche Bush.

D. A. R. Names Citizenship Girl

Mrs. Ellen Arnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jones, of 2813 Crescent Avenue, Homewood, was selected to represent Shelby County schools as Good Citizenship girl, an honor given each year by the D. A. R. Ellen is a senior at Thompson High School, a member of the Beta Club, assistant of the school annual, reporter for the F. B. L. A. Club, member of F. H. A., 4-H Club. Her husband, Aubrey Arnett, is with the Marine Corps at Cherry Point, N. C.

On February 8 and 9 the girls representing all the counties in Alabama will be entertained at Huntingdon College, Montgomery, and during that session one girl will be chosen to represent the state at the national meeting later this year.

Killingsworth At Craig Air Base

Craig AFB, Ala.—Private First Class Cecil T. Killingsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Euell A. Killingsworth of Route 1, Montevallo, has arrived at this base and has been assigned to the 3615th Maintenance Squadron.

Private Killingsworth re-enlisted in the Air Force in January, 1952. Prior to his re-enlistment he served at Scott and Chanute Air Force Bases, Illinois, and Holloman Air Force Base, New Mexico.

He has been employed by the T. C. I. sheet mill, Fairfield.

Mr. W. L. Brown Died Wednesday

W. L. BROWN

The death of Mr. W. L. Brown, of Montevallo, Wednesday, brings sorrow to his many friends all over Shelby County. He had been seriously ill for the past two years.

Mr. Brown was one of our county's most prominent citizens. For many years he filled with honor and integrity the important position of Chairman of the County Board of Revenue, to which office he was twice elected by the people of the county. As a public official and as a private citizen he lived a good life and did a noble job of making the world better by his having lived in it.

Funeral services will be held at Montevallo Baptist Church Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. The remains will lie in state at the church from 1 o'clock until time of the funeral services. Burial will be in Montevallo Cemetery.

Not many of us would object to Mr. Churchill's proposed United States of Europe if it wasn't for the fact that it'll probably take a good many United States of America dollars to keep it united.

Miss Hendrick In Senior Recital

The first of the senior recitals for the year at Alabama College will present Margaret Ann Hendrick in Calkins Hall at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, January 10.

Miss Hendrick, a music major, of Montevallo, will play selections by Chopin, Schumann, Debussy, deFalla, Beethoven, Scarlatti, and Grieg.

Miss Hendrick's college activities have included participation in College Night, the Glee Club, the Singers Club, Wesley Foundation, Freshman Orientation, and she was chosen as one of the ten best dressed, and is also active in several of the honorary societies.

She is a niece of Miss Virginia Hendrick, the registrar of the college.

Blood Bank Training Course

Anyone who is interested and is willing to work in helping to carry out the program of the blood bank is requested to attend a training course to be given at Montevallo High School at 2:00 p.m. Friday, January 18.

Your cooperation in this work is needed and will be greatly appreciated.

D A R Meeting With Miss Eddy

David Lindsay Chapter, D.A.R., met in Comer Hall for its program which consisted of lantern slides of beautiful pictures in color, of the D.A.R. buildings, Continental Hall and Memorial Hall, in Washington, D. C. Mrs. T. H. Napier gave the lecture telling interesting things about each view.

After having enjoyed a delightful trip through these buildings, the members next went to Miss Eddy's home where the regent, Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, presided over the business meeting. A very pleasant social hour followed during which delicious refreshments were served.

P T A Meeting Tuesday Night

The Montevallo P. T. A. will meet January 15, at 7:30 at the high school auditorium.

The legislative committee, Mr. W. J. O'Neal, chairman, will be in charge of the program. The subject to be discussed will be "Laws that have had a vital effect on our schools and teachers, and how to obtain new laws."

Speakers for this occasion will be Senator Albert Boutwell, of Birmingham, and others.

Friends as well as patrons are urged to attend this meeting and learn of the laws governing the working of your school, and what new laws are needed.

I wasn't going to argue with the guy, because he ought to know. He said he bought a 12 pound Christmas turkey and that it had already yielded up 16 pounds of leftovers.

Montevallo C of C Elects 1952 Officers

At the regular monthly meeting of the Montevallo Chamber of Commerce Monday night the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, F. P. Givhan; vice-president, M. Thornton; secretary, M. S. McGehee.

The Chamber has just closed a very active and successful year of operation under the direction of Don Lovelady as president and M. S. McGehee, secretary.

The industrial committee reported that Mr. Bob Galloway plans to start a new industry here for the manufacture of cotton floor mops and brooms. Mr. Galloway was present and stated that he expects to locate his factory in the Kroell Building formerly occupied by the business of Don Lovelady.

Mr. Thornton explained a plan he has arranged for a group of business men and agriculture students of the high school to make a trip this week-end to see and study the broiler production program that has been successfully developed around Gainesville, Ga.

A discussion was made concerning a lawsuit instituted by Mr. Peddy Bearden seeking an injunction to stop the operation of the Montevallo Limestone Co. plant at Ryan Crossing near Montevallo. Mr. Bearden claims that the operation of the plant constitutes a nuisance to his adjoining property.

The Chamber of Commerce was very much concerned about this proposition as the Limestone company employs about 20 people and has a weekly payroll of about $900.

A resolution was adopted expressing the hope that the trouble between Mr. Bearden and the Limestone company may be settled in some way that will insure the continued operation of the plant.

"It would be hurtful to the employees of the plant and business generally in this vicinity to lose the weekly payroll of this company," the resolution stated.

Women's Work Is Study Club Theme

A four-member panel discussion of "Women in Education" was the feature of the first meeting in 1952 of the Montevallo Study Club.

Mrs. A. C. Jeter, Mrs. N. E. Phillips, Mrs. A. C. Anderson and Mrs. M. Thornton discussed phases of women's work in the field of education, nationally, in Alabama, and in the Montevallo schools.

Evaluation Day in Montevallo High School was explained and discussed. Mrs. Anderson was program chairman.

Following the panel talks, a social hour was held with Mrs. F. P. Givhan and Mrs. Lowell Hamilton as hostesses. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Hamilton.

Election of new officers and the yearly committee reports will be featured at next month's business meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. M. L. Orr, Sr., with Mrs. W. J. Kennerly as co-hostess.

B P W Meeting

The Business and Professional Women's Club meets next Tuesday evening in Comer Hall.

A movie, "Careers for Girls," will be shown at 8:00 o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend.

Bloodmobile Here Friday, January 25

Every citizen in the Montevallo community, between the ages of 18 and 59, is expected to volunteer a pint of blood January 25 for urgent needs in Korea and a blood bank in Shelby County.

The Red Cross bloodmobile will make its first visit to this community that day at the Montevallo High School auditorium.

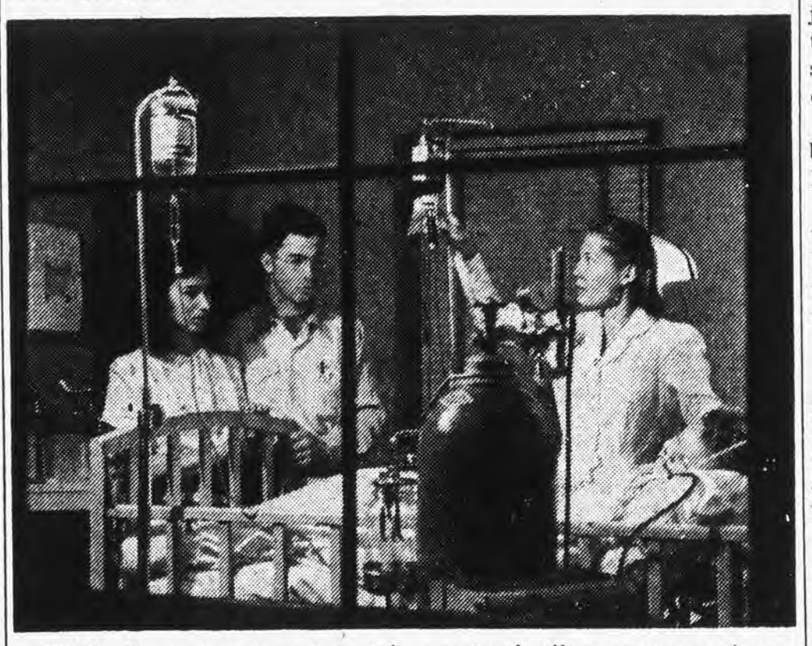

The blood quota for the Montevallo area is 165 pints of blood but leaders of the local program hope to get well over this quota. This is the bloodmobile's second visit to Shelby County. Columbiana citizens met their quota enthusiastically in November.

Miss Laura Hadley, local chairman, says a doctor will be on hand to make a careful physical test of ability to give blood. Some will not be able to contribute, and for this reason Miss Hadley emphasizes that at least 300 Montevallo citizens should volunteer.

The Red Cross blood program, which is the only blood collection in the nation, will use the blood for three purposes in this order:

(1) Blood to take care of needs of Shelby County citizens; (2) Whole blood for Korea, and (3) a stockpile of blood plasma for the armed forces and the national defense program.

Men and women, regardless of race, may donate to the program. Young people over 18 may give if they are married, self supporting, members of the armed forces, or if they have the consent of their parents.

While his anxious parents watch, a seriously ill youngster receives a blood and saline transfusion and oxygen after an operation.

Western Division, Alabama Power Co. Had No Disabling Accidents In 1951

M. S. McGehee, manager of the Montevallo District, stated that on January 1, 1952, the Western Division of the Alabama Power Company, of which the Montevallo operations are a part, achieved the goal set at the beginning of 1951 of no disabling employee accidents throughout the year.

The Western Division, with headquarters in Birmingham, has 511 employees, and serves approximately 118,000 customers in all or part of seventeen counties in the northwestern part of the state. According to L. M. Smith, vice-president and general manager, "This group of employees deserve high recognition and congratulations for this splendid accomplishment."

Recently the division employees were awarded a certificate of merit from the Edison Electric Institute upon the completion of one million man-hours worked without a disabling injury accident. Such a certificate is highly prized by the recipients, comprising groups or divisions in the various electric utilities throughout the United States. Since the inception of this form of recognition in 1942, only 160 certificates have been issued throughout the nation, and 23 have been given groups of Alabama Power Cimpany employees.

In addition to the award by the Edison Electric Institute, the Western Division employees have earned a bronze plaque issued by the Company's Safety Department to each division completing a calendar year with a clear record in safety. The bronze plaque will be presented at an early date.

On January 1, 1952, the employees of this division had worked continuously 1,266,533 man hours free from accidents. District manager McGehee stated that this is a remarkable record, especially when one considers the hazards and dangers of on-the-job utility work, and extensive necessary travel to and from the job in automotive equipment.

Legend has it that Huntsville's original First Methodist Church was used as a stable by Union troopers during the Civil War. The old structure was then burned by the invaders. The present building was erected in 1867. In 1916, more than a half century after the burning of the original structure the Federal Government compensated the congregation for the damages inflicted on the antebellum house of warship.

Employment Drop Noted In November

Montgomery — Total nonagricultural employment in Alabama dropped sharply in November as estimates were prepared for the period during which stricks occurred involving several thousand workers, according to Joe L. Coleman, director of industrial relations.

Coleman said that total employment decreased 2.4 percent from October but, despite the current drop, measured 633,900 as compared with 619,800 one year ago. The estimates were completely distorted in these overall figures, and it is probable, he said, that had the strikes not occurred, current estimates would have been approximately 30,000 above the comparable period a year ago. In addition, a strike of several months' duration in one of the shipyards, were sizeable employment was involved, still exists.

The industrial relations director said that, according to preliminary estimates, average hourly earnings for production workers in all manufacturing plants dropped two cents from October to November although the average work-week increased fractionally. This was caused by the exclusion in the employment estimates of several thousand workers on strike. Coleman said that this group normally earned hourly pay above the average of other industrial components. This fact is emphasized in the durable goods segement where average hourly pay decreased six cents while non-durable industries recorded a one cent increase.

Unsettled labor conditions plus a general lull in hiring brought the number of November job placements by the State Employment Service to 9,869 During the same period, Coleman said, 10,727 persons filed new applications for work at local employment offices. At the end of the month, these offices reported 34,678 active job seekers. An estimated 11,600 persons received job insurance payments totalling $619,517.

Coleman said that transportation equipment factories showed a considerable gain over the month as an aircraft plant continued to add new workers and operating shipyards expanded. The latter industry, however, continued to reflect results of a strike. It is not possible to estimate the overall effect of employment in the industry if the strike had not prevailed, he said, since many of the workers have been employed by other industries or other shipyards.

Machinery plants reacted to the demand for their products as the impact of defense production progressed, Coleman said. The current level of 6,800 marked a gain of 200 over the month and 1,300 over the year. Government controls, priorities and restrictions have been felt in the fabricated metels industry. During a period of several recent months, he said, employment was fairly constant with a gradual upward trend. From October to November, there was an increase of 400, and a gain of 700 from the comparable month a year ago. This represented a gain of 11.3 percent over the year.

All other manufacturing industries reflected only minor variations for the current period with some normal seasonal declines in apparel and chemical plants. However, Coleman said, there were 8,000 employees in the latter industry. This compared with 7,000 one year ago and resulted principally from defense expansion as well as development of new plants.

Got A Bad Cold? It Might Be Flu

Montgomery—With influenza, as with the common cold, it's the early case that is most dangerous from the point of view of the other person.

Dr. D. G. Gill, state health officer, pointed out that office workers and others doing indoor work needed to be especially on the watchout for fellow-workers who are just beginning to sniffle, and sneeze.

"Whether a person is taking influenza or just a bad cold," he said, "he is a particularly great danger to others. There is added danger in the virus contained at such a time in the tiny proplets discharged from the mouth, throat and nose. It is when the disease is just begining that the average person does little to protect himself from others' germs. And it is usually then that the influenza or cold victim does practically nothing to protect others against his germs. So watch out for early stage colds and influenza."

Farmers Did Good Job Past Year

We were surely tempted in this, the first column of our new year, to list acres of crops miles of teraces numbers of farms planned and, the many accomplishments of our county's farmers in the past year. There has been a great forward step in that twelve month period.

However our doing that would look like we were trying to take all the credit for this advance for the North Central Soil Conservation District and the Soil Conservation Service.

Instead, the credit goes to the farmers, the men whose money and labor and ambitions to do a better job, who made the great job possible.

The various agencies and training facilities have just been tools of the farmers, or sources of information.

We are glad that hundreds of open minded men have seen fit to use the district organization and the services we offer as a means of help to them to do a better job for themselves.

During the year we have lost a few cooperators through change of ownership in farms. If there is to be a feather in our cap let it be that in practically every such case, the new owners asked for the farm plan to be revised to fit his particular needs and has become an active soil conserving farmer.

The first cotton mill in Alabama was located near Huntsville on the Flint River. It was incorporated by the legislature in 1832. Put into operation as the Bell Factory of the County Madison, the concern derived its name from the fact that a bell instead of the customary steam whistle was used to call the employees to work.

Brigadier General Thomas E. deShazo Commands Artillery Division, Ft. Campbell

GENERAL TOM DE SHAZO

Brigadier General Thomas E. deShazo, native son of Montevallo, is now commanding officer of the 11th Airborne Division Artillery at Ft. Campbell, Ky. He recently left Korea, where he commanded the 2nd Infantry Division through the bloody battles of Heart - Break Ridge. The paratrooper General is a veteran of 35 years military service and a holder of the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action against the communist forces in Korea.—U. S. Army Photo.

Brigadier General Thomas E. deShazo, U. S. Army, new commander of the 11th Airborne Division Artillery, came to the division from Korea where he led the 2nd Infantry Division during the battles of Bloody and Heart-break Ridges. During the past 25 years, he has seen military service on three continents and combat duty in three wars. He has been responsible for the development of techniques in the use of armored artillery.

Native of Montevallo

Born in Montevallo May 6, 1901, the General graduated from Montevallo High School and then attended Marion Institute. He began his military career in May, 1917, as an enlisted man with the First Alabama Cavalry (National Guard). He then served with the 117th Field Artillery of the 31st Dixie Division. He later received an appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

Upon graduation from the Military Academy in June, 1926, General deShazo was commissioned a second lieutenant and assigned to duty at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. There he served as a battery officer in the 12th Field Artillery from 1926 to 1929. He was transferred to Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, and assigned to the 11th Field Artillery.

He was promoted to first lieutenant in 1931 and assigned as a student at the Field Artillery School. After graduation from this school in 1932, he served as a battery commander in the 36th Field Artillery at Fort Bragg, N. C. until 1937. It was during this time in 1926 that he was promoted to captain.

Armored Artillery

After service with the 24th Field Artillery in the Philippine Islands from 1927 to 1939, General deShazo was assigned to the 27th Field Artillery at Fort Knox, Ky. He was instrumental in 1940 in equipping units with armored artillery and he developed many techniques for its employment in his subsequent assignments. He served at Fort Knox until 1941, when he was selected to attend the Command and General Staff School. After graduation, he was promoted to major and assigned as artillery officer, Headquarters Armored Forces. The following year he was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel and assigned as commander of the 69th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, Camp Chaffee, Ark.

A few months later, then a full colonel, General deShazo embarked upon a tour of combat duty. He commanded the 6th Armored Field Artillery Group throughout two years of fighting in Italy, France and Germany.

Upon returning to the States in 1944, General deShazo was assigned as assistant commandant of the Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla. He remained at this job until 1947, continuing work begun in 1940 in techniques of employment of armored artillery.

Went To Turkey

In 1947, after graduation from National War College, the General went to Turkey as chief of the Artillery Section of the Military Mission to that country. The year 1950 saw him assigned with G-3, Plans Division, Department of the Army, in Washington. With the outbreak of the Korean conflict, he left his desk job for another combat assignment.

As Artillery Officer of the IX Corps, he participated in the UN Offensive in North Korea and then fought throughout the first and second Chinese offensives. In April, 1951, he was promoted to Brigadier General and commanded the 2nd Division Artillery during the third Chinese offensive and the first UN counter offensive. He then moved up to Commanding General of the Division and led his men during the battles of Bloody and Heart-break Ridges.

Attorney General Ruling On Tobacco Tax

Attorney General Si Garrett has written a letter to Mayor W. M. Wyatt to clear up the confusion caused by a misinterpretation put on one of his recent opinions by news articles in the daily press of the state with reference to the power of municipalities to license businesses in the police jurisdiction area.

The Attorney General's letter to Mayor Wyatt reads:

"On December 21, 1951, I rendered an official opinion to the Mayor of Andalusia, Alabama, holding unconstitutional and invalid that portion of an ordinance of the City of Andalusia levying tax on the sale, storage, or delivery of tobacco products within the police jurisdiction and outside the corporate limits of the City of Andalusia, which ordinance specifically earmarked the proceeds of said tax for recreational purposes.

"Subsequently, this opinion was misinterpreted in news articles appearing in the daily press of the state as holding that a municipality was without legal authority to levy a license tax within its police jurisdiction but outside its corporate limits. I made no such holding to the Mayor of Andalusia; nor have I ever made such a holding. Such is not the law in the State of Alabama.

"On the contrary, as pointed out in that opinion, while a municipality may not levy a license tax on a business within its police jurisdiction but outside its corporate limits for revenue purposes only, it may levy such a license tax, under its police power, the revenue derived therefrom to be used for the protection of the lives, health, and property of the citizens, the maintenance of good order and quiet of the community, and the preservation of the public morals. However, the amount of a license tax levied by a municipality, under its police power, on a business within its police jurisdiction but outside its corporate limits must be reasonable in relation to the cost of the services provided by the municipality, and in no instance may it exceed one-half the amount of the license tax levied on a like business within the corporate limits of the municipality."

Teachers Endorse Supt. Elliott

The Shelby County Teachers Association last Friday went on record endorsing the candidacy of Mr. W. W. Elliott, Shelby County Superintendent of Education, for Vice President of the Alabama Education Association for 1952-53.

Mr. Elliott is a career educator, and since starting in the field of education as a class room teacher he has risen to the top educational position in his native county.

Mr. Elliott received his B. A. degree from Howard College and the Master's degree from the University of Alabama. After completing ten years as high school principal at Columbiana, Mr. Elliott is now serving as Shelby County Superintendent of Education.

Mr. Elliott's record as an informed educator shows him to be excellently qualified to serve the teachers of Alabama as vice president during the coming year.

Montevallo Business Men Carry FFA Boys To See Broiler Projects In Georgia Area

It was a real day of rich educational experience for Montevallo F.F.A. boys last Saturday when they toured the Gainesville, Georgia broiler producing area. Only through the cooperation of several adults could the trip have been possible. Along with the 29 F.F.A. boys were Floyd Hawkins, E. E. Aldridge, M. Thornton, Pete Givhan, Jim Mabry, M. S. McGehee, Dr. M. L. Orr, Sr., Paul Moon, E. L. McGraw, and Dr. Leslie Hubbard. The adults furnished transportation in cars and the boys paid other expenses of the trip.

It has been a feeling of some on the trip that Montevallo area offers an opportunity for profitable expansion of the poultry business. A part of the program of expansion would include a small processing plant and a freezing unit to provide storage and complete processing facilities.

The group visited one large processing plant where 30,000 broilers are processed daily. The plant employs 400 peole and operates five days a week. A small plant where ten to twelve thousand could be handled daily was also visited. It was pointed out that some 8 to 10 processing plants operate in the area and that the industry is expanding. Mr. R. S. Ramsey, one broiler producer near Gainesville, stated he realized $135 a thousand from 100 thousand broilers last year. He also pointed out that one could reasonably expect 10 to 20 cents margin of profit in production up to 100,000 birds.

Mr. Knickerbocker, a producer of hatchery eggs, stated that his laying houses have 5,000 hens in each. The houses were 400 feet in length and of two units with an alley for feeding and gathering eggs. He is expanding his unit to 30,000 birds for egg production. He has realized 80 cents a dozen for his eggs. Some smaller units were observed and it was pointed out to the group that small production units are more profitable per bird. FFA boys are seriously studying the possibilities of poultry here.

Alabaster Bank Opening Announced

A statement from Mr. George L. Scott, Jr., says The First Bank of Alabaster will be open for inspection Sunday, January 20, and the formal opening for business Monday, January 21.

The officers of the new bank are George L. Scott, Jr., President; J. A. Hines, vice president, W. V. Hammond, secretary; and T. L. Cox, cashier. The directors are T. L. Cox, W. V. Hammond, J. A. Hines, K. B. Nickerson, J. T. Phillips, George L. Scott, Jr.

The bank begins business with a capital stock of $50,00; surplus $10,00; and undivided profits of $15,000. It is a member of the Federal Reserve System and of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Continuing his statement, Mr. Scott says: "The First Bank of Alabaster has been established to provide Alabaster, Siluria, and the surrounding territory with banking facilities. We intend to provide the community with the best possible banking service, and it is with that thought in mind that the institution opens for business as a member of the Federal Reserve System, thereby making available to customers the facilities and the strength of the nation's great central banking system. The First Bank of Alabaster is located in the zone served by the Birmingham Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta."

Mrs. Harris Wins Crosley Award

Mrs. Mildred Harris, of Brierfield, has received recognition in the National Crosley "American Way of Life" contest, and was awarded a $25 gift certificate.

In the local contest conducted by Whaley Furniture Co., Mrs. Harris was given second place by the judges.

The statement written by Mrs. Harris, which received national recognition, was:

"To me, the American Way of Life means: The right to live as I choose, within the limits of my financial ability and the laws of society; opportunity to improve my standing; and facilities for my son to train and develop his talents for whatever work he desires."

A A U W Meeting January 22

The January meeting of AAUW will be held on the 22nd. The fellowship committee will be in charge of the program. The international fellowship recipient will be presented. Hostesses will be the education committee under the direction of Mrs. R. P. Holcomb.

When Mr. Truman made his rush trip back to Washington, he told reporters that it doesn't mean that the end of the world is coming. It might, however, mean judgment day for some tax collectors.

W. L. Brown Died Last Wednesday

William Linton Brown died on January 9, bringing to an end his long, honorable, and useful life as a citizen in the community of Montevallo and Shelby County. His was a Christian life, ever guided by the principles of the Golden Rule.

Mr. Brown was born in Jefferson County, April 13, 1873. His father was James Allen Brown; his mother was Emma Jane Brown. As a youth he moved with his family from his birthplace near Birmingham to a farm at Randolph, where he spent his boyhood days. He was 15 years old when his father died.

There was one brother older than he—Charlie V. Brown. He had three younger brothers and a sister. They were Lon N. Brown, Ed M. Brown, J. A. Brown, and Minnie Brown.

W. L. Brown married Della M. Hayes on November 6, 1894. They lived in Randolph and Oakley uneil 1912, when they came to Montevallo. In 1909 Mr. Brown joined the Masonic Lodge.

During his early years in Montevallo he operated a grocery business and a cotton warehouse. He later set up a taxi business which grew into what was the beginning of the present Alabama Coach Co.

Since its organization in 1935 Mr. Brown, until his death, was vice president and chairman of the board of directors of the Alabama Coach Company.

He was a member of the Montevallo Baptist Church, of which he was chairman of the Board of Deacons.

As a public servant of his county he served as chairman of the Shelby County Board of Revenue from 1939 to 1950, a total of 3 terms, to which he was elected by his fellow-citizens.

In his immediate family Mr. Brown is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. H. S. Jackson, Jasper; Mrs. O. C. Ambrose, Montevallo; and three sons, Crawford A. Brown, Phoenix, Arizona; J. Hansel Brown, Montevallo; and Wyman W. Brown, Montevallo.

He was laid to rest Friday, January 11, at the spot in Montevallo Cemetery which he had selected for his final earthly abode. His noble spirit is gone to live with the angels in that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

Take A Hint From Carolyn Sample

Why not take a sewing hint or two from 4-H'er Carolyn Sample? She has proved to be quite a seamstress in her 4-H sewing project.

In completing her project she has made 5 dresses, 2 skirts, a blouse, 2 pairs of shorts, a set of dish towels, and a shoe bag. This does not include extra sewing she has done for her mother.

Carolyn is a member of the Calera 4-H Club and has been in the club work four years. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sample, of Route 1, Calera.

Shelby County 4-H Club Council Plans For Full Year's Program During 1952

Shelby County 4-H'ers made plans recently for a full program during 1952. Fifty-four council directors representing 29 clubs under the leadership of president, Ashley Jeter, set up plans for 50 4-H Clubs.

Tentative date of the annual 4-H rally is April 11 at Alabama College. Luther Fuller, T.C.I. Agent, will be invited for the guest speaker. Other features on the program will include three stunts by an elementary, a junior and a senior club. Each elementary, junior and senior girls club will enter a queen. Judges will choose a county queen from each of these groups. The dress, apron and skirt revue will be featured. Field events will follow lunch with a prize to be awarded to the high point club.

In order to keep some money in the council treasury, each club will be assessed 10 cents per member. Joe Mooney, Columbiana, R 2 is council treasurer.

The theme "Serving as Loyal Citizens Through 4-H" will be used during National 4-H Week for March 1-9. Ashley Jeter, Gloria McRae and Martha Rose Askins will be guests of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce on March 6 and 7 when all county council presidents in Alabama are to be entertained.

The banquet honoring 4-H adult leaders will be held in the Columbiana lunch room the first week in March. The 4-H Sunday will be observed in all communities May 18.

Training for summer neighborhood meetings will be held in the schools during may. The county beef show will be held May 3. The Birmingham show will be May 4 to 6. The annual state short course will be held in Auburn July 7-12. Shelby County 4-H'ers will join Cleburne and Talladega counties at camp Mac August 4-9.

Shelby County boys and girls will hold their dairy show in August at which time a dairy queen for the county will be selected.

During the recreation period Mrs. Amy Walton Crump directed games, after which cocoa and cookies were enjoyed.

The following council directors were present:

Present Command

General deShazo assumed his present command at Fort Campbell, Ky., in October, 1951. In December he attended Jump School at Fort Benning, Ga., where he earned his wings as a qualified parachutist. As Airborne Artillery commander, he now leads his men on their jumps.

The General was accompanied to Fort Campbell by his wife, Mrs. Olive deShazo, and the youngest of their three children, Miriam, 4. The other children are Thomas E. Jr., 24, and Anne, 21. Thomas is a graduate of Duke University, where he received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1949. He enlisted in the Army in December, 1950, and is now attending Artillery Officer Candidate School at Fort Sill, Okla. Anne graduated from Pennsylvania College for Women, Bachelor of Arts Degree, with high honors in 1951. She is now employed by the State Department in Washington.

Mrs. deShazo is the former Olive Sharrett, daughter of Mrs. H. J. Sharrett and the late Mr. Sharett, of New York City. She is a graduate of Smith College, North Hampton, Mass., with a Bachelor of Arts degree. She and General deShazo were married the day he graduated from West Point.

Let's Get Out Paint Buckets

Let's get out our paint buckets, put on our blue jeans, and go to work. That's what Betty Mae McGuire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McGuire, Helena Route 1 has done.

Betty Mae, with the help of her parents, has a bedroom most any girl dreams of having. They installed sheet rock, finished the seams, and painted the walls and woodwork, sanded and finished the floors, refinished two old dressers, remodeled and refinished the bed, and made curtains. The yellow and white color scheme make this a cheerful and attractive room.

Betty Mae is a member of the Siluria Senior 4-H Club and lives in the Little Cahaba neighborhood. She has been in 4-H club work 6 years.

Telephone Service is Growing, too

and the cost is up far less than prices in general!

"LADIES" already! My, how they have grown! And you can say the same for Alabama's telephone service.

IN JUST FIVE years in Alabama, the number of telephones you can call has more than doubled.

BEST OF ALL, the price of this bigger, better "package" of service has gone up on the average far less than prices in general . . . and less than our cost of providing the service.

ALWAYS a bargain, telephone service is today an even better buy than it was ten years ago, and a smaller part of the family budget.

News Notes From New Hope School

A glimpse at the program of work and accomplishments of New Hope School for the past year confirms reports that these youngsters are not only being taught the "Three R's," but also get a wealth of practical knowledge. This wins the hearty approval of the children and their parents and is a challenge to other schools in the county.

Pupils of the first grade are enthusiastic over their project, a study of their community. On a recent visit to the Denson Dairy the children saw milking machines in operation and how milk is cooled and handled before going to market.

They have made a study of their school, churches, and natural resources, along with the people and their occupations. They are beginning a study of the seasons which they find most exciting, according to the teacher, Mrs. Weaver.

The second and third grade were featured in a splendid program during Education Week. We were delighted to have Miss King and her mother as guests of the school for this occasion.

Children of all grades participated in a most enjoyable Christmas program, which included dialogues, readings, songs, and a pageant. Painting, pine cones tipped with silver and blue paints, tiny cedars and mirror lakes lent an air of festivity to the rooms during the holidays.

Interesting programs were arranged for religious education week, with the Rev. W. B. Todd as guest speaker.

The boys who are members of the 4-H Club have completed a book case for the school and candle holders which were used as Christmas gifts for their mothers. The girls are busy with their sewing projects, making hot plate mats, dish towels and other articles. They are using a machine borrowed from one of the mothers, but plan to buy one for the school as their next project.

A double sink is the piece of the kitchen equipment recently installed. It is the cook's pride. This facilitates the handling of dishes and cooking equipment for a more thorough cleaning job.

With this summary of the school news comes our prediction of one of the most successful years of work in the history of New Hope School.

Reece, McMath Will Debate

Montgomery — Rep. Carroll S. Reece (R), Tenn., and Arkansas Governor Sid McMath will debate on Feb. 2, in Montgomery, to open the 1952 lecture series of the Montgomery Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Reece is a supporter of Senator Robert Taft as Republican candidate for President, and is in his 25th year as a member of the House. McMath in the past has been a staunch supporter of President Truman.

A Brief Review of 1951 And A Look Ahead

THE economy of the territory served by Alabama Power Company continues to improve. Existing industries have added to their productive capacity. The diversity of products made in Alabama is increasing. In the year just past, many new and valuable industries came to our State. We were privileged to participate in this program of development.

All demands for our service have been met adequately and on time. During 1951, despite shortages of critical materials, and generally higher costs of the items entering into our service, the company continued to provide to its customers dependable electrical service at reasonable rates. It is building new generating plants, with associated transmission and distribution facilities, at an unprecedented rate, to supply the rapidly growing power demands of our area. The job has been a big one, but we have been encouraged as we have worked at it, by the good will of the people in our service area, by the support of investors, and by the know-how and devotion to duty of the men and women of Alabama Power Company.

We shall continue to do our utmost to meet the heavy electricity demands of our area. During 1951, we brought into service 140,000 kilowatts of new generating capacity. We are now building new power units with a capacity of 405,000 kilowatts. Of this huge program, 155,000 kilowatts will be completed in 1952, 125,000 kilowatts in 1953, and 125,000 kilowatts in 1954. Additional capacity is planned for later years. These new plants will be completed on schedule if we are able to secure the necessary materials and equipment on time.

Hundreds of miles of transmission and distribution lines were built during 1951, to augment our service to existing customers and to serve 20,000 new customers. Additional hundreds of miles of line will be built in 1952 to serve new thousands of customers.

Our progress is inseparably bound up in the progress of Alabama. Realizing the need for balancing agriculture with industry, we have worked and will continue to work wholeheartedly for the development of Alabama, supporting every movement to build and expand industry in the State.

We believe that the greatest good can come to the citizens of Alabama only when the benefits of good electric service at fair rates are spread as broadly as possible, and we will work earnestly toward this end.

We recognize that it is a duty and a privilege to participate as good citizens in the development of every community within our service area, and to this end we pledge the services of the men and women of our organization.

Our Pledge for 1952

During 1952 we will do our utmost, as in years past, to supply adequate and dependable electric service and do our part as citizens in the development of a great State.

Miss Hendrick Completes Plans For Her Wedding

Miss Margaret Ann Hendrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anthony Hendrick, has completed plans for her wedding on February 2 to Mr. Lyle Lawrence Kirkpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kirkpatrick, of Montevallo.

Mr. Hendrick will give his daughter in marriage, and the ceremony will be performed at 4:30 in the afternoon at the Methodist Church with the Reverend Minar Triplett officiating.

Her honor attendant will be Miss Betty Ann Smitherman, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Iris Kirkpatrick, sister of the groom; Miss Julia Kennerly, Miss Barbara Johnson, all of Montevallo, and Miss Dorothy Davis, of Mintgomery.

E. G. Smitherman, Jr., will be best man for Mr. Kirkpatrick. Ushers are to be Jerry Mozley, Bobby Dyer, Joe Stewart, all of Birmingham, and David Stanley, of Anniston.

Mr. H. D. LeBaron, Director of the School of Music at Alabama College, and Mrs. J. K. Steele, of the Birmingham Conservatory of Music, will present the nuptial music.

After the wedding the bride's parents will be hosts at a reception for the wedding party and the immediate families.

Parties in her honor began on January 10 when Mr. and Mrs. Ziolkowski entertained after her senior music recital. On Wednesday, January 16, Mrs. Hendrick and Miss Hendrick had a luncheon in honor of her bridal attendants. On Friday, January 18, Misses Julia Kennerly and Dorothy Davis will have a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Kennerly with her young college friends as guests. On January 27, Miss Virginia Hendrick will have a buffet supper for the bridal party, and on February 1, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Baker will be hosts at an after-rehearsal party.

Deputy Collector Of Income Tax Here February 8

A deputy collector from the Internal Revenue Department will be at the post office in Montevallo February 8 from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m. to assist taxpayers in making out their income tax returns. Taxpayers requesting assistance of a deputy collector in preparation of returns must be able to readily furnish the following information:

1. A record of all income received in 1951.

2. An itemized statement of all deductions they wish to claim on the return, such as taxes, interest, contributions, business expenses, cost of goods sold, etc.

3. The total amount of tax withheld by all employers during 1951, together with Form W-2 furnished by each employer.

4. The amount of tax paid on estimated income tax for 1951 as reflected by declaration of such income filed on Form 1040-ES.

5. A copy of the 1950 return if depreciation was claimed on such return.

Money doesn't talk these days—it goes without saying.

DEAN T. H. NAPIER

International Relations students at Alabama College will hear an address by Dean T. H. Napier at the next meeting of the organization on January 30. Dr. Napier's subject will be "The Communist Scare and Academic Freedom."

Allen and Boutwell Speak To P T A

Lt. Governor J. B. Allen, of Gadsden and Senator Albert Boutwell, of Jefferson County, were the featured speakers at the Montevallo P. T. A. meeting held on Wednesday, January 15, in the high school auditorium.

"What the Legislature Has Done for Education in Alabama" was the topic of Mr. Allen's talk. He pointed out six things which he called milestones in educational progress in Alabama as far as all the past state legislatures are concerned. They were as follows:

1. Public school fund.

2. Setting up of special educational trust fund.

3. Enactment of the two cents sales tax law.

4. Setting up of building commission and appropriation of money from income tax for school building.

5. Income tax diversion amendment.

6. Additional one cent sales tax.

It was also pointed out by Mr. Allen that the state legislature is continually making provision for a "better and better school system in Alabama."

Mr. Boutwell, who has served two terms in the state senate, had as the subject for his talk, "How Bills May Be Passed and or Repealed."

Mr. W. J. O'Neal, chairman of the legislative committee, introduced the speakers. The next meeting will be held February 19, when Mrs. P. N. Lee will be in charge of the program on Health.

John Foshee Is A Member Of Committee Of 100

John Foshee has been elected to membership of the Committee of One Hundred by that body. He was nominated for that post by our local Chamber of Commerce.

The primary purpose of the committee is to promote industrial expansion and growth in the Birmingham area.

Mr. Foshee will attend a meeting of the committee in Birmingham on January 28. He is a prominent attorney of Montevallo and is presently chairman of the Shelby County Board of Education.

Business Men Plan Help On Poultry Enterprise

A rousing meeting of the Montevallo Chamber of Commerce was held Monday night at the Town Hall.

The announced subject of studying and planning for a full scale development of the poultry industry in this vicinity brought out many farmers, FFA boys, and local business men who are seriously interested in this possibility.

A report was given on the recent trip when local business men under supervision of M. Thornton, agriculture teacher, carried a number of FFA boys to see the poultry area around Gainesville, Ga.

They came back with the not too ambitious opinion that such a poultry business as has made the Gainesville area prosperous and famous is possible in the Montevallo area.

Bolstering this opinion at the meeting Monday night was the report from some already large scale poultry producers around here who have already proved that success can be made of growing and marketing poultry here.

Pete Givhan, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting. Following the discussions, Mr. Givhan secured the expression of the chamber members that they are willing to back up the program of poultry production around Montevallo. A committee will study the question and recommend a plan whereby help may be supplied to FFA boys who may wish to go into the poultry business.

That can be the start, gentlemen, of a movement that will make Montevallo as famous and successful as Gainesville. There's money in them thar chickens!

New Territory Is Annexed To Montevallo

Mr. John Foshee, attorney for the Town of Montevallo, reports that on January 15 the voters residing in the territory immediately north of Montevallo voted unanimously to incorporate this territory into the Town of Montevallo. This territory extends from Vic Williams's place to a point just beyond the residence of Dr. L. H. Hubbard, and extends approximately a quarter of a mile east and west of the Siluria road.

Mr. Foshee further says that on January 16, Hon. L. C. Walker, Judge of Probate, made and entered a judgment or decree incorporating this territory into the corporate limits of the Town of Montevallo, and a certified copy of the judgment or decree is on file in the office of the Town Clerk.

Retail Sales Show Increase

University, Ala. — The Alabama retail sales index for October rose to 120.7 per cent of the 1948 average month, according to the retail trade report which is published monthly by the University.

Fifteen counties recorded new all-time high indexes in October.

Net retail sales for Shelby County in October showed a 1.9 per cent loss.

LET'S HELP DO IT

The Times is glad to see the business men of Montevallo take an interest in the development of full-scale possibilities of the poultry industry in this vicinity.

The help and support of our business men can be the "winning card" in this venture. We hope and believe that Chamber of Commerce President, Pete Givhan, will keep the flame of interest burning until something is accomplished.

Montevallo wants industry, manufacturing, payrolls, anything to improve and sustain our economy.

Here is something we do not have to go seeking elsewhere. We have agricultural possibilities that offer us the easiest possible attainment of improvement and stability of our economy. We have in Mr. Thornton and his boys a leaven that will, if properly aided and encouraged, develop our agricultural industry to an untold extent.

While we are seeking to bring outside industry here, let us also keep busy on developing our own home possibilities. If we should obtain our fullest dreams and hope of industrial expansion, we would find that we still need a balanced and adequate agricultural program to sustain it.

We have physical proof that the poultry business has already been, in some instances, successfully done by local operators.We have farmers and students who want to get into the business.

Let's help them, and thereby help our community to prosper.

Thompson P T A Met In Cafeteria

Thompson P. T. A. held its first meeting for this year in the new cafeteria Monday evening, January 21, at 7:30.

A film, "Angry Boy," was shown and Miss Kirkpatrick, speech and social studies teacher in the high school, gave the devotional.

Refreshments were served by the tenth grades, following the program.

This was the first opportunity for many parents and friends to visit the attractive cafeteria that is nearing completion.

Wheeler Foshee Gets Promotion In Military School

Hollywood, Fla., Jan. 16—Named among the cadets recently honored at Riverside Military Academy, now at its winter home in this city, is Cadet Wheeler R. Foshee, son of Mr. John Foshee, of Montevallo.

Cadet Foshee has been advanced to the grade of Private First Class on the basis of his superior academic, military and conduct record. Riverside's military unit, which has won top official recognition as an honor school on 28 annual inspections since first designated in 1923, handles all promotions on the basis of record, and Cadet Foshee is among those qualifying for this initial promotion for cadets in their first year at the academy.

Mothers Of Shelby County Will March Against Polio Thursday, January 31

Across the nation on the evening of Thursday, January 31, tens of thousands of women and men from all walks of life will leave their families and personal pursuits to join in the Mothers' March on Polio, as a smashing climax to the 1952 March of Dimes campaign. For one hour on that night, every home in Shelby County and the nation that leaves a porch light on or a light in the window will be visited. The hour for Shelby County will be from 6:45 to 7:45 immediately following a state and national radio program.

Miss Katherine Vickery is in charge of the Mothers' March for Shelby County. In every community women have volunteered to be lieutenants in the March and are now choosing contact mothers. In Montevallo the lieutenants are Mrs. Terrell Bridges, Mrs. C. H. Chism, Mrs. S. H. Hurt, Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, Mrs. Bill Lovelady, Mrs. Don Lovelady, Mrs. P. D. D. Pendleton, Mrs. M. Thornton, and Mrs. Minar Triplett.

Southern Rural Telephones Pass the Half Million Mark

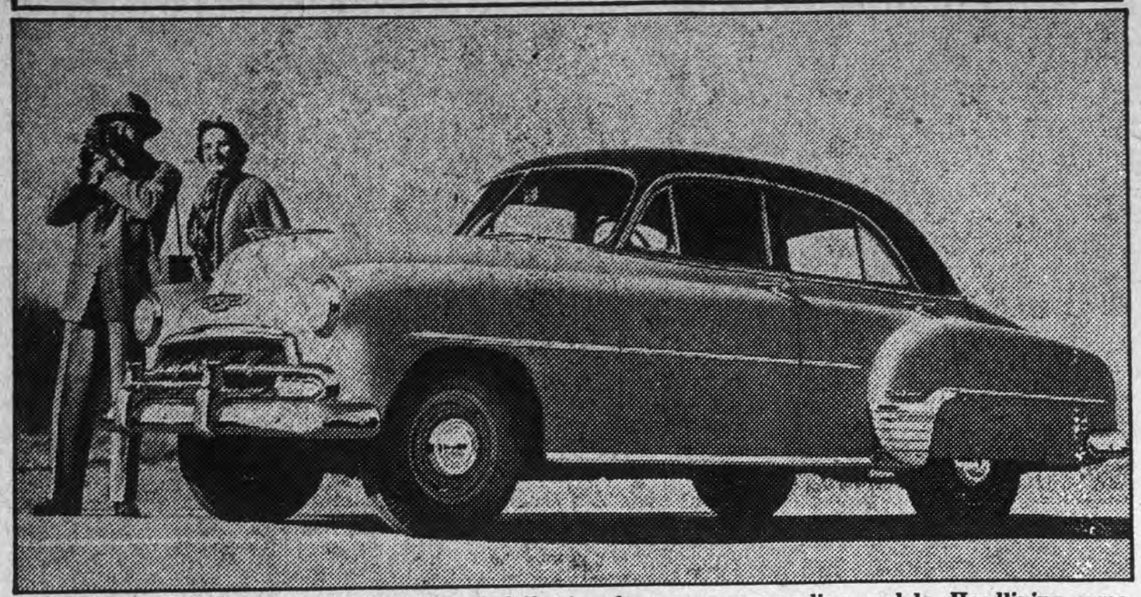

THE number of rural telephones served by Southern Bell passed the 520,000 mark in 1951. More than 77,000 were added last year alone.

Even bigger things are planned for 1952, provided we can get the necessary materials. Many more Southern farmers are eager to enjoy the convenience and money-saving advantages of telephone service. We are working hard to fill their needs. And we expect to have another 82,000 rural telephones in service by the end of this year.

Meeting the needs of farm families is a big and costly job. But it's a mighty important job to us—because it's so important to the South's prosperity, in town and on the farm.

Chevrolet records indicate the four-door Styleline De Luxe sedan was the most popular body model in the country in 1951. Above, it is shown in its 1952 design, more striking in appearance and improved in performance over earlier models. Headlining some notable contributions to motoring pleasure are smoother riding qualities and responsive performance under all sorts of weather conditions.

Shelby County Home Demonstration Clubs Will Train More Leaders In This Year

Shelby County Home Demonstration Clubs will train more leaders during 1952. Seventy-six club leaders representing 20 clubs met recently for a workshop planning session. These leaders will be prepared to carry out effective community projects in community activities, citizenship, youth, farm bureau and defense activities.

County chairmen, Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Jr., Mrs. A. D. Glover, Mrs. H. A. Pauly, Mrs. Frank Wyatt, Mrs. Douglas Kent and Mrs. Joe Hodges conducted the training classes.

Features on the general program included a devotional by Rev. A. D. Wilson, pastor of the Columbiana Methodist Church; Farm Outlook for 1952 by A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent. W. Royce Morris, agent, explained the Farm Bureau Insurance Program. Our Challenges was the subject of Mrs. J. Frank Baker, president of the Alabama Home Demonstration Council, reporting her recent trip to the American Farm Bureau meeting in Chicago. "We must hold on to every bit of freedom we have by using our privileges as citizens to vote; 1952 is a time that we must work and pray, pray for the strength of our homes and our nation," Mrs. Baker emphasized.

Every club member will assist in promoting better attendance at club meetings and enrolling new members. All club members will give or be responsible for a pint of blood for the Red Cross blood bank. Clubs will continue the erection of church and community signs, mailbox improvement, and the improvement of church and cemetery grounds. Each club member is asked to sponsor a 4-H project. Clubs will subscribe to the National 4-H News for all rural youth leaders. An out of the county trip is planned during National Home Demonstration Week May 3-11. Clubs will co-operate in the contest for the outstanding club in the county. Plans are underway for several special interest demonstrations during the year.

Those attending were Mesdames Claud Winslett, J. J. Owens, B. W. Williams, Acton; Carlos Warren, R. E. Bowdon, Jr., Quinton Culver, Mary Childress, Curtis Lucas, S. C. Cofer, W. W. Howell, Calera; F. Spring Creek News

The Spring Creek-Valley Grove home demonstration club met in the home of Mrs. Jim Marquess on Wednesday, January 9. The meeting came to order promptly on time with the president, Mrs. Tom Knowles, presiding. The demonstration, "The Hand Around the Can," was given by Mrs. Sam Knowles. Mrs. Marquess gave the devotional. Fourteen members and three children were present. The program and recreation were enjoyed and each person did a part. Mrs. Marquess served a tasty plate and coffee and cocoa. New years resolution was to be better club members in 1952.

Pelham-Keystone Home Club Meets

The Pelham - Keystone Home Demonstration Club held its first meeting of the year January 16, at the home of Mrs. Jessie Ozley in Saginaw, when plans were made for club activities of 1952, with 21 members present and three visitors. Roll call was answered with New Year resolutions.

Report on the County Council meeting was given by Mrs. Mason Cumberland and results of county training meeting by each objective chairman who also gave plans for the local club.

Following the demonstration, "The Band Around the Can of Food," a social hour was enjoyed with Mrs. Rebecca Robinson assisting Mrs. Ozley as hostess.

Officers of this club are Mrs. Herbert Pool, president; Mrs. Joe Hodges, vice president; Mrs. Don Busby, secretary and treasurer; Rural Youth Mrs. Mason Cumberland; Community Activities, Mrs. T. L. McCoy; Citizenship, Mrs. John Butler and Mrs. Zora Dunnaway; Farm Bureau, Mrs. Kenneth Cooper.

The Pelham - Keystone Club has done outstanding work in the rural youth program, as is attested in the large number of 4-H winners from this area and by the interest in 4-H work.

In addition to a continuance of this activity, plans are to complete the mailbox improvement and to continue the roadside beautification with flower exchange begun last year, to enlist many Farm Bureau members, and to urge all qualified voters to exercise that privilege. Each objective chairman will have a committee to assist in carrying out that activity.

High School Girls May Compete For Scholarships

High school seniors will have an opportunity to try out for eight Honors Scholarships, provided they obtain application blanks immediately from their high school principals, according to announcement by Dr. John Tyler Caldwell, president of Alabama College. Applications must be in not later than February 15.

Actual date of the Honors Scholarships competition will be March 13-15, and any high school senior who is in the upper fourth of her graduating class will be eligible to compete upon recommendation by her principal.

Competing seniors will be given examinations in ability, achievement and personality during their three day stay on the campus.

Two full four year scholarships to cover all fixed charges including room, board, laundry, and all other college fees are offered to seniors in the top competition.

An additional two scholarships will be offered which will cover one-half of all fixed charges, each for a period o four years.

The final four scholarships will each pay for one-third of fixed charges for four years each.

Under the guidance of Dr. Minnie L. Steckel, Student Counselor at the college, honors scholarships are a result of donations from the friends of the college, alumnae and faculty members.

More Blood Donors Are Needed

Blood donors are urgently needed to complete the Montevallo quota, according to Miss Laura B. Hadley, local chairman of the Red Cross Blood Program. The bloodmobile will be in Montevallo Friday, January 25, at the Montevallo High School to take blood from donors, from 1:00 to 7:00 p.m.

According to Miss Hadley. Montevallo still needs about 75 persons to pledge one pint of blood in order to meet our quota. If anyone has not signed a pledge card they are urged to come to the bloodmobile and those who have signed a card are urged to keep their appointments.

Congratulations !

This year, 1952, marks the 50th anniversary of the Merchants and Planters Bank of Montevallo.

Organized in 1902, this bank has served this community for half a century through all the ups and downs that have marked this period of time.

"A Home Bank for Home People" has been its slogan and today it stands strong, powerful and reliable as the bulwark of our community's financial structure with total resources of more than a million seven hundred thousand dollars.

Walton and [illegible] In Race For Judge Of Probate

HOMER J. WALTON

Immediately following the meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Shelby County on Tuesday of this week, two candidates for Probate Judge made the official qualifications and announcements.

They were Homer J. Walton, of Columbiana and Owen Bridges, of Montevallo.

Mr. Walton is a well-known and successful business man, having served the public for many years as a merchant and funeral director in Columbiana. He is a former mayor of Columbiana, and also a member of the Town Council. He was born and reared in Shelby County, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Walton.

Mr. Bridges is an able young lawyer of Montevallo, where he has practiced his profession since he received his law degree a few years ago at the University of Alabama. He is a son of Mrs. Terrell Bridges and the late Dr. Terrell Bridges, of Montevallo.

The Democratic Primary election will be held May 6, with the runoff primary on June 3.

[illegible] of Blood Donors Was Satisfactory At The High School Here Last Friday

On behalf of the boys who are risking their lives in Korea, we thank you, the 210 citizens of this community, who came to the bloodmobile on Friday and offered your blood for their protection. We thank you, too, on behalf of the babies to be born in Shelby County this year whose mothers will live because you came forward last Friday. For the desperately ill, for the children who need protection from contagious diseases and for all the other people of Shelby County who will need whole blood, blood plasma or some of the wonderful medicines that are made of blood products, we offer sincere thanks to you for giving time and finding a way to come to Montevallo last Friday.

You can be proud of your community for the fine support of this important program. You gave 157 pints of blood for the protection of yourselves, your neighbors and for use of the armed forces. Unfortunately, 53 who came had to be turned away. One out of every four who registered was, in the medical examination, found to be unfit at the time to be blood donors. Most of this was for reasons that can be corrected.

Many who came Friday and others who found it impossible to be here, will want to help out at Calera March 21 and at Siluria May 23.

Special thanks are due to the many volunteer workers who made the visit of the bloodmobile possible. Mrs. F. P. Givhan, who organized the volunteer workers, deserves our special gratitude for a splendid job that took many hours of time. Mr. S. H. Hurt, principal of the Montevallo schools, permitted the use of the auditorium and asked the students to secure pledges for the program. Miss Ella Peters acted as chairman of regtration and was on hand at all times to take care of the details.

Mrs. L. C. Parnell had charge of bottle labeling and whole blood records, assisted by Mrs. Frank Morgan and Mrs. Victor Scott. Mrs. Charles Gormley was chairman of nurses aids. She and her committee, Mrs. M. Thornton, Mrs. Frank Baker, Mrs. M. L. Triplett, Mrs. Fred Frost, Mrs. Rebecca McGaughy, Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, Miss Jeanne Gibbons, Mrs. Ted Bridges, and Miss Mary Carson served in the donor room. The nurses assisting were Mrs. W. G. Hicks, Mrs. Joe Doyle, Mrs. Madge Carpenter.

Mrs. M. L. Orr was in charge of the canteen, assisted by Mrs. O. B. Cooper, Miss Mary Woolley, Mrs. S. C. Jones and Mrs. Davis.

Others who helped as typists, hostesses, registrars, at the telephone, and wherever needed were Mrs. E. P. Hood, Mrs. Ruth Ratliff, Mrs. Clayton Nordan, Mrs. A. C. Anderson, Miss Susie DeMent, Mrs. Ashley Jeter, Mrs. M. P. Jeter, Jr., Mrs. James Wyatt, Mrs. M. L. Orr, Jr., Mrs. L. S. Hamilton, Miss Ethel Harris, Mrs. Owen Bridges, Mrs. Paul Rogan, Mrs. A E. Baumgartner, Mrs. P. D. D. Pendleton, Miss Sallie Hooker, Mrs. Cooper Shaw, Mrs. Theron Fisher, Mrs. M. S. McGehee, Mrs. Fred Frost, Jr., Mrs. L. H. Hubbard, Mrs. S. H. Hurt

One of our own doctors, Dr. L. C. Parnell, Dr. Leslie Hubbard or Dr. Willena Peck, was on hand at all times.

We wish to express appreciation also to the many workers whose names are too numerous to list here, who worked to secure pledges and promote the project in Montevallo, Calera, Pea Ridge, Dogwood, Underwood, Moore's Cross Roads, Dry Valley, Spring Creek, and Wilton.

Miss Laura Hadley was general chairman.

Miss Evelyn Lee Ward, of Montevallo, whose engagement to Lt. William Dean Blevins of Calera, was announced last week. Plans for the wedding will be announced later.

Girls Studying Home Nursing In High School

A class of tenth grade home economics girls in the Montevallo High School will be just what the slogan advises — prepared. Ready to meet any emergency sickness that arises in their homes. They are studying a course in home nursing as set up by the National Red Cross, and which will qualify those who pass to obtain the Red Cross certificate in home nursing.

The course, which is being included in the home economics curriculum, is similar to that which was completed in December by a group of women. Now these teenagers are learning what to do when illness occurs in their homes. They will be prepared to assist their mothers to care for any member of the family who might become ill, or even to take over the nursing job should that sick member be the mother.

When these young home nurses complete their course, they will have a general knowledge of what symptoms indicate illness or serious disease. They will know how to care for bed-ridden patients, what to do to make them comfortable and how to look after their physical needs. They will understand how to follow a doctor's orders correctly in giving medicine, preparing diet, and giving simple treatments, and they will have an ability to take care of simple burns and wounds.

The "patients" who have allowed the class to practice procedure are Elizabeth Battle, Anita Bradley, Ouida Byrd, Ruby Hicks, Imogene Lucas, Tootsie Snow, Norma Evans, Mignon Dailey, Sue Moody, Doris Cunningham, Dotis Johnson and Barbara Pickett.

Adult Sewing Class To Be Organized

Do you have any sewing problems? Would you like to make a dress for little Sue, to mend Johnny's torn trousers neatly, or perhaps make a garment for yourself?

For help in solving problems such as these, you are invited to the Montevallo High School Home Economics Department for weekly meetings of the adult sewing class.

The ladies who attend the organizational meeting of the class on Tuesday, February 5 at 2:00 o'clock will decide what day the group will meet each week.

Members of this class may receive help in selection and use of material and patterns, operating a buttonhole worker, and other machine attachments and in construction processes needed in making clothing for the family.

Those interested in attending the class may call Mrs. Rebecca McGaughy at the High School phone 6791. The work of the group will be guided by Mrs. McGaughy with the assistance of the Alabama College senior home economics students who are doing student teaching in the high school.

Homecoming Date February 22 - 23 At Alabama College

Alabama College will be host to some 400 alumnae at its Homecoming February 22-23. Activities will include the usual meetings and a luncheon to honor the alumna-of-the-year.

Alumnae will attend Friday and Saturday night performances of College Night, famed musical, dramatic review of the students. The graduates and former students may register in Reynolds Hall, the student union building, on Saturday, or in Palmer Foyer before the college night performances.

On Saturday there will be four class reunions. They include the fifth reunion of the class of 1947; tenth reunion of the class of 1942; silver anniversary of the class of 1927; and the golden anniversary of the class of 1902.

At 9:00 a.m. Saturday, the executive board and alumnae council will have a joint meeting in Reynolds Hall, followed by an alumnae luncheon honoring the alumna-of-the-year, which will be held at 1:00 p.m. in the New Dining Room.

The Alumnae Council is made up of former national presidents and former alumnae secretaries. Also in the council are former and current alumnae faculty committee chairmen.

Co-chairmen of Homecoming activities are Willilee Reaves Trumbauer and Eloise Lee, alumnae secretary.

Social Security Pays $25,746 A Month In Shelby County

After 15 years operation, old-age and survivors insurance is paying about $25,746 in monthly benefits to 946 residents of Shelby County. M. C. Folmar, manager of the social security office in Birmingham, noting that the federal insurance program commenced operations on January 1, 1937, described it today as "a national institution, reaching more people in Alabama than any other organized program for family security." He said that 64,157 residents of Alabama were receiving approximately $1,813,295 per month.

Telephone Service is Growing, too

and the cost is up far less than prices in general!

"LADIES" already! My, how they have grown! And you can say the same for Alabama's telephone service.

IN JUST FIVE years in Alabama, the number of telephones you can call has more than doubled.

BEST OF ALL, the price of this bigger, better "package" of service has gone up on the average far less than prices in general . . . and less than our cost of providing the service.

ALWAYS a bargain, telephone service is today an even better buy than it was ten years ago, and a smaller part of the family budget.

Cutting Corners Can MAKE 'EM JUMP

If you like to see pedestrians jump, cutting corners is easy to learn. You can scare the daylights out of those on the curb and may even run over somebody's foot. Everybody will say you are a terrible driver.

If you pride yourself on being a good driver, however, you must be a courteous driver. Courteous drivers are careful drivers. We are always interested in selling automobile insurance to the courteous driver.

4-H Boys Plan Poultry Projects

All boys 4-H Clubs, plus one joint club this month are studying 4-H poultry projects, says assistant county agent, G. C. Moore, Jr. This being the time to plan your brooder houses and place orders for early delivery of chicks makes it very appropriate that considerable attention be placed on this subject at this time.

Programs were prepared and mailed out to club presidents and officers by assistant agents Moore and Clark in advance. Discussions are being given by the members themselves and summarized by the assistant county agents.

Some of the points studied by the boys are: (1) How many chicks should a 4-H member have, which is about 50 to 100 in most cases. (2) The quality of chicks to buy, which should be high quality if one plans to raise good, healthy laying hens. (3) Feeding from day old, on through laying. (4) Green grazing for the growing pullets. (5) Separation of pullets and the roosters as soon as the difference can be detected. (6) Disease control, stressing the old axiom that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." (7) Where to purchase chicks.

The boys will get assistance of County Agent Lauderdale and the assistant agents in ordering the best chicks, if they need help.

Clubsters are urged to order the heavy dual purpose breeds, Reds, Barred Rocks, etc., for March delivery, and light weight breeds, the Leghorns, for April delivery.

Poultry is a project that most any club member can have as a project. Poultry is one of our best and most economical meats to serve, say the home economists, in this time of high priced meats and other foods. Every family needs at least a dozen laying hens. Many families don't need more than a dozen unless they are selling eggs on the market. — G. C. Moore, Assistant County Agent.

Thompson P T A Met In Cafeteria

Thompson P. T. A. held its first meeting for this year in the new cafeteria Monday evening, January 21, at 7:30.

A film, "Angry Boy," was shown and Miss Kirkpatrick, speech and social studies teacher in the high school, gave the devotional.

Refreshments were served by the tenth grades, following the program.

This was the first opportunity for many parents and friends to visit the attractive cafeteria that is nearing completion.

Two college presidents were discussing what they'd do when they retired. The first said: "I'd like to be superintendent of an orphan asylum so I'd never get letters from parents." The other's dream of heaven was to be a warden of a penitentiary — because the alumni never come back to visit.— The Bay-Liner.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Housing Authority of the Town of Montevallo, Alabama, will receive bids for the furnishing of all labor, materials, equipment and services required for the construction of:

1. F. F. Crowe Village, Rural Non-Farm Housing Project No. Ala. 79-1, Montevallo, Alabama, consisting of eight (8) dwelling buildings containing twenty (20) dwelling units and one (1) Management and Maintenance Building, including utilities, site development, lawn operations, demolition of present buildings on the proposed site, and off-site water extension.
2. Alex Scott Village, Rural Non-Farm Housing Project, No. Ala. 79-2, Montevallo, Alabama, consisting of nine (9) dwelling buildings containing thirty-two (32) dwelling units, including utilities, site development, lawn operations, off-site sewer and off-site water extensions.

Bids will be received at the office of the Housing Authority of the Town of Montevallo, Masonic Building, Montevallo, Alabama, until 2:00 p.m. Central Standard Time, on the 5th day of March, 1952, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Proposed forms of Contract Documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of the Housing Authority of the Town of Montevallo, Alabama, and at the office of the Architect at 104 St. Joseph St., Mobile, Alabama, and at the Atlanta Builders Exchange, 163 Harris Street, Atlanta, Georgia, and at the Birmingham Builders Exchange, American Life Building, Birmingham, Alabama.

Copies of the documents may be obtained by depositing $50.00 with the Local Authority for each set of documents so obtained. Such deposit will be refunded to each person who returns the plans, specifications and other documents in good condition within ten (10) days after the bid opening. Not more than two sets of the documents will be issued to General Contractors under the above terms.

Additional sets of documents may be obtained by the General Contractor, sub-contractor or material dealers by depositing $50.00 with the Local Authority for each set. Upon the return of any additional documents so obtained, in good condition, within ten (10) days after the opening of bids, $25.00 per set will be refunded; $25.00 per set being retained by the Local Authority to cover cost of production.

All plans and specifications will remain the property of the Local Authority. All applications for plans, specifications, and bid documents shall be submitted to the Local Authority, on the applicant's business letterhead, containing telephone number and mailing address of the principal place of business.

A certified check or bank draft, payable to the Housing Authority of the Town of Montevallo, Alabama, U. S. Government Bonds, or satisfactory bid bond executed by the bidder and acceptable sureties in an amount equal to five (5) per cent of the bid, shall be submitted with each bid.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory performance bond and labor and material bond, each in the amount of 50% of the contract price, on the forms included in the specifications.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the specifications must be paid on this project.

Attention is called to the 1940 Code of Alabama, Title 46, Section 65, requiring persons submitting bids for work involving ten thousand dollars or more, to show satisfactory evidence of license as a general contractor. Form of Bid and envelopes containing Bids shall be clearly marked in upper right hand corner with the General Contractor's License Number.

The Housing Authority of the Town of Montevallo, Alabama, reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to waive any informalities in the bidding.

No bid shall be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days subsequent to the opening of bids without the consent of The Housing Authority of the Town of Montevallo, Alabama

THE GREATEST CAR EVER BUILT

IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD

The big 1952 FORD

Out-rides them all!

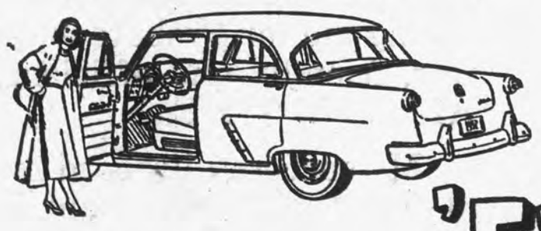

The 52 Ford gives you riding comfort such as you have never before experienced in a car in the low-price field. With front springs tailored to the weight of each model, longer rear springs and diagonally mounted shock absorbers, Ford's Automatic Ride Control gives you the smoothest, easiest ride of them all—a level ride on straightaways, an even keel on curves.

Out-sizes them all!

The '52 Ford has longer wheelbase, wider front tread and greater length. It's big outside and big inside, with spacious seating for six and the largest luggage locker of them all.

Full-Circle Visibility!

With narrower corner pillars, picture windows all around and a rear window that's 48% larger you have "all-direction" vision that adds to your enjoyment and your safety.

Out-performs them all!

Ford's completely new 101-h.p. high-compression, low-friction Six, with free-turning overhead valves, is the most modern Six in the industry. And Ford's high-compression V-8, now 110 h.p., is the most powerful engine in the low-price field. Both are available with performance-proved Fordomatic Drive.

Exclusive Power Pilot Economy!

Both the new Ford Mileage Maker Six and the Strato-Star V-8 have the exclusive Ford Automatic Power Pilot. This completely integrated carburetion-ignition-combustion system gives you high-compression "go" on "regular" gas.

New Coachcraft Bodies!

Ford's new Coachcraft Bodies are longer, stronger . . . distinctive in their modern beauty. They offer new hull-tight construction which seals out dust, weather and noise. And Ford has more color and upholstery combinations than any other car in its field!

Out-values them all!

With such modern design and engineering features as new Flight-Style Control Panel, new Power-Pivot Clutch and Brake Pedals, new Center-Fill Fueling, and new counterbalanced hood and deck lid, Ford adds up to more dollars and cents value than any car in its price class!

You can pay more but you can't buy newer or better!

'52 Ford

Fordomatic Drive, Overdrive, white sidewall tires (if available) and two-tone colors on Customline Sedan optional at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

Leader Election Begins Purple-Gold Activities; College Night Is Here!

Preparations for College Night at Alabama College are now in full swing. The leaders for College Night were chosen January 22 in a campus-wide election. Assistant leaders were chosen January 23 at another election. Leaders are: Gold, Joan Gregory, Leader and Mary Frances Estes, Assistant Leader; Purple, Joanne Hixon, Leader, and Jane Sarver, Assistant Leader.

When they were interviewed for news on College Night, each of the leaders praised the fine show of cooperation and spirit shown so far in College Night activities.

Joan Gregory said, "We are working for a bigger and better College Night, for close cooperation and work on all sides and until now there has been only a friendly show of color consciousness. We know it will stay that way."

Mary Frances Estes said, "We feel a sense of obligation, not only to the Gold side, but also to College Night as a whole. The spirit has been wonderful, even though so many people are off the campus."

Joanne Hixon said, "It's going to be a wonderful College Night. We can tell by the way it has started out."

Jane Sarver said, "Most of the students realize that College Night is the point, not just winning—so I'm sure we'll have a wonderful time."

All the leaders stressed the idea of creativity in College Night. All of them expressed the desire to lead their side, not necessarily to a victorious decision, but to a really creative use of all the talent and energy on both sides. They agreed that a feeling of having done well could be derived from such an experience.

The leaders will post the cabinets of both sides some time Saturday. The cabinets will consist of 21 people for each side, excluding the leaders. The work of the cabinet will be the foundation of action for both sides, but the greatest amount of work will be done by the loyal members on each side, the people who work on lighting, staging, make-up and all the things that go into making a really good production.

Home Clubs Teach Family Playing

Home demonstration club members know the value of family play.

Family Life Leaders will emphasize the importance of family play in 25 clubs in February for relaxation, teaching fair play, learning to be a good winner and loser and for helping children learn to create their own amusements.

Miss Elta Majors, extension family life specialist, presented this leadership school last Wednesday for 21 leaders from 12 clubs. She gave suggestions for games, for individuals, games for two and for groups.

Enjoying this demonstration were: Mrs. Frank Wyatt, Mrs. Leonard Wyatt, Klein; Mrs. H. A. Pauly, Ebenezer; Mrs. Vernon Busby, Mrs. O. C. Busby, South Calera; Mrs. Carlos Warren, Calera; Mrs. Earl Taff, Spring Creek-Valley Grove; Mrs. O. M. Perry, Mrs. Harold Morris, Bethel; Mrs. Claude Winslett, Mrs. B. W. Williams, Acton; Mrs. C. H. On The Farms Of Shelby County

By B. F. Hatchett and G. C. Starcher

The services of soil technician Kelly were enlisted last week to locate a dam site for Mr. Mason, a newcomer to South Calera. Mr. Mason, vice president of Wimberly and Thomas Hardware Co., in Birmingham, has bought the 41-acre farm formerly owned by John T. Johns. The 3-acre lake will be part of a complete farm plan worked out on approved soil conservation lines.

D. H. Garrett, a dairyman north of Calera, on Highway 31, has some fine winter grazing. He is making intensive use of fescue, white and crimson clover, oats and other winter grazing crops. A top dressing of ammonium nitrate is being applied in a lime sink where.. standing water killed everything planted this fall, except Ky. fescue 31.

* * *

J. J. "Jim" Reeves knows his insurance and believes in insuring the success of his several hundred acres of farm by starting it right from the ground up. He is joining the North Central Soil Conservation District and will make a complete farm plan under agreement with the organization.

If you want to see a pretty field of fescue and ladino clover planted this year, visit J. O. Brady at Green Acres Store just west of Calera on Highway 25.

Time to: Get sericea seed and fertilize for March planting; buy at least 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate or other high grade fertilizer for each acre of fescue, rescue, or oats, from which you expect to save seed; and time to apply for any assistance needed in terracing, dam construction, or farm planning.

D. T. Underwood is enthusiastically attacking the problems involved in developing over 300 acres of stock farm. We are glad he felt free to call on us for suggestions last week. We enjoyed seeing the many acres of fine oats and clover, fescue and clover, and other areas being prepared for a year in row crops and then fescue.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Edfelt, another Moore's Cross Roads family are developing their plan at a rapid pace. When you are in their neighborhood, notice that all their cultivated land is under cover crops, and that they have nice fescue and very good crimson clover.

It would be very difficult to name a more beautiful farming area than the Montevallo - Siluria valley road!

We would like to suggest that farmers near Montevallo make it a point to see SCS strains of rescue grass at the FFA plantings on the Ingram farms or at Hawkins' on Kent's farms near Siluria. We don't know how far ahead of harvest M. Thornton's young farmers will engage seed, but no harm in asking.

* * *

In all fairness, we would like to say L. L. Stephenson's imported rescue (Australia) grass looks mighty good, too; and any crop that looks good and feeds cattle in a winter like this is worth watching.

Lloyd C. Thrash On USS Wisconsin

Pfc. Lloyd C. Thrash, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Thrash, Route 1, Montevallo, was aboard the battleship USS Wisconsin when she unleashed har first group of "calling cards" on Red forces on the eastern coast of Korea recently.

The Wisconsin dropped the one-ton, 16-inch "cards" on enemy installations and troop concentrations below Wonsan, in support of Republic of Koren and U. S. Marine Corps troops.

"Excellent," was the term used by Army and Air Force spotters to describe the accuracy of the Wisconsin's gunfire as she inflicted heavy personnel losses and destruction to enemy supply depots, warehouses and gun emplacements.

Jack L. Hall Is On USS Satyr

San Diego, Calif, Jan. 10—Jack L. Hall, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hall, of Montevallo arrived here today aboard the amphibious force landing craft tender USS Satyr, after 11 months in the Far East.

The commanding officer of the Satyr was designated a representative for Commander Amphibious Force in the Far East while coordinating the movements of Red prisoners of war from Pusan, to the island of Koje. During the operations she was based in Pusan harbor.

The Satyr later assumed duties as amphibious force landing craft tender in the Far East, operating at Pusan and Suyong in Korea and Sasebo and Yokosula, Japan.

The Satyr is temtatively scheduled for a brief period of overhaul and routine west coast operations.

"Gus," said Bill, as he caught up with Gus on the way back to camp, "are all the rest of the boys out of the woods yet?"

"Yes," said Gus.

"All six of them?"

"Yes, all six of them."

"And they're all safe?"

"Yep," answered Gus, "they're all safe."

"Then," said Bill, his chest swelling, "I've shot a deer."

State Board C A R With Mrs. Sharp

The State Board Meeting of the Alabama Society Children of the American Revolution was held at the home of Mrs. C. G. Sharp at 10:30 a. m. Saturday, January 26.

The Junior State President, Miss Joanna Sharp presided. The work of the year was reported to date. Most interesting plans were drawn up for the C. A. R. State Conference which will be held in Montevallo on Saturday, May 10, at 10:30 a.m.

After the business session was adjourned the guests were entertained with a luncheon by the local Joshua Lockwood Society assisted by Mrs. T. H. Napier, Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Jr., Mrs. B. F. Roden, and Mrs. A. W. Vaughan.

A tour of the campus was enjoyed following the luncheon.

Those present were: from Birmingham, Miss Caroline Jackson, Jr. State Vice President; Miss Bobo Breedlove, Jr. State Recording Secretary; Miss Nancy Lou Avara, Jr. State Corresponding Secretary; Miss Laura Lucas, Jr. State Registrar; Miss Jo Means, Jr. State Chairman; Ethel Anne Avara; Mrs. Harry Lee Jackson, National Vice President and Director of South Eastern Division C. A. R.; Mrs. Aubrey J. Avara, Sr. State Corresponding Secretary; and Mrs. Robert J. Comer, Sr. State Chairman of Cradle Roll.

W. W. Elliott Is Vice-Pres. A E A

Mr. W. W. Elliott, Superintendent of Shelby County Schools, was recently elected Vice President of the state organization of Alabama Education Association. Mr. Elliott was opposed by an outstanding teacher of the Birmingham system.

This is probobly the highest recognition given in recent years by this organization to a Shelby County educator.

The state organization of A. E. A. is the professional organization for teachers in the State of Alabama. It has a membership of some sixteen thousand teachers.

McCary And King Guests Of Honor

Two Shelby county residents will be guests of honor at homecoming at Alabama College on Saturday, February 23.

They are Miss Bessie McCary of Montevallo, and Mrs. Annie King of Columbiana.

Homecoming traditiotally presents the class of five, twenty-five, and fifty years ago. Mrs. King and Miss McCary are two of the remaining nine alumnae of the class of 1902.

Others include Mrs. B. I. Dahlberg of Knoxville, Tennessee; Mrs. J. H. Wilson of Sheffield, Alabama; Mrs. W. G. Nichols; Miss Nannie Harrison; Miss Sare Gilder of Highland, North Carolina; Mrs. Violet R. DeShazo of Birmingham, Alabama; and Mrs. Marshall E. Stewart of Niagara Falls, New York.

Charlie C. Nelson Died Last Friday

Mr. Charlie C. Nelson, of Helena passed away Friday morning at the residence. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva M. Nelson; son, Charles C. Jr.; daughter, Mrs. W. O. Webb, Tokyo, Japan; three sisters, Mrs. Lena Butterworth, Mrs. Iwona Collum, and Miss Louise Collum. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from Helena Baptist Church. Interment in Helena cemetery. Rev. Willard Jones and Rev. Pat Minshew officiating.

More Candidates Are Announced

This week we have three more candidates announced for county office in Shelby County as follows:

PROBATE JUDGE

Judge L. C. Walker comes out for re-election as Probate Judge. Mr. Walker needs no introduction to the people of Shelby County. He has been Probate Judge for twelve years and his record and conduct has been altogether good.

BOARD OF REVENUE

Another candidate for re-election is Offie Stinson for Member of the Board of Revenue and Control in District One (the Columbiana District). Mr. Stinson is just completing two terms in this office, in which he has made a record of good, honest service.

CIRCUIT JUDGE

Hon. Paul O. Luck, widely known attorney, of Columbiana, offers as a candidate for Circuit Judge, to succeed Judge Wales Wallace, who will retire at the end of his present term. Mr. Luck is well qualified for the higher office he seeks. He is thoroughly able and well-grounded in court procedure, having been County Solicitor for several years.

Studiosis Meets On Tuesday, The 12th

Studiosis will hold their February meeting on Tuesday, the 12th, at 7:30 in Reynolds Hall. The annual business meeting will be held.

Miss Ellen-Haven Gould will read "My Neighbor's Voice."

Hostesses will be Mrs. C. H. Mahaffey, Sr., Mrs. J. A. Brown, Jr., Mrs. R. A. Hendrick, Dr. Willena Peck, Miss Ollie Tillman, Dr. Minnie Steckel, Miss Mary Ida Flowers, Mrs. Paul Bailey, Mrs. T. C. Fisher, Miss Annabeth Cash, Mrs. S. H. Hurt.

Ralph H. Garrett At Fort Meade

Fort Meade Md., Feb. 1 — Ralph H. Garrett, 21, of Siluria, Ala., who is assigned to the 113th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company here, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

A graduate of Thompson High School, Siluria, Sergeant Garrett entered the Army on Feb. 12, 1951, at Birmingham, Ala. Prior to entering the Army, he was employed by the Alabaster Lime Company, Alabaster, Ala.., as a truck driver

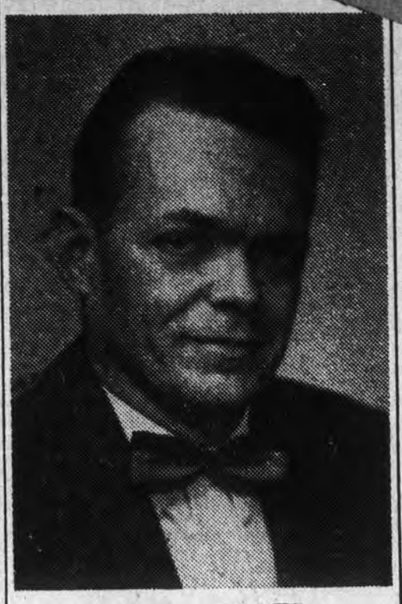

Sergeant Garrett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Garrett, of Route 1, Siluria.

Duroc Breeders Buy Fine Hogs

Duroc breeder C. W. Cates of Columbiana, bought a fall boar pig at the Southeastern Duroc Congress in Birmingham, Jan.. 22, 23 He made the purchase because he found some of the finest Duroc hogs in the southeast at this congress. Also Clyde McErven, Wilsonville, bought a bred gilt and a fall boar. This is part of a program being carried on by Cates and McErven to make the quality of their herds still better.

The show and sale was staged by the Southeastern Duroc Breeders Ass'n. Breeders from seven southeastern states brought bred gilts, fall boar pigs and fall gilts to the congress.

Eutaw, Athens, and Huntsville were among the last Alabama towns to surrender to the public school system. They held on to their private schools until about 1910.

OWEN BRIDGES

Owen Bridges, Montevallo lawyer, who announced as a candidate for Probate Judge of Shelby County last week, issues the following statement this week:

"I promise to the people of Shelby County a clean, progressive, and efficient administration. I will go into office without political debts, free to serve the electorate from all areas of the county in a manner befitting the office which I seek."

Mr. Bridges was born in Alabama and has been a resident of Shelby County for the past 22 years. His mother is Mrs. Terrell Bridges of Montevallo. His father was the late Dr. Terrell Bridges. His wife is the former Glenn Murphree of Montevallo and Nashville, Tenn.

J. S. Bridges, station agent at Calera in the late 1800's was the grandfather of Owen Bridges. It was at Calera where Dr. Terrell Bridges was born. He was a physician in Shelby County for 18 years.

Presently, in addition to his law practice, Owen Bridges is secretary of the Board of Deacons of Montevallo Presbyterian Church; teacher of the adult Sunday School Class; and for the past 15 months has taught Veterans classes in high school and elementary school. He is a member of the Farm Bureua of Shelby County and a member of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, with which he was active while in law school at University of Alabama.

Foreign Visitors At Alabama College

Alabama College will have foreign visitors on the campus to observe programs of recreation during the next few months, according to an announcement made by Dr. Margaret McCall, head of the department of health, physical education and recreation.

First of these visitors will be Miss Gertrud Kappes of Germany, who will be on the campus on February 11 and 12.

Miss Kappes was born in Germany and majored in English and physical education at several universities from 1941 until 1949.

From 1939 until 1941 she was a foreign correspondent. She is particularly interested in the role of spports and music in a community recreation program.

While in the South she will study recreation programs and facilities in North Carolina, St. Petersburg, New Orleans, Alabama, and in the TVA areas.

...Chapter Met Mo...

Mrs. C. G. Sharp and Mrs. Charles Gormley were hostesses to the D. A. R. at the home of Mrs. Sharp on Monday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, Regent, presided at the business session, at which time various chairmen were called on for the years report. One of the interesting items of business was the project which the National Society D. A. R. now has, that of building the Memorial Bell Tower at Valley Forge for housing the wonderful set of bells which has already been acquired.

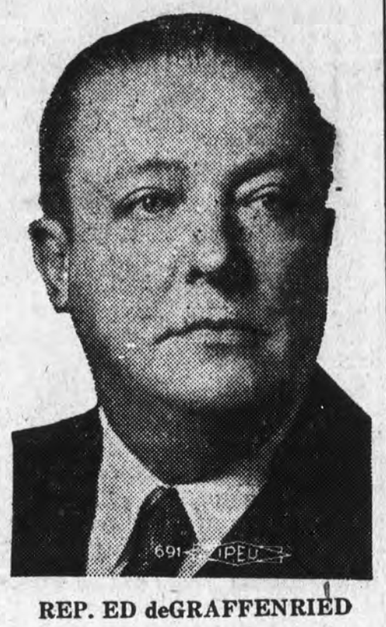

Miss Elouise Meroney gave a most interesting and instructing paper on Alabama Novelists.

During the social hour which followed, an attractive and delicious salad was served.

"FLY-UP" CEREMONY FOR BROWNIE SCOUTS

The most exciting experience in a Brownie's life is the "Fly-Up" ceremony. It is at this ceremony a Brownie officially passes from a beginner to an Intermediate.

There are four Brownies in the Montevallo Girl Scouts who have reached this period in their scouting; and a "Fly-Up" ceremony, to which their parents and friends are invited, will be held at 3:00 p. m., February 14, 1952, at the "Little House," at which time they will receive their Intermediate Scout pins. The Brownies who are "Fly-in-Up" are: Sissy Orr, Claire Balch, Judy Brooks, and Janis Jones.

REP. ED deGRAFFENRIED

Representative Edward deGraffenried on January 31st was appointed by the Speaker of the House to serve as a Member of the Board of Visitors to the United States Military Academy. Other Members of the House appointed by the Speaker were Reps. Sieminski (D.-N. J.), Wigglesworth (R.-Mass.) and Miller (R.-Md.).

The law requires one of the Members of the Board of Visitors to be the Chairman of the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives, or his designee. Representative deGraffenried will serve as the designee of Representative Carl Vinson who is Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

The duty of the Board is to inquire into the state of morale and discipline, curriculm, instruction, physical equipment, fiscal affairs, academic methods and other matters relating to the Academy.

Group Four Bankers Annual Meeting At Alabama College

The banks of Shelby County will be hosts at the annual meeting of Group Four of the Alabama Bankers Association which will be held at Reynolds Hall on the Alabama College Campus Wednesday, February 20.

Mr. Roy Downs, president of Central State Bank, Calera, is chairman of Group Four, which is composed of 33 banks in 8 counties — Shelby, Jefferson, Walker, Tuscaloosa, Bibb, Pickens, Fayette, and Lamar.

Mr. Downs is in charge of arrangements for the program and President John T. Caldwell and Dean T. H. Napier are official hosts to the visiting bankers on the part of Alabama College.

The bankers and their wives will arrive in Montevallo in time for the program to begin at 3:00 p. m. which is announced by Mr. Downs, as follows:

Invocation, Dr. Henry C. Niles, pastor of Montevallo Presbyterian Church.

Welcome address, Dr. John T. Caldwell, President of Alabama College.

Response, Mr. Alton P. Barr, National President, American Institute of Banking, and Vice President, Security Commercial Bank, Birmingham.

Following the business session the group will hear an address by Mr. Arthur G. Wakeman, Executive Vice President and General Manager of Coosa River Newsprint Co., Childersburg.

After a coffee hour there will be a conducted tour of the Alabama College campus.

At the dinner meeting at 6:00 p. m. Dean T. H. Napier will preside. Dr. Napier is President of Merchants and Planters Bank of Montevallo.

Entertainment at the dinner meeting will be given by the students of Alabama College.

The address will be by Hon. Robert B. Carr, Judge of the Alabama Court of Appeals.

Rotary Completes Crepe Myrtle Project

The Montevallo Rotary Club Beautification Project for this year is nearing completion. During the past few months the Montevallo F. F. A. boys have set out about 500 crape myrtle bushes, 369 of these were purchased by individuals and planted around homes in Montevallo and the balance were contributed by the Rotary Club to schools and planted on the entrances to Montevallo.

The Rotary Club contributed fifty dollars to this project and the Montevallo F. F. A. boys under the direction of Mr. M. Thornton donated their time to the planting of the plants.

Mrs. Peterson Is Elected In District

Mrs. Charlotte Peterson of Montevallo schools was elected to the presidency of the District A. E. A. This district includes Blount, Jefferson, Walker, Shelby, Talladega, Chilton, and St. Clair Counties.

On The Farms Of Shelby County

By B. F. Hatchett and G. C. Starcher

Mr. Ned Bearden, Helena dairyman, is enthusiastic about his test planting of the SCS strain of rescue grass. He feels that rescue is more promising than some of our most successful annual winter grazing crops. On his farm it is growing extra well and has stood the freezes this year without injury.

Vincent's vocational agriculture teacher, Edward L. Lansford, took all his students to the M. B. Bates cattle farm to see land reclamation in progress and to see practically the complete list of winter grazing combinations best suited for their area: crimson clover with rescue, crimson clover with oats, crimson clover with ryegrass, rescue on sericea, and Ky. 31 fescue with ladino clover.

Conservation farm plans have arrived for delivery to Leon Baker, Fred Harris, Ross Clyde, and

Albert Eager, of Columbiana, Siluria, Chelsea and Westover.

The Mason pond at South Calera will be under construction this week. Farmers who live nearby and need bulldozer work to speed up conservation practices may be able to secure this machinery while it is in this vicinity

R. E. Brannon, whose large planting of Ky. 31 fescue was nipped by a severe freeze just as it sprouted, reports a fair stand is on the ground now.

A letter from SCS engineer Sanders tells us he will be here soon to assist in planning a difficult dam for Mr. Ling, Chelsea. Cooperators of the Soil Conservation District can be assured experts will be called in if their problems present more than usual difficulties.

Masonic Conference At Montevallo

The Shelby County Masonic Conference will meet with Central Lodge No. 70, Montevallo, Ala., Tuesday, Feb. 12th. Lewis Lawley, District Lecturer, will call the Conference to order promptly at 2:00 o'clock. All Master Masons are cordially invited to attend. J. H. Dunlap, Secretary.

Let's Get Out Paint Buckets

Let's get out our paint buckets, put on our blue jeans, and go to work. That's what Betty Mae McGuire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McGuire, Helena Route 1 has done.

Betty Mae, with the help of her parents, has a bedroom most any girl dreams of having. They installed sheet rock, finished the seams, and painted the walls and woodwork, sanded and finished the floors, refinished two old dressers, remodeled and refinished the bed, and made curtains. The yellow and white color scheme make this a cheerful and attractive room.

Betty Mae is a member of the Siluria Senior 4-H Club and lives in the Little Cahaba neighborhood. She has been in 4-H club work 6 years.

THE BIG NEW FORD FOR '52

the greatest car ever built in the low-price field

● Never before has a low-priced car stepped so completely into the fine-car class! Never before has any low-priced car offered such great power as Ford's 110-h.p. high-compression V-8 . . . such new power as Ford's 101-h.p. high-compression Six. And this big new '52 Ford has lots more than power. It's wider, longer, lower, stronger! New Coachcraft Bodies are styled to stay beautiful and quality-built to stay young.

"Test Drive" this built-for-keeps Ford today.

Now! 110-h.p. High-Compression Strato-Star V-8

The most powerful engine ever built for a low-priced car. Both V-8 and Ford Six offer Automatic Power Pilot economy!

New 101-h.p. High-Compression Mileage Maker Six

It's an all-new, low-friction, high-compression powerhouse with new free-turning overhead valves and shorter strokes.

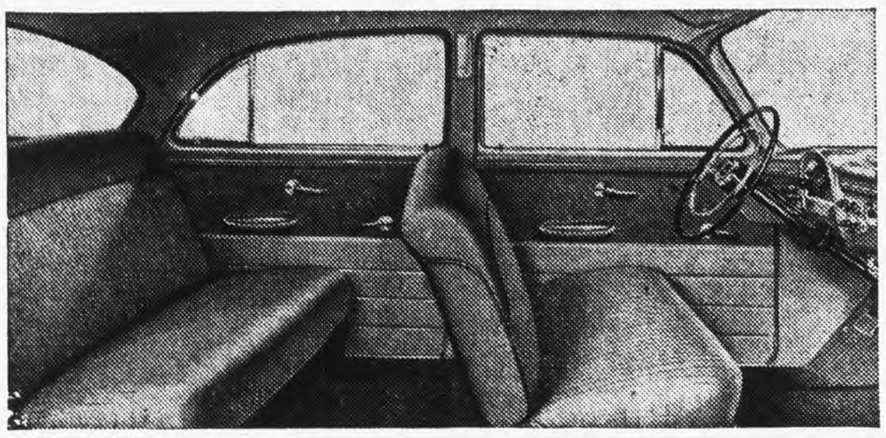

New Automatic Ride Control

Ford's wider front tread, lower center of gravity, diagonally-mounted rear shock absorbers, 3-inch longer rear springs and tailored-to-model front springs help take the bounce out of bumps . . . and the tilt out of turns.

New Easier Steering

Ford's new steering system makes steering up to 25% easier, parking a cinch. And new Power-Pivot clutch and brake pedals, suspended from above, work far easier, give you more foot room, and eliminate floor holes.

Ford Coachcraft Bodies Ford's new Coachcraft Bodies are the newest, most advanced bodies in the low-price field. And then, too, Ford gives you the widest choice of body color and upholstery combinations in the low-price field!

Fordomatic Drive Once you've tried this finest of all "automatics" you'll never settle for less! For Fordomatic brings you two drives in one! You get torque-converter smoothness plus the get-up-and-go of automatic gears.

Full-Circle Visibility Here's another Ford first in its field! Curved one-piece windshield . . . car-wide rear window . . . picture windows all around let you see in all directions. And Ford's new hull-tight construction seals out water, dust, draft and noises.

White sidewall tires if available, and Fordomatic Drive optional at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

THE F. F. A. AS I SEE IT

By A. G. KELLEY, President

The Future Farmers of America organization was chartered in 1927 as an organization primarily for farm boys. Since this time the F. F. A. has grown into a nationwide organization with many boys who are not from farms as well as the thousands of farm boys in it.

The F. F. A. encourages better farming methods, good citizenship, community service, home beautification, participation in school events, and many other things to build better citizens and better farmers for tomorrow.

There are many contest sponsoned by the F. F. A. A few of these are the Public Speaking, Quartet, Radio Program, Beef and Dairy Cattle Judging, and String Band Contests. These are only a few of the contests that fit the boy for the future by teaching him to take his share of the work and see it is done.

The F. F. A. holds many things for a boy whether he is from a farm or from town. It teaches him to be good citizens, to recognize his problems for himself. The F. F. A. helps boys to meet the public with more ease and gets us acquainted with a large number of people. It helps us learn parliamentary procedure and we are able to be part of democracy in action at our regular meetings which are held every two weeks. The F. F. A. helps us get started on our own by encouraging money making projects and helping us to be thrifty with the money we make.

The F. F. A. starts a boy on a small scale in a farming venture and shows him how he may expand to become a large producer. It shows the boy the dark side as well as the bright side of the picture. If you will notice you will find that many of todays large scale and efficient farmers had their early training as Future Farmers of America.

In closing I would like to say. The F. F. A. as I see it is a fine, character building organization that holds many interesaing educational features for any boy whether he is from a farm or not.

THEME FOR 1952 NATIONAL FFA WEEK

"I believe in the future of farming," the first seven words of the FFA Creed, is the theme of National FFA Week for 1952.

THE FFA ORGANIZATION

The Future Farmers of America is a national organization of farm boys who are studying vocational agriculture in the rural public high schools and preparing for a career of farming. It is the largest farm boy organization in the world, with members in the 48 states, Hawall and Puerto Rico.

Lions Club Is Organized In Montevallo With Lee A. Barclay As First President

Montevallo joined some 140 other cities and communities in Alabama that boast Lions Clubs with formation of a local unit at City Hall Monday night following a preliminary get-together on Wednesday night of last week.

Lee A. Barclay, business manager at the College, was elected first president of the club. His term of office, same as that of the club's other officers expires June 30, 1952. Three vice presidents were elected to serve with him. They are W. P. Wyatt, Guy Milford and Paul C. Bailey.

Arthur R. Garrett was chosen to handle the Secretarial duties while John M. Stephens, Jr. was elected treasurer. B. M. Hamric was named Lion Tamer, and Harry G. Kendrick, Tail Twister.

Four directors were selected. The two to serve until June 30, 1953 are Owen Bridges and Grady R. Parker. Wyman W. Brown and Finis W. Poole were named to serve until June 30, 1952.

At last Wednesday's meeting former Montevallo resident Edward E. Craig, a past president of the Lions Club of Homewood, opened the meeting and presented Ruel P. Pryor, zone chairman for the Lions clubs in this area, also past president of the Homewood club.

Pryor in turn presented another past president of the Homewood club, T. A. "Buck" Stone and R. D. Roberts, first vice president of the Homewood club which will act as sponsors of the new unit and work with them to see that they are properly indoctrinated.

Clarence C. DenHerder of Montgomery, a special representative of the International Association of Lions Clubs, was then introduced. He told of the history and growth of Lions International from its start in 1917 until today and how it gained its place as the world's largest and fastest growing organization with more than 9,200 clubs with some 445,000 members in thirty-four nations. Although the first Lions club in Shelby county, there are 141 clubs in the state with twenty in Jefferson county.

The district organization, conventions, and financial responsibilities were also discussed.

At Monday night's meeting, Pryor and DenHerder were again present. Guy C. Allen, another past president of the Homewood club and first president of the Alabama Sight Conservation Association (the Lions' sponsored organization that does so much in sight conservation and blind work throughout the state) was presented and he told of some of the workings of the organization in the state.

Mr. DenHerder conducted the business end of the meeting with the cooperation of the two Homewood men. There was a recap of Wednesday's discussion before the election of officers.

Following the election, president Barclay appointed Guy Milford to serve as chairman of the Ladies Night affair on March 28 when Lions and their ladies from nearby clubs will gather in Montevallo to see District Governor Aubrey D. Green of York, Alabama, present the official charter to President Barclay.

Other chairmen appointed include William Fullman, membership; Grady R. Parker, finance; and Owen Bridges, Constitution and By-Laws.

Regular meetings of the club will take place the first and third Tuesdays of each month at the school cafeteria starting February 19 at 6:30 p. m. This meeting and the two in March before Charter night will be utilized to parfect the committee set-up in the club and bolster the memberships in addition to working out details for the Charter presentation.

Charter membership will remain open until charter night.

DR. W. J. TERRY, State Superintendent of Education, an honorary FFA member, is presented a gold paperweight by the State FFA officers when they visited him in his office recently. Dr. Terry, seated, is holding the paperweight as the boys explain the meaning of the FFA emblem on it. The FFA boys standing, left to right are Joe Broadwater, State FFA President, Tanner chapter; Jack Lasseter, Secretary, Southside; Thomas Terry, Reporter, Moundville; Edwin Johnson, Treasurer, Flomaton; and James Allen, Vice President, Kinston.

Hendrick-Kirkpatrick Wedding Solemnized At Methodist Church Here On February 2

The Montevallo Methodist Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding at 4:30 on Saturday, February 2nd, when Miss Margaret Ann Hendrick became the bride of Mr Lyle Lawrence Kirkpatrick.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Hendrick, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kirkpatrick.

The altar and choir loft of the church were decorated with white Specimen Mums, Snapdragons and Lilies, interspersed with southern smilax, and white cathedral tapers, burning from seven branched floor standards. Lighted tapers and smilax were also used in the window recesses of the church.

The Rev. Minor L. Triplett, pastor of the church, officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony. The music was presented by Harrison D. LeBaron, Director of Music, Alabama Cellege, Organist, and Mrs. J. K. Steele, Birmingham, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a chantilly lace gown, featuring an illusion yoke, outlined with appliqued lace flowers. The dress fastened down the back with tiny self-covered buttons and the full skirt extended into a cathedral train. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion fell from a Juliet cap of lace to match her dress, which was embroidered in seed pearls from her mother's wedding dress. She carried a white prayer book showered with orchids.

Miss Betty Ann Smitherman was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Iris Kirkpatrick, sister of the bride-groom, Miss Julia Kennerly, Miss Barbara Johnson and Miss Dorothy Davis, of Montgomery.

The honor attendant wore a gown of mist green, featuring strapless bodice, with net draped stole, and full net bouffant skirt. The other attendants wore identical gowns of shrimp pink, their head dress matching the color of their gowns, and all carried bouquets of yellow iris.

E. G. Smitherman served the groom as best man. Ushers were Jerry Mosley, Bobby Dyer, Joe Stuart, of Birmingham, and David Stanley of Anniston.

Mrs. Hendrick chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of gray lace and faille with which she wore pink accessories. Her corsage was pink camellias. Mrs. Kirkpatrick's gown was black trimmed in jet, with which she wore black and white accessories, her corsage was white camellias.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Hendrick were hosts at a reception in Reynolds Hall, on Alabama College campus.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Ehney Camp, Mrs. Earl Martin, Mrs. Ida Hendrick, of Birmingham, Mrs. Howard Latham, of Montevallo. Assisting were Misses Pat Isobel, Ragina Prince, Elizabeth Smythe, Earlene Decker, Mary Pope, Mrs. Dean Swendal Grahm, all college classmates, and Miss Patty Camp, cousin of the bride.

Miss Virginia Hendrick, aunt of the bride, received at the door, and

MRS. L. L. KIRKPATRICK

Mrs. Jerry Mosley kept the bride's book.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley, Fairfield, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Kirkpatrick, Bessemer, Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Ehney Camp, and children, Mrs. Ida Hendrick, Mr. Tom Young and Miss Mar Belle Baker, Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Duran, Mr. and Mrs. Pace, Mrs. Ina W. Nicholson, Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs. George Smith and George, Jr., Demopolis; Mrs. W. L. Christian and Mrs. Pauline Byrd, Columbiana.

When the bridal couple left for their wedding trip, the bride wore a navy blue suit trimmed in pink, with navy blue and pink accessories. They will be at home in Birmingham.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE, F. F. A.

By M. THORNTON, Teacher

Vocational agriculture is usually recognized as a department integrated with the total program of secondary education in the rural areas of Alabama. It is organized to bring into reality the original intent and purposes of the Smith-Hughes act of 1918. It is conducted mainly to give training to those about to enter upon farming as a lifes work or for those already established. Four phases of the program make it broad enough to include students out of school as well as students in school. The part of the students in school is termed all-day. Those not in school are included in the day-unit, adult or part-time classes.

During recent years with so many changing conditions the philosophy has changed considerably with many in agricultural education. The idea that a greater number of our young men should study vocational agriculture is fast becoming accepted by leading educators.

The F. F. A. is an active organization of vocational agriculture students sponsored through the agricultural department of the school. It offers a chance for farm boys to have an outlet for their special abilities and also promotes leadership activities and training. Alabama has an excess of 10,000 members with 200 of these in Shelby County. The work of the F. F. A. is part of a vast agricultural training program which is well organized; yet being flexible enough to take care of needs of any community in Alabama. The Montevallo Vocational department now has 63 students enrolled.

Alabama College Homecoming Luncheon and Alumnae Tea

The Alabama College Homecoming Luncheon and Alumnae Tea will be held Saturday, February 23. The luncheon will be in the New Dining Room at 1:00 p.m., and the tea will be from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m., in Reynolds Foyer. Local Alumnae and their husbands are invited to be guests of the College at the luncheon, and are cordially invited to attend the tea. Alumnae and their husbands who plan to attend the luncheon should make their reservations with the Alumnae Secretary, phone 6821, as soon as possible.

Alabama College grads will return to a week-end of activity at the annual homecoming February 22 and 23.

In full swing will be College Night, musical and dramatic revue which is presented by the students on the nights of February 21, 22, and 23. Alumnae will attend both the Friday and Satudray night performances of College Night.

Highlight of the day Saturday will be the Alumnae Luncheon when a silver recognition gift will be presented to the Alumna-of-the-year.

Selection of national officers for the Alumnae Association will be announced at the Homecoming luncheon. Outgoing officers are: Miss Elizabeth Souders, Birmingham, president; and Miss Marion Bumpers, Montgomery, vice president.

Officers who will continue in their present positions are: Miss Eloise Lee, Montevallo, secretary; and Miss Ethel Harris, Montevallo, treasurer.

Homecoming will pay tribute to the classes of 1942, 1947, and to the silver and golden anniversaries of the classes of 1902 and 1927. Several members of the class of 1902 plan to be on campus for the event.

Miss Mary Decker, Chaiman of the Class Advisors for the classes of 1942 and 1947 will hold a morning coffee for these reunion classes on Saturday, February 23.

In keeping with Homecoming tradition, Alumnae daughters will serve as pages during the day and at the Homecoming tea. Patricia Isbell, of Gadsden, is president of the Alumnae Daughters Club.

Co-chaimen of Homecoming arrangements are Eloise Lee and Mrs. Willilee Trumbauer. Assisting these two are Miss Rebecca Grady, Miss Jeanette Niven and Mrs. Mary Hood, chaiman of the Registrars.

Others helping with registration are Miss Mary Larkin, Miss Margaret H. Sessoms, Miss Frances Woods, Mrs. Sara Jeter Philips, Mrs. Frances R. Gardner, Mrs. Rosalie P. Marshall, Mrs. Lillian Ward, Mrs. Lonise Seale, and Mrs. Gladys Holcombe.

Miss Susie DeMent will be chairman of the Homecoming Luncheon program. Mrs. Johnnie Carlisle is chairman of the seating committee. Others helping with the luncheon are Miss Martha Allen, Mrs. Virginia Barnes, and Dr. Katherine Vickery.

Miss Eloise Meroney will be in charge of the Alumnae Tea between 4 and 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

Ebenezer Home Club Meeting

Mrs. Jessie Frost entertained the Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club at her home on Siluria-Montevallo Highway, with the following members present: Madams Ferman Albright, Amos Davis, W. A. Jones, H. A. Pauley, Earl Swinford, T. S. Hill, Jessie Frost, Gladys Allen, Frank Green, James Wyatt, Nathan Frost, Frank Frost, R. H. Davis, Grady Wyatt, Misses Faye Swinford, Minnie Harper and Julie A. Boysworth.

Six new members: Madams Williard Williams, Robert Butler, John Harper, Burley Greenhill, and Lawson Johnson. One visitor Mrs. Carl Edfield.

Mrs. W. A. Jones, president, presided. Reports and plans were made by all standing committees. Assignments were made for cookies to be taken each Monday to the Service Men's Center at the Terminal Station, Birmingham, a project of the club.

Mrs. Frank gave a most interesting program as follows: poem for 1952 and outstanding birthdays of January. Opened discussion on the subject "would a woman make a good president."

Miss Julie A. Boysworth gave the demonstration, the band around the can of food.

The hostess served a salad and cake plate, Mrs. Jones and Butler assisting.

A perfect guest is on who can maka his host feel at home.

The Future of Farming

F. F. A. Week Is February 16 to 23

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, has estimated that 130,000 new farmers are needed each year to maintain the present high level of agricultural production in the United States. A large percentage of the persons who enter the farming business have not had the technical training in agricultural production that is an essential factor in maintaining the present American standard of living and raising the standard to even higher levels.

Vocational agricultural education in the nation's rural high schools and the Future Farmers of America organization are contributing substantially to the education of farm boys in the skills that will enable them to become successfully established in farming, and provides participating experiences to help develop to the fullest extent the boys' abilities in rural leadership and American citizenship.

It is fitting and essential that recognition should be given to these young farmers as they prepare for a future in their chosen occupation of farming. Encouragement in their work at this point in their training will do much to stimulate them to harder study and greater achievement.

National FFA Week is scheduled to focus attention on the work of this group of Future Farmers of today who will be the successful farmers of tomorrow.

FFA Prepares For Career In Farming

Next week has been designated as National FFA Week. The eyes of all Americans are focused on the Future Farmers of America, the boys studying vocational agriculture today, who will produce the food we eat tomorrow.

The FFA is a national organization of farm boys studying vocational agriculture in rural public high schools throughout the 48 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. There are over 12,000 Future Farmers in Alabama alone, more than 300,000 throughout the nation,

"I believe in the Future of Farming," the first seven words in the FFA creed, is the theme of the National FFA Week for 1952. This theme will be carried out in various activities throughout the week: banquets, radio broadcasts, contests and games, programs at civic club meetings, tours, barbecues and fish fries, parades, programs in the various schools, torch-light ceremonies, and many other unusual activities.

Although federally aided courses in vocational agriculture were first established in 1917, it was not until 1923 that a number of states actually formed organizaions of vocational agriculture students. Such names as "Young Farmers," "Junior Farmers," and "Future Farmers" were applied to the boys.

However, the pioneer efforts of the Future Farmers of Virginia attracted the greatest national attention due to the excellent ideals, purposes, ceremonies, and definite constitution formulated by Henry C. Groseclose and his associates. By 1928 the precedent had been set, and the Future Farmers of America as a national organization was born. And this week, all America pays tribute to the largest farm boy organization in the world, The Future Farmers of America.

Siluria F F A Boys Will Kill Rats

The Siluria chapter of Future Farmers of America announced today that it would conduct a Rat Control Program during the month of February as a service to farmers in this area. The Chapter's sixty-six members plan to devote at least one-week of their time toward helping families rid their property of one of our most serious pests.

WarFarin, a very effective rat bait developed by Dr. Karl Paul Link at the University of Wisconsin, will be used in this control program. This same bait has been used widely by the U. S. Wildlife service, and last year over 141,000 lbs. were used by Mississippi FFA Chapters in similar rat killing campaigns. WarFarin is a very deadly rat poison and not harmful to domestic animals unless eaten by these animals in large quantities.

Demonstrations showing how t use WarFarin will be held i several communities over this are within the next two weeks. Th exact time and place of these de monstrations will be announce later, and we urge all interested people to attend. FFA boys wil be available to help every one t spread the bait around their place

If you have any questions about this program please contact the Siluria FFA Chapter at Thompson High School.

Americans Pay Tribute To Future Farmers

The week February 16 been designated Nation Week. During that week, cans in all walks of life tribute to the Future Fa America, the boys studyi cational agriculture toda will produce the food we morrow.

National FFA Week is al week of George Washingt birthday. And this is no coi dence. Future Farmers reg Washington as America's scientific farmer, he used practices that are just coming use today, and have chosen week of his birthday to celebr the founding of the FFA.

The FFA is a national orga zation of farm boys studying cational agriculture in rural pub high schools throughout the states, Hawaii and Puerto Ri There are over 12,000 FFA me bers in Alabama alone, and m than 300,000 throughout nation.

"I believe in the Future Farming," the first seven words the FFA creed, is the theme of t National FFA Week of 1952. Ea of Alabama's 252 chapters w participate in various activiti during the week, carrying out t national theme. There will be ba quets, radio broadcasts, conte and games, programs at civic c meetings, tours barbecues and fries, parades, programs in various schools, torch-light ce monies, and many other unus activities celebrating the found of the largest farm boy orga zation in the world.

Platform guests will include W. W. Elliott, County Superintendent of Education, Henry Johnson, John Roshee, N. Y. Horn, A. C. Adams, S. McGraw, all members of the County Board of Education; Truett Ellis, Douglas Kent, Fred Philips members of the local Board of Trustees and M. G. Roy, Honorary tee.

outstanding program is being nned and all patrons and friends Thompson Schools are urged to tend.

This week final clean-up crews are doing last minute paint jobs, lock adjustment, etc. by way of completing the new Thompson School plant which was started a year ago. The new building includes class rooms, home economics department, cafeteria, office suite, and gymnasium.

The sound of cement drills and cement mixers will now give way to grounds-machinery noises as P.-T. A. committees now take over to do a landscaping, sidewalk, and playground and drainage program.

An evaluation committee will be here during the week of March 3-7 for the purpose of making a pre-survey of our school in connection with application for membership in the Southern Association of High Schools and Colleges.

Ernest Stone, Superintendent of Jacksonville City Schools, will serve as co-ordinator. Other members will be Mr. L. D. Head, Donald King, William Taube, Miss Fay Parker, Mrs. Ann Wallace, Dewey Cox, Mrs. Edna Stanford, Mrs. Gy Smith, Walton Wright, Mrs. Mae Pinson, and J. D. Gibson.

The faculty has spent many hours in preparation for the visit of this committee. During the month of February students and faculty will make final preparations.

Citizens in this community and the parents of all children in school are making food and housing available for the committee during the week of the visit.

Robert H. Johnson, Principal, is working unceasingly to see that every obstacle is removed in order that Thompson High School will gain membership in the Southern Association.

The reference section of the Thompson lbrary is now complete and contributions for more than $1400 have been received by a P.-T. A. committee headed by Mrs. W. J. Mathis and Mrs. Albert Scott for the purpose of replacing books in the library lost completely in the fire last January. Robert Johnson, Principal, stated that an additional thousand dollars will be necessary to meet minimum requirements in this area and he further stated that he is confident that the able leadership of Mrs. Mathis' committee will complete the library fund in a short time.

Miss Dorothy Schoel of Livingston, Alabama, has come to the Thompson High staff replacing Mrs. Louise Douglas. Miss Schoel completed requirement for for the M. A. degree in secondary education at the University of Alabama on February 1, of this year. She also received B. S. in mathematics at the same institution. Miss Schoel was a member of the B. S. U., German Club, Women's Spirit Committee, and past treasurer of Delta Zeta.

The math department is displaying some attractive geometric designs in color and some interesting puzzles appear on the bulletin board.

A group of first grade children in Mrs. Butler's room have a real farm in their room, complete with animals, barn, and home. They made their animals and buildings of clay and cardboard. They are also making a book of pictures showing how the family can have fun together.

The advanced typewriting class is doing some interesting research on the job interview. They have completed booklets on this subject and have made personal data booklets to accompany application letters.

The students worked out a rough draft, each using the style he preferred and after reworking the material, final forms were decided upon and the work completed.

They are now making plans for an assembly program to be presented to all the students based on right and wrong techniques for the job interview.

Eight new members have become eligible for membership in Quill and Scroll and have received their pins: Ruth Naish, Carol Nunnally, Carlene Webb, Frankie Hale, Mary Honeycutt, Edrel Aldridge, Ellen Arnett, and Betty Morrow.

Mrs. Mary Kroell will be Chairman of the Founder's Day Program at P.- T. A. on Monday evening, February 18, in the auditorium of the high school.

Betty Mae McGuire, daughter of Charles T. McGuire of Helena, Alabama, is participating in a scholarship contest offered by the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church. Betty plans to take a pre-med. course.

Miss Martha Allen Directs Modeling

A workshop in clay modeling, metal working and enameling was held recently at Barrett School in East Lake.

Miss Martha Allen, art professor at Alabama College, directed the class in modeling. Miss Allen is a graduate of Alabama College. She received her M. A. degree at Columbia University, and has done graduate work in ceramics at Alfred University, New York.

Lewis H. Berry, crafts professor at Alabama College, conducted the class in metal-working and enameling. Mr. Berry is a graduate of the Art Institute in Chicago.

Clay was furnished for all workshop participants who worked in medium. Metal and enamel used in the metalworking class were sold at cost to those using it.

Sponsored by Birmingham-Southern and Howard, the workshop was in cooperation with the Alabama Education Association. AEA plans call for a number of such workshops to be held throughout Alabama during the current year.

There will be a chicken dinner on the first Saturday night in March at Ebenezer Methodist Church. Tickets are $1.00 each. Proceeds will go toward inproving the church building. Everybody invited.

Committee

P. T. A. MEETING

The P. T. A. will meet Tuesday night, February 19th at 7:30, at the high school. Mrs. Paul Rogan will be in charge of the program on health.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Crisswell are spending this week-end in their old home town of Bainbridge, Georgia. Mr. Crisswell left here in happy anticipation of seeing his old cronies again. He promises, however, to be back in good shape to carry on business next monday.

Solid fat may be measured by submerging in water. If one-third cupful of fat is desired, fill a cup two-thirds full of water, then submerge the fat until the water reaches the one cup mark. The water may then be poured off and fat removed from the cup without sticking.

I don't feel so good today. The people in our neighborhood threw a party last night. I was the party they threw.

Social Security For Self - Employed

Persons who work for themselves are now covered under the social security law and have been building insurance protection for themselves and their families since January 1, 1951.

The recent amendments to the Social Security Act cover most self-employed people with the exception of some occupations such as farmers, doctors, lawyers, funeral directors, and a few other professional groups.

For most people who work for themselves their first social security tax report will be due, along with income tax returns, by March 15 and will cover the calendar year 1951. Any earnings from self-employment of $400 or more are covered by the provisions of this new law.

The tax rate for this year is two and one-fourth percent of net earnings up to $3600. Those who have an annual self-employment income of less than $400 will not have to pay social security taxes and will not be covered by the law. The new coverage is not a voluntary proposition, but mandatory.

This new social security law will cover about 4,700,000 self-employed persons who now will have an opportunity to build towards retirement benefits for themselves and their families and monthly benefits for themselves and their families and monthly benefits to their dependent survivors in the event of death.

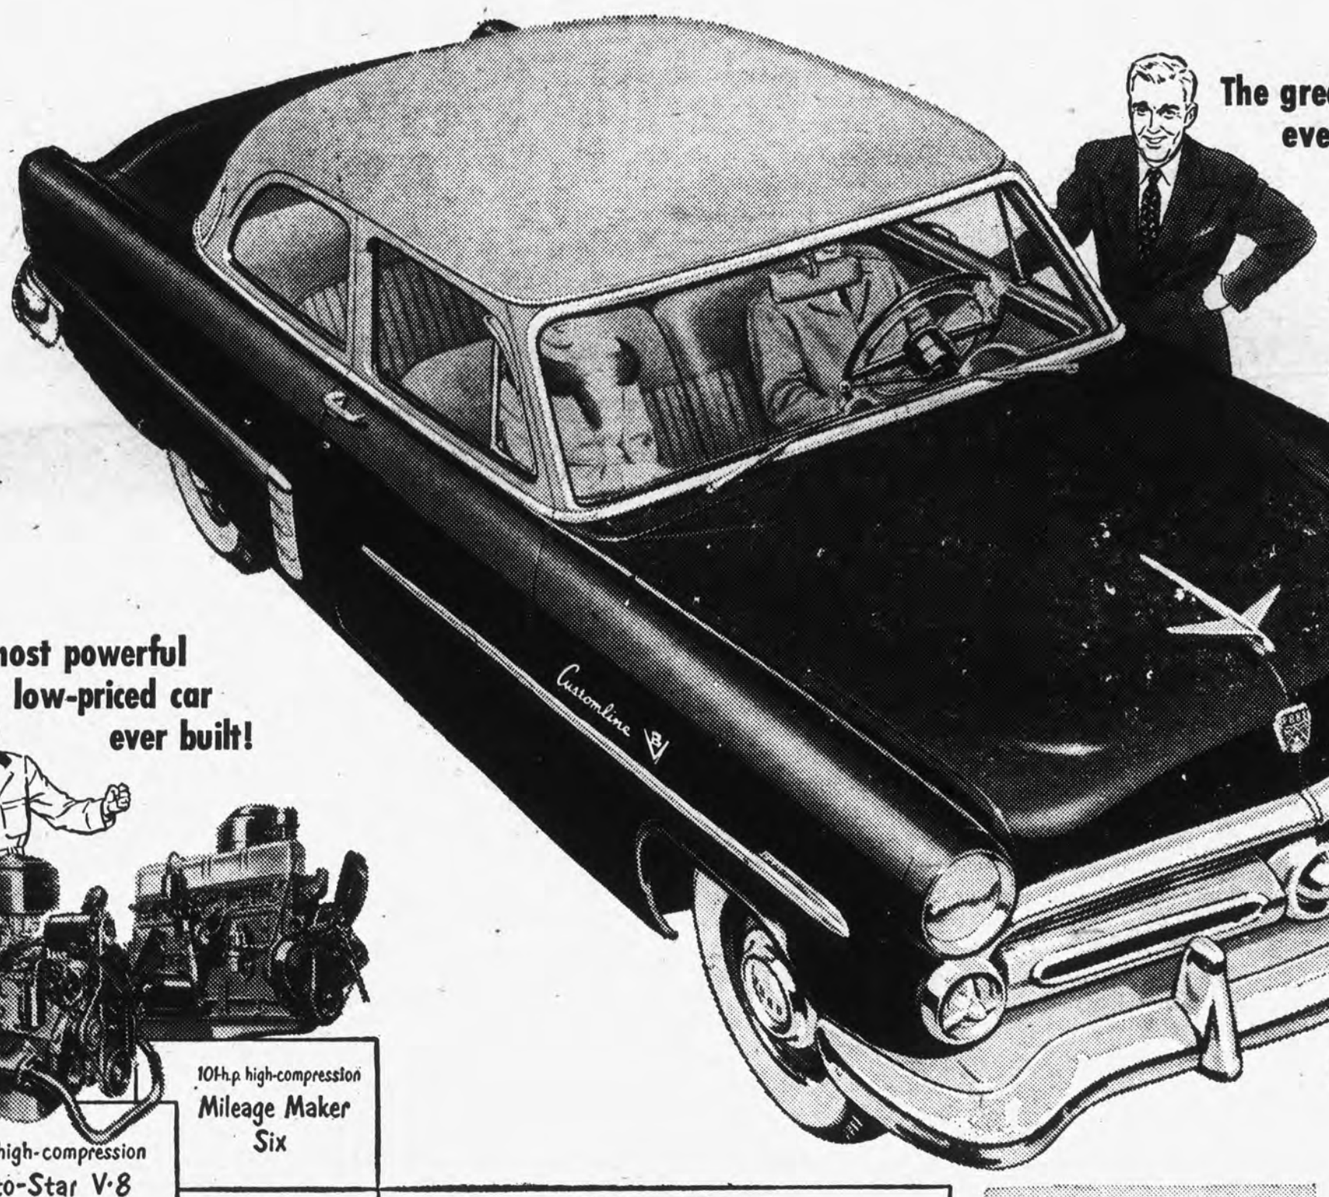

For details about their new rights under social security self-employed people should get in touch with their nearest social security office.

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be at the U. S. Employment office in Calera on the first and third Thursdays in each month at 9:30 a. m.

Guess again... it's the '52 FORD!

The greatest low-priced car ever built!

You won't believe your eyes when you see the big, new '52 Ford! For never before has a low-priced car offered such power, such fine-car styling, such big-car comfort! You'll see such built-for-keeps advances as Ford's new longer, stronger Coachcraft Bodies . . . its more powerful, high-compression V-8 and Six engines . . . and the many other features described below.

The most powerful low-priced car ever built!

110-h.p. high-compression Strato-Star V-8

101-h.p. high-compression Mileage Maker Six

Ford's 110-h.p. Strato-Star V-8 is the most powerful engine—and the only V-8 offered in a low-priced car. Ford's 101-h.p. Mileage Maker Six is an all-new low-friction Powerhouse with free-turning overhead valves and shorter piston stroke. Both engines feature the Automatic Power Pilot which gives you high-compression "go" with regular gas.

Full-Circle Visibility. Curved one-piece windshield . . . car-wide rear window . . . picture windows all around give you visibility "unlimited." A Ford exclusive in the low-price field.

Automatic Ride Control. New wider front tread, lower center of gravity and diagonally-mounted rear shock absorbers help you get a smooth, level ride.

Ford Coachcraft Bodies. Styled to stay beautiful and designed to stay young.

Fordomatic Drive. Fordomatic gives you torque-converter smoothness plus the get-up-and-go of automatic gears.

White sidewall tires if available, and Fordomatic Drive optional at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

Come in and "Test Drive" the '52 FORD

ALUMNA-OF-THE-YEAR

MRS. ROBERT D. WALHAY

An outstanding graduate of Alabama College, Mrs. Robert D. Walhay, will be presented as Alumna-of-the-Year at the Homecoming Luncheon February 23.

One of the two Americans selected to head the European Production Center in London, England, Mrs. Walhay, formerly Ellen Church of Athens, received her B. S. degree at Alabama College with a major in Secretarial science.

She will be presented a sterling silver by the National Alumnae Association at the Luncheon as the outstanding alumna of the College.

Her career since graduation has been outstanding. From assistant to the president, registrar and bursar at Martin College in Tennessee for two years, Mrs. Walhay went to Washington to become a stenographer for the Railroad Retirement Board.

During 1944 she became interested in personnel work, and handled personnel and organizational management of the motion picture, radio and press operations of the Office of Inter-American Affairs. At the close of the war she transferred to the Department of State.

As business representative for the division of international press and publications, in 1948, New York became her home for two years. It was then that she helped publish "Amerika," a magazine written in Russian, Arabic, and now Chinese, telling the story of the United States.

Mrs. Walhay is the daughter of Dr. Frank Church, Director of Music at Snead College, Boaz. Since Mrs. Walhay will be unable to be on the campus for Homecoming, to receive the award, Dr. Church will receive it for her.

Fifth District Legion Meeting At Columbiana

Columbiana will play host to the 5th District of the American Legion and the Legion Auxilliary on this Sunday afternoon, February 24th, at 2:00 when the meeting is scheduled by District Commander Lewis McCray of Birmingham. Mrs. Wooly, of Montevallo, is District Auxilliary president. This information received last week from 5th District Vice-Commander Ed Yeargen of Thorsby.

Department Commander, Hugh Starnes, Guntersville, may be present. Senior Vice-Commander Howell "Hef" Heflin of Tuscumbia will surely be here to give us a timely and urgent call for the present campaign for membership labled "Over the Top by Leap Year Day."

Meeting will be held in the Masonic Hall above the Shelby Theater, in Columbiana. Every Legionaire, present or past or any interested veteran who can make this meeting will be cordially welcomed.

This will be a joint meeting of the Auxilliary (Ladies) and the Legion. At the beginning there will be a joint meeting, afterwards the ladies moving to the courthouse for their separate meeting. The Legion will remain at the Masonic Hall.

The local Auxilliary ladies with Mrs. Thelma Glenn, president, will treat the entire group with refreshments at the close of meeting.

One of the early editors of "The Hot Blast," Anniston's first newspaper was Major James Ryder Randall, author of the song "Maryland, My Maryland."

It Runs In The Family

"It runs in the family," says Barbara Johnson, Purple Cheerleader, as she again takes "the Johnson family name" into the annual Purple-Gold tug of war celebrating College Night and the Homecoming at Alabama College, February 21, 22, and 23.

"Babs," a nineteen year old home economics major from Montevallo, is carrying on the Purple tradition begun by her sister during her four years at Alabama College.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ingram P. Johnson, this attractive five foot seven inch blond got her first cheerleading experience at the Montevallo High school where she was a member of the cheering squad for four years.

In addition to being a Purple cheerleader for 1951-52, "Babs" is also a member of Orchesis, modern dance organization, and is the social chairman for the Y. W. C. A.

McGraw And Foshee Seek Re-Election To School Board

Mr. John Foshee of Montevallo and Mr. Solon E. McGraw of Vincent have filed qualification papers as candidates for members of the Shelby County Board of Education.

Mr. Foshee came to Shelby County eleven years ago and has lived in Montevallo. For some time he was owner and operator of the Montevallo Motor Company. In 1946 he was elected to the Shelby County Board of Education. Soon after his election his fellow members honored him by naming him president of the Board, the position which he now holds. Mr. Foshee is a practicing attorney which further qualifies him for reelection to the very important position which he seeks.

Mr. McGraw is a successful businessman of Vincent. He served on the Shelby County Board of Revenue from 1931 until 1943. In 1946 he was elected as a member of the Shelby County Board of Education and is now serving as Vice-President of the Board.

Under the direction of the present Board a $400,000 building program in this county is nearing completion. The outstanding work of Mr. McGraw and Mr. Foshee in this more or less honorary position warrants your serious consideration of their candidacies.

Local Artists Have Exhibits In Kansas

Paintings of Mrs. Virginia Barnes and Julia Studebaker will be exhibited at the First Annual Conference of Kappa Pi, national honorary Art Society, at Pittsburg State Teachers' College, Pittsburg, Kansas. The event is scheduled for March 13, 14 and 15.

Mrs. Barnes' a serigraph-silk screen process painting is an abstraction of a red tree.

Julia's is an interesting modern art representation of Peter's denial of Christ.

Mrs. Clyde Lawrence, daughters Helen and Patricia, visited Billy Joe who is attending the Alabama School of Trades in Gadsden last Saturday.

Donald Lovelady Tells About 1952 Cycla-matic

The 1952 Cycla-matic Frigidaire food freezer and refrigerator combination features convenient "Roll-to-you" shelves and a new kind of cold called Levelcold, according to Don Lovelady, of Central Alabama Auto Parts, who returned recently from a Frigidaire sales meeting in Birmingham.

Every shelf glides out full-length on nylon rollers, bringing more food within easy reach than any other refrigerator ever built, he declared. In addition, there are three shelves on the door for handy storage of small items.

Levelcold is a safer cold for preservation of all kinds of foods because temperatures within the refrigerator do not "see-saw" with weather changes, heavier usage, or during automatic defrosting.

Through development of a revolutionary Cycla-matic system, Frigidaire engineers have made possible constant, safe cold automatically under all conditions, whether on the coldest night of winter or the hottest summer afternoon. This is assured by thermostats inside and outside the refrigerator. There is also a built-in Food Safety Indicator.

Emphasizing the importance of constant, low temperatures in the middle of the safety zone, Mr. Lovelady pointed out that tests have shown that in some foods there is 776 times more bacteria growth in four days at 50 degrees, the top of the safety zone, than there is at 40.

The Cycla-matic system is found in the three Imperial models of the 1952 Frigidaire refrigerator line. Each of these models has a separate food freezer completely insulated and sealed from the refrigerator portion of the cabinet. There is no defrosting heating device in the food freezer, and temperatures are maintained at a constant zero-zone safe level for preservation of frozen foods for months.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Oswalt were called to Mathiston, Miss. on account of serious illness of Mr. Oswalt's grandfather, Mr. D. E. Oswalt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Presnell of Sterrett were Sunday visitors of Mrs. Mattie Pardue.

Correction

The Times stated a week or so ago in connection with the announcement of Judge L. C. Walker to succeed himself as Probate Judge that he has held the office for twelve years.

Our attention has been called to our error in the number of years he has served. It is pointed out that Judge Walker is now finishing his third term which will make a total of eighteen years he has been in the office.

We are glad to make this correction. One can frequently get by with a slip of the pen, except in politics. You are sure to be called if you get somebody's politics misstated.

GROWING

Here's what we did to meet Alabama's telephone needs during 1951...

Installed 85,913 New Telephones
for a gain of 30,840—10,000 of them in Rural Areas

Installed large amounts of new pole lines, cable, switchboards and other facilities.

GOOD AND GROWING telephone service is essential to National Defense and to the growth and progress of this state. The needs are huge. The job is great and costly. But progress has been fast and sure. Some materials are scarce, but we'll get along with the job in 1952 with the same determination that has more than doubled the number of telephones in 5 years. — Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

C. C. "Jack" Owen Candidate For P S C President

C. C. (Jack) Owen, 36, today qualified as a candidate to succeed himself as president of the Alabama Public Service Commission.

Owen, formerly an associate member of the commission, was named to head the three-member group when former PSC president Gordon Persons was elected governor.

First elected to the Public Service Commission in 1946, Owen was re-elected in 1950 for another full four year term. However, the unexpired term of Governor Persons, to which Owen succeeded, ends in January, 1953.

A 1939 graduate of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute School of Agriculture, Owen was for several years engaged in county agents work for the state extension service. He had been located in Calhoun and Green Counties, before World War II started.

A Marine Air Force dive bomber pilot in the Pacific, Owen earned the Distinguished Flying Cross and three air medals.

The son of Pat Owen, of Eoline, Owen attended Bibb County High School. He is married to the former Miss Mary Frances Landers, of Anniston. They have three children. Owen is a member of the Episcopal Church.

Ashland Attorney Seeks Office Of Circuit Judge

Mr. A. L. Crumpton, of Ashland, has announced that he is a candidate for nomination in the Democratic Primary as Judge of this circuit.

Mr. Crumpton, who graduated from the Law School of the University of Alabama in 1914, located in Ashland in March 1915 to practice law. He has been actively engaged in the practice of all branches of law continuously since then, with exception of the time he spent as a private in the infantry during World War I. His long experience in the general practice of law should be an invaluable aid to him in the proper performance of the responsible duties of the office he seeks.

Mr. Crumpton has always been interested in civic and community affairs. He has served Ashland as its Mayor; his District as its State Senator; his Circuit as its Bar Commissioner; the Democratic party as a member of its State Executive Committee and as a Delegate to its 1932 National Convention. He is a member, and past Worshipful Master, of Ashland Maonic Lodge; a member, and past Post Commander, of the local American Legion post; a member of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Ashland Methodist Church and regularly teaches an adult Bible Class in his church.

Mr. Crumpton is 61 years of age; is a widower with two children, both girls. The older girl is married, the younger, after spending nearly four years in the armed services during World War II, is in College working toward a Ph. D. degree, and doing part time work as an intern in a V. A. hospital.

Mr. Crumpton believes that his training and experience qualify him to fill the place he seeks in an acceptable manner. He states that he expects to see as many voters as possible during the campaign, but that due to the size of the circuit he will not be able to see anything like all of them. He urges his friends and supporters to actively promote his campaign; and assures the public that if he is nominated and elected he will fill the office and conduct its business to the very best of his ability.

FOR SALE—Hot water heater and tank, 4-room circulator, iron bedstead, folding cot with mattress, child's desk and chair, 6-foot storage chest, oak dresser, and oak library table. See Mrs. H. C. Baker on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, at Calera. Phone 7031.

By way of complimenting your wife, do any of you think you have ever excelled Eugene Field when he said: "It is only when I look and see how young and fair my wife is that I have a good opinion of myself."

FFA State Officers Birmingham Guests

The Alabama FFA state officers and 66 county FFA presidents will be the guests of the agriculture committee of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce during the National FFA Week for two days, February 21-22. National FFA Week is February 16-23.

E. J. Poole from the Siluria chapter will represent Shelby county in Birmingham during the two day's festivities. Charles A. Knowles is his local FFA adviser.

Upon arrival the boys will register at the FFA booth in the lobby of the Tutwiler Hotel according to J. A. Beaty, Manager Agriculture Department, Birmingham Chamber of Commerce. They will then assemble in the auditorium of the new Chamber of Commerce Building to hear inspirational talks from members of the Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Committee and other members of the Birmingham delegation.

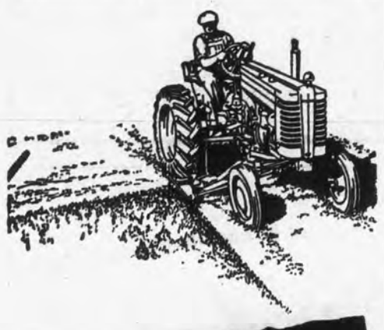

From there the boys will visit the new Birmingham City Hall Building and Art Museum, Vulcan Park, Radio Park, and Radio Station WSGN atop Red Mountain, and tour the Mountain Brook, Redmont and Vestavia Hills resident ial sections.

The FFA boys will have dinner at the Downtown Club in the Essex House, courtesy of the Alabama State Fair Authority. That night they will be treated to a picture show party at the Alabama Theatre by the management of the Theatre.

Jim Myrick, comedian member of the Flomaton chapter, the Riverton FFA vocal quartet, and Winfield FFA string band will provide entertainment for the group during the dinner at the Essex House and between shows at the Alabama Theatre.

Next morning the Future Farmers will breakfast at Britlings Cafeteria, courtesy of the management. After breakfast they will board buses at the Tutwiler for an educational tour of Birmingham's industrial area. They will visit the Alabama Appliance Company and be the luncheon guests of Charles R. Rew, president of the company. And then the boys will head for their homes.

Along the Gulf Coast there are seasonal runs of tarpon, pompano, dolphin, mackerel, bluefish, bonita, sturgeon, redfish, and other fish of Atlantic and West Indian waters. Great runs of mullet are frequent in the spring, and speckled trout are caught throughout the year.

The Only Thing Different About This Advertisement is the Faces

When this advertisement first appeared about a year ago, five other fine young men appeared in it. They were the state officers of the Future Farmers of America. Their terms of office have expired—five other splendid young rural gentlemen have succeeded them. So only the faces in this advertisement have changed—it is published again during this 23rd year of the FFA to help publicize the praiseworthy creed of the organization.

"I Believe . . ."

This is "FFA Week" when 12,100 Alabama members of the Future Farmers of America will observe the organization's 23rd anniversary. They will re-affirm their faith in a creed which states:

"I believe in the future of farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds . . . in the promise of better days through better ways . . .

"I believe that to live and work on a good farm is pleasant as well as challenging . . .

"I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others . . .

"I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so—for others as well as myself . . .

"I believe that rural America can and will hold true to the best traditions in our national life and that I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task."

The membership of Future Farmers of America consists of boys and young men 14 to 21 years old who, under able educational leadership, are studying vocational agriculture in approved high schools throughout the Nation.

The foundation upon which Future Farmers of America is built includes leadership and character development, sportsmanship, cooperation, service, thrift, scholarship, improved agriculture, organized recreation, citizenship and patriotism.

We are happy to publish this advertisement in recognition of the fine efforts of the membership of the Future Farmers of America and their leaders and teachers. They, too, are "Helping Develop Alabama."

Montevallo Music Goes To Europe

Alabama College's series of classical pipe organ music programs, "Music From Montevallo," has been scheduled for broadcast throughout Europe and the Near East. The programs will be carried by a 10,000 watt short wave station beamed to all of Europe and the Near East. In Egypt this series of programs will be scheduled for broadcast by the Egyptian State Broadcasting Network.

Thirty minutes in length, each program features compositions written especially for the pipe organ and a brief commentary on the music played. Organist for "Music From Montevallo" is Putnam Porter, Alabama College faculty member.

Each thirty minute program is tape-recorded from the stage of Alabama College's Palmer Hall and is then sent to the Department of State, Washington, D. C. for shipment overseas. Arrangements for foreign broadcasts were made by Burtt McGee, Jr., Radio Executive with the Foreign Service of the United States' State Department in Cairo, Egypt, and Ralph Sears, Director of Radio at Alabama College.

"Music From Montevallo" is carried by seven Alabama radio stations and is a weekly feature of Alabama College.

Oak Mountain Lake Opens For Fishing

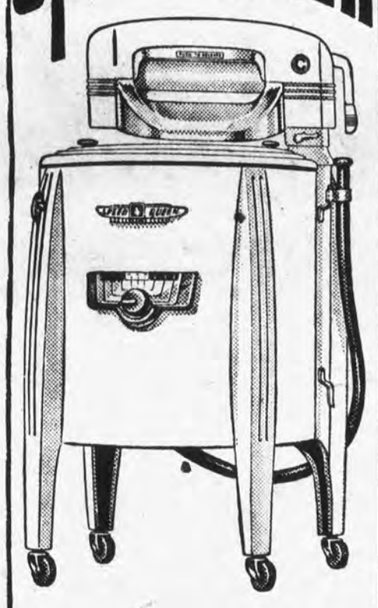

Montgomery, Ala.—The lake at Oak Mountain State Park will be opened to public fishing for a 61-day period beginning March 1, it was announced by Conservation Director Earl M. McGowin. After April 30 it will be closed due to organized group camping season in that rugged region.

Fishermen will be permitted to bring their own boats, none being available at the lake. They cannot use motors on the 18 acre lake. State creel limits will be in effect.

All persons 16 years of age or over will be required to pay an individual daily fishing fee of 50 cents. State Parks Chief James L. Segrest says permits may be obtained from the Oak Mountain Park office. Directional signs will guide fishermen to the office and to the lake.

Despite the pervading sentiment of patriotism, anti-slavery feeling was so strong in one section of northern Alabama that formation of a new pro-Union state, to be called Nickajack, was proposed.

Camp Branch Club Has Best Program

One of the most outstanding programs and best planned 4-H Boy's demonstration this month so far has been the Camp Branch Club under the leadership of Mrs. Lula Shirley, sponsor, and Mrs. Wilson Durden, Principal.

The outstanding president of the club is Lyle Roach, who does a masterful job of presiding, but on this occasion led the 5 boys in a splendid discussion of corn and cotton varieties for Shelby County.

Other boys participating were: Cecil Bennet, Jerry Mayhem, Cherles Myers, Don Whitfield, and Grady Stewart.

The boys told the club to plant D. P. L. on average land or Coker 100 wilt on land subject to wilt diseases and stated where seed might be obtained.

Also on the program was the best recommended hybrids in white corn, "Dixie 11" and "Pfister 631," the latter a large-eared type. Yellow hybrids doing best here are "North Carolina 27 and N. C. 1032."

The better and most popular open-pollinated varieties were: white corn (Mosby's) and yellow corn (Indian Chief).

Congatulations to these leaders and boys on a well-presented program this month.

On The Farms Of Shelby County

Sericea lespedeza is one of the most discussed crops we have. It has produced more palatable and nutritious hay and grazing, and adds much humus to the soil where properly managed. Poorly fertilized and allowed to get old before cutting or grazing, sericea is unsatisfactory.

Since it suitable for such a large proportion of our farm land, and, being a perennial, is not necessary to plant each year, it should be widely used and properly managed. Every farm has a place for it either for grazing, hay, field borders, water disposal, or erosion control. It has been used in rotations, greatly increasing productivity of cropland.

The Shelby County S. C. S. office has a few copies of Farmer's Bulletin No. 2033, "Sericea in Conservation Farming" U. S. D. A. which gives detailed information and pictures on establishment and management of this crop.

Sericea land should be prepared some for March planting at 40-50 pounds of scarified seed per acre after harrowing in 500 pounds of 0-14-14 per acre. Deep plowing is not necessary.

If speech is free, how come every one is always talking about getting in "my two cents worth."

What this Statement Does Not Show

THIS FINANCIAL STATEMENT—Liberty National's report to the holders of its 3 million policies—while made up of some big figures—does NOT tell the whole story. It does not show the "double duty" performed by Liberty National dollars. In the most important sense, these funds represent the resources which serve to guarantee that obligations to policyowners will be met faithfully and promptly. In addition, until the funds are paid over to policyowners, they are loaned to people and businesses who have need for the funds and consist of over 13,500 individual mortgage loans on homes, apartments and commercial buildings—bonds issued by electric, gas, telephone and water utility companies—loans to railroads and industrial companies of all types—bonds issued by the Federal Government, the states, counties and cities—and real estate held both for investment and Company use. Life Insurance dollars have played an important part in the growth and development of the nation.

March of Dimes Contribution This Year Is Largest Ever Made in Shelby County

Dr. M. L. Orr, Campaign Director in Shelby County, reports that with only a few small contributions yet to come in, the Shelby County March of Dimes Campaign has reached a total of $4218.01. This is the largest contribution ever made in the March of Dimes in Shelby County. It is nearly $1500 more than was collected in Shelby County last year.

The total collection from the ten communities contributing the most this year were as follows: Montevallo, $769.34; Columbiana $725.27; Siluria, $648.57; Calera, $414.31; Helena, $279.59; Wilsonville, $204.81; Camp Branch, $198. 91; Vincent, $175. 89; Chelsea, $125.10; Sterrett, $103.00.

The amounts represent substantial increases from each of the communities as compared with last year.

Several types of organizations worked in each community. A community chairman and a school chairman for white citizens and similar chairmen for negro citizens worked in most communities. Special polio cards were mailed to all citizens having telephones. Contributions through these cards were mailed to the bank in Montevallo and credited to the community from which they came.

The Community Chairman with the best working organization was Mrs. Conrad Fowler of Columbiana. Mrs. Fowler and the ladies of the Vignette Club collected $609.00 this year as compared with the same group who collected $364.00 last year. Columbiana's community organization last year was the second best in the County. The Mother's March on Polio was thoroughly organized. A parade was staged on the last day preceding the Mother's March and a big square dance was sponsored, the proceeds to go to the March of Dimes.

The second largest amount collected by a community organization was in Siluria under the leadership of Mrs. Garnet Lacey. She and her workers collected $486. 54 this year. This was slightly less than this organization collected last year but even so it was an excellent piece of work. The community organization in Siluria last year stood first in the County in collections. The third highest amount collected by the community organization was in Montevallo under the leadership of Mr. Harold Anthony and Mr. Putman Porter. Their organization collected $314.43 which was larger than this organization had ever collected in Montevallo. Other community chairmen who did outstanding work were Mrs. Rual Stark of Helena with $197.44, Mrs. Harry Anderson of Calera with $190.99, Mrs. N. E. Revis of Wilsonville with $139.88, and Mrs. Forest Templin of Camp Branch with $150.81. All of these represent substantial increases over last year and in most areas represent the largest amount ever collected by a community organization in these communities. Practically all of the community chairmen in the County made substantial increases over previous years.

The Negro citizens of the County made a remarkable showing in the drive this year. Over $500.00 was collected by Negro community chairmen and Negro schools under the leadership of Mrs. Luther Penn. Last year only about $165.00 was collected by Negro community chairmen and Negro schools.

The Montevallo white school collected the largest amount among the schools this year, $187. 44 under the leadership of Mr. S. H. Hurt. Next came Chelsea white school with $117.90, followed by the Calera school with $105.84. Mr. Lewis Blackerby led the school drive in Chelsea and Mr. Marvin Smith was in charge in Calera.

Contributions sent in through the March of Dimes Cards were as follows: Montevallo, $81.40; Calera, $43.90; Columbiana, $16.30; Siluria, $13.50; Aldrich, $5.00; Wilsonville, $4.00; and from other communities, $10.60. The total amount sent in by mail was $174.80.

Miss Carpenter Gives Demonstration In Cooking Methods

On February 19, Miss Carolyn Carpenter, representative from the Alabama Power Company, demonstrated surface cookery to Foods I Class at the Montevallo High School Home Economics Department. From this demonstration the first year homemaking girls learned how to operate and care for the surface units on the electric ranges. They observed the use of the different heat positions of the units for the cooking of different foods and power could be conserved by using the correct heat positions.

It was surprising to the girls how the deep-well cooker could be used to cook an entire meal. They saw how different vegetables with strong flavors could be cooked together without the different flavors mixing. This was done by keeping the vegetables constantly steaming while cooking which made each vegetable maintain its own flavor and resist the flavor of the other vegetable.

The girls noticed the appearance of the vegetables when they were taken out of the deep-well cooker. They observed that when vegetables were cooked the right amount of time they were well done, yet hold their shape and the color and made a very attractive vegetable plate.

From the skillet meal demonstration, the girls learned that an entire meal could be prepared with little effort and in a short time.

Montevallo F F A Boys Win In County Contests

Dan Whetstone is the winner of the F. F. A. public speaking contest in Shelby County. Dan came in over Columbiana and Vincent, Wednesday, February 27th, when he discussed, "What Does the Future Hold for the Farmer?" He will compete in a district contest sometime in March.

DAN WHETSTONE

The Montevallo F. F. A. Quartet is also the Shelby County winner and will compete in later contests. Agee Kelly, president of Montevallo F. F. A., states that the chapter will also have judging teams in swine, dairying, and beef cattle at Auburn, April 29th. Members of quartet are: Calvin Hatcher, Delmus Anthony, Billy Harris, and Charles Daviston.

F. F. A. members held their regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening from 6:00 to 7:30. After the dinner meeting, all members enjoyed a musical program furnished by Jim Marques and his father from Calera. Special numbers were rendered by the Montevallo Melody Boys. Agee Kelly, president, and the executive committee had charge of the program.

Eligah Nelson, Jr. In Philippines

Clark AFB—Pvt. Eligah Nelson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eligah Nelson, Route 1, Box 4, and husband of Mrs. Lillie B. Nelson, P. O. Box 384, has been recently assigned to the 465th Signal Aviation Construction Company of Philippines Command (Air Force) and 13th Air Force on Clark Air Base, located 60 miles north of Manila.

Currently serving his overseas assignment, Private Nelson joined the U. S. Army in April 1951. Before leaving for the Philippines, he attended a service school at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri.

Lt. Horace Mercer Gets Air Medal

With the 25th Infantry Division in Korea — The Air Medal was recently awarded to Lt. Horace Mercer of Calera, Ala., for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flights over the Korean front. Mercer was decorated for flying 25 air missions in ten days while acting as an air observer for the 25th Division Air Section. He is now a platoon leader in the 27th Regiment's Company A. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Mercer, live in Calera.

Ann Cox Chosen As " Miss F H A "

Miss Ann Cox was chosen as Miss F. H. A. during the assembly program presented by the Montevallo Chapter of Future Homemakers of America at the High School on February 16.

During the program which was given as an example of a typical monthly F. H. A. meeting Joy Holcomb was selected as alternate by the judges, Mrs. Mary Hood and Messers Larry Hamilton and Lewis Berry. Other competitors for the Miss F. H. A. title were Jean Ingram and Gail Love.

The winner, Ann Cox, was awarded the Future Homemaker of America Pen and will compete in the county finals for Miss F. H. A. The county winner will be presented with others at the State Meeting in June.

The Montevallo Future Homemakers of America officers for 1951-52 are Wanda Farris, president; Rosemary Splawn, vice-president; Doris Cunningham, secretary; and Ann Cox, treasurer. Mrs. Winonia Brooks and Mrs. Rebecca McGaughy are chapter advisers. There are 60 members enrolled in the Montevallo Chapter of F. H. A.

The opening ritual was given by president, officers and members. The emblem service was presented by eight members of the chapter: Lola M. Peete, Elenor Mitchell, Emily Vest, Sara Pat Baker, Elaine Lucas, Joyce Lucas, Mary C. Maffey and Wanda Robinson.

Each girl was presented with a copy of the Year Book.

In closing the president led the members in repeating the creed:

"We are the Future Homemakers of America,

We face the future with warm courage and high hope,

For we have a clear consciousness of seeking old and precious values,

For we are the builders of the homes,

Homes of America's future,

Homes with living will be the expression of everything that is good and fair,

Homes where truth and love and security and faith will be realities and not dreams,

We are the Future Homemakers of America,

We face the future with warm courage and high hope.

Study Club Met With Mrs. Nordan

The Montevallo Study Club will meet Wednesday, March 5, at the home of Mrs. C. O. Nordan with Mrs. Terell Bridges as co-hostess. Mrs. W. J. Kennerly will review Florence Nightingale by Cecil Woodham-Smith. This biography was the Book Society choice in England in 1950 and is based on family papers which have been recently released.

At the February meeting at the home of Mrs. M. L. Orr, Sr., the following officers were re-elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. L. H. Hubbard; Vice-President, Mrs. M. L. Orr, Jr.; Secretary, Mrs. J. A. Wyatt; Treasurer, Mrs. L. C. Parnell.

Work faithfully eight hours a day; don't worry. Then in time you will become the boss and work 12 hours a day and do all the worrying.

McCall, Lundquist In Atlanta At Convention

Dr. Margaret McCall and Miss Cordelia Lundquist will attend the Southern District Convention of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation at Atlanta, Georgia, on February 27-29.

Dr. McCall, past president and a member of the Workshop Committee of the Southern Association for Physical Education of College Women, will attend this pre-convention conference on February 25 through the 26.

She will participate in a panel discussion of the Recreational Division on Wednesday, February 27, and will be a discussion leader at the Physical Education Division meeting on Thursday, February 28. Dr. McCall is immediate past president of the Southern District Association.

Miss Lundquist is an officer of the camping section and will participate in the meeting of this group.

Students from Alabama College who plan to attend the convention include: Caroline Aycock, Juanita Boddie, Jean Cline, Betty Hines, Bobbye Lightfoot, Voncille Smith, and Jane Womack.

These students will attend various meetings including the Aquatic Forum at Emory University; meetings of the Student Section; and section meetings devoted to Health Education, Safety; Therapeutics; Dance; Sports; Tests and Measurements and Recreation.

Bobby J. Lenning Serving In Korea

With the 25th Infantry Division in Korea — Cpl. Bobby J. Lenning, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Lenning, Siluria, Alabama, is now serving with the 5th Infantry Division on the snow-blanketed front in Korea.

The division, a veteran unit of the Korean war, is spending its second winter in the rugged terrain peninsula.

Corporal Lenning, who entered the Army in January 1951, is serving in the Intelligence section of the 27th "Wolfhound" Regiment.

Before entering the Army he was a student.

Red Cross Drive Coming In March

Plant Vegetables And Get Ready For Better Gardens And Better Living in 1952

By FHA Supervisor, Pierce

"It is planting time," said Stephen S. Pierce, FHA County Supervisor for Shelby on a visit to this office today, "so let's get ready now for better gardens in 1952."

Pierce further stated that a family growing their own vegetables not only assure themselves of the necessary vitamins and minerals, but also saves several hundred dollars each year as a good year-round garden for a family of five is worth about $1000 at farm prices today. It is hardly possible to estemate the value of a home garden in the health and pleasure acquired from having fresh vegetables for your table from your own garden.

"The Shelby County FHA program this year emphasizes increased food production and home gardens make up a goodly portion of this," said Supervisor Pierce, "and our goal this year is 100 quarts of canned food per person, an adequate supply of stored food, and plenty of fresh vegetables Now is the time to plant cabbage, onions, turnips, radishes, carrots, beets, spinach, lettuce, irish potatoes, sweet corn, and some varieties of beans. It is most important that every family buy their garden seed, fertilizer, and insecticides well in advance of the date they are to be used."

"Let's plant vegetables now and get ready for Better Gardens for Better Living in 1952," Pierce stated and stressed these points: (1) grow a better garden, (2) store and preserve more food, and (3) eat better; the key to health.

All families cooperating with the Farmers Home Administration are expected to have a full garden in '52 and some fresh vegetables growing every month of the year, Pierce pointed out, and further stated that he is ready with all necessary information for carrying out good garden practices.

During the War Between the States, calico was $10 a yard, sugar sold at from $15 to $20 a pound, coffee at $20 a pound, corn at $10 a bushel, flour at $800 a barrel, and a good horse brought $2,000. The cheapest shoes for children cost $10 a pair, while by 1864 those for adults cost at least $150.

Land and water turtles common in other Southeastern States are numerous in Alabama. Huge sea turtles sometimes attaining a weight of 500 pounds live in the coastal waters. The female of the species comes ashore once a year, usually in May, and plants her edible eggs in the warm sands of the Gulf Coast.

To The People of the Sixth Congressional District of Alabama

I hereby announce my candidacy for re-election to Congress from the 6th Congressional District of Alabama.

As your Congressman, I shall continue my earnest endeavor to serve all of the people of our District effectively and to the best of my ability, and to further in every way the program and stability of our District, our State, and our Nation. I recognize fully the responsibility of representing you in the Congress at this time of continued crisis in the history of our nation. I shall appreciate sincerely your support and cooperation, which I have had in full measure since I have been your Congressman. I shall continue to represent you in Committee and on the floor of the House to the best of my ability and to give full and personal attention to every problem which you may see fit to bring to my attention as your Congressman.

I will appreciate your suggestions with reference to any matters or legislation in which you are interested. I am deeply and sincerely grateful for all of your past help and support.

Whittemore and Lowe, Duo-Pianists

Whittemore and Lowe, widely known duo-pianists, and Metropolitan Singer Rose Bampton are two coming attractions of the Concert and Lecture Series at Alabama College.

Whittemore and Lowe, coming March 7, are nationally known through concerts, records and on the radio. The two young men are often hailed as a "musical double treat," their classic offerings having brought praise, and their popular numbers having earned them a bobby sox following.

The success of the duo-pianists with the classics is shown by engagements with major orchestras, including NBC, CBS, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinatti, Denver, Oklahoma City, and the New York Philhamonic-Symphony.

The latest hit of Whittemore and Lowe has been the recording of the Poulenc Concerto for Two Pianos with Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting. This is the first major recording made of the French composer.

Rose Bampton

Miss Bampton, coming to Montevallo March 13, is an American-trained soprano who has sung with success in each of the forty-eight states and on the concert stages and oppera houses of almost every country in the world. She has been engaged often by Leopold Stokowski to appear with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Miss Bampton, who has been called "America's Beloved Soprano," has proved her outstanding achievements in five fields of music; opera, concert, oratorio, radio, and recording. This well-known singer is a leading artist in the Italian, German, and French operas.

During the current year Alabama College Concert and Lectures Series has presented: The Birbingham Symphony, The Barter Theatre, and the violinist Giovanni Bagarotti.

High School Seniors Guests of College

More than 250 high school seniors from thirty-four schools over the state will be guests of the Home Economics division of Alabama College at a two day cenference Sunday and Monday, March 9th and 10th.

Dr. John T. Caldwell, president of Alabama College, will welcome the high school group, and Miss Ruth Stovall, State Supervisor of Home Economics, will offer an introduction into home economics. Under the direction of Dr. Lois A. Ackerly, head of the Home Economics department at Alabama College, the conference will be planned by faculty and students of the Home Economics department.

While on the campus, students will have an opportunity to see two new facilities of the college. On Sunday evening they will attend a camp house supper overlooking the College lake, followed by a special swim party, in the new California type pool.

On Monday the high school seniors will visit college classes and will take part in round-table discussions of home economics problems. A guided tour of the campus will complete the activity.

Business Leaders To Sponsor Cotton Crops

During the past few years 4-H and FFA boys have not been too interested in the production of cotton. Since it is No. 1 cash crop of Alabama and one of the largest soucres of income in Shelby County, it was felt that more emphasis be placed on projects that can be used as demonstration plots for 4-H, FFA and Adult farmers. Years ago we had the shortest staple length of any state. Today we lead the southeast in staple length. It was accomplished by good demonstrations and one variety cotton communities.

The Ginners, Bankers, County Agents, and Vocational Teachers met and formulated the following program. It was decided to offer as an incentive for these projects some form of an outing during August and also a Banquet after the crop is harvested. The August meeting will be a barbecue and a cotton tour.

Ginners are obtaining Breeder seed for the boys and will hold Gin Days to keep them pure for planting in 1953. This will give an excellent source for planting seed in 1953. Bankers are assisting with the financing of these projects.

Boys interested in such projects should contact their vocational teacher or 4-H club agent and get the details.

Yeager Horn For Board of Revenue

This week we add to our candidate column the announcement of Mr. Yeager Horn who has come out seeking the office of member of the Shelby County Board o Revenue and Control in the first District.

Mr. Horn is a widely known and successful business man of Columbiana. We have no doubt of his ability, integrity and business experience, all of which qualifies him for the public position he seeks.

Drama Festival Here This Week End

The traditional Drama Festival of Alabama College will bring nine high school Dramatics Clubs to the Montevallo campus this week-end, March 7, and 8.

Dr. Walter H. Trumbauer, Director of the Alabama College Theatre will conduct workshop discussions in theatre equipment, property, scenery, and acting techniques.

Visiting high school students will learn some of the aspects of College Night, recent all-student production, and will attend the concert of Whittemore and Lowe, the noted duo-piano team on Friday evening.

The nine schools represented include Camp Hill High, Decatur High, Dothan High, Ensley High, Shades Valley High, Huntsville High, St. Clair County High of Odenville, Central High of Phenix City, and West Point High.

Waffle, Pancake Supper March 19

The Montevallo Girl Scout Council will hold its annual waffle and pancake supper at the "Little House" on the evening of March 19. Due to the small dining space, there will be three different hours for serving; 5:30, 615, 7:00. The members of the Ticket Committee are: Mrs. Ruth Ratliff, Chairman, Miss Cordelia Lundquist, Miss Ethel Harris, Mrs. Mabel Thornton, and Mrs. F. W. Poole. Get your tickets early. The members of the Scout Troops will have tickets for sale. You may also contact the Ticket Committee.

Tours Planned To Observe Pastures

Pastures, both summer and Winter are so important on every farm that we have arranged 2 tours to study pasture. We will have Mr. D. R. Harbor, agronomy specialist, of Auburn with us to discuss and answer questions on pastures.

We hope you and your neighbor will arrange your work and mark your calendar and join us on the most convenient tour.

Friday, March 7th, 9:30 A. M. Begin at farm of R. W. Kent, Siluria, and then to S. A. Murray, Rt. 1 Siluria, and J. W. Street, Rt. 1, Montevallo.

1:30 P. M., Browne Evans, 2 miles south of Wilsonville on the Kingdom Road and then to C. H. Nash, Wilsonville and O. F. Lokey, Wilsonville.

Armistead I. Selden, Jr.

Armistead Selden Sixth Dist. Candidate For Congressman

Greensboro, Ala. — Armistead I. Selden, Jr., of Greensboro, a member of the Legislature from Hale County, has qualified as a candidate for the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District in the Democratic primary of May 6. Mr. Selden will oppose the incumbent, Rep. Edward deGraffenried, of Tuscaloosa.

Mr. Selden, now 31 years of age, was born and reared in Greensboro. He attended the local public schools and graduated from the University of the South (Sewanee) in 1942. He then entered the Navy, and served for three and a half years. Thirty-two months of this time he spent at sea on a destroyer escort, and he held the rank of a lieutenant at the end of the war. He then entered the University of Alabama, and received his law degree in 1948. During his senior year at the University, he was president of the Law School.

Mr. Selden returned to Greensboro and opened his law office, and in 1950, he was elected to the Alabama House of Representatives from Hale County.

He plans to make an intensive campaign throughout the Sixth District, which includes Bibb, Chilton, Greene, Perry, Shelby, Sumter, Tuscaloosa, and Hale Counties.

Amos F. Lucas Is In Germany

Stuttgart, Germany — Master Sergeant Amos F. Lucas, son of Mrs. A. L. Lucas, Wilton, has arrived in Germany and is assigned as chief clerk of the Judge Advocate's Office here.

Sergeant Lucas, a graduate of Montevallo High School, Jackson School of Law, and Chillicothe (Missouri) Business College, served in the Pacific Theatre during World War II.

His wife and sons, Paul 10, and James 6, live in Overland Park, Kansas.

She answered the $64 question: When her husband said, "What do you think I am, man or mouse?" and she replied, "You're a man. I'm afraid of mice."

A pioneering step in combining talents of townspeople, students, and faculty in dramatis productions of a small college town is being made at Montevallo.

Dr. Walter H. Trumbauer, professor of dramatic literature at Alabama College, is directing an operetta with a cast made up of housewives, businessmen, merchants, teachers and students.

Such a production has long been the dream of this zealous College Theatre Director. It is an effort to bring better plays to the community and to bring the college and the community closer together.

This is the first attempt in drama to promote a project of better relationships between the college and town.

Dr. Trumbauer, who has direct-the College Theatre for 24 years, is a favorite with both students and townspeople.

Fondly called "Trummy" by his drama students, the director is beset by many problems in producing this operetta.

Rehearsals, of course present great difficulties. To secure a time when students are free of classes or homework, and when the townspeople can arrange to rehearse is quite a difficult task.

Nothing is more distressing than to have one of the professors or students in the midst of repeating his lines when the class bell rings, summoning him back to class.

Despite all the difficulties involved in using talents of local people along with those of the students, Dr. Trumbauer is determined to present one of the best productions the town has seen.

The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Iolanthe," will be presented in Palmer Auditorium at the college on April 4.

The operetta contains a cast of fairies composed of persons from many different occupations. The chorus of fairies is composed of students, a local minister's wife, a housewife, the college supply store manager, and faculty members.

The chorus of peers is made up of radio and speech instructors, high school students and teachers, an art instructor, a barber, a printer and a post office employee.

A high school teacher, music and speech students, a hardware salesman and a college music professor play the leading roles in "Iolanthe"

The following parts have been cast: Queen, Anne C. Grove; Iolanthe, Mary Ann Barker; Celia, Mary Jean Birmingham; Lelia, Julia Bruce; Phyllis, Betty Joe Benton; Lord Chancellor, Walter H. Trumbauer; Lord Mountarat, Clayton Nordan; Lord Tollollar, Albert Dennis; Private Willis, John T. Caldwell; and Strephon, Putnam Porter.

The chorus of fairies: Ethel Marshall, Mrs. Marie Triplett, Barbara Burr, Mary Frances Collins, Martha Womack, Mrs. Lois Dennis, Mrs. F. P. Givhan, Mrs. Sara Cairns, and Mrs. Mary Hood.

Chorus of peers; Ed Givhan, Mike Mahan, B. W. Hamric, Leonard Davis, Jimmy Wyatt, George Howell, Carl Edfeldt, Lewis H. Berry, John W. Ramsden, Stanley Mahan, and Ralph Sears.

Who Can Make The Best Cookies?

Shelby County 4-H girls have donned aprons and are making oatmeal cookies.

"Making Oatmeal Cookies," has been the subject of the demonstration in all clubs during February. The girls have learned that the secret of making these crisp delicious cookies is in using correct measurements, following directions for mixing ingredients, and baking at the correct temperature.

A contest is being held in each club to find the best cookie maker. Each girl will make cookies at the home and bring three of them to school to be judged by the teacher sponsor of her club.

Later the winners from each club will compete in a County baking contest. The winner will represent Shelby County in the State Baking Contest.

Jimmie Lou Bishop Reviews 4-H Work

"I have been President of the Wilsonville Club for three years and served one year as Neighboraide in The Fourmile Community," stated Jimmie Lou Bishop in reviewing her 4-H activities. She is also Secretary of the Shelby County 4-H Council.

Jimmie Lou is very businesslike in conducting the monthly meeting of her Club, reflecting the fine leadership of her teacher sponsor, Mrs. Bertha Cosper.

In her sewing project she has made pot holders, dish towels, aprons, skirts, shoe bag, pillow cases. dresses, for self and mother and made over two skirts. In foods she has prepared egg dishes, meats. vegetables, salads, dressings, and desserts.

Jimmie Lou's parents are the J. H. Bishops, Wilsonville Route 1.

Land Preparation

All farmers should be interested in attending a land preparation and seeding demonstration scheduled for March 12 and 13. Many of our failures in establishing pasture sod have been due to poor preparation and seeding practices.

Mr. J. T. Gaillard, Extension Agricultural Engineer will be here to conduct the demonstrations.

The first demonstration will be held on the J. H. Thompson farm, Vincent, Alabama, March 12 at 1:00 p. m. The second demonstration will be on the Earl Swinford farm, Montevallo, Alabama, March 13th at 1:00 p. m.

Plan to attend these important demonstrations as they will mean much to you.

On February 4, 1861, at a convention in Montgomery, delegates from Ala., Ga., Fla., La., Miss., South Carolina and Texas created the provisional government of the Confederate States of America. On February 18, Jefferson Davis was inaugurated provisional president in the Alabama capitol; Montgomery continued as the seat of Confederate government until May 21, 1861, when the Confederate Congress adjourned to meet the following July at Richmond, Va.

County 4-H Council Stresses Projects

The Shelby County 4H- Council which represents the 800 odd members in Shelby County are stressing 4-H project reports for 1952. An effort is being made to get One hundred percent completion on all projects. Home garden leads all projects in number of enrollments. This is due to having a number of boys enrolled from nonfarm homes. Dairy, beef, poultry, corn, and cotton are the other leading projects. During 1951 Shelby County had the first place dairy exhibit in Montgomery and Birmingham show and also Grand Champion female in both shows. We had the state Showmanship Contest Winner at the State Beef Calf Show. Our calves averaged 41.5 cents per pound which was the best in the Birmingham show. It was the first year that we had shown animals that graded prime. Two animals graded prime, eight graded choice, and others were good.

Corn averages were good. Yields were reported as high as 88 bushels per acre. The average for club members was 52 bushels, and 1951 was considered a bad corn year.

The second annual Poultry show was conducted in August 1951. We will have the same show in 1952. Also during August 67 4-H calves were exhibited at the County Fair.

Prospects for 1952 projects look better than ever before.

Six boys and girls have entered the Junior Dairymen Contest. The winners will be announced in November. They are checking actual production, cost of production on animals owned by them.

Harold L. Broadhead and H. Taylor Davis, of Montevallo, have been initiated as members of the A. P. I. Block and Bridle Club at Auburn.

National 4-H Club Week March 1 to 9 Is Observed in Every Alabama Community

Alabama salutes her 128,231 4-H members and 7,000 local leaders this week, with the observance of National 4-H Club Week. Every community in rural Alabama will take part in this celebration.

National 4-H Club Week affords the 4-H'ers a chance to tell their story to the public. This week is of special interest to the people of Alabama because it calls attention to the opportunities offered rural boys and girls. And it will point out the progress they are making.

The 4-H Club reaches out over the entire state with a program of improved agriculture and homemaking and the development of leadership and citizenship. And during this week, club members everywhere will be taking inventory of their project work and making plans for a better program for the year ahead.

"Serving as Loyal Citizens Through 4-H" is the 1952 theme. And with the nation facing the present crisis this theme is very fitting. Carrying out this theme the nation's club leaders are fostering a program aimed at helping these young people understand the facts about their nation's greatness and the forces that seek to overthrow it. Citizenship has always been stressed in 4-H Club work and this year's theme offers Alabama 4-H'ers a challenge for greater work and service.

Alabama 4-H Club Members Look Back On 43 Years of Growth and Progress

As Alabama 4-H Club members celebrate National 4-H Club Week March 1-9 they look back on 43 years of growth and progress.

Beginning with 392 boys and girls in 1909, the Alabama 4-H Club membership expanded to an all-time high of 128,231 in 1952. Alabama 4-H Club work got its start when Boys' Corn Clubs were organized in Calhoun and Tuscaloosa Counties in 1909. As the corn clubs grew, the girls became interested in organizing clubs, so in 1911, Girls' Tomato Clubs were organized in Pike and Walker Counties. The first tomato club was organized at the Union School, near Troy, in Pike County.

In 1914 Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act setting up the Extension Service the corn and tomato clubs were placed under its supervision and the official name was soon changed to 4-H Club. The four-leaf clover was adopted as the official 4-H Club emblem and an "H" was placed on each of the leaf's four sections. They stand for Head, Heart, Hands, and Health.

One of the unique and most interesting features of this largest state youth organization is that it is made up of both boys and girls. This system was followed because the early leaders realized the need for a rural youth organization that would not only train boys and girls in agriculture and home economics, but would train them to work together, play together, and live together. This idea has been practiced all the way; both boys and girls serve in county 4-H Club Councils and participate in 4-H camps, talent shows, county rallies, livestock shows, and National 4-H Club meetings.

The 4-H Clubs were the first rural youth clubs organized and promoted on a national basis. They were organized to serve the needs of rural boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21. The primary purpose of 4-H work is to teach rural youth through their clubs to love country life, to appreciate nature, to learn the best in agriculture and home economics, and to apply this knowledge in making the farm and homes more profitable and enjoyable.

Four-H Clubs have become a familiar part of rural life in practically every neighborhood and community in Alabama. To date, 5,974 communities have 4-H clubs, which meet from 7 to 12 times each year. Each county has a 4-H club council which is comprised of the officers of local clubs. Through the county council special projects, shows, rallies, picnics, and county camps are planned and carried out.

In 1951, 67 county 4-H Club rallies were held with 59,969 members and others attending. Seventy-one county 4-H camps were attended by 4,603 boys and girls. Picnics were held by 728 4-H clubs with 19,234 boys and girls enjoying the fun. There were 336 neighboraide training meetings held with an attendance of 5,114 members. A total of 2,786 4-H clubs observed the 4-H Sunday. Beef cattle shows were held in 52 counties with 1,066 entries and 11,081 club members attending. Forty-six counties held dairy cattle shows with 1.371 animals entered and 10,689 boys and girls attending. One hundred and twenty-four tractor maintenance clinics were attended by 2,569 4-H members.

Individual projects have always been the hub of 4-H club work. And the state's 128,231 4-H'ers carried a total of 213, 974 projects last year. The projects and number of members participating are as follows: corn, 9,904; peanuts, 624; cotton, 3,628; home garden, 12,199; truck gardens, 750; poultry, 9,051; dairy cattle, 6,826; beef cattle, 4,103; sheep, 102; hogs, 13,713; rabbits, 717; home beautification, 7,189; forestry, 1,715; wildlife, 433; agricultural engineering, 1,675; farm management, 83; baking, 9,868; food preparation, 24,108; food preservation (canning), 8,947; health, 4,910; child care, 1,715; clothing, 24,518; home management, 4,517; home furnishing, 7,284; home industry, 545; and junior leadership, 756.

A Good Reason for Celebration

AS ALABAMA 4-H CLUB members celebrate National 4-H Club Week March 1-9, they look back on 43 years of growth and progress. The 4-H Clubs were the first rural youth clubs organized and promoted on a national basis.

Beginning with 392 boys and girls in 1909, the Alabama 4-H Club membership expanded to an all-time high of 128,231 in 1951. Both boys and girls serve in county 4-H Club Councils and participate in 4-H camps, talent shows, county rallies, livestock shows, and National 4-H Club meetings.

You may find these details of 1951 4-H activities interesting:

71 County 4-H Camps held
338 Neighbor-aide meetings held
2,786 4-H Clubs observed 4-H Sunday
Beef Cattle Shows held in 52 counties
Dairy Cattle Shows held in 46 counties
124 Tractor Maintenance Clinics conducted

"Learning by doing" is an important practice in 4-H Club work. This is accomplished through "projects" which the boys and girls select each year. Here are some of the 1951 projects with the number of participants:

Corn	9,904	Beef Cattle	4,103	Agricultural Engineering	1,675
Peanuts	624	Sheep	102	Farm Management	83
Cotton	3,628	Hogs	13,713	Baking	9,868
Home Gardens	12,199	Rabbits	717	Food Preparation	24,108
Truck Gardens	750	Home Beautification	7,189	Food Preservation (canning)	8,947
Poultry	9,051	Forestry	1,715	Health	4,910
Dairy Cattle	6,828	Wildlife	433	Child Care	1,717
				Clothing	24,518
				Home Management	4,517
				Home Furnishings	7,284
				Home Industry	545
				Junior Leadership	756

Alabama Power Company is glad to recognize this splendid record by 4-H Club boys and girls. Through their efforts, they, too, are "Helping Develop Alabama."

Elbert C. Argo Is In Japan

With First Calvary Division In Japan—Sgt. Elbert C. Argo, whose wife, Sibble Ann, lives in Wilton, Ala., has been awarded a Bronze Star Medal for heroism in action in Korea.

Argo won the decoration for his action on Oct. 4, near Mago-ri, during an attack against the Chinese winter line northwest of Yonchon.

The citation accompanying the decoration reads in part: "When his unit, the 5th Calvary Regiment's 2nd Battalion, launched an attack on the ridgeline, Sergeant Argo and a comrade were assigned the mission of laying a communication wire from company positions to the battalion command post."

"Although the area was subjected to heavy small arms fire, with incoming mortar and artillery rounds, Sergeant Argo moved about in the battleground, locating breaks in the line and repairing them."

"His selfless devotion to duty highly inspired his fellow soldiers and contributed greatly to the success of the unit in its mission. Sergeant Argo's heroism reflects the great credit on himself and the military service."

The 1st Cavalry Division was transferred to Japan last December after 17 months of combat duty in Korea.

Miss Mary H. Kysar At Thompson PTA

Miss May Halsa Kayser will speak to the Thompson P.-T.A. on "Our Schools, a Step Toward World Peace," on Monday, March 17, at 7:30 in the school gymnasium. Miss Kayser is a former teacher and a past president of the Alabama Federated Womens' Clubs. She is the author of the Home Demonstration Club Prayer called "The Collect." Miss Kayser spent a part of last year traveling in Europe. She now is at home in Minter, Alabama.

The Methodist Minister, The Reverend C. E. Ogburn will give the devotional at this meeting.

A social hour in the school cafeteria will be held after the program.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rogan, of Selma, announce the birth of a son March 10. His name is Charles Fredrick.

One of those little booklets prepared by the telephone company says its repair department has found that much trouble is caused by banging the phone receiver down. How true, especially if your wife happens to be on the other end.

School Bus Drivers Clinic

Superintendent W. W. Elliott announced today that a clinic for the school bus drivers would be held in Columbiana beginning Monday, March 17th at 9:00 a. m. and continue through March 21.

Mr. Elliott has arranged for the qualified instructors to come to Shelby County from the University of Alabama to teach the course. The latest device will be used in the course to test vision, coordination and other physical qualities which are required of prospective drivers.

First consideration will be given to those receiving certificates of proficiency in the employment of drivers for the 1952-53 school term.

All High Schools of the county are cooperating in this program and it is expected that a very large group will report for the first class on Monday, March 17.

Half Million For March Of Dimes

Alabama people gave more than a half million dollars to the 1952 March of Dimes, according to Albert Stapp, State Chairman.

Preliminary reports from 61 of the 67 county campaign directors show a total of $506,617.91. Total contributions for the State in 1951, previous high, were $351,093.98.

Mr. Stapp said it is gratifying to those leading the fight against this dread disease to see the increasing response of the people to the appeal for funds to carry on the battle. He noted that despite this increase many chapters in Alabama will require assistance this year from the National Foundation's Epidemic Aid Fund because of their heavy debts for patient care already given previous to the campaign.

Fifty per cent of this money will go to Headquarters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to be spent for medical research, professional training and to be deposited in the Epidemic Aid Fund.

Mr. Stapp noted further that Alabama has received back from National Headquarters in the form of Epidemic Aid $1,378,328.06 more than they have ever sent to Headquarters. "However, I feel that the trend set this year indicates that we in Alabama are on our way to paying for all the care of our polio victims and to contributing our share toward research against infantile paralysis." he concluded.

Cooper Drake To Be Executed

The Supreme Court of Alabama has ordered two convicted murderers and one man convicted of criminal assault to die in the electric chair. All three of the electrocutions were set by the court for April 18, 1952.

Charles Campbell, a former state prison convict, was tried and convicted for the assault of a young Tuscaloosa housewife while she was taking a bath in her home.

Campbell, along with two companions, escaped from Draper State Prison on June 15, 1951.

The woman lived in a wooded area about seven miles from Tuscaloosa.

Cooper Drake

Cooper Drake, 29-year-old Negro, was ordered to execution for the murder of a four-year-old white boy, Dale Holley, at Calera, in June, 1950, after he had criminally assaulted the boy's mother.

Afterwards, he ordered her to accompany him a short distance down the road. She was carrying her son, Dale, in her arms. She refused to put the child down when ordered to do so by Drake, and he fired a pistol shot, wounding both the mother and the boy.

She dropped the child, and Drake shot him twice more as he lay on the ground.

Then he shot the boy's mother twice and when it appeared that she was not dead, the Negro picked up a rock and struck her in the head with it, court records showed.

He was captured after an intensive manhunt in the Calera area.

Charles Lee Smith is scheduled to be electrocuted for the murder of two police officers in Jefferson County.

P T A Meeting Tuesday Night

On Tuesday, March 18, at 7:30 p. m. in the High School auditorium, there will be the regular monthly meeting of P.-T.A. The subject will be "Transportation." The transportation of the school children is of very great interest to everyone, and it is hoped that many parents of our school children, and other citizens of the community, will be present to hear, and take part in the discussion.

Miss Helen Blackiston and Her Bicycle Will Retire From Alabama College

Two familiar personalities will be retiring from Alabama College this Summer.

One is Miss Helen Blackiston, who has been associate professor of biology for 28 years, and the other is her bicycle, believed by students to have served equally as long.

The sight of Miss Blackiston wheeling along on her small, blue vehicle has become one of the first things alumnae look for when they come back to the campus.

Twenty-eight years in the South have not altered her decided New England accent. The small gray-haired woman stands erect and walks with a step that bicycling has kept young. She also attributes her good health to this pastime. Her students say, a bit ruefully, that she is never absent from class because of illness.

Many changes have come to the college during her stay. The most notable are the buildings that have been erected. Three dormitories, an auditorium, two classroom buildings, a camphouse, and a student union building have all been added.

In her early days at the college, rules governing students were very strict. A chaperone was necessary before a girl could talk to her date in the lobby, and riding with a young man was forbidden. Always a champion for the emancipation of women, Miss Blackiston favors the more lenient policy of today.

Have Girls Changed?

Have the girls changed much? Miss Blackiston says they have not. They are still as mischievous as ever. Biology lends itself easily to pranks, and this professor can relate many.

She will never forget the time the girls in her field biology class refused to stop wading and sliding in a waterfall, even on the threat of being flunked. Finally Miss Blackiston suggested that there might be snakes in the water. That brought the girls out immediately.

She still laughs when she recalls how her anatomy class dressed their skeleton in a skirt and sweater and put a cigarette in its mouth while she was out of the room.

After leaving Alabama College, Miss Blackiston's first destination will be the West Indies. She has a nephew in foreign service in Haiti and a neice, the wife of a retired army officer, living in the Virgin Islands. This will mark her first taste of air travel.

Miss Blackiston holds her B.S. and M.A. degrees from Columbia University.

Lawler Making Laying Cages

Laying cages for bringing about the production of more eggs per chicken are now being manufactured and installed by the Lawler Machine and Welding Co., thus adding to the volume of small industry operations in this area.

According to Bill Lawley, these cages are approved by the poultry department at Auburn.

"The purpose of using cages," he says, "is to keep the chicken from using feed energy for exercise instead of egg production, thus resulting in more eggs for less feed."

"Cages are made in size 10x18x-18 inches in units of 20 feet. One 20-foot unit will hold 48 hens. There is an automatic watering system supplied from a gravity tank 5 feet above the cages. This tank is supplied from your pump or local water system and regulated by a floating valve."

Mr. Lawler says prices for the cages are $1.48 each in lots of 1000 cages, installed; F.O.B. factory the price is $1.30 each in lots of 1000; $1.50 each in 48-cage units. Any poultry raiser interested in this equipment is invited to contact Lawler Machine and Welding Co., the manufacturer. Location of the factory is on Montevallo Route 1, on Highway 25, midway betweer Montevallo and Calera.

Wick Mitchell Now At Fort Benning

Fort Benning, Ga.—Pvt. Mitchell, William H., son of Dr. W. J. Mitchell, Montevallo, Ala., has been recently assigned to Co. A, Combat Training Command, Fort Benning, Col. Ralph N. Woods, Commanding Officer of the regiment, announced.

As a member of Combat Training Command, Mitchell, William H. takes part in demonstrations for students at Fort Benning's famous Infantry School. Officers from every Army area and from many friendly foreign powers are among the spectators. The demonstrations, based on battletested techniques, set a pattern for soldiers of the world over.

BANKERS MEETING — At the recent meeting of Group Four bankers held at Alabama College, the above picture was taken showing a group of prominent visiting and local baskers in attendance. They are Alton P. Barr, president of American Institute of Banking; P. S. Jackson, president of Alabama Bankers Association and president of the Peterman State Bank; Roy Downs, chairman of Group Four, Alabama Bankers Association and president of the Central State Bank of Calera; Roland Adams, secretary-treasurer of Alabama Bankers Association, and president of the Bank of York; J. P. Kelly, cashier of Merchants & Planters Bank of Montevallo; and J. I. Harrison, president of First National Bank of Columbiana.

Foxes, both red and gray, are fairly common in Alabama, as are raccoons and 'possums. Hunting the 'possum, the only marsupia or pouched animal in North America, is a favorite sport among rural people.

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

To the Voters of Clay, Coosa and Shelby Counties:

I do hereby declare myself to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Primary Elections to be held on Tuesday the 6th day of May, 1952, and on Tuesday the 3rd day of June, 1952, for the office of Judge of the 18th Judicial Circuit.

I am deeply conscious of the responsibilities which I seek. It is my assurance to you that at all times my best efforts will be directed toward the discharge of the duties of the office in a manner which will, I hope, merit your approvel.

I shall consider it a great honor if I may have your support in the coming elections.

PAUL O. LUCK
(Paid political adv. by Paul O. Luck, Columbiana, Ala.)

FOR CONGRESS

I hereby announce my candidacy for re-election to Congress from the 6th Congressional District of Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries May 6th and June 3rd, 1952.

As your Congressman, I shall continue my earnest endeavor to serve all of the people of our District effectively and to the best of my ability.

Elliott Reports On Crippled Children

The American public today has undergone an almost complete reversal of attitude toward crippled children and adults as a result of the work of voluntary agencies offering care and treatment to the handicapped.

This is the statement of W. W. Elliott, Chairman of the Local Society, today in pointing out the changes that have come with widespread public support of the cause of the crippled. The Society sponsors each year the Easter Seal campaign to raise funds for work with the crippled.

"Thirty years ago a crippled child or a handicapped adult was an unusual sight." Mr. Elliott pointed out, "Not because there wasn't any, but because of ignorance, poverty, shame and indifference surrounded the handicapped with barriers which neither they nor their families could penetrate. They were literally hidden away from the public."

"Today that is all changed, and the crippled are a useful part of our world, making their contribution to the professions, to business and to industry. We have discovered that they are a tremendous national resource, waiting only for the magic touch of scientific rehabilitation and human understanding to make them productive human beings."

Thanks to the efforts of voluntary organizations, among them the Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the crippled and handicapped are being given a chance to share a full life with their fellow citizens.

"The adult handicapped are filling vital posts for which they are especially selected and trained and in filling them are making a very real contribution to our country."

The Easter Seal campaign opens March 13 and continues through Easter Sunday, April 13. A quota of $2000 has been set for Shelby County. Contributions should be mailed to Mr. Roy Downs, Calera, Alabama, Treasurer of the Shelby County Chapter.

What some wide awake inventor needs to do is to whip up a self-sealing stomach for ulcers.

New Records of Achievement Set By Southern Bell Telephone Co. In 1951

Despite the heavy impact of substantially higher costs of operation since the outbreak of the Korean War, new records of achievement were set by the Southern Bell Telephone Company in 1951, the firm's Annual Report discloses.

Copies of the report were received here yesterday by S. C. Stutts, Bessemer Manager for the Southern Bell.

The report discloses that the Company met national defense requirements for communications facilities in the Southeast and at the same time made notable strides in meeting record civilian demands. Southern Bell installed $154,758,000 worth of additional plant facilities, the largest amount the Company has ever spent for new construction in any one year and probably the largest any single concern in the South has spent in a year.

Inadequate Earning Rate

The Company's rate of earnings, however, "suffered serious decline from the already unsatisfactory and insufficient rate of the previous year, thus reflecting the terrific impact of the steadily rising costs that must be incurred in rendering telephone service," the report stated. Total clear earnings were only 5.22 cents on each dollar of the Company's capital investment.

Operating expenses increased to a greater degree than did operating revenues.

Payroll for 1951 totaled $169,562,000 spent throughout the Southeast where Southern Bell is among the largest employers.

The total tax bill alone amounted to $55,495,000, more than $1 million a week paid to federal, state and local governing bodies. In addition, the Company collected $59,566,00 in excise taxes for the government. Taxes of both kinds averaged $2.67 per tlephone per month.

Telephones Doubled

The report, made by President Fred J. Turner for the directors, cited a net gain during 1951 of 271,399 Southern Bell telephones, bringing the overall total of telephones in service to 3,731,172. This was more than double the number in service at the close of 1945.

The year 1951 marked further tremendous progress in the South's rural areas, where 81,475 telephones were gained. Southern Bell's total expenditures for rural service were approximately $27,000,000 in 1951. This brought the total in service to more than 500,000 rural telephones, over three times the number in service at the end of 1945.

Southern Customers Most Talkative

Southerners use their telephones more frequently than do subscribers elsewhere, the report stated. Originating calls per telephone average 7.39 daily, the highest rate in the Bell System.

The report said the Company recognizes that the demand for telephones is not yet met and that Southern Bell is working hard at the task of filling the service requests on hand and at the same time filling the needs of national defense.

Southern Bell serves Birmingham, and 1,013 other communities. There are 2214 employees in Birmingham.

GROWING
Here's what we did to meet Alabama's telephone needs during 1951 . . .

Installed 85,913 New Telephones
for a gain of 30,840—10,000 of them in Rural Areas.

Installed large amounts of
new pole lines, cable, switchboards and other facilities.

GOOD AND GROWING telephone service is essential to National Defense and to the growth and progress of this state. The needs are huge. The job is great and costly. But progress has been fast and sure. Some materials are scarce, but we'll get along with the job in 1952 with the same determination that has more than doubled the number of telephones in 5 years. — Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Small Farmers Aim At More Production In Shelby County

Greater production than ever before is the goal of farmers cooperating with the Farmers Home Administration this year, Mr. Stephen S. Pierce, FHA supervisor for Shelby County said today.

To achieve the new record, agency borrowers are planning better balanced crop and livestock programs, analyzing ways to keep family members more fully employed, adopting systems for better land use and more productive or "bigger acres," increasing farm efficiency through proper machinery and equipment, improving inadequate housing.

In the area, special stress will be put on raising more poultry, livestock, dairy products, food, and feed crops.

The aim of higher yields from present land and labor is a part of the national production campaign for 1952, in which all farmers and agricultural agencies are participating.

The Farmers Home Administration makes supervised loans to qualified applicants, unable to obtain suitable loans elsewhere, to own, improve, or operate farms, or acquire better houses and farm buildings. Approximately 65 families, including 30 veterans, are now on the pprogram in Shelby County.

"Because of the general shortage of manpower," Pierce pointed out, "numerous farmers are coming to us to learn how they can make fuller use of under-employed labor in their families. Systems followed on many small farms in this locality as well as elsewhere, give employment only part of the year, and should be improved. The problem can often be handled by converting from cash crops alone to a combination of cotton, hogs, cotton-beef cattle, or poultry and dairying."

Pierce added that a number of local farmers are requesting enlargements and development loans to enlarge or improve inadequate farms. These loans are made to enable farmers to purchase additional land, improve buildings, land clearing and drainage, and fencing. Also an increasing number of borrowers are participating in programs of other agricultural agencies.

"As to farm equipment," he continued, "this agency is helping borrowers plan maximum use of machinery to produce more on the same acreage."

Families are also obtaining funds to construct or repair houses and buildings which directly or indirectly help step up production. Farm owners may borrow to provide safe and comfortable homes to live in, and necessary buildings to house their livestock and store farm products.

The actions being taken are in line with the organization's longtime key policy of helping families farm better so they can live better and produce more of the Nation's needed food and fiber.

"As small farmers do everything they can do to adjust their farming systems to full, year-round productive and profitable employment," Pierce said, "families and communities alike will gain, and their teamwork will further strengthen American agriculture."

Heart Disease Takes One Every Hour

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabamians died from heart disease in December at an average of nearly one an hour.

The State Department of Health announced today that 706 Alabama deaths were contributed to this single cause during that 31-day (744 hour) period. No other form of illness even approaches it in killing power, the Department emphasized.

Alabamians who succumbed to heart disease in December included 448 white people and 258 Negroes.

The announcement was based on provisional reports prepared by the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics. These may differ slightly from the final reports not yet available.

For '52 Ford cuts Truck Running Costs Again!

Now...Three new HIGH compression LOW friction Engines in FORD TRUCKS for '52!

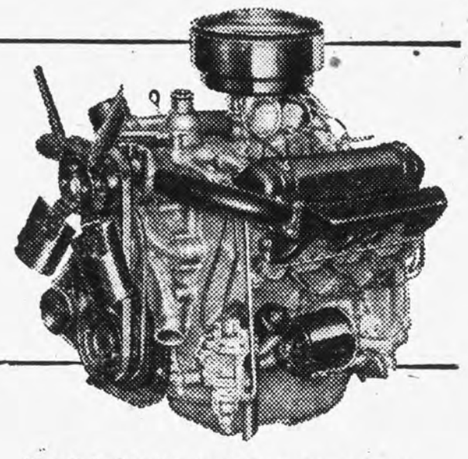

F.D.A.F.

101-H.P. COST CLIPPER SIX: New LOW-FRICTION design. 215 cu. in. Available Series F-1 thru F-5.

145-H.P. CARGO KING V-8: New LOW-FRICTION design. 279 cu. in. Standard in Series F-7.

155-H.P. CARGO KING V-8: New LOW-FRICTION design. 317 cu. in. Standard in Series F-8.

New, ultra-modern overhead-valve engines give you more horsepower per cubic inch displacement. Designed for modern Speed Hauling! Engineered to save up to 14% on gas!

Ford Truck engineering has always been step-ahead engineering!

Example: Ford pioneered V-8 power for trucks!

Example: Ford built longer life into Ford Trucks and proved it with registrations . . . "Ford Trucks Last Longer!"

Example: Ford demonstrated Power Pilot economy in 50-million-mile Ford Truck Economy Run . . . and made the results available in an exclusive Book for every operator's benefit!

NOW Ford offers 3 new LOW-FRICTION truck engines—two new Cargo King V-8's and new Cost Clipper Six—that save up to 1 gallon of gas in every 7 . . . deliver more power per cubic inch . . . time-saving power tuned to today's Speed-Hauling needs!

New LOW-FRICTION design liberates "captive" power:

Ordinarily, engine friction steals as much as 30% of the power your engine develops. Ford short stroke LOW-FRICTION design cuts piston travel up to one-fifth, reduces friction drag and heat and wear.

Other friction-fighting features: New Super-fitted Autothermic Pistons; New Precision-molded Cast Alloy Crankshafts; New Full-Flow Oil Filters! New Cooling!

Ford's economy-proved, world-famed 239 cu. in. V-8 engine rating is increased to 106 h.p. And the 254 cu. in. BIG SIX is upped to 112 h.p.

Now five great truck engines . . . over 275 series power combinations . . . in the new 1952 line, there's a new Ford Truck that's right for your hauling job!

COME IN—SEE US TODAY!

Ford Trucks for '52 cost still less to run!

On The Farms Of Shelby County

S. A. Murray, of Siluria, is handling "annual" crimson clover as a reseeding grazing crop. For the fifth year he has turned under crimson clover after it goes to seed. This "stored" seed is disced back to light and air in August and fertilized with 500 pounds of 0-14-14 per acre.

The 14 acre field has a dense stand, was ready to graze by Oct. 10, and has furnished a remarkable amount of grazing. However bloat is a problem since there is no grass in the clover. At writing thirty cows graze only two hours per day, eat three bales of hay per day, and have to be treated occasionally for bloat.

On Oct. 10, thirty 250 pound stocker calves were placed on the clover for four to six hours per day. On Oct. 24, thirty additional cows began a two hour grazing period daily. The first lot grazed for forty days. The second lot is still grazing the clover, having lost only ten days grazing since Christmas due to weather conditions, another problem on ground prepared annually.

Mr. Murray, and his next door neighbor J. W. Street are turning to Fescue-clover mixtures for all-year all-weather pasture on suitable ground. Both men are watching nearby Chapel Hill Fescue grass plantings and last week expressed favorable opinions of this new S. C. S. introduction to the county.

Two neighbors, Floyd Hawkins and R. W. Kent are using the new strain of Fescue this year. Last week the Kent seed patch was two feet tall, had nine head of heifers on it. A heavily grazed planting was looking good, too, as was a big pasture of Fescue-Orchard grass-ladino experimental mixture.

Southern Rural Telephones Pass the Half Million Mark

THE number of rural telephones served by Southern Bell passed the 520,000 mark in 1951. More than 77,000 were added last year alone.

Even bigger things are planned for 1952, provided we can get the necessary materials. Many more Southern farmers are eager to enjoy the convenience and money-saving advantages of telephone service. We are working hard to fill their needs. And we expect to have another 82,000 rural telephones in service by the end of this year.

Meeting the needs of farm families is a big and costly job. But it's a mighty important job to us—because it's so important to the South's prosperity, in town and on the farm.

Alumnae Luncheon At The Tutwiler

Alabama College Alumnae will present a $500 check for the Honors Scholarship program to Dr. John T. Caldwell at the traditional Alumnae luncheon Friday, April 4 at the Tutwiler Hotel in Birmingham.

Guests of honor at this annual luncheon during the Alabama Education Association convention will include Misses Annie Kemp, Helen Blackiston, and Edna Irvin, all retiring members of the faculty and staff of Alabama College.

Tribute will be paid to them by Miss Mary G. Decker, professor of physical science at the college.

Members of the Birmingham chapter of the Alumnae Association are serving as hostesses and are making arrangements with the assistance of Miss Eloise Lee, alumnae secretary, and Miss Ethel Harris, alumnae treasurer, both of Montevallo.

Birmingham alumnae who are in charge of local arrangements are: Miss Margaret Harrell, place cards; Miss Jeannette Esslinger, reception; Miss Angeline Nazaretian, publicity and posters; Mrs. Alton Parker, accompanist; Mrs. F. F. Potter, restoration; Mrs. F. R. Lewis and Miss Grace Waters, registration; and Mrs. Clyde Walker, Jr., flowers.

Sudan Grass For Better Grazing

Growers who need a quick-growing crop for supplementary grazing this summer will do well to think about planting Sudan grass.

According to D. R. Harbor, A. P. I. Etension Sxervice agronomist, it may be seeded any time after danger of frost is past until July 1. It is a summer-growing plant that looks like Johnson grass and it must be planted each year. It doesn't become a pest because the roots don't live through the winter.

Mr. deGraffenried Stands Up For Southern Textiles

Representative Edward deGraffenried of the Sixth District of Alabama on March 20th appeared before the Surplus Manpower Committee of the Office of Defense Mobilization to protest plans of the Defense Mobilizer to award defense contracts for textile products to areas of unemployment in the East. The Office of Defense Mobilization has under consideration plans to award such contracts without regard to the lowest bidder and lowest figure for which they can be negotiated.

Congressman deGraffenried

Representative deGraffenried cited the movement of the textile industry to the South as a result of the advantages which the South offers for textile production. He charged that the plan was an attempt by artificial means to alleviate a basic problem in the East which is a movement which has taken place over the years of the textile industry to the South. The Congressman stated, "When you have an area that has certain advantages from location, you cannot offset that artificially for any appreciable length of time. The only thing you can do by artificial means is not to alleviate that problem but merely create distress in some other area, and if this artificial means is used to any large extent in the various enterprises of this country, I am concerned that we may find this whole United States of ours becoming a distressed area, instead of some particular location."

DeGraffenried stated, "If this thing is put into operation, it is going to cost the Government millions of dollars in the things they buy. That means it is going to cost the taxpayers of America millions of dollars, and it certainly means that there is going to be created in the South a distressed area in this locality where the textile industry has to have its permanent operation and where they realize it." The Congressman placed before the Committee a number of telegrams which he had received urging that the plans be abandoned.

Slash In Arms Staff Ordered

Secretary of the Air Force Finletter has ordered a sixty-five percent slash in the air arm's public relations staff at the Pentagon by May 1st. This action by Secretary Finletter immediately follows an investigation by the Procurement Sub-committee of the House Armed Services Committee, of which Representative Edward deGraffenried is a member. The Sub-committee had charged that a great number of excess personnel was involved in public information activities were carried by the Armed forces.

Mary Frances Collins In Senior Recital

The first of the senior recitals at Alabama College at Montevallo will begin this week with the presentation of one on Saturday night and one on Sunday afternoon.

Mary Frances Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Akins I. Collins of Thorsby, will present her senior voice recital Saturday night, March 29, at 8:00 p. m. in Calkins Hall.

Accompanied at the piano by Elizabeth Ann Marley of Brundidge, Mary Frances' recital will begin with two old Italian songs, a French folksong and an aria from Haydn's "Creation." The second group will be composed of Lieder songs, followed by one of Marherite's scenes and arias from Faust, "The King of Thules" and "Jewel Song." Modern foreign songs comprise the fourth group, and the recital ends with a group of contemporary English songs.

On Sunday afternoon, March 30, Elizabeth Smythe, daughter of Mrs. Bess Smythe of Hurtsboro, will present her senior organ recital in Palmer Hall at 4:00 p. m.

Her musical presentation will consist of: Bach's "Jesu Meive Freude," "In Dulci Jubilo," and "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor"; Yon's "The Primitive Organ," "Folk Tune" by Whitlock, and "Pastorale Finale, First Symphony," by Vierne.

March Meeting Of FH A.- FFA

Siluria was host to the March meeting of the Shelby County F.H.A.-F.F.A. Executive Council.

A fried chicken supper was served in the school's new cafeteria.

The Council is composed of the County Officers; the President of the FFA-FHA Chapter in Siluria, Vice-President from Columbiana, Secretary from Vincent, and Reporter from Montevallo, and the local Advisers from each of these schools. In addition, each chapter is represented by two delegates.

The guest speaker for the evening was D. Trotter Jones, Executive Vice President of Associated Industries for Alabama. Mr. Jones spoke to the group on Alabama industries and how they affect us. He also explained to the group how to arrange conducted tours to the nearby industries in Alabama.

During the meeting, Miss Ann Cox was chosen as Shelby County's Miss FHA. Ann is about five feet tall, has blond hair and brown eyes and is from Montevallo.

Miss Annette Davis, from Columbiana, was chosen as alternate winner. Other contestants were: Miss Carol Nunnally, from Siluria, and Miss Ann Teel, from Vincent.

The judges for the contest were: Mrs. M. L. Tripplett, Montevallo; Mr. W. McFarland, Siluria; Mr. Smith, Vincent; Mr. C. Fowler, Columbiana; and Mr. Jones, Birmingham.

The County FHA-FFA Spring Jamboree will be held in Siluria, May 7.

Cotton Land

Concentrate your cotton on the best cotton land available. A deep, well-drained soil with a fair amount of organic matter content is desirable. It should respond to higher rates of fertilizer and good management.

The Rotary Club is sponsoring the current fund-raising campaign in Montevallo. Each club member is a solicitor, and any contribution you may wish to give can be handed to any Rotarian.

Farm Bureau Officers Meet

The Officers and Directors of the Shelby County Farm Bureau have scheduled a Board meeting for April 4th at 7:30 p. m. in the Old Courthouse Auditorium in Columbiana.

Mr. R. L. Griffin, Director of Organizatiaon for the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation Montgomery will be with us to outline years work, discuss delegates to State Training School in July to be held in Auburn.

At this meeting plans will be made to provide state leadership and state staff with needed information on which state program can be developed to best meet the needs of County Farm Bureau.

All Officers, Directors and the Home Demonstration Chairmen are urged to attend on Friday Night, April 4th at 7:30 p. m. Refreshments will be served.

Japanese Student Guest Speaker

"I had always dreamed of coming to America and I worked for that dream to come true," said Miss Hiroko Oikawa, a Japanese student at Alabam College when she talked to the Montevallo Future Homemaker's of America on March 19, 1952, concerning life in Japan as compared with life in America.

To Miss Oikawa life in Japan is hard and very complicated for the housewife and school children.

In Japanese homes there is little, or no labor-saving equipment. Gas and charcoal stoves are used for preparing the family's food. Sewing machines are scarce so most of the family's clothing has to be made by hand, except in the homes of the rich, where dressmakers are hired. Since commercial patterns are not available, the homemakers make their own patterns instead of selecting them from pattern books in the stores as the Americans do.

Care of clothing in Japanese homes involves hard work because there is little equipment to make washing and ironing an easier and time-saving task.

Young girls who take Home Economics in school have no well equipped laboratories in which to work. Just as in the home practically all the sewing has to be done by hand.

Miss Oikawa compared social activities of American girls with those of the typical Japanese girl The American girl has much more freedom to have good times with other girls and boys than does the Japanese girl who is not allowed to date, and whose husband is selected for her by her parents.

Miss Oikawa has been in the United States since June, 1952. She is a graduate of Tokyo Christian Woman's College in Tokyo, Japan. After she finishes her studies at Alabama College she plans to return to Japan and will be engaged in social work.

Local People Play Parts In "Iolanthe"

Townspeople of Montevallo and the surrounding area will have important parts in the Gilbert and Sullivan production of "Iolanthe" which will be presented in Palmer Auditorium at Alabama College at Montevallo on April 8, under the direction of Dr. Walter H. Trumbauer.

The production will bring these Montevallo people before the audience: Leads will be played by: Mary Ann Barker, as Iolanthe, a fairy, mother of Strephon; Dr. Walter H. Trumbauer, himself, will play the part of Lord Chancellor; the part of Lord Tolloler will be played by Albert Dennis of Siluria; Edward Givhan will play the part of Lord Mountararat; Dr. John T. Caldwell, president of Alabama College, will take the part of Private Willis; Strephon will be played by Putnam Porter; Betty Jo Benton will take the part of Phyllis, a shepherdess, a ward of Chancery; and Celia, a fairy, will be played by Miss Mary Jean Birmingham, and Leila, a fairy, will be portrayed by Mary Frances Collins. The part of Fleta, a fairy, will be played by Mrs. Minor Triplett.

Members of the chorus of fairies will be played by: Miss Ethel Marshall, Barbara Burr, Mrs. F. P. Givhan, Martha Womack, Mrs. E. P. Hood, Mrs. Albert Dennis, of Siluria, and Sue A. Edmonds.

The chorus of Peers will be portrayed by: Stanley Mahan, Mike Mahan, George Howell, Carl E. Edfeldt, Solon Small, Lewis H. Berry, John W. Ramsden, and B. W. Hamric.

Other members of the chorus of "Iolanthe" are: Mrs. Ralph C. Henderson, Frances Freeman, Miss Rosann McLaughlin, June Segler, and Ernestine Willis.

There will be no admission charge for the presentation of the opera, but contributions for the Driving School project for high school and college girls, sponsored by the Montevallo Business and Professional Women's Club, will be accepted at the door.

Willie Cunningham Now In Japan

With The Eighth Army In Korea — Pvt. Willie Cunningham, Selma St., Montevallo, Ala., is now serving on the island of Koje-do, 40 miles off the coast of southern Korea, with the 121st Transportation Truck Company.

The 121st, a National Guard outfit from Pine Grove, Pa., hauls supplies for 155,000 prisoners of war, thousands of displaced persons and UN service troops living on Koje-do. Operating around the clock, the company's trucks move an average of 25,000 tons of supplies per month.

After being called to active duty in August 1950, the 121st underwent four months of training in the United States before landing at Pusan, Korea, last January. Later that month, the company was transferred to Koje-do.

Need More Milk

Milk production in 1952 is not likely to exceed that of 1951 since there were slightly fewer milk cows on Jan. 1 than a year ago. Total stocks of dairy products on January 1 were considerably below the beginning of 1951.

Miss Evelyn Lee Ward Becomes Bride of Lt. William Blevins Last Saturday

Montevallo Baptist Church was the scene Saturday afternoon of the wedding of Miss Evelyn Lee Ward and Lt. (jg) William Dean Blevins, USN, formerly of Calera and Birmingham.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James Skillman Ward, and the iate Dr. Ward. Lt. Blevins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bell Blevins of Calera.

The Rev, Edward Glover officiated at the 4 p. m. ceremony. Music was presented by Mrs. Francis P. Givhan, organist, and Mrs. Seymour H. Hurt and Mrs. Hanford M. Henderson, vocalists.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. William R. Rotenberry. Bridesmatrons and maid were Mrs. Joseph A. Dear IV of Washington, D. C., sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. William R. Barrett of Greensboro, N. C., Miss Eleanora Reynolds of Gainsville, Fla.

The honor attendant wore a pink taffeta dress with bouffant skirt and brief bolero with standing collar. The other attendants wore identical dresses of pale blue. All carried Colonial bouquets of pink carnations and purple violets. Short white gloves and nose veils which matched their dresses completed their ensembles.

Robert David Ward of Chapel Hill, N. C., gave his sister in marriage. Her dress was of candlelight satin, with Queen Anne lace collar and peplum. The skirt was bouffant, and formed a long train. Her finger-tip length veil of illusion was caught to a lace bonnet, which was embroidered with seed pearls. The bride's bouquet was of white roses and a white purple-throated orchid.

Lt. (jg) William Grimes, USN, of Sanford, Florida, was best man. Ushers were Lt. (jg) John Russell, USN, of Sanford; Lt. (jg) George Dent, USN, of Jacksonville, Fla., Charles Oneal Bailey, Groves, Tex., and George Foss of Birmingham.

A reception at Reynolds Hall on Alabama College campus followed the ceremony. Assisting were Mrs. Leslie H. Hubbard, Mrs. M. P. Jeter Jr., Mrs. E. H. Wills, Mrs. Laura Woods, Mrs. William K. Weaver Jr., Mrs. Edwin Phillips, Mrs. Felix Lewis, Mrs. Lowell S. Hamilton, Mrs. Ralph Banks, Misses Bessie McCary, Eva Golson, Lorraine Peter, Sarah Puryear, Nancy Leonard, Joanne Gibbons and Virginia Harless. Mrs. Ralph Sears kept the bride's book.

The bride's mother wore a soldier blue lace dress with pink accessories. The mother of the bridegroom chose toast crepe with matching accessories. Both had orchid corsages.

For traveling, the bride wore a gray faille suit with navy accessories. Lt. and Mrs. Blevins will be at home in Sanford, Florida, where he is stationed.

Now Is The Time To Control Flies

This is the time of year to begin a campaign against flies, the Home Economics I girls learned in Housing class. But how can you declare war on flies when you haven't seen any? Why not try preventing their breeding? Flies breed in filth, feed on it, live in it and contaminate everything with which their hairy legs come in contact. Authorities suggest strict cleanliness and immediate destruction of all filth as good preventive measures against flies. This can be accomplished by keeping garbage in receptacles, with close-fitting covers, and by washing and disinfecting the cans frequently. To destroy garbage we may burn or bury it deeply.

Another means of prevention is to scatter powdered borax on breeding places and sprinkle surface lightly with water, so that the insects are killed as they hatch.

Well-screened tightly-fitted doors and windows help to keep flies out of the house.

Kill that fly — swat, trap and spray. There are a number of effective D. D. T. sprays on the market.

FOR SALE — Baby bed in good condition. Complete with mattress. W. R. Rotenberry, Phone 7288 or 5861.

High School Seniors Visit Home Ec Dept.

Among the many activities in which the high school seniors from different parts of the state participated during their week-end visit to the high school home economics department. The girls were welcomed by a group of Home Economics student teachers who showed them different rooms of the department. The student teachers' room with its own small unit kitchen attracted the attention of many of the girls.

Then they visited the clothing laboratory where a clothing II class was busily looking at pattern books to decide which patterns would best suit their particular figure types and bring out their best features. In the foods laboratory the girls saw a class of Home Economics I girls planning a meal which they were to prepare the next day. After this brief tour of the classrooms the living room was visited where fruit juice and cookies were served. A group of student teachers discussed with the visitors their responsibilities and activities as "apprentice" teachers, and described the things they are learning in order to be good homemaking teachers next year.

On The Farms Of Shelby County

Casual observers might think Elvin Hill's energetic young Future Farmers are planting watermelons in their old sericea patch at Columbiana.

The boys have opened rows eight feet apart, fertilized well and bedded several inches of soil back on the fertilized row.

However, what went into the rows no watermelon patch could use. About eighteen inches apart in the rows the boys dropped stolons (rooted runners) of certified "Coastal Bermuda" that were furnished them by the North Central Soil Conservation District.

When growth begins, a heavy application of nitrogen will be made, and before runners get long, the eight foot middle between the rows will be thoroughly prepared with a disc harrow. That is the 'why' of the spacing of the rows. The bermuda can easily cross the 8 foot gaps in the summer, and the discing will allow the runners to lie on the earth and root all along their length. When the ground is covered, the grass turns upward, and often reaches a height suitable for hay cutting in a single season.

Should the boys do as well with this new crop as they have with the "Chapel Hill" Rescue grass seed patch across the road, this should be a beautiful sight by the end of June, and furnish a good crop of stolons for sale next spring.

Seed patches of these and other new grazing and soil conserving crops are creating interest in modern farming methods in the youths, as well as helping finance worthwhile activities of thet club under the able guidance of their teachers, Hill, Columbiana; Thornton, Montevallo; and Lansford, Vincent.

J. J. Hinds, mentioned last week is planning to plant coastal bermuda, is hauling as much manure to his 2 acres as he would if he were planting melons. Cahaba valley farmer Earl Morgan is going to use the grass on some hills, and is gathering all information he can find in planting requirements.

Our general suggestions are: Lime or slag heavily, mix at least 500 pounds per acre of 6-8-4 or richer fertilizer into the rows, drop stolons at rate of about 4,000 per acre, cover two inches deep, and run tractor tire on row. When up, sidedress with 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate or equivalent. Keep middle clear of competition until runners cross too far for cultivation. Keep stock off until sod forms. In fall mow close or graze close, add subterranean or reseeding crimson clover, caley peas, or rescue grass. The rescue grass will require nitrate. Additional manures, fertilizers, or nitrate will pay off, as this crop can use much fertilizer economically.

One T B Death In Shelby County

Montgomery, Ala. — Shelby County was one of the 46 Alabama counties from which one or more tuberculosis deaths were reported in October, November and December. This county reported 1 death during that three-month period as having been due to that disease, according to the State Department of Health. The state total was 191.

The State Health Department announcement was based upon provisional reports prepared by its Bureau of Vital Statistics. These may differ slightly from the final reports not yet available.

Be Sure Of Your Social Security

Newly-covered workers should make certain that they are receiving credit on their social security accounts, Martin C. Folmar, manager of the social security office located at 1825 First Avenue North, in Birmingham, reminded today.

He was referring especially to regularly employed household workers and regularly employed farm workers who are among the groups which were given social security protection by the changes in the social security law effective January 1, 1951.

Mr. Folmar called attention to the fact that there may be some employers of household workers or employers of farm workers who are not aware of their responsibilities under the new law, and who may accordingly fail to make the necessary social security reports or to pay the social security taxes which would give these workers the insurance protection intended by the law.

To make certain that they will qualify for retirement benefits at age 65 or later, or that their families will receive the survivors benefits provided in death cases, regularly employed household workers and regularly employed farm workers are urged to contact their nearest social security office for information. The social security office will explain the old-age and survivors benefits. By getting in touch with the social security office, workers can make certain that they will receive credit on their social security account, if their work is covered by the law, says Mr. Folmar. A social security representative will be at the U. S. Employment office in Calera the first and third Thursdays in each month at 9:30.

Attract Quail, Conserve Soil

Farmers who want to attract quail to their farm and conserve soil at the same time will find that bicolor lespedeza will do the job.

S. R. Doughty, A. P. I. Extension Service soil conservationist, says the crop is a preferred quail food. It may be established from either seed or seedlings, and now is a good time to get the crop started.

"On most farms," says Doughty, "there are non-productive, eroding woodland borders that should be established in this crop. It withstands shade and competition from trees, and, when well established, controls erosion and improves the soil in addition to providing an abundance of food for quail."

The specialist adds that since livestock relish bicolor, it should be planted in borders and areas where grazing is excluded.

Dr. and Mrs. John Tyler Caldwell announce the birth of a son on Thursday, March 27. His name is Charles Franklin.

"Sudan grass fits well after such crops as blue lupine, crimson clover, or other winter legumes harvested for seed," says Harbor. "It may also be grown in rotation with reseeding winter legumes, such as Crimson clover, bur clover, and Caley peas."

NEWS NOTES of MONTEVALLO CLUBS

Clubs in Montevallo will be busy with various activities this week; some with special projects, some with guest speakers and others getting under way with new officers. Following is a round-up of their plans:

Studiosis

Studiosis Club will not hold its April meeting due to the conflicting operetta at the college on April 8.

New officers of Studiosis Club, one of the oldest cultural and civic organizations in Montevallo, will be installed at the May meeting.

Selected from seventy-five active members, they are: President, Mrs. M. Thornton; vice president, Miss Mary Jean Birmingham; recording secretary, Mrs. Sidney Seegars; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Earl McGaughey; and treasurer, Miss Anna Nabors.

A. A. U. W.

A noted librarian addressed the Montevallo chapter of A. A. U, W Tuesday night, April 1, at their regular monthly meeting in Reynolds Hall.

Dr. Jerrold Orne, director of the Washington University Library at St. Louis, and director of the Air University Library at Maxwell Air Force Base, spoke on "Preserving Our American Heritage."

Mrs. Maxine C. Davis is president of the local chapter of A. A. U. W.

Rotary

Three students from outside the continental United States will discuss "The United States As I See It" tonight at the Rotary Club meeting.

They are Helga Stenner, Germany; Haydee Villalobos Castillo, Honduras, C. A.; and Hiroka Oikawa, Japan.

Mr. Lowell S. Hamilton will lead their round table discussion.

According to Mr. Eddie Watson, outgoing Rotary president, Rotarians have planted 500 crepe myrtle plants over the town, and are supporting the Red Cross drive as their present project.

Lions

The Montevallo Lions Club got its official start last Friday night when its Charter was presented by the Homewood Lions. The Charter Night occasion was a dinner at the college dining room with the ladies as guests.

Local Lions are now in process of outlining the program of activities and objections. The club will hold regular meetings twice each month. Mr. Lee A. Barclay, business manager of Alabama College, is the club's president.

Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber of Commerce, which meets each third Monday night, has as its project the encouragement of new industries to the town. The 30-35 members work with the state industrial divisions of the power company and the Southern railroad. They also work with the local FFA groups on special projects.

Masons

The Masonic Lodges, consisting of the Blue Lodge and the Royal Arts Chapter, are chiefly concerned with relief purposes, such as the support of the masonic homes and widow pensions.

The Blue Lodge, consisting of approximately 160 members, is headed by Clarence Chism as the Grand Master. Other officers are Floyd Smitherman, Senior Warden; R. H. Bradford, Junior Warden; W. H. Weaver, Senior Deacon; W. D. Grady, Junior Deacon; G. H. Harrell, Chaplain; T. H. Napier, Secretary; and R. E. Whaley, Treasurer.

The Royal Arch Lodge, open only to Blue Lodge members, has as its High Priest, Dr. T. H. Napier. M. S. McGehee serves as Scribe; Joe Klotzman, as King; Z. S. Cowart, as Captain of Hosts; C. B. Carpenter, Royal Arch Captain, and M. L. Orr, as Secretary.

Yamoso

The Yamoso, or Young Matron's Society, will meet tonight. The twenty members meet twice each month for a night of social entertainment. The club recently added Mrs. Virginia Hamilton, Mrs. Grady Parker, and Mrs. Earl McGaughy to its membership.

Sewing

The Wednesday afternoon Sewing Club, another social organization, will meet April 9, at the home of Mrs. J. I. Ried.

Officers for this club are Mrs. Ted Bridges, President; and Mrs. A. C. Anderson, Secretary and Treasurer.

Study

"Women in Finance" will be the subject of talk at the meeting of the Study Club, April 3. Mrs. Evelyn W. Keenon, accountant executive for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane, will be the speaker. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Baker with Mrs. A. C. Jeter co-hostess.

Business and Professional Women

The April meeting of the Business and Professional Women has been postponed due to spring holidays occuring at the same time. An alternate date is to be announced for a talk by Dr. Kay, noted Birmingham psychiatrist.

The current project of the club is raising funds for a driving school to be established in Montevallo. The newly elected officers working on this project are Mrs. Ruth Ratliff, president; Mrs. Ralph Sears, vice president; Mrs. Louise Seale, secretary; and Mrs. S. M. Mahan, treasurer.

Daughters of the American Revolution

Members of the David Lindsay chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet on Monday, April 7, at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. C. G. Sharp. Mrs. B. F. Roden of Marvel will speak on the history of the Port of Mobile.

The D. A. R., composed of 19 active members and 9 resident members, is led this year by Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, regent; Miss Josephine Eddy, vice-regent; Mrs. E. D. Reynolds, secretary; Miss Ollie Tillman, treasurer; Miss Julia Boyd, registrar; Miss Eloise Meroney, historian; and Mrs. Robert Holcombe, librarian.

News Report From The City Hall

Sale or use of illegal whiskey in Montevallo resulted in a record-making collection of about $600 in fines and court costs during March.

According to Police Chief Harry Kendrick, this amount is almost one-fifth that collected during the entire fiscal year of 1951, when $2,700 was collected.

These fines and costs, incurred each Friday afternoon at the new city hall in Montevallo, are put into the city's general fund. This fund is appliend toward costs of street lights, garbage collections, and salaries of town employees, including two policemen, three laborers, two clerks, and two supervisors of the water and gas boards.

Although the majority of cases are settled out of court, an average of five cases are heard each week before Mayor W. M. (Mac) Wyatt.

The police chief estimates that 98 per cent of the persons tried for various misdemeanors in this court usually plead guilty. They are fined from $1 to the maximum of $100 under city ordinance.

Mayor's court has no jurisdiction over felony cases or civil suits, which must be tried in circuit court.

Misdemeanor cases presented to Mayor Wyatt are heard each week in the new town hall, built last April at an approximate cost of $27,000.

The modern concrete structure houses the police, water and gas departments. A county health nurse comes there each Friday afternoon to give free medical service.

Now that the city hall has become a reality, town officials are making plans for constructing a new jail and fire department building.

A joint city and college sewage disposal system is a current town project, to be constructed at an approximate cost of $55,000.

The couple attending a cocktail party apparently found the refreshments unusually attractive and were taking full advantage of the situation. Finally, the wife spoke sternly to her husband: "Don't take another drink, your face is already getting blurred."

Candidate For Congressman

Armistead I. Selden

Young and able Rep. Armistead Selden, of Hale, is challenging Congressman Ed deGraffenried for the Sixth District's congressional seat in this year's primary. During the 1951 Session of the Alabama Legislature he was one of the House's hardest-working and most effective members. He handled himself on the florr and in committees like a veteran of several sessions, although it was his first experience as a legislator.

Selden is the city attorney of Greensboro and one of the staunchest friends the League of Municipalities and the municipal governments have in the Legislature. A War veteran and graduate of the University of Alabama Law School, young Selden announces that he will wage a tireless campaign for a seat in Congress.

The Hale lawmaker was a standout in the Legislature in handling numerous measures designed to strengthen the hand of the State and local law enforcement officers. He worked diligently in bringing about numerous reforms in traffic court and crime prevention procedure. He also championed the cause of the school teacher and the war veterans. — Ed E. Reid in Alabama Local Government Journal.

The man didn't say a word when they ran over his cat with a steam roller, he just stood there with a long puss. — Eufaula Tribune.

Housing Project Work Begins

Work began here this week on a 52-unit housing project, keyed to the interests of the lower income group. Estimated to cost $487,700, the project is scheduled for completion in approximately nine months.

James A. Wyatt, Executive Director of the local housing authority, reports that this is one of the section's first rural non-farm housing projects to go into construction.

Twenty units for white residents will be built on a two and one-half acre plot at the intersection of Main Street and Siluria Road. The thirty-two Negro units will cover a three and one-half acre plot between the Negro High School and Southern railroad.

Mr. Wyatt announces that rent for the new dwellings will be set at twenty percent of the gross income of the inhabitants. Renters are to be accepted on a selective basis, since the project is open only to those making a maximum income of $200 per month, with allowances for depcndents. He adds that occupancy will be further limited by size of the family, barring, for instance, a family of two from a two, three, or our bedroom unit.

The buildings, each containing from two to four apartments, will be built of brick veneer. The units will equipped with utilities including gas stove, water heater, electric refrigerator, and space heater. Floors are to be of cement, covered with asphalt tile. The one-story row type dwellings will also be constructed with metal sash windows and a pitch roof.

Plans for the new project are in the hands of a local housing authority, five Montevallo citizens appointed by the municipal government. Composing the authority are F. H. Frost, chairman, T. E. Watson, W. E. Lovelady, Clarence Chism, and Lee A. Barclay.

The work will be financed with federal funds, which will be repaid by the sale of tax-free bonds to commercial investment companies as the project nears completion. Although the government guarantees payment of the bonds, the project will become the property of the town in forty years.

Mr. Wyatt says enthusiastically that the town will derive many benefits from the new proejct. In addition to eventual complete ownership, it will profit from payment for heat, water, electric, and gas service, all of which will be furnished to the units, he reports.

Shelby County Cattlemen Met in Calera Wednesday

Shelby County's cattlemen receive an annual income of approximately three and one-fourth million dollars from their estimated 15,000 head of cattle, according to A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent.

This growing importance of cattle raising to Alabama's economy was stressed yesterday at the third annual meeting of the Shelby County Cattlemen's Association in Calera.

More than 100 members and guests of the Association heard talks by former senator J. Bruce Henderson of Wilcox County; Dr. E. B. Smith, Dean of the School of Agriculture, A. P. I.; Mac Maples, president of Alabama Cattlemen's Association, Elkmont; and Wibur Kelley, field specialist from the Black Belt Experimental Station, Marion Junction.

These agricultural leaders commended Shelby cattlemen on their expanding industry.

The association selected W. J. Bailey, Montevallo, to serve again as president of their organization. Other officers who will serve this coming year are: J. I. Newton, Siluria, Vice President; R. M. Byrd, Montevallo, Secretary; W. L. Lawler, Montevallo, Treasurer; and Directors J. M. Lowe, Vincent; Fonza Jackson, Harpersville; Albert Lokey, Wilsonville; Earl Morgan, Helena; and W. A. Fulton, Siluria.

Following the selection of officers, Wilbur Kelley, representing the Black Belt area, gave technical advice to the cattlemen concerning fertilization and rotation of pasture crops. Stressing advantages of planned pastures, Mr. Kelley showed charts and slides of experimental pastures, proving that Alabama cattlemen can provide year-round grazing

Mr. Henderson stressed the same, saying: "We're not safe in the livestock business unless we can depend on pastures every month of the year."

Dean Smith predicted still further advancement in the Alabama cattle industry and told of future plans for experimental research in animal husbandry and pasture irrigation.

The Association, organized to promote cattle raising in Shelby County, selected Neal Hughes, a Columbiana 4-H Club member, as recipient of their first choice credit award. This award enables a 4-H member to buy a cow on credit from a member of the association, and to pay for it later by the sale of calves.

This award was only one feature of the meeting, which was highlighted by a dinner of Shelby County steaks, served in Calera's city hall.

The afternoon was devoted to tours of inspection over farms of W. R. Lindbloom, W. J. Bailey, John Rucker, S. M. Tatum, and L. I. Newton.

Studiosis Club

Studiosis will not hold their regular April meeting this month due to a conflict of schedule with Iolanthe and with special Holy week services at some of the churches. The next meeting will be at our regular time, the second Tuesday in May.

4-H Sunday At Pelham

4-H Sunday was observed on March 23rd, at the Pelham Methodist Church with 22 children participating. A basket of white gladiolus, snapdragons and chrysanthemums with suitable greenery, an alter draped in white with green 4-H emblems was a colorful background for the white skirts and blouses of the 4-H'ers with their head and arms bands decorated with 4-H emblems. 4-H'ers acted as ushers and all the music was youth selections. The Lord's Prayer was led by the 4-H'ers. Shelby Dean Shelton led the 4-H Pledge, which preceeded the affirmation of faith. Billy Cumberland and Travis Bentley took the offering and the group sang as a special, "Living for Jesus." Rev. Willard Jones' sermon was fitted to the theme of 4-H "Serving as Loyal Citizens thru 4-H."

Adult Leaders assisting the 4-H'ers in this observation were Mrs. George Bentley, Mrs. Mason Cumberland, and Mrs. Herbert Poole.

"Iolanthe" Supports Driving School

"Iolanthe," colorful Gilbert and Sullivan production which will be presented in Palmer Auditorium on next Tuesday evening, April 8, will serve a dual purpose.

The first, of course, is in entertainment value which you will receive from the presentation. But the cast has elected to charge no admission at the door; instead, you will be asked to make a contribution to support the Montevallo Driving School, long a major need in this town.

The driving school will teach beginners proper methods of car operation and will re-educate experienced drivers in the importance of properly observing existing regulations.

Collection of contributions will be handled by representatives of Montevallo's Business and Professional Women's Club at the door.

The cast of "Iolanthe" which includes townspeople, faculty and students, has ten leading parts.

People are certain to stew about something. Those who aren't fussing about the country being in the red are worrying about the reds being in the country.—The Pipe Line.

High School Sports Day At The College

Clowns, cotton candy, and all the elements of the "big top" will greet Alabama school girls when they arrive on the Alabama College campus, April 4.

Approximately 250-300 high school seniors who are interested in physical education as a career will be guests of the college for a "High School Sports Day." It will be sponsored by members of the staff and majors in the Department of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at Alabama College on April 4, 5, and 6.

The 3-day meeting is based around a carnival theme which will be carried out in team names and decorations.

The high school students will divide themselves into groups for the team sports at a "Get Acquainted Party" Friday night, April 4. Held at the Field House, headquarters for the college Physical Education Department, the party will feature Physical Education majors in volley ball and square dance demonstrations.

The entire day Saturday, April 5, will be taken up by recreational and team activities. Among the sports in which the high school seniors and college students will participate are volleyball, softball, soccer, and swimming in the ultra-modern, newly-finished college pool.

The student guests will be guided on tours of the campus throughout the day and in the late afternoon will hike to the college's 28-acre lake situated about a mile from the main campus. They will inspect the lake area and the student and faculty camphouses and be served a camp supper.

Those attending from Thompson High School are: Barbara Payne, Jo Ann Thompson, Sue Smith, and Jeannette Collins. Their sponsor is Mary Lee Cline.

Some Pictures of Interest From Meeting Of Shelby County Cattlemen At Calera

By Barbara Williamson and Hazel Junkin

SPEAKERS who praised Shelby Cattlemen for their $3,250,000 industry are shown above with the association president, W. J. Bailey, right. Left to right, they are: Wilbur Kelley, representing the Black Belt Station, Marion Junction; Mack Maples, president of Alabama Cattlemen's Association, Elkmont; Dean E. B. Smith, School of Agriculture, Auburn; J. Bruce Henderson, former Alabama senator from Wilcox County.

Easter Sunri[illegible] Service [illegible]ilton

There will be a special Easter Sunrise service at the Wilton Baptist Church on Sunday morning at 6:00 a. m. This is a joint service sponsored by the Methodist and Baptist Churches of Wilton. The service will be on the lawn behind the Baptist Church.

Everyone in this area is cordially invited to attend this service of worship on the anniversary of the resurrection of our Lord. The service will begin promptly at six, when the chimes from the Methodist Church are heard.

Dr. Bertie McGee Died Friday Night

Dr. Bertie McGee, professor of secretarial science at Alabama College at Montevallo for the last 18 years, died Friday night, April 4, at the home of her sister, in Atlanta, after an illness of several weeks.

Prior to coming to Alabama College, Dr. McGee taught at North Georgia College for a period of 16 years. She received her Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina in 1939.

She was a member of the Baptist Church of Dahlonega, Georgia. She held membership in the Southern Economic Association and was a member of the United Business Education department of NEA. She had four brothers and three sisters.

Funeral services were held at Dahlonega, Georgia.

How to avoid taxes: Don't smoke, don't drink alcohol, don't drink soft drinks, don't use gasoline, don't buy a cook stove, don't buy a refrigerator, don't live, and don't die.

We are not offering this as a proven statement, but we've heard that of all the labor-saving devices invented for women none has ever been so popular as a husband with money.

P T A Meeting Thursday Night

The Montevallo P. T. A. will meet April 17, 1952 at 7:45 p. m. in the High School Auditorium. The program is planned especially for parents as the most of our teachers will be out of town. We have secured Dr. J. W. Letson, Superintendent of Bessemer Schools, as the speaker. He will discuss Current Criticisms of Public Education.

Friends, as well as parents are urged to attend this meeting.

A Note From Jimmie Henning

The Times has received a note from Jimmie Henning, of the Henning Chemical Co., Madison, Wisconsin. He says:

"Have been working here three years doing industrial research. Getting along fine. Married a local Madison girl. Hope to get back to Montevallo some time for a visit."

Jimmie will be remembered as the son of J. Harold Henning who for several years was a member of the faculty of Alabama College.

Boy Drowns In Lime Quarry

A 12-year-old boy, fishing with friends, drowned Monday afternoon in Keystone Lime Quarry near Saginaw.

Travis Bentley "just slipped into the water," his tearful companions told Highway Patrolmen.

His body was recovered about 90 minutes later in 45 feet of water.

K. L. Hammond of the Keystone Lime Works said the Bentley boy, son of quarry superintendent George Bentley, was fishing from the edge of the quarry with "two or three other boys" when the accident occurred.

None of the young fishermen could swim, he said he was told.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bentley, two brothers and one sister.

State Convention Of Lions Clubs Held At Biloxi

Biloxi, Miss., April 7 — Harold P. Nutter, Camden, N. J., International Lions president, today told Alabama Lions of the fight against communism being waged by Lions Clubs in 23 nations.

Nutter described a recent trip abroad to observe Lions Clubs in operation over the world.

"In all these countries our clubs are fighting communism," he said.

And he told of his audience with Pope Pius in Rome on St. Patrick's Day, at which the pope gave his blessing to Lions International.

He said there are now Lions Clubs in 36 nations. Clubs were recently organized in Belgium, Japan, Netherlands, Iceland, and Germany. Roderick Beddow, Birmingham, past International Lions president, introduced Nutter.

R. F. Cruit, Atmore, 73-years old, was introduced as the oldest Lion attending the convention.

Election of district governors closed the three-day convention Tuesday. Douglas C. Mastinson of Huntsville was elected district 34-A governor; Lewis M. Askew, Alexander City district 3-B governor; and C. Nelson Philips, Selma, Southern district 3-C governor.

The Montevallo Lions Club, newest in the district, was represented at the convention by W. P. Wyatt, first vice-president of the Club.

MRS. ELLA SHAW DIED

Mrs. Ella Shaw, age 84, died at her home in Aldrich Wednesday, April 9, at 9:40 a.m. She had been sick for a long time.

Funeral services were held at the home at 2:00 p.m. Thursday, with Dr. Henry C. Niles officiating.

Burial was in Montevallo Cemetery at 3:00 o'clock. Deacons of Montevallo Presbyterian Church were pallbearers.

Mrs. Shaw is survived by three sons, P. J., Luther E., and Emmett Shaw, of Aldrich; one daughter, Mrs. R. C. Henderson, of Aldrich.

G. C. Moore Takes Insurance Job

PAN-AM SERVICE STATION

To The Voters Of Shelby County:

In my race for Congress from the Sixth District, I earnestly solicit your vote and your assistance.

My campaign is based on one fundamental — namely, the need for a return to basic honesty in our Washington government and, with it, such house-cleaning activities as might prove necessary to achieve this goal.

I do not believe that, by necessity, we must have a government owned and operated by the sharp boys. These sharpsters — the double-dealers, the professional slickers, and the five-percenters, somehow have gained the idea that they are endowed with certain inalienable rights to use the federal government for personal gain. They have come to believe that these "rights" include a franchise for the privilege of gouging you, the ordinary taxpayer. I believe that we can get rid of these people — lock, stock, and barrel — and I so pledge my efforts.

During the remaining weeks of campaign, I will see as many of you as possible. In the meantime, I will deeply appreciate your personal help in this campaign for a change in the fiscal and moral atmosphere of Washington. It is a campaign for clean government in which all of us have a real stake. I invite you to inspect my record, both public and personal.

I thank you—

ARMISTEAD I. SELDEN, Jr.
Candidate for Congress, Sixth District

Miss Jeffie Cowart and Mr. McLemore Married in Ceremony at Calera Church

Miss Jeffie Cowart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Daniel Cowart, of Calera, and Carl Ray McLemore, son of Mr. Emmett McLemore, and the late Mrs. McLemore, Moulton, Ala., were married at 6 p. m. Sunday, April 6th, at the Calera Baptist Church, with Rev Roswell Owens, Moulton, Ala. officiating.

Arrangement of white calla lilies, gladioli, palms and smilax decorated the church, which was lighted by tapers in branched candlelabra.

Mrs. Francis P. Givhan, Montevallo organist, and Mrs. Benny Peacock, soloist, presented the prenuptial music.

Songs selected by the bride were "I Love Thee," "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," and "Because."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore white duchess satin trimmed in chantilly lace extending to the end of the train. The bodice was of the chantilly lace with long pointed lace sleeves and sweetheart neck, trimmed in pearls, finger tip veil with orange blossoms and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and valley lilies with streamers of ribbon. The bouquet was centered with two white orchids. She carried a chantilly lace handkerchief which was given to her by her grandmother.

Mrs. Robert W. Lockridge, only sister of the bride was matron of honor. She wore a pale green satin and net dress. with head dress styled the same as the bride's.

Bridesmaids and matrons were Miss Ruth Armstrong, Birmingham, and Calera; Miss Jeffie Mothershed, of Birmingham; Mrs. Charles E. Davis, of Montgomery; and Mrs. W. G. Littrell, of Moulton. Their dresses were shrimp color, styled same as the matron of honor, and head dress styled same as the matron of honor.

Matrons of honor, bridesmaids and matrons bouquets were talisman roses, tied with emerald green ribbons.

Candle lighters were Miss Betty Bowdon and Miss LeClare Cowart, both of Calera. Their dresses were yellow, styled same as the other attendants. Their head dresses were yellow carnations and carnation wrist corsages of same color.

Flower girls were little Diane Murphree, Decatur, cousin of the groom. She wore a pink lace and organdy dress with hoop skirt, pink sash, pink split carnation bandeau. Little Joanne Lockridge, Huntsville, only niece of the bride, wore a pink nylon over taffeta and hoop skirt, with pink sash. Her head dress was the same as the other flower girl.

The bride's mother wore grey crepe, with tunic of chantilly lace, wearing a purple orchid.

The best man was Norman Spillers, of Moulton, Ala.

Ushers were Stephen D. Cowart, only brother of the bride; W. G. Littrell, Moulton; Everett Mullican, of Moulton, and Joe B. Price, of Huntsville.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. A four tiered white cake with pink decorations of calla lilies and wedding bells with topping of miniature bride and groom centered the dining room table, which was covered with a crochet cloth over white satin, which cloth was crocheted by the bride's grandmother. White flowers, smilax and other greenery decorated the house.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. R. L. Holcombe and Mrs. Pearl Onderdonk, and registered in the bride's book, kept by Mrs. M. W. Hammond, of Keystone.

Punch was served on the lawn by Mrs. A. E. Norwood and Mrs. Marion Jones.

Mrs. Z. S. Cowart, Sr. cut the wedding cake, assisted by Mrs. Jasper Holcombe, Jr. Serving in the dining room were Mrs. Z. S. Cowart, Jr, Miss Ethel Cowart, Mrs. D. G. Wallace, Mrs. Roy Downs, Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Jr., Mrs. Truman Mothershed, Mrs. J. E. Armstrong and Mrs. Everett Mullican.

Miss Carolyn Curtis, Miss Carolyn Ivy Johnson, and Mrs. J. R. Johnson kept the gift rooms.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Gulf Shores and New Orleans, the bride wore a beige suit and brown accessories, and white orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray McLemore will be at home in Birmingham, where both the bride and groom are employed as pharmacists.

Delmar S. Miller In The Navy

The "know how" of succesful wartime merchant shipping, was recently learned by Delmar S. Miller, machinist's mate, first class, USN, son of Mrs. Nannie Mae Miller of Montevallo, Ala.

Crewmembers of the destroyer tender USS Yosemite, flagship for the Commander Destroyer Force, U. S. Atlantic Fleet, recently completed major convoy exercises in the Atlantic between Long Island and Panama.

The maneuvers, known as "Convoy Exercise 3," were realistic in that Navy transports, tankers and cargo ships sailed from New York, Norfolk, and other East Coast ports in the same manner as did Allied convoys of World War II.

Opposing them, and attempting to close sea lanes, were "enemy" forces of submarines, surface raiders and land-based patrol bombers.

Total membership in the county 4-H program is about 1900 boys and girls.

Movie On Program At Lions Club

Tuesday night the Montevallo Lions Club was entertained by a 28 minute movie, "Power of the South" presented by A. N. Holland of the Alabama Power Co.

This movie filmed in technicolor was produced by The Southern Company, composed of Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Gulf Power Companies. It gave a very impressing and inviting picture of what the South has to offer industries looking for a location served by steel, lumber, shipping, mining, agriculture and numerous other resources. Resort areas along the Mississippi Gulf Coast and in Florida, Educational Facilities and Military Installations were outlined.

Summing up, the great overall progress of the South was directly connected to Private Interprise and the service rendered by the Southern Company.

Visitors for this very interesting program were G. I. Murphree of Nashville, guest of Owen Bridges; M. S. McGehee, District Manager of Alabama Power Co. and A. N. Holland, Alabama Power Co. representative, who is also a member of the Homewood Lions Club.

Instruction Given To Employees

M. S. McGehee, district manager of Alabama Power Company at Montevallo, reported today that all local employees are being given instruction in the revised prone pressure method of resuscitation recently adopted by the Red Cross for use when a victim has lost the power to breathe as a result of suffocation, shock, drowning or other accident.

According to the Red Cross, the new method has been adopted because it makes possible a larger intake of air by the victim and can be administered by a child or frail person.

First instruction in the new method was given to the Montevallo District employees at their safety meeting April 14, 1952, at Montevallo.

The Census Bureau reports that in 1820, the first year in which Alabama was enumerated as a state, its population was 127,901. By 1950, 130 years later, Alabama's population had increased to 3,061, 743.

Dr. John T. Caldwell Going To Arkansas

DR. JOHN T. CALDWELL

Governor Gordon Persons announced Wednesday the resignation of Dr. John T. Caldwell from the presidency of Alabama College. The Board of Trustees is meeting Thursday at the Governor's office to choose a successor.

News dispatchers say the Trustees will most likely elect Dr. Edward Lund, Dean of Florence State Teachers College to succeed Dr. Caldwell.

Caldwell will go to the presidency of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville.

Firemen Going On Fishing Trip

The Montevallo volunteer fire fighters are planning their annual fishing trip to the Gulf Coast. They hope to go in the next few weeks.

This annual outing is the only compensation the firemen get for their services.

The Town Council makes a liberal donation for their expenses.

If any individual feels like making a contribution, it would be appreciated. Give it to fire chief Mitchell Young.

President Barkley Receives Lions Charter

Shelby Baptist Training Union

From 16 churches scattered over the Shelby Baptist Association came 272 training union members and visitors to witness the eliminations in the Junior Memory Drills, the Intermediate Sword Drills and the Y. P. Better Speaker's Tournament, and to hear one of the greatest evangelistic messages ever heard delivered by Rev. Hall, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Winfield, Alabama.

Winning the Attendance Banner was Florence Church who had more than 100 per cent of their B. T. U. enrollment present. Pelham was second with 66 per cent of their enrollment present.

The mass meet was held last Monday night, April 14th, with Liberty Church near Chelsea.

Winners in the association drills were: Juniors, Patricia Galloway, Montevallo, Mrs. W. G. Hicks, Director; Intermediates, James Carden, Calera, Mrs. W. W. Godfrey, Director; and, Young People, Ralph Jones, Columbiana, G. C. Moore, Jr., Director. Calera Church also entered the Junior drill, the entrant being Norma Jean Henson. These drills were conducted by G. C. Moore, Jr., who is associate director in the Shelby Association.

The above named three winners will represent this county at the district training union convention at Anniston, Ala., Tuesday, April 22, to vie against other county winners for district honors.

Presiding over the meeting was Rev. George Holmes, pastor of the Liberty Church and Association B. T. U. Director this year.

"Spring Fever" At Thompson High

"Spring Fever" is not an indisposition, it's a riot, a riot of fun and laughter with members of the Senior Class of Thompson High School germinating the mirth at the Thompson High School Auditorium, April 18, 1952. The curtain rises on this clever three-act comedy promptly at 7:30. The play is produced by special permission of The Northwestern Press of Minneapolis, Minnesota. Billy Hoskins as the young inventive genius in love with the town beauty, played by Doris Brogden will be lauded for a fine performance as will Bobby Durrett as the high school coach and Frankie Hale as the maiden aunt. Sue Smith and Nook Harris as the young married couple will furnish plenty of laughs as will Carol Nunnally as the girl who discovers a remedy for baldness but puts in the wrong ingredients.

"Spring Fever," however, has all the correct ingredients for an evening of clean, wholesome enjoyment and will reward its audience well with memories of youths and love and the happy sprnigtime of youth.

Others in the cast, besides those mentioned are Ellen Arnett, Jo Ann Thompson and Johnny Owens. They extend an invitation to all their friends to attend this performance at the High School Auditorium, Friday night. Remember the time, 7:30; the place, Thompson High School. Admission is 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for children.

Some Interesting History of Television Development By Bell Telephone Company

Twenty-five years ago, tommorrow, a man's voice and image were transmitted simultaneously for the first time over a long distance.

On April 7, 1927, Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce in Washington, was seen and heard in New York by Walter S. Gifford, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and an audience of some 50 scientists and journalists. This first public demonstration of inter-city television transmission was made over telephone wire facilities of the Long Lines Department of the American Telephone and Telegraph. A second phase of the demonstration was the televising of a vaudeville program, originating in the Bell Telephone Laboratories in Whippany, N. J., over radio facilities to the audience in New York.

This early forerunner of network television as we know it today was made possible by the development and research of the Bell Telephone Laboratories in its endeavor to produce for vision a close parallel to what had been done for voice transmission, long distance telephony.

The project, under the guidance of Dr. Herbert E. Ives, Director of electro-optical research for the Bell Laboratories, continued to progress. In 1928, the development of experimental large dimension aparatus of great light gathering power permitted out door scenes to be televised and in 1929, experimental television in color, by a three-color, three-channel method was demonstrated.

In 1929, the Bell Telephone Laboratories filed the original patent application for a new type cable called "coaxial." Coaxials are copper tubes about the size of a fountain pen. Down the center of each pipe runs a copper wire, held in place by insulating discs spaced about an inch apart. The pipes are called "coaxial" because both the tube and the wire have the same axis. With coaxial cable, a wide band of frequencies, satisfactory for television transmission, could be sent over long distances.

By 1934, laboratory work had progressed to the point where a field test was in order. The first coaxial cable was laid between New York and Philadelphia in October 1936. Extensive tests of television transmission were made in this section of cable. In 1937, motion pictures were televised and sent over the route and in 1940, the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia was televised for local television broadcast in New York.

During World War 2, Bell System television development was halted and the coaxial cable was used only for general telephone communication service. As soon as the war was over, however, television activities were resumed. Intercity television regained its stride in 1946, when regular network television transmission was inaugurated between Washington and New York. Baltimore and Philadelphia were added to the network the following year.

Radio-relay was the next major step in this advancement. In November 1947, radio-relay was used to extend the Washington-New York network to Boston. Coaxial cable was used to link Richmond to the network several months later.

In 1948, the Bell System opened a midwestern network to serve seven major cities: Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Milwaukee, Chicago, and St. Louis. The midwestern and eastern networks were joined by a coaxial cable link between Philadelphia and Cleveland via Pittsburg on January 11, 1949.

To meet the growing demands for telephone and television service, the Long Lines Department formulated plans early in 1948 to span the nation with a microwave radio-relay system. The first link was opened between New York and Chicago on September 1, 1950. The system was completed to San Francisco on August 17, 1951, and was used to carry the first coast-to-coast television broadcast on September 4, of that year, showing the opening of the Japanese Peace Treaty Conference.

Since January 1, 1947, the number of channel miles of the Bell System's television facilities has grown from 476 to more than 24,000 miles serving 54 cities. Before the end of this year, the Long Lines Department plans to connect eight additional cities, making network service available to all but four of the nation's 108 television stations.

Navy Department Wants Typists

Typists and stenographers in Alabama are still being offered an opportunity to qualify for employment with the Navy Department in Washington. Miss Nell Curtis and Miss Althea Nichols will be at the Navy Recruiting Station in the Post Office Building in Birmingham through April to test and interview all applicants who are interested and can qualify.

Typists and beginning stenographers are being cosidered at civil service grade 3 at $2950 a year to start; and stenographers with experience who can meet the Navy's standards may qualify at grade 4, $3175. Positions in Navy's large bureaus are concerned with Navy research, radar, aeronautics, ordnance, naval intelligence, medicine and surgery, naval operations and naval personnel.

Ham Wilson Is Named Director

E. H. "Ham" Wilson was named Director, Agricultural Division, Alabama State Chamber of Commerce April 1, by James L. Rankin, president.

Rankin said the State Chamber was fortunate to obtain Wilson as he is one of Alabama's outstanding agricultural leaders. "His past experience," Rankin continued, "will aid him materially in his work with the State Chamber."

Wilson was graduated from the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, in 1943, with a degree in agricultural science. He served three years in the Field Artillery during World War II, part of which was spent in India.

Following the war, Wilson served as assistant county agent in Chilton County, and later was connected with the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation in Montgomery. In 1948 he joined the American Cyanamid Co., as Southeastern Agriculturalist and has been with the company until Rankin's announcement.

Wilson is married and has a young son. The family lives in Montgomery

As Director of the State Chamber's Agricultural Division, Wilson will also serve as secretary of the Alabama Cattlemen's Association.

WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN, Mr. deGraffenried?

. . . AND WHAT HAVE YOU BEEN DOING?

When you ran for Congress in 1948, you denounced your predecessor for his absence from the House of Representatives.

You ran an advertisement pointing out that, during his 11 years in office, he had failed to vote on 68 bills dealing with important legislation.

You promised that you would "stay on the job" and "vote for the welfare of the people of the Sixth District."

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

The truth it that, while your predecessor failed to vote on 68 bills in 11 years, YOU HAVE FAILED TO VOTE ON 63 BILLS IN ONLY THREE YEARS!

Your record for absenteeism in the House during the three full years you have been in office is the worst, with only one exception, in the entire Alabama delegation.

For all three of those full years which you have served—1949, 1950 and 1951—your attendance record has been below the national average for the House—and this in face of the fact that the more inexperienced congressmen such as you, with the lighter committee assignments, are expected to have a record well above the average.

Inasmuch as you ran on a platform pledging attention to business, the people of the Sixth District have a right to ask you these questions:

"Where have you been, Mr. deGraffenried?"

"And what have you been doing with this time, which belongs not to you, but to the people of the Sixth District?"

"How can you vote for the welfare of the people, when you don't vote at all on so much important legislation?"

What About ARMISTEAD SELDEN'S RECORD For Being On The Job And Attending To Business?

This is what Robert T. Goodwyn, Jr., Clerk of the Alabama House of Representatives, has to say:

"I hereby certify that Representative Selden was present on each of the thirty-six days that the Legislature met during the regular 1951 session and that on EACH OF THE THIRTY-SIX DAYS REPRESENTATIVE SELDEN ANSWERED TO THE CALL OF THE ROLL."

Vote for a man who knows how to stay on the job. Vote for a man who means business, and who thinks that you mean the same thing when you say you want someone really to represent you in Washington.

VOTE for ARMISTEAD I. SELDEN, Jr. FOR CONGRESS

Paid Political Advertising by Armistead I. Selden, Jr., Greensboro, Alabama.

Nearly A Million Horsepower Increase In 6 Years!

This is LOTS of ELECTRIC POWER

Here are additions to our generating plants for six years to meet the needs of new and expanding industry in our service area, as well as in the service areas of other electric utilities who get their power supply from us—

190,000 MORE Horsepower In 1949

(160,000 horsepower Gadsden Steam Plant; 30,000 horsepower generating unit installed at Mitchell Dam)

Began Construction in 1950 for

188,000 MORE Horsepower In 1951

(134,000 horsepower addition at Gorgas Steam Plant; 54,000 horsepower addition at Chickasaw Steam Plant)

Began Construction in 1951 for

207,000 MORE Horsepower In 1952

(Still another 134,000 horsepower addition at Gorgas Steam Plant; 73,000 horsepower at Martin Dam)

166,700 MORE Horsepower In 1953

166,700 MORE Horsepower In 1954

(Barry Steam Plant, near Mobile, planned for an ultimate capacity of 1 1/3 MILLION horsepower.)

Additions during these six years alone total 918,400 horsepower! All of this additional generating capacity feeds electricity into an area-wide transmission system, so that all sections benefit from it. As generating capacity is increased, transmission and other facilities are built or enlarged to make delivery possible to any section requiring more power.

FRANK HEAD

The Census Bureau reports that other income of the family of 76,-104 of Alabama's 211,512 farmers was larger in 1949 than the value of farm products sold off their farms during that year.

To The People of the 6th Congressional District:

I have just returned to the District for the Easter recess of the 82nd Congress and it is certainly a pleasure to be back in the District once again. I hope to see as many of you as I possibly can while I am in the District and I wish to say that it has been a pleasure to serve you in Congress. I believe my record is one of which you can be justly proud.

You were kind enough to re-elect me to Congress in 1950 and now I come back to report to you on the Record and ask you to re-elect me to serve you again in the 83rd Congress.

My Record In The 82nd Congress, As Tabulated As Of April 1st, Shows the Following:

On 109 Roll Call Votes (1st Session, 1951) 88%

On 20 Roll Call Votes (2nd Session) 100%

(to April 1, 1952)

In addition to the above "On the Record" votes I have attended over 140 hearings of the Committee on Armed Services of the House during the 82nd Congress, including Full Committee hearings and hearings of the following Subcommittees of which I am a Member, and which hearings have often been conducted while the House was also in Session:

Subcommittee Number One: (General Defense Legislation and Uniform Code of Military Justice which has passed Congress and is now the law.)

Special Subcommittee on Stockpiling of Strategic Materials for Defense.

Special Military Clothing Subcommittee.

Special Subcommittee on Procurement: (Hebert Subcommittee now conducting investigations of defense procurement contracts and now preparing legislation establishing a central procurement agency and single catalogue system of procurement items by all branches of the armed services, which will result in millions of dollars saved to the taxpayers of America.)

Special Subcommittee for Military and Civilian Personnel.

Special Subcommittee on Aircraft Procurement.

Special Subcommittee on Reserve Components: (This Subcommittee investigated the Reserve program of the Nation and formulated a Bill to strenghten and improve the Reserve program which recently passed the House of Representatives without a single dissenting vote.)

I have recently been appointed one of four House Members by the Speaker of the House to serve on the Board of Visitors to West Point. (Duty of Board is to inquire into state of morale and discipline, curriculum, instruction, physical equipment and academic methods relating to the Academy.)

T V A Nitrate Is Available

Recently the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Extension Service and Companies handling TVA Ammonium nitrate in Alabama reached an agreement for the use of TVA Ammonium nitrate on hybrid corn demonstrations. As you know we are not getting the yield per acre that we should. If demonstrations on use of Ammonium Nitrate are carried out in all communities we are sure they will help to illustrate the necessity of nitrogen in making high yields.

Shelby County has been alloted 70 tons of TVA Ammonium Nitrate for these demonstrations. The cost of this fertilizer will be $70.00 to $75.00 per ton. Ammonium Nitrate has 32 per cent available nitrogen which makes it one of the cheaper sources of nitrogen.

These demonstrations may vary in size from 1 acre to 20 acres per farm. Since the hybrid varieties have been producing more corn per acre, those farms using this fertilizer will be asked to use a hybrid variety. Farmers and 4-H members can use this fertilizer on demonstrations.

Fertilizer recommendations are: 400 to 500 pounds of 4-10-7 at planting, 200 pounds of Ammonium Nitrate at 30 to 35 days after planting.

Farmers interested in this pro g-ram should get in touch with County Agent, A. A. Lauderdale.

Mrs. Myrtle Cook

C. C. "Jack" Owen Candidate For APSC President

C. C. (JACK) OWEN

Montgomery, April 10, — The Marine dive-bomber pilot who returned from the war against the Japs and zoomed to a spectacular Alabama Public Service Commission election victory with the slogan "Jack's Back—Back Jack," is campaigning again.

He is C. C. (Jack) Owen, who a little more than a year ago succeeded Governor Gordon Persons as president of the Public Service Commission.

With the experience and knowledge he has gained both as associate commissioner and commission president, Owen is a candidate in the May 6 Democratic primary to succeed himself for a full four-year term.

The 36-year old Owen is a native of Bibb County and was graduated in 1939 from the Alabama Polytechnic Institute school of agriculture. He was engaged several years in county agent work for the State Extension Service in Calhoun and Greene Counties before World War II began.

Owen fought overseas as a Marine Air Force dive bomber pilot and earned the Distinguished Flying Cross and three Air Medals while fighting the Japs in the Pacific.

After his discharge from the service, Owen was engaged in the lumber business until he began service on the commission in 1947. He still holds a pilot's commission in the Marine Corps Air Reserve.

The son of Pat Owen, of Eoline, Jack attended public schools and was graduated from Bibb County High School before entering Auburn. He is married to the former Miss Mary Frances Landers, of Anniston. They have three children, two daughters and a 19-month old son. He and his family live in Montgomery.

Jesse Lee Dupree

Funeral services were held at Shelby Baptist Church Friday afternoon for Jesse Lee Dupre, 56, who died Thursday morning. The Rev. Walter Walton officiated. Burial was in Shelby Cemetery, Vice directing.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Ida Dupre; one son, Jesse J. Dupre of Calera; four daughters, Miss Lola Grace Dupre of Columbiana, Miss Lois Virginia Dupre and Mrs. Lillie Bell Dean of Sylacauga and Miss Nell Dupre of Birmingham; one brother, Boyd Dupre; five sisters, Mrs. Grace Stagner, Mrs. Nettie Brasher, Mrs. Addis Gilbert, Mrs. Stella Mims and Miss Tempie Dupre.

The Census Bureau reports that Alabama's 67 counties range in size from Coosa with a population of 11,776 to Jefferson which has 558,928 inhabitants.

Home Nursing Class Conducted

One of the most recent activities of the Columbiana Vignette Club was to sponsor a Red Cross Home Nursing Class.

The Club accepted the responsibility for obtaining the equipment needed for the practice required and of planning the time and place of these classes.

Miss Sara Nell Lightsey, who is a qualified Red Cross Home Nursing instructor, generously gave her time to teach these classes.

Members of the club who have received certificates showing that they completed the Red Cross Home Nursing Course are: Mesdames Alvin Lefkovits, Norman Lefkovits, Bruce Alverson, Gayle R. White, Frances Stinson, Lorene Falkner, Margaret McGhee, Hazel K. McCord, and Wylodine W. Hill.

In giving their reasons for taking this course these women expressed first a desire to know more about caring for members of their families at home, and second a desire to be prepared to offer aid in case of community disaster.

This makes a total of 53 who have received Red Cross Home Nursing Certificates in Shelby County within the past six months. It is hoped that other classes will be taught in the near future.

The Census Bureau reports that 67,945 Alabama farm homes have electric washing machines and 9,893 have home freezers.

Club Members To Visit Cullman

National Guard Field Training

The 657th Transportation Truck Company, a National Guard Unit stationed at Calera, Alabama started field training last week end. Under command of Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson, Company Commander, the unit camped over the week end near Spring Creek Church in Shelby County. The outdoor training consisted chiefly of individual and unit training. The men pitched tents and slept under the same conditions that would be found in Regular Army training.

The men were given training on the proper way to set up a bivouac on arrival at the camp area. Field sanitation, First Aid, and many other military subjects were scheduled for the first day. Training films covering military subjects were shown Saturday night. Sunday morning the program started with Reville at 5:45 a. m. followed by calesthenics and a good breakfast. After breakfast the training continued with Range Firing, Carbine training, Military Courtesy, and Customs of the Service.

All meals were prepared at the area with field ranges under the direction of Cpl. Walter Martin, Jr. and Cpl. Edward Bogle. The noon meal Sunday was outstanding according to the comments of the men. Fried chicken and all the trimmings were served at that meal. "All the meals were above the average for field training," stated Lt. Charles E. Knowles.

Sfc. Harvey T. Bagwell, Platoon Sergeant of the second platoon, states that more than half of his platoon would be able to qualify as sharpshooters or experts on the firing range according to the scores they fired this week end. The men did not fire for record this week end. All the men fired good scores and received excellent training under the direction of Warrant Officer Hobson G. Searcy as Range Officer.

Sgt. James B. Ellison from HQ and HQ Company, 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group, Selma, Alabama attended the training and functioned as Platoon Sergeant of the first platoon. Sgt. Ellison said, "I have never seen bivouac carried out with the organization this one had. This is the best I have ever seen."

"We have one of the best companies I have ever seen in the Alabama National Guard," commented First Sergeant James C. Martin. "We will be the best unit in the Guard by the time we go to camp for our fifteen day training period in August," Sgt. Martin states.

All the men enjoyed the week end and they are looking forward to the second week end of bivouac that will be held May 17th and 18th.

The 657th Transportation Truck Company is located in the school building in Calera, Alabama.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES
SUITE 313, HOUSE OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

March 24, 1952

Honorable Edward De Graffenried
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. De Graffenried:

In recent days I have had an opportunity to reflect upon the Committee's activities during the 82nd Congress and I want you to know that I sincerely appreciate your contribution to the Committee's accomplishments.

The seemingly endless flow of legislative and investigative matters to the Committee makes it imperative that the members be able to promptly separate the chaff from the grain, so to speak, if any substantial results are to be obtained. Your extensive legal background and your ability to promptly analyze the problems confronting us have enabled you to render outstanding service.

No person's talents, however outstanding, can have any lasting value unless they are wisely and consistently applied. On both counts you have fully met my hopes and expectations. As a matter of fact, during the 15 months of this Congress you have given your best efforts in more than 140 Committee hearings, during which we have considered more than 60 defense bills, and conducted more than 25 separate investigations which have and will continue to produce very substantial savings for the taxpayers. That record speaks for itself.

I take this opportunity to express to you my appreciation for your continuing loyalty and industry in behalf of national defense.

Sincerely,

Carl Vinson
Chairman,
Committee on Armed Services
of the House.

Do You Plan To Retire?

Wage earners and self-employed persons planning to retire this year under the new Social Security Act should promptly get in touch with the local Social Security Administration field office, Martin C. Folmar, manager, announced today. Because of the nature of certain changes in the law, it is important that these persons know just how they may be affected by them before actually retiring.

"Those who retire before July 1, 1952, will not qualify for the maximum benefit, except in rare cases," he declared. "And only in a few instances can the $80 monthly benefit be paid before January 1953. This is the main reason why those planning retirement this year should ask where they stand."

The maximum retirement payment under the new formula is $80 a month and the minimum is $20 monthly, depending on the average monthly earnings.

"Beginning April, 1952, two new factors enter the old-age and survivors insurance picture," Mr. Folmar said. "One, the new formula for figuring benefits may be used for the first time. And secondly, those aged persons whose work came under social security for the first time beginning January 1951, may, by April, have enough credits to qualify them for benefits."

The manager pointed out that beginning January 1951 regularly employed domestic and farm workers, many self-employed persons, and others were brought under the provisions of the Federal Insurance system for the first time in its history. The Birmingham office is open from 8:30 to 4:30 Mondays through Fridays. In addition, a representative will be at the U. S. Employment office in Calera the first and third Thursdays in each month at 9:30 a. m.

Booklets explaining the new law are available upon request.

Sgt. Thomas Peel In Germany

Berlin, Germany — Sgt. Thomas Peel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Peel, Rte. 1, Maylene, has been graduated from the six-weeks noncommissioned officers school operated by the Berlin Military Post.

Sergeant Peel received specialized instruction in command and leadership, tactics, weapons, administration and standardized instruction techniques. The course was designed to help the noncommissioned officers maintain the high standard of leadership required by the Army.

In Berlin since September 1950, Sergeant Peel is assigned to the 7852 Quartermaster Service Company on Berlin Military Post. Among his decorations are the Good Conduct Medal, the Asiatic-Pacific Theater of Operations Ribbon, the Victory Medal and the Occupation Medal.

Baptist W M U

Calera Baptist W. M. U. met in the home of Mrs. J. H. Johnson Monday afternoon for the Royal Service Program.

Mrs. Mary Childress, program chairman for the afternoon, gave the study on "Hawaiians are Americans too."

Mrs. Marion Jones assisted by Mrs. Bob Johnson gave the devotional, "And He Hath Put A New Song in My Mouth."

Topics on the Hawaiians and the Missionary work being done, was given throughout the program.

During the social hour a salad plate was served the eighteen ladies present. Mrs. Lester J. Stanberry served as co-hostess.

"Forsake not an old friend..."

THE OLD PROVERB which counsels that one not forsake old friends while seeking new ones comes to mind during Alabama Industry Week.

NEW INDUSTRIES in Alabama are important. It was our pleasure during 1951 to assist directly or indirectly in the establishment of forty-one new industries in thirty-one communities directly served by us.

BUT OLD INDUSTRIES which have been in a community a long time are important too — many of them in many Alabama communities expanded their operations during 1951 — creating new opportunities for employment just as in the case of new industries. We were happy to increase our facilities to make available to them the additional power they needed.

BOTH OLD AND NEW FRIENDS are needed to balance the life of an individual. Both old and new industries are needed to balance the economic life of a community. The old contribute to stability — the new contribute to present growth and future stability.

WELCOME THE NEW INDUSTRY, but "Forsake not an old friend . . ." Steadfastness to old friends is impressive to the prospect who may become a community's newest industry.

Efficiency In The Kitchen

The Foods III girls of the Montevallo High School are finding that the old saying, "Good workmen have good tools," is true. For in their study of family meal preparation they have learned several ways in which work in the kitchen may be made more efficient, pleasant and satisfying.

The first way they found, was through thoughtfully organized plans. In making adequate plans, the head not only saves the heels, but time and money as well.

Not only do you need to have thoughtfully organized plans, but also convenient arrangement of work centers and small equipment as well as large kitchen equipment. In a study of the different types of unit kitchens, including the parallel type, wall type, U type and L type, they found the wall tye to be least efficient because of the extra steps that have to be taken from one end to the other. They found in all types that it is a more convenient arrangement to have the sink between the refrigerator and stove because one works from the refrigerator to the sink and from the stove to the sink.

In addition to having thoughtfully organized plans and convenient kitchen arrangement, they also found it important to have a work time schedule. This schedule serves as a guide for them when actually preparing foods and would include the time for serving the foods, the jobs to be done and who will do each job.

So with these good tools, the Foods III girls are learning to be good workmen and make their work in the kitchen more efficient, pleasant and satisfying.

Farming Has Some Hazards

Montgomery, Ala., — The business of being a farmer in Alabama has its peculiar hazards, like those of being a manufacturer or miner.

This was emphasized today by the State Department of Health. The Department revealed that 39 deaths were reported from this state last year as having been due to accidents occurring in the course of the victim's work in agriculture. That was an average of about one death of this kind every nine days. The 1950 total was somewhat lower, only 37.

The State Health Department announcement pointed out that it was based upon provisional reports prepared by the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics. These may differ slightly from the final reports not yet available.

Boy Scouts Camp

Sgt. Jeffers, Scout Master of Troop 67, Calera, Ala., reports that the week end camping with the Scouts was a grand outing. Sixteen of the nineteen members made the trip. Each Scout cooked his own meal and built his camp. The boys took a two-mile compass course.

Everyone enjoyed the trip.

The next regular meeting is set for Friday at 7:30 p. m., April 25.

All members are urged to be present, and make plans for a camp in June.

Have A Right To Know The FACTS Concerning The Recent Telephone Rate Increase

C.C. (Jack) Owen

PRESIDENT OF THE ALABAMA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION, CITES THE FACTS:

Oct., 1947: The Telephone Company asked for a rate increase.

March, 1948: Your Alabama Public Service Commission DENIED this increase after a public hearing. The Telephone Company appealed to the Circuit Court of Montgomery County.

Jan., 1949: The Circuit Court of Montgomery County granted the Telephone Company EVERYTHING IT ASKED FOR. In an effort to PROTECT THE PUBLIC from rate increases, your Alabama Public Service Commission APPEALED this decision to the Alabama Supreme Court.

Nov., 1949: The Alabama Supreme Court upheld the Montgomery County Circuit Court and DIRECTED your Alabama Public Service Commission to grant the Telephone Company A MINIMUM RATE OF RETURN OF 6 and 2/3rds PER CENT ON THE VALUE OF THE COMPANY'S ALABAMA PROPERTY.

Oct., 1951: The Telephone Company requested a rate increase with a return of 7 and ¼ per cent.

Jan., 1952: After a public hearing, your Alabama Public Service Commission WAS FORCED to grant the Telephone Company a 6 & 2/3rds per cent return AS DIRECTED BY THE ALABAMA SUPREME COURT. THERE WAS NOTHING ELSE TO DO!

NOW—You may want to ask my opponent HOW HE WILL REDUCE telephones rates when the SUPREME COURT has already issued its FINAL DECISION in this matter.

The Easy Way Is The Right Way

"You can make a $29.00 dress for $9.00" was the startling statement made by Extension Clothing Specialist Levice Ellis, April 8th, to the Clothing Leaders from 21 Shelby County Home Demonstration Clubs.

"Sewing is not an art, nor is it difficult to master. The secret to successful sewing is this, the easy way to sew is the right way. A well made garment is the result of careful work and wise planning, selection, cutting, construction, pressint, and fitting."

"Cottons are beautiful! Ready-made cottons are expensive," she continued, "cotton denim, taffetas brocades, tucked, piques, satins, cotton de Chine, embroidered cottons, tissue chambrays are only a few of the high fashion cottons this season."

36 leaders from 21 Clubs who attended this training meeting in preparation for giving the demonstration on "Secrets to Smart Sewing" were Mrs. A. A. Holman, Mrs. Roy Lester, Columbiana; Mrs. C. H. Social Security Benefits For Self Employed

April 1, 1952 was a significant date in the new Social Security coverage for self-employed businessmen. Owners or partners who lived into the second quarter of 1952 have now earned 6 quarters of coverage. They are insured for benefits in case of their subsequent death or retirement at 65.

In order to meet the requirements of the new law on becoming insured under Social Security, the business owner would have had to operate his business at a profit of at least $400 in 1951. The same must have been repeated in 1952. The fact that he has lived into the second quarter means that he would now have earned his sixth quarter of coverage. This would pay him Old-Age benefits should he decide to retire at age over 65. In case of his death, the six quarters of coverage would insure that his family could receive up to $150 monthly as survivors benefits.

Those businessmen who want to qualify for top benefits under the new law are being advised by the Birmingham Social Security office to wait until after they have two full years of coverage before they retire. Should the self-employed person over 65 have earned $3600 in 1951 and the same amount in 1952, he could retire as early as January 1, 1953 on the full $80 monthly benefit which is the top payment in the new law. Wives reaching age 65 are eligible for one-half of the self-employed person's benefit. Thus a maximum of $120 monthly might be paid to this retired businessman and his wife. Should the family include children under 18 there could be additional monthly payments on behalf of such minors.

Diane Bentley Talented 4-H'er

A very talented 4-Her is Diane Bentley of the Columbiana Elementary Club.

Diane has made several charts and pictures illustrating her Club 4-H activities. One of the outstanding charts she has drawn was one the club used to show the girls who made oatmeal cookies.

For her class at school she drew a very descriptive picture of Christ in the observance of Easter.

This is Diane's first year in 4-H Club work and she has already completed her sewing project by assembling a sewing box, making 4 dishtowels, 4 potholders, 1 apron, and entering the Apron Revue which she modeled at the Annual 4-H Rally. Diane is now working on a Bedroom Improvement Project. She was elected to represent her Club as Queen at the 4-H Rally.

Diane is the 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bentley, Route 1, Columbiana. Teacher Sponsors for the Columbiana Elementary Club are Mrs. Effie Sims and Mrs. Frank Ellis.

Plan Storage In The Home

"Well planned storage in the home prevents confusion and disorder, and adds to the appearance of the home," stated Miss Stella Mitchell, Extension Home Management Specialist.

Thirty-three women represented 20 clubs at this Leadership School on Friday. These leaders will conduct the demonstration on "Home Storage" in their clubs in April.

Leaders attending were: Mrs. W. E. Saunderson, Mrs. V. L. Hubbard, Mrs. R. A. Robinson, Mrs. W. E. Thompson, Mrs. B. B. Curry, Wilton; Mrs. L. H. Busby, Mrs. Vernon Busby, South Calera; Mrs. W. B. ARMISTEAD SELDEN ASKS ---

What About Those Promises?

In 1948, when he ran for Congress, Edward deGraffenried denounced his opponent for voting against income tax reduction.

What is Mr. deGraffenried's OWN record? He not only has failed to vote for a reduction of our income tax, he has voted to INCREASE these income taxes to their present onerous heights.

In 1948, Mr. deGraffenried ran on a platform of economy.

WHAT IS HIS RECORD?

On 14 vital Economy vs. Spending issues in the House in the 82nd Congress last year, he voted with the spending boys NINE times. He voted with the Economy forces only once. Five other times, he didn't vote at all.

In 1948, your present Congressman scolded the incumbent for his failure to express opposition to Mr. Truman.

WHAT IS HIS OWN RECORD?

He not only hasn't fought the Truman program—he has joined forces with them most of the time and made himself part and parcel of the Tax-and-Spend forces in Washington.

So

If you want to continue that waste of your money in Washington . . .

If you want to keep on taxing, and keep on spending . . .

If you want to promote new and reckless socialistic schemes . . .

If you want your party kept in the hands of the five-percenters, the income tax dodgers, and those others who have come to believe that they deserve to get rich because they have the "right contacts" in Washington—

THEN DO NOT VOTE FOR ME. I'M NOT YOUR MAN!

But

If you believe that we should put a stop to the present federal program of increased taxation coupled with increased spending and an unbalanced budget . . .

If you believe that the socialists ought to be curbed . . .

If you believe that we need a house-cleaning, starting in Washington and coming right on down to the Sixth District—THEN

Control Worms On Peaches And Plums

Worms will destroy peaches and plums in thousands of home orchards unless the trees are sprayed several times during the next few weeks.

W. A. Ruffin, A. P. I. Extension Service entomologist points out that the plum curculio, a small weevil-like insect, becomes active shortly after arrival of warm weather in the spring. It punctures the young peaches and plums and lays eggs in them, often before the blossom is shed.

These fruits should be sprayed when two-thirds of the petals have fallen, when young fruits begin to split the shucks, and then about every two weeks until one month before harvest.

"It is almost best to buy ready-mixed spray materials for use on fruit in the home orchard," says Ruffin. "Fruit growers should read the label on ready-mixed spray materials and make sure that the diluted spray contains six pounds of wettable sulphur, four pounds of zinc sulphate, eight pounds of spray lime, and two pounds of lead arsenate in 100 gallons of water."

Ruffin adds that if weather is rainy after peaches start to ripen, spray them with six pounds of sulphur in 100 gallons of water every week or 10 days.

Don't Skimp When Growing Pullets

A few cents more for equipment, labor, litter, heat, and medication when raising pullets may make several dollars' difference in the returns they will give, according to John Weeks, A. P. I. Extension Service poultry specialist.

Apply Right Amounts Of Cotton Fertilizer

Alabama farmers used an average of 500 pounds of fertilizer per acre in producing the 1951 cotton crop.

O. N. Andrews, A. P. I. Extension Service cotton improvement specialist, says this amount was an increase over previous years but still 100 pounds per acre less than the minimum recommendation based on many years of research by the A. P. I. Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Farmers who use all other good production practices in growing cotton can profitably use 500 to 600 pounds of 4-10-7 or 6-8-8 per acre and side-dress with 75 to 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate or 150 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda or equal nitrogen from other sources on most soils of the state," advises Andrews. "On the productive red soils of the Tennesee Valley 600 pounds per acre of 6-8-4 will supply the plant food needed to make good yields. On the less productive soils in this section, farmers can profitably side-dress with 50 pounds of ammonium nitrate or 100 pounds of nitrate of soda or equal nitrogen from other sources. On the heavier red soils all of the nitrogen may be applied at or before planting."

On The Farms Of Shelby Couunty

North Central Soil Conservation District Supervisors, in cooperation with Mansel Wolf, last week planted a seed patch of Argentine Bahia grass. This is a new importation that is promising to replace Pensacola Bahia.

Even the Pensacola strain is new here, but if the Argentine strain is able to live up to its reputation it will be a valuable addition to the summer grazing crops.

The Bahia grasses make a very dense sod, and if not winter killed can be managed on less plant food than is required for its cousin, Dallis grass, of equal growth. The old types of Bahia winter kill easily. Pensacola Bahia has stood the Chilton County winters for years, and Argentine is expected to do even better.

With this four acre planting to study, and about 100 acres of Coastal bermuda on trial, we may have a new crop to recommend for summer.

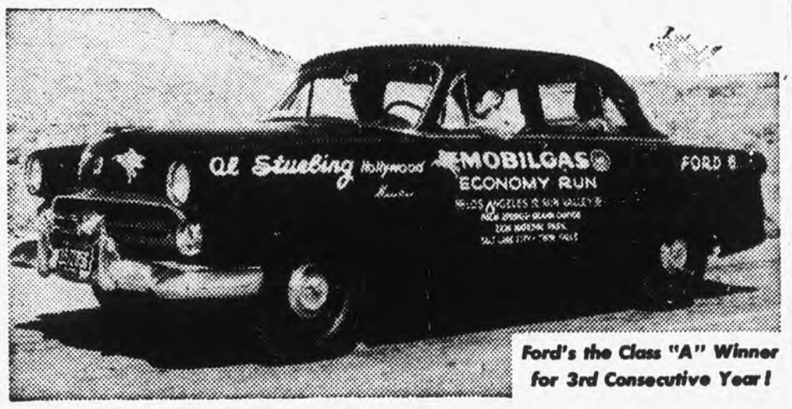

At present most farmers can continue to extend sericea planting and improve management on the acreage now devoted to that crop.

Mobilgas Economy Run

Ford's the Class "A" Winner for 3rd Consecutive Year!

New Ford Mileage Maker SIX Thriftiest in its Field!

Again this year . . . Ford was first in gas economy over all cars in its price class in the Mobilgas Economy Run. In this toughest test, a Ford SIX with Overdrive (optional at extra cost) averaged 53.855 ton-miles per gallon and 25.463 actual miles per gallon. A very important contributing factor is Ford's Automatic Power Pilot which squeezes the last ounce of power out of every drop of gas. Pound for pound, Ford's All-New Mileage Maker SIX is definitely the most economical low-priced car to run!

*The AAA Contest Board determines the winner by a "ton-mile per gallon" formula to insure equal chance for all cars in each class regardless of size and weight. Ton-miles per gallon equals the car weight (including passengers) in tons, multiplied by number of miles travelled, divided by number of gallons consumed.

FROM

A. L. CRUMPTON

Candidate For

Circuit Judge

To The Voters Of Shelby County:

Since I have not been able to see all of you during my campaign for nomination as Judge of the 18th Judicial Circuit, which is composed of Clay, Coosa, and Shelby Counties, I take this method of appealing to you for your vote. The office is a highly responsible one. To make a good judge a man must be qualified by a wide and general knowledge of the law and not merely be a specialist in some one branch. Then, too, he should be a man of sound judgment based on a sympathetic understanding of his fellow men. That you may better judge my qualifications for the place I would like for you to consider the following facts concerning me.

I graduated from the University of Alabama Law School in 1914 and have been engaged in the general practice of law since. During this time I have engaged in the trial, on one side or the other, of every type of lawsuit that arises in this Circuit. I have studied and worked with matters from Child Welfare to Old Age Assistance—and matters in between.

As Judge I will be able to, and will, conduct the courts efficiently and without undue delay and expense.

A good Judge must have a heart as well as a head. In part of his work he is said to be "Keeper of the Conscience" of his sovereign, the people. How can you judge a man's heart? By his past experience, his background, his daily life.

I am a veteran of World War I, a long time member of the American Legion. I have for many years been a member of the Masonic order and have served as Worshipful Master of my Lodge. I am a life-long member of the Methodist Church and for a number of years have regularly taught an Adult Bible Class in the Church School. Although I once drank and have some understanding of the problems of one who drinks, I have not tasted a drop of alcohol in any form for more than six years and do not mean to do so again. I represented my District in the State Senate during the 1939 term. While there I voted against all unearned salary raises, and otherwise worked and voted for the best interest, as I saw it, of the people who sent me. The best proof that I worked in their interest is that I have heard of no criticism of my voting record.

I do not hold any public office. I will not have to resign from any office to fill this one. If I am elected I will not ask for any other place during my term of office.

If you select me as your judge I will conduct the affairs of the office with fairness to all, with special favors to none. Before me the poor and weak will be treated the same as the rich and strong. I will perform my duties to the best of my ability as God gives me the wisdom to know them.

I respectfully ask that you go to the polls on May 6th and vote for me for Judge of the 18th Judicial Circuit.

National Home Week Observed By Clubs

1,076 Home Demonstration Club members in 28 Clubs are observing National Home Demonstration Week. They have planned Husband's Night, Family Night, and will tour Little Jerusalem at Cullman and points of interest at Decatur.

Mrs. J. Frank Baker presided at the meeting of the State Council in Birmingham Monday and Tuesday. Mrs. Carlos Warren, Calera, participated in a program at the Chain Stores Luncheon on Tuesday.

The major objective in Clubs for 1952 is that all Clubs be represented at Leadership School and give the demonstration at their monthly club meetings.

Two training meetings for special interest demonstrations have been arranged. Miss Anita King trained 45 leaders from 18 clubs to make nylon corsages. The home agents will conduct the Training Meeting on "Figurine Painting" on Wednesday, May 28th.

These demonstrations have been or will be given in all clubs during 1952. The band around the can of food, family games, make your home tasks easier, home storage, secrets to smart sewing, cake baking, accessories for the home, care and use of the sewing machine, gifts from the preserving pot, textile painting and using hand tools.

A Message From State Club President

By MRS. J. FRANK BAKER
President Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs

We will hear a great deal about the benefits of home demonstration work during National Home Demonstration Week, which is being observed this year from April 27 through May 3.

Home demonstration club members have a fine opportunity to influence a great many farm women who, otherwise, would never have a chance toward a richer and fuller life.

Taking the Home Demonstration Collect and Creed literally, farm women can make our program vital—one that has life, spirit, and inspiration.

It is in home demonstration that we find our choice rural leaders. Farm women are learning that the program is important in training to be better homemakers and citizens.

OPS Price Clinic For Cafe Operators

Restaurant operators in Montevallo and nearby are urged to attend a price clinic on the new restaurant ceiling price regulation on Friday, May 2, from 2:30 until 4:00 p. m., at city hall. Price specialists from North Alabama district office of Price Stabilization will conduct the meeting.

Dr. A. R. Meadows, District Director, OPS, said that the new restaurant regulation requiring posted ceiling prices on meals and drinks served the public should prove a boon to both proprietors and customers.

First proof to the customer that eating places are complying with the regulation appeared April 7 in the form of a statement attached to, or printed on, menus. It states that menu prices are OPS ceiling prices or lower and that a list of the establishment's ceiling prices is available for inspection by the customer.

Furthermore, Dr. Meadows said, ceiling price posters must be displayed in every public eating and drinking room. The posters are being furnished by OPS.

Restaurant operators are required to list ceiling prices on posters for up to forty of the principal meals, food items, and non-alcoholic beverages and display the posters in a plainly visible location.

Dr. Meadows said that all citizens in Montevallo and nearby who have questions concerning the new regulation should see these specialists.

Salem Cemetery

Saturday, May 3, is a date set for cleaning and planting flowers at Salem Cemetery, in preparation for the memorial day services on the 4th Sunday, May 25.

Families who have loved ones buried there, or interested persons living in or near that area are invited to come help with this work.

Salem is two miles North of Montevallo on the old Elyton road bteween Dogwood and Montevallo. It is a very old cemetery and many of the graves are unknown and are over run by bushes, weeds, and grass, of the families who have died or moved away from this area. If any one will come and give a days work, their effort will be greatly appreciated.

Crook Week At Alabama College

The traditional and the unusual combine to make this a week of unusual activity on the campus of Alabama College at Montevallo.

The serious event is the formal Junior-Senior banquet traditionally held the night before Crook Week starts.

Committee members in charge of the banquet include Audrey Evans, Roanoke, Va., chairman of the banquet; Alyene Reese, Birmingham, and Carolyn Aycock, Hartselle, programs; Glenn Green, Decatur, and Mattie Lee Dickey, Pell City, decorations; Elizabeth Cauley, Jackson, properties; Joyce Caraway, Clayton, menu; Lillian Hunt, Sylvania, invitations; Molly Ogletree, Sylacauga, after-dinner coffee; and Voncile Smith, Jackson, and Jane Womack, Gadsden, restoration.

Crook Week, a tradition of 27 years' standing, is a very mild form of hazing in which the Juniors dress in fantastic costumes in accordance with the whims of the Seniors and spend off-hours searching for the Crook, hidden some place on the campus.

Crook Week closes with a mock trial and marks the establishment of Juniors into Senior privilege rating for the remainder of the year.

Leading Crook Week activities will be Jane Sarber, Athens, president of the Senior Class, and Carolyn Cleveland, last year's finder of the Crook.

Rev. Harry Bryan Is Guest Speaker

The Rev. Harry H. Bryan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Bessemer, will address the Wesminster Fellowship on Sunday evening May 4th at 6:45 p. m. in the Forbes House. He will review the life and work of Peter Marshall, the beloved chaplain of the United States Senate, who passed away recently at the age of forty-six.

The public is invited to attend this meeting.

LAWRENCE K. ANDREWS

Senator Andrews, veteran lawyer and state legislator, is the leading candidate for Place No. 1 on the Alabama Supreme Court.

Robert C. Davis Home From Korea

Corporal Robert C. Davis, (Negro) United States Army, recently returned from Korea, has been assigned to Fort Jackson, South Carolina, pending receipt of assignment orders from the Department of the Army.

Cpl. Davis is currently spending a thirty day leave, which was effective 22 April, 1952, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Davis, Route 1, Box 11-B, Montevallo, Alabama.

Memorial Service At Ebenezer

There will be an all-day memorial service at Ebenezer on Mothers' Day.

Everybody is invited to come and bring a basket for dinner on the ground.

The Birmingham Harmony boys will be the guest singers, with other singers from all over the county.

57 Stray Dogs Killed As Precaution Against Threatening Rabies Outbreak

By Nena Castillo, and Barbara Williamson

After a suspected rabid dog bit two children and 22 dogs in Montevallo during one night, Mayor W. M. Wyatt has declared a 30 day period in which all dogs must be confined.

During the first 12 days of this period police officials have killed 57 stray dogs in Montevallo.

According to Mayor Wyatt, the notice to dog owners, where he calls upon them to keep their dogs confined and under close observation for 30 days, is consedered necessary for the safegaurding of citizens against threatening danger of a widespread outbreak of rabies among dogs in Montevallo.

Mayor Wyatt says, I have instructed the police department to dispose of all stray dogs found loose in the town during this 30 day period which ends on May 21."

Notices of this emergency measure have been prominently posted over the town.

There have been no complaints from citizens against this safety measure, according to Police Chief Harry Kendrick.

"The townspeople have co-operated mighty well," he reports.

Local physicians report they have given rabies vaccinations to 12 people within the last two weeks. Veterinarians are keeping busy inoculating dogs.

Dr. Willena Peck, Alabama College physician, describes some of the characteristic symptoms of rabies in dogs as coughing, difficulty in swallowing, dullness, and in most serious cases, snapping at people.

Rabid animals are also characterized by their unsteady walk, drooping head and tail and protrusion of tongues, she asserts.

Although there may be no real existing danger, Mayor Wyatt urges all dog owners to closely observe their animals during these 30 days, for the repo: idly rabid dog eluded searchers for a whole night and was not found until he had been dead some time, too late for rabies tests to be made.

Adult Farm Class Develops Plans For Curb Market

Cooperating with the agriculture committe of Montevallo Chamber of Commerce, the adult evening class of the Montevallo vocational agriculture department has developed plans for establishing a farmers market in Montevallo. If present plans are carried out the farmers market will be located on the lot just east fom Montevallo Lumber Co. and will hold weekly sales each Saturday morning. The farmers market is being planned in order to provide a market for farm produce and at the same time give customers the benefit of fresh produce produced locally. It is expected that the program will prove helpful to all concerned.

Farmers interested in participating in the market should get in touch with one of the following men serving on the committee: R. P. Cheatwood, Robert Thompson, Fred Haley, E. E. Aldridge, Eugene Reynolds, or M. Thornton. Any farmer in the vicinity is eligible to use the market to sell items he produces.

F. F. A. members are looking to the annual livestock show which is being planned for May 24. It is the hope that all will be in readiness for the opening of the farmers market by May 24 and that the livestock show can be a part of the opening day. Agee Kelly, F. F. A. president, announces that his committee will be active during the next three weeks completing final plan for the annual show.

Earl Patton and Arthur Flynn, seniors in Agriculture Education at Auburn, have completed six weeks of apprentice teaching in the Montevallo vocational department. The 60 F. F. A. boys have enjoyed the work with the student teachers.

Wilton Methodist Home Coming

The First Homecoming of the Wilton Methodist Church will bring District Superintendent, Dr. Ben F. Tingle to Wilton on Sunday, May 11, according to an announcement made by the Rev. Charles Prestwood, Minister of Wilton Methodist Church.

The regular church service scheduled for 11 a. m. will be followed by a community dinner served in the basement. Each family will bring its own basket of food.

In the afternoon Dr. Tingle will have a devotional followed by the Fourth Quarterly Confernce.

Mr. Benny Stokes, past pastor of the church will be song leader for both morning and afternoon services.

Funds received at the Homecoming will be used for painting the church.

Mobile is closer to the Panama Canal than any other large southern or eastern port which places it closer to the Far East, Central and South American ports also. More than 60 steamship lines to world ports serve the Port of Mobile, as it is the 6th ranking port of the nation in importance.

Spring Creek Valley Grove Club Projects

Spring Creek-Valley Grove Club selected continued mail box, church, church grounds and cemetery improvement; giving aid to worthy organizations; and the naming of farms as homes and placing the names in attractive and suitable signs for their 1952 projects.

The people of Valley Grove have done and are doing excellent work on their church grounds. The entire lawn is being raked and cleaned. Dead and ugly shrubbery is being removed. The entire surroundings speak well for those who care and share. The most attractive thing at present is two sweet shrub bushes in full bloom shedding their sweet fragrance all about. A nice table has been built out under the trees and will afford much enjoyment this summer.

A nice name-sign has been placed over the entrance of Spring Creek Church and a marker, pointing the way across the creek to the cemetery has been erected on the church ground. Two Sunday School rooms have been painted.

A little work has been done on shrubbery planting on the grounds. With the financial aid of a few church members and the hard work of our men and boys the cemetery improvements is now plain to be seen. The entire cemetery was cleared and cultivated for grass sowing. Later it was fertilized and is now green and pretty. Information on all unmarked graves is being sought with the hope that names and dates can be placed on each. A committee is working on plans for shrubbery planting and attractive entrance to cemetery to be completed this summer and fall.

A shower of cards and a gift of money was sent indigent and aged patients at Jefferson Hospital. A large box of quilt scraps has been sent to ladies at Ketona Home in Birmingham.

Some mail boxes are being improved for the first time and the others are getting their spring painting and look all shiny and bright.

A few pretty name-signs have been erected in our community. You may see " Clear Water Farm" and "Brookhill Farm," or "Mockingbird Hill," etc. Many others are being planned and will be completed during the Club year.

Improve Quality Of Canned Food

By LAVADA CURTIS
A. P. I. Extension Specialist in Food Preservation

A. P. I. Extension Specialist in Food Preservation program in 1951, with the counties giving an average of almost three demonstrations each.

The objectives of the program have been to reach more people with the food preservation program, improve the quality of canned products, use better products in freezing food, and train more leaders in food preservation.

A dozen years ago, every home demonstration agent in the state decided the big problem in food preservation was poor quality of canned products. This was evident at fairs, community exhibits, and other places where canned products were displayed.

Beginning in 1940, a consistent drive has been made to improve this situation. Each year one demonstration has been planned for state-wide use to improve the quality of canned products. In 1952, the following report was made by the counties:

Thirty-two counties selected "Improving Canned Products" as a part of their food preservation program. Leaders were trained to give this demonstration in each of the training meetings. A method demonstration of how to can and store food products was given. Nearly 800 home demonstration leaders were trained to give this demonstration.

Ten counties selected "Better Methods of Freezing Foods." Two demonstrations were given as a means of emphasizing better practices in freezing food. About 240 leaders were trained to present this information in their local home demonstration clubs.

Twenty-three counties thought they should increase the amount of canned products. Leaders discussed problems and ways of conserving more food in the areas. The canning budget was used as a means of planning the amount of food needed for the family. Trained to give this demonstration were 436 leaders.

As a result of the food preservation program in Alabama, 1,365 leaders have been trained in methods of food preservation and 4,140 rural leaders assisted with the demonstrations. Almost 74,000 families have been assisted in food preservation problems and 34,552 conserved food according to a budget last year.

The F. R. Walls Home Improved

The F. R. Walls, Yellow Leaf, beam happily as they tell how they used the floor, walls and ceiling from their old house to make the panelled walls and ceiling in their living room and dining room.

Mr. Wall and son, Billy, carefully removed all boards, resawed and dressed them on a farm sawmill and planing mill. The hooded fireplace with ventilators heats the living room and 2 adjoining rooms comfortably. They have installed a bathroom and provided ample storage for linens and clothing as they remodelled the house. Underpinning the house with field stones and finishing the outside walls with white asbestos shingles made the house attractive from the outside as well as more comfortable from the inside. The Walls have been done the entire job them selves.

The next job will be remodeling the kitchen, and enclosing the back porch to make a sleeping porch, work room and more planned storage. An electric range and water heater will be added to the kitchen.

Yellow Leaf Home Club Meets

The Yellow Leaf Home Demonstration Club met April 24th in the home of Mrs. Marvin Muse. We were delighted to have 100 per cent attendance, welcomed two visitors and bright prospects for a new member in Mrs. H. G. Dennis, formerly of New Hope Community.

The minutes were read by our Sec. Mrs. O. B. Foster. Mrs. D. S. McClinton gave an interesting report as citizenship chairman.

Our projects of beautifying Ray Cemetery is in progress, and plans futhered. The Cullman tour was discussed.

Mrs. E. A. Grantham, Mrs. Jeff Holmes, our program chairman, gave interesting demonstrations on storage, accompanied by slides shown by Miss Boysworth.

Our Club voted a donation of $5.00 each to Red Cross and Cancer Drive.

Delectable refreshments were served by hostess, meeting adjourned when in May we will meet with Mrs. Melvin Shaw.

Athens College, at Athens, Ala., is the second oldest woman's college in America. Many of the old buildings were built with slave labor.

P-K Home Club Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Pelham-Keystone Demonstration Club was held April 16th, at the home of Mrs. Lonnie Maske with Mrs. Joe Hodges presiding. A report on Defense Activities was given by Mrs. Hodges. Mrs. Zora Dunaway gave a Citizenship report and pennies for Friendship offering was take.

Mrs. Mason Cumberland gave an excellent report on the recent County Council Meeting and also on Rural Youth Activities.

Mrs. Kenneth Cooper was elected secretary and treasurer to fill vacancy created by resignation of Mrs. Don Busby.

Husbands Night will be observed April 26th at the home of Mrs. F. L. McCoy. On the committee for arrangements will be Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. M. Cumberland, and Mrs. Grady King.

Some flowering shrubs and plants were presented thru the Flower Exchange.

Thirteen members expressed interest in the County Trip on May 1st.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Grady King gave a fine demonstration on storage with helpful slides shown by Miss Cotney.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Maske were Mrs. Don Busby and Mrs. Bert Speigal.

I Have Kept My Promises

In an advertisement which a friend of mine ran for my benefit in 1948 in which my friend stated, "Mr. DeGraffenried has promised not to employ his wife as an Executive Secretary," the only statement I ever made to anyone was that my wife would not be my top or executive secretary. I have never stated nor intended to imply that she would not be a member of my office staff. It has never been a secret that Mrs. DeGraffenried is a member of my staff.

I HAVE KEPT EVERY PROMISE TO THE PEOPLE OF THE SIXTH DISTRICT, INCLUDING THE PROMISE THAT MY ENTIRE STAFF WOULD BE COMPRISED OF RESIDENTS OF THIS DISTRICT.

Your Vote and Support Will Be Greatly Appreciated

EDWARD deGRAFFENRIED

To The Voters of Shelby County:

To thank you, and, to remind us that within a few days the Honored American privilege of voting will be ours!

As we all know, this is an hour in the history of our nation when each citizen should consider most seriously this priceless liberty, and cast the ballots for those whom we deem capable of efficiently and conscientiously fulfilling the duties of the office to which the candidate aspires.

Personally, I wish to thank you for the kind reception you have given me, for your assistance during the days of my campaigning, and for the loyal friendliness you have shown me.

I shall appreciate your vote on May 6, and should you elect me to serve as your Judge of the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit of Alabama during the ensuing term of office, I shall earnestly endeavor to merit your confidence by putting forth my worthiest efforts in the discharge of the important duties of this office.

Respectfully,

Paul O. Luck

Candidate for Judge of the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit of Alabama.

Montevallo Baptist Church Is Improved With Addition of New Educational Unit

By Hazel Junkin

Construction is almost complete on the new Baptist Church addition, an educational unit estimated to have almost doubled the value of the church.

The 96-year old church building has received a complete "face-lifting" since the remodeling work began early in March. According to the pastor, the Rev. Edward Glover, the unit was reconstructed at a cost of $30,00, and is valued at more than $100,000. The new addition brings the value of the church to an estimated $250,000.

The distinctly modern, three-story brick structure replaces a former white frame educational building. It contains rooms for eleven Sunday School departments, and has a capacity of 600 Sunday School attendants.

The ground floor, housing the nursery and beginner departments, also will contain a student secretary's office, church parlor and library, and classrooms, all mainly for youth. Another addition on this floor is a streamlined, up-to-date kitchen. Modern in every degree, the kitchen is equipped with metal cabinets and revolving corner shelves, a large double-oven range, double-basin sink, and an oversize refrigerator with freezer unit. The kitchen opens by means of a counter-top window into a large assembly room, enabling the meals to be served in a cafeteria style. Purchase of fifteen full-size folding tables will further facilitate the serving of church dinners in the future.

Walls of the new educational building are in muted shades of green and gray. Broad staircases, finished in natural pine, lead from one level to another. Flourescent lighting, asbestos tiled floors, steam and gas heating, and automatic attic fans throughout the rooms add to their attractiveness, convenience, and comfort. A fire escape at the back of the building which opens onto each floor insures greater safety.

The new unit is the result of four years of planning by the 460 members of the Montevallo Baptist Church. It is financed by individual donations.

Future plans for the church include immediate plans for landscaping the church lawn and a dedication service for the new addition tentatively planned for early June.

Limestone County was the first of Alabama's counties to be invaded by Union troops during the War between the States; and Athens, as the county seat, was the first important town to be occupied in 1862.

Calera Civitan Club Elects New Officers

The meeting of the Calera Civitan Club April 28, at the City Hali adds a colorful chapter to the community spirit formulating in this town. Ladies Night and guests made this one of the largest crowds assembled since the club was established, with 105 people present.

A delicious banquet dinner was served at 7:00 p. m. by the Tom McKibbon Eastern Star Chapter of Calera. Red Diamond coffee was donated for the dinner through Mrs. R. L. Veazey. A lovely array of flowers, arranged by Mrs. Carlos Warren, adorned the tables to add a breath of spring to the memorable occasion.

Completion of the dinner brought forth a business session to elect officers for the ensuing year. Mr. William N. Minor, presiden, called the meeting to order with the report of the Nominating Committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. Roy Downs.

Officers for 1952 were elected as follows: President, Julius Pilgreen; First Vice-President, Geo. Holcombe; Second Vice-President, Dan Carroll; and the re-election of Carl Hokanson as Secretary-Treasurer.

First and Second place winners of the Essay Contest sponsored by the Civitan Club, Eleanor Crim and Peggy Johnson were presented to the club after the elections were completed. Guests were presented to the group with a delightful ovations. Out of Town guests presented were Mr. Grady T. Kay, president of Civitan International; and Mrs. Kay; Mr. T. Ethridge Gillian, Ala. West Fla. District Sec. and Mrs. Gillian; and the guest speaker Mr. Frank A. Peake, Governor of Ala. Wets Fla. District, and Mrs. Peake.

"Civitan Appreciation" was the topic preseented to the club by the speaker of the evening, Governor Peake. He brought to minnd a number of facts that members of the Civitan Club should think more about and practice to preserve the things that we can appreciate.

Apreciation is extended to the Churches, Masonic Lodge, and any other organization, person, or persons who made this meeting such an outstanding success.

LET'S ELECT

Lawrence K. Andrews

Associate Justice, Place No. 1

Alabama Supreme Court

IN SO DOING WE WILL ELECT AN OUTSTANDING LAWYER, CITIZEN AND LEGISLATOR T OOUR HIGHEST COURT.

For These Reasons Alabama Voters Favor Andrews:

1. He is splendidly trained for service on the Supreme Court.

2. As a member of the Alabama State Senate, he has championed the cause and interests of the school teachers, workers, farmers, War veterans, small business folks and the average citizen—and in so doing, has demonstrated that he is a progressive.

3. He does not wear the collar of any political machine, clique or organization, and, therefore, would not be obligated to protect or look after the interests of those seeking special privileges.

4. He is a man of good health and would be able to work hard and work long hours to carry his share of the Court work. He would not seek a place on the Court in order to have a pension or to retire from strenuous law practice. He does not mind hard work. In fact, he has worked hard all his life to make a success in his profession.

5. As a member of the State Senate, Mr. Andrews fought the imposition of additional tax burdens of our people — and vigorously battled to defeat the Administration's heavy tax and spend program. He was, in other words, the average man's Senate spokesman in opposing the heaviest tax and spend program ever acted in Alabama's long history.

6. Mr. Andrews does not try to array one part or section of the State against the others. He is an Alabama-minded man and can, when elected to the Court, decide fairly and impartially all matters coming before the Court.

7. He has no prejudice against anyone, or any group, not even against the group definitely fighting his election today.

Clothing Problems Need A Solution

By LEVICE B. ELLIS
A. P. I. Extension Specialist in Clothing

The increase in the farm family's income has failed to lessen the clothing problems. Ready-to-wear clothing and piece goods have increased proportionaliy to or even more than income. Consequently, families demanding a high clothing standard have resorted to more and more sewing to maintain their normal standards. Families feeling the effect of an increase in income for the first time have flooded the ready-to-wear departments. So, regardless of the economic situation, families on every income level have been faced with consumer problems or the need for better buying information.

The home demonstration and 4-H cotton dress revues have given a clear picture of the progress made in clothing. Not only have they shown the application of recommended practices in sewing construction, but also have displayed the practical application of information on fabrics, color and accessory selection, and wise expenditure of money. There were 631 home demonstration dress revues held in 56 counties, with 4,324 outstanding cotton dresses modeled and 1,129 4-H cotton dress revues in 65 counties, with 15,198 dresses modeled. A total of 19,422 home-constructed garments shown to thousands of men, women, boys, and girls has impressed many with the opportunities available through the clothing program as conducted by the Extension Service.

During the year, 63,017 women were assisted by the clothing program. They made 159,374 garments at an estimated saving of $369,092. The 24,517 girls enrolled in 4-H clothing projects made 112,653 garments, saving $112,493. Together, women and girls made 272,027 garments and saved $481,585 on the family wardrobe.

This is only part of the story. Over 61,000 families were assisted with buying problems, 31,036 families were aided in remodeling and renovating clothing, and 96,309 families were assisted with clothing selection and construction. This does not include the unaccountable number receiving information from club members and leaders throughout the state.

During 1951, home demonstration clubs devoted a total of 80 months of work to the clothing program, and 75 months to handicraft—an average of more than two months per county. In the 4-H Clubs, 124 months were spent on clothing and 100 months on handicraft—an average of three and a half months per county.

How To Use Food Dollars

By DOROTHY OVERBY
A. P. I. Extension Specialist in Consumer Education

Homemakers want to know how to use their food dollars more wisely. Helping them to do this is an important part of the home demonstration culb program.

The consumer education program helps the homemaker buy more nutritive foods for the money she has to spend. By being informed as to when foods are most plentiful, she can make wise use of them at this time by conserving for future use, as well as serving them liberally in her meals. They, too, need help in selecting good quality, and in storing it correctly.

Since last June 23 leadership schools have been held to train 649 leaders in stretching the food dollar. These leaders were responsible for giving this demonstration in their respective 339 clubs.

An Outstanding Record

(AN EDITORIAL)

(The Editorial Printed Below Appeared In The April 24th Issue Of The Centreville Press)

In the three years that Congressman Edward deGraffenried has served as Congressman from the Sixth District he has made an outstanding record. It usually takes several years for a new Congressman to become acquainted with Washington and to become recognized by the older members of Congress, but at the very beginning Mr. deGraffenried was appointed to the powerful Armed Services Committee of the House, and is now a member of several important Sub-Committees.

His voting record is considerably above the national average. On 109 roll call votes (1st session, 1951) 88 per cent. On 20 roll call votes (2nd session to April 1, 1952) 100 percent.

In addition to the above "On the Record" votes he has attended over 140 hearings of the Committee on Armed Services of the House during the 82nd Congress.

What services has Mr. deGraffenried rendered to the citizens of Bibb County?

He helped to secure the approval of the Federal Government for the construction of the new bridge across the Cahaba River in Centreville.

He asked the State officials to turn the old bridge over to the Commissioner's Court of Bibb County.

He has Centreville on the schedule for the purchase of a lot for the construction of a Post Office Building.

He has helped hundreds of Bibb County veterans obtain just treatment from the Government.

He has obtained a number of mail route extensions in the county for the benefit of the rural people.

What services has Mr. deGraffenried rendered to his District?

Mr. deGraffenried has assisted in obtaining the following projects and improvements in the Sixth District:

Hospitals:L $3,000,000 Modern Hospital, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.
Health Center and Hospital, Livingston, Alabama.
Health Center and Hospital, Marion, Alabama.

Schools: Advance of Federal funds for construction of 5 different school facilities, Tuscaloosa.
Allocation of critical materials for construction of school facilities, Tuscaloosa.
Allocation of critical materials for construction oof new dormitory at Marion Military Institute, Marion.
Allocation of critical materials for construction of Trade School, Tuscaloosa.

Housing: 26 Low Rent Housing Units, Helena, Alabama.
52 Low Rent Housing, Units Montevallo, Alabama.
44 Low Rent Housing Units, Calera, Alabama.
6 Low Rent Housing Units, Wilsonville, Alabama.
32 Low Rent Housing Units, Vincent, Alabama.
500 Low Rent Housing Units, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.
66 Low Rent Housing Units, Columbiana, Alabama.

Other Prejects: Approval for allocation of critical material for construction of Nurse's Home, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Approval for allocation of critical materials for construction of new fire station at Alberta City, Tuscaloosa at Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Modern new bridge at Centreville, Alabama.
Authorization for City of Columbiana to construct natural gas system.
Authorization for City of Helena, Alabama, to construct natural gas system.
Advance of Federal funds for expansion of water facilities for Tuscaloosa.
Advance of Federal funds for improvement of Community facilities, Harpersville.
Federal loan to expand and improve telephone facilities, Thorsby, Alabama.

Approval by Rural Electrification Authority for loan to expand electrification facilities, Black Warrior Electric Cooperative, in the amount of $1,485,000, which affects several counties in the District.

He introduced and secured Committee approval of Two Resolutions for study and survey of Warrior-Tombigbee River System. (Study will include flood control, navigation, hydroelectric power, water conservation and other improvements.)

He has obtained over fifty rural mail route extensions for improved rural mail delivery service.

He has handled over 1,000 Veterans cases, many with success on appeal when benefits had previously been denied.

Mr. deGraffenried wishes to give due credit for the above listed services to our district to his efficient office staff, composed of Cleveland Tucker, Executive Secretary, Mrs. deGraffenried and Mary Ellen Higgins, Clerks.

The record speaks for itself — Congressman deGraffenried has accomplished more in three years than most Congressmen accomplish in ten years.

To The Home Folks:

Pleas do not think that, because I have not seen or communicated with you, personally, I will not appreciate your support. It is just that the territory is so large, and my means have been limited. I feel that you people of Shelby County have known me for years, and that it is necessary that I make as many friends in Coosa and Clay counties as possible. I sincerely appreciate your support.

VOTE FOR

HUGH W. ROBERTS, Jr.

Candidate For DELGEATE to the Democratic National Convention

from the Sixth Congresional District

Why should you vote for Hugh W. Roberts, Jr. for Delegate to the National Democratic Convention from the 6th Congressional District?

Hugh W. Roberts was born, reared, educated and has spent most of his life in West Alabama. His education at the University of Alabama was interrupted by World War II. He served over five years as a combat infantryman, fighting campaigns in Germany, France and Austria. After the war he completed his legal education at the University in 1948. Hugh Roberts is active in church, civic and community affairs. As a candidate for Delegate he offers a constructive program.

Hugh Roberts believes that the rebirth of the South began in 1932 and that the greatest economic strides in our history have been made during the past 20 years under Democratic administrations. He points to the great farm programs, fair labor standards, veteran's benefits, hospital and health programs, assistance to schools under state control, waterways developments, social security, insurance of bank savings and many others as tangible evidencce of the benefits we in Alabama have received.

Hugh Roberts will go to the National Convention and fight for a Party Platform that will secure these economic advances to the South and will expand them. He will oppose FEPC, Civil Rights, and similar planks designed to humiliate tre South.

Hugh Roberts is not committed to any candidate for President. He is fair and open-minded, and only asks for a presidential nominee who will give the South just treatment.

Elect Hugh W. Roberts, Jr. as your Delegate from this district and you will elect a man who will strive to protect your interests at the National Democratic Convention in July.

ARMISTEAD SELDEN urges you to Check THE Record

That's the fair way to make your decision on the Congressional race.

WHAT MR. deGRAFFENRIED PROMISED:

During the 1948 campaign, he attacked his opponent for being absent from the House so much, and he pledged, if elected, to stay on the job so he could "vote for the welfare of the people of this district." He pointed out that his predecessor had missed 68 roll calls in 11 years.

WHAT MR. deGRAFFENRIED HAS DONE:

Instead of a mere 68 roll calls in 11 years, he has managed to miss 63 roll calls in ONLY THREE YEARS. His record of absenteeism is the worst in the Alabama delegation, with only one exception.

WHAT MR. deGRAFFENRIED PROMISED:

In 1948, he denounced his predecessor for his failure to vote for income tax reductions, with the implied promise that HE would vote for reductions.

WHAT MR. deGRAFFENRIED HAS DONE:

He not only has failed to vote for income reductions. He has voted to increase these taxes to the onerous heights which you remember as of March 15th.

WHAT MR. deGRAFFENRIED PROMISED:

He denounced his predecessor for hiring his wife as a secretary, and he promised he wouldn't do th same thing.

WHAT MR. deGRAFFENRIED HAS DONE:

His wife, Mrs. Motie G. deGraffenried, is now on the payroll as Mr. deGraffenried's secretary at $610 a month. Mr. and Mrs. deGraffenried draw more than $22,000 a year from the U. S. Treasury in salaries and expenses, plus travel allowances—explaining, we suspect, why he isn't interested in cutting your taxes.

WHAT MR. deGRAFFENRIED PROMISED:

In 1948, he denounced his predecessor for being "closely aligned" with the Truman administration, and for his failure to express his opposition to Truman.

WHAT MR. deGRAFFENRIED HAS DONE:

Mr. deGraffenried has forgotten ris opposition to Truman; in fact, he has joined forces with Truman. He is recognized as a less important member of the "Me-Too" crowd which supports the extravagances of the Missouri Gang. On 14 vital bills, with the economy forces pitted against the Spending forces, he voted with the Truman Spenders 9 times, and with the Economy forces only once. On five occasions, he didn't vote at all.

We are not dealing in fancy; we are dealing in FACTS.

This is the DeGraffenried Record

A record of short memory, of broken promises, of sheer neglect

We think you have a right to know your present Congressman's Record. At the same time, we invite you to inspect Armistead Selden's Record.

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

is young, energetic and capable; and, at the same time, a man of legislative experience.

He served in his country's Navy for 42 months during World War II. As a member of the Alabama Legislature, he has made an outstanding record. He is a member of the Judiciary Committee, and he served on the Interim Committee on Revision of Laws. He is acting chairman of the Committee on State Administration. He is known as a legislator who isn't afraid to introduce constructive legislation, then has the ability to steer this legislation to passage. He was singled out as the member of the House who contributed most to Road Progress in Alabama during the last session. He knows how to co-operate with his fellow legislators for the welfare of his own people back home and for the betterment of the state as a whole.

In brief, he knows how to get things done. He is a man not only of ability, but of tireless energy as well. In Congress, he will give these eight fine counties of the Sixth District the real representation which they deserve. His age is just right. He is 31—not too young to be without experience, and yet not so old that he will be ready to retire before he gets any real recognition, through the seniority system, in Washington.

Vote for the man who will represent the welfare of all eight counties of the Sixth District.

Home Clubs Help 4-H Club Members

By ANN BARR
State Girls 4-H Club Leader

Alabama 4-H Club members salute the 1,995 Alabama home demonstration clubs and their 62,901 members during National Home Demonstration Week, April 27-May 3.

Home demonstration clubs are of great importance to 4-H Club members. Boys and girls look to the club women for guidance in many ways. In many cases, the members are mothers of 4-H youngsters and it takes a lot of cooperation and encouragement from parents for 4-H'ers to do a good job in their club work.

The rural youth objective chairman of the home demonstration clubs shoulder much of the responsibility for the out-of-school activities of 4-H members. They sponsor neighborhood group meeting during the summer months, helping with demonstrations and projects. They help with 4-H county council meeting, camps, local leader banquets, picnics, and other important events.

The slogan of home demonstration clubs, "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World," is probably more important to members of the 4-H Club than to any other group. You who keep our homes and make them a better place in which to live are building better citizens for tomorrow.

4,907 Measles Cases In March

The 4,907 measles cases reported in March from the entire state included 10 occuring in Shelby County. The announcement was made today by the State Department of Health.

The announcement pointed out that six counties reported more than 100 cases each during that 31-day period and seven reported between 51 and 100, inclusive, each.

There are more different patterns of iron grill work in Mobile than any other city in the United States.

Home Planning By Club Women

By STELLA MITCHELL
A. P. I. Extension Economist in Home Management

Leadership schools in home management were held in 61 counties. Attending were 1,324 club members representing 663 home demonstration clubs. Nearly 600 of the leaders repeated in their local clubs the demonstration given at these leadership schools.

Home demonstration agents from over Alabama report that 5,154 club members made kitchen improvements in 1951.

There were 209 county kitchen result demonstrators who held 200 meetings to show improvements. More than 5,200 members attended these meetings.

Some 1,800 club members made improvements in home laundries, and 1,300 members attended 94 meetings held by 66 county result demonstrators to show laundry improvements.

Improvements in bathroom were made by 1,284 club members and 433 took bathroom improvement as projects. At meetings held by 88 members to show bathroom improvements, the attendance was 2,057.

Last year, demonstrations were planned in the field of home management to emphasize four major phases of the farm and home program—housing, equipment, management, and result demonstrations. From these four major phases of work, information was given home demonstration club leaders on business of homemaking, kitchen planning, principles of house planning, cooking utensils, remodeling, small electrical appliances, bathrooms, work simplification, major electrical equipment, kitchen conveniences, buying household equipment, farm home storage, farm and home safety, control of household pests, and adequate lighting.

The World Begins At Your Home

By ELTA MAJORS
A. P. I. Extension Specialist in Family Life

Grandfather or great grandfather might have questioned the theme of this year's National Home Demonstration Club Week. Today, the truth of the theme—"The World Begins at Home"—is universally recognized.

To great grandfather, automobiles were the "unforgiven contraptions" invented to scare his horses. To grandfather, the radio was a little box with a bundle of wires, screws, and earphones through which he might or might not get some semblance of a program.

The oceans were great enough to protect us from all possible foreign foes. "We have nothing to fear but fear itself," was unheard-of psychology.

Even then, the world really began at home. In those days—just as today—the child began life with a belief and trust in his parents. He learned from them his basic attitudes, prejudices, faith, and confidence.

His first lessons in consideration and the rights of other people were learned from the way grandfather treated his family and neighbors.

Difficult situations were made easier for the youngster if grandfather had the genial good humor that still makes for ease, freedom, and cheerfulness in every home. At an early age the youngster learned to do his share of the work and thus to assume responsibility.

For him, the whole of life might have been hard but it was underlaid with a religious faith acquired early. Today the same values are needed, but the job is a thousand times more difficult and mistakes more costly.

The world truly begins at home. Only as we learn to live happily in our own family and community can we bring up boys and girls with the human and spiritual values so desperately needed today.

Only as children grow up in a home in which there is love and warmth will they be able to spread such a feeling around the world.

Yes, today's job is vastly more difficult, but there is no measuring its importance.

It is worth the necessary effort and discipline.

Dedication Service At Catholic Church

On May 11, the Catholic Church of Saint Thomas the Apostle will be dedicated by His Excellency Most Reverend Thomas J. Toolen, D. D.

A Solemn High Mass will be celebrated at 10:30. The choir, under the direction of Miss Mary Birmingham and Miss Bettie Jo Benton will sing the Eighth Gregorian Mass, The Mass of the Angels.

Immediately after the ceremonies, the Sodality of the Parish will serve Bishop Tollen, the ministers of the Mass and the visiting Sisters dinner in the Parish Hall. This will be under the direction of Mrs. J. B. Crawford and the ladies of the parish.

A reception will be held on the grounds of the Church for all those attending the ceremony. This will be under the direction of Miss Kate Kroell and Miss Myers, assisted by the girls of Alabama College.

The friends and benefactors of Saint Thomas Church are cordially invited to the ceremony and to the reception.

Judge Walker Sends Message To Voters

TO THE PEOPLE OF SHELBY COUNTY:

During the years I have been privileged to serve you in the highly responsible position as Probat Judge of Shelby County, I have attempted, at all times, to give to each of you the prompt, effecient, and courteous service you had the right to expect. I have discharged the duties and obligations this office carries in an honest, constructive, and impartial manner; and I hope my record of public service has fully merited your continued confidence in me and my administration, and that you will evidence this fact by giving me your vote in the Primary Elections to be held on May 6 and on June 3, 1952.

My record in this office presents to you concrete and indisputable evidence of my proven ability in the past; and the same policies of hard work, good, clean, honest and constructive government is what you may continue to expect from me.

Your vote is important to your future! It is your voice in Tomorrow's Government. Use it wisely for a continuation of sound and conservative government by re-electing me to serve you as your Probate Judge.

Remember my friends, "There is no substitute for experience."

Thanking each of you whom I have had the pleasue of seeing for your countless courtesies and expressing sincere regrets that it has been impossible to personaaly contact all of you—I beg to remain,

Gratefully yours,

Aaron D. "Tennessee" Harris was born on a cotton farm in Greenville, Miss. He is 32 and the father of three boys. His wife, the former Margie Woodruff, is the daughter of the late Dr. Roy Woodruff, superintendent of Partlow State School from its founding until 1944. "Tennessee" Harriis is a graduate of the University of Alabama, a Marine veteran, and is now in the real estate and insurance business in Tuscaloosa.

The South is Americe's Land of Opportunity as a result of the great Democratic reforms of the past 20 years. As your Delegate to the Democratic National Convention, I will work for a fair and just Party Platform that will continue those benefits. I will vigorously oppose any plank in the Platform which will be discriminatory to the South or against our way of life.

I favor the nomination of a Southerner for President of the United States—a man like Senator Dick Russel of Georgia, for instance, who is regarded in both the North and the South as one of the great statesmen of our time. Regardless of who he may be, we must be sure of obtaining a Democratic presidential nominee who will carry through a favorable Party Platform.

Club Women Planning Meals

By MARY HULSEY
A. P. I. Extension Food Specialist

Home demonstration club women in Alabama are now interested more than ever in planning and preparing proper meals for their families.

Last year, there were 3,241 food and nutrition leaders in the state, representing 1,441 home demonstration clubs. The leaders attended the leadership schools and repeated the demonstrations in their local clubs. A total of 1,961 foods and nutrition leaders attended the leadership meeting.

Phases of the program emphasized in these meetings were food production and preparation and nutrition. Demonstrations stressing food preparation were given in each county. This tye of demonstration included casserole dishes, cooking with peanuts and peanut butter, cooking and serving fish, eggs—every day a different way, cake baking, seasonal refreshments, oven meals, cooking with enriched corn meal, planning and serving family meals and vegetables in the meals.

A REPORT

To the People of Shelby County --- from HOMER J. WALTON

We are now in the home stretch of my campaign for Probate Judge. I have done my best to see as many voters as possible during this campaign, and wiill continue to do so right up until the last minute. To those whom I have missed I would like to make the following statement.

Before selling my Funeral Home to Robert N. Bolton last year, I served the people of Shelby county 21 years as their Funeral Director. During that time I learned to give the public the service they wanted and deserved. When elected your Probate Judge I will personally serve you in this new capacity to the very best of my ability.

My public and civic records have helped prepare me for your Probate Judge. Eight years as Mayor of Columbiana — Six years as Town Councilman of Columbiana — Two and one half years as Chairman of the Columbiana Housing Authority during which time a $600,000.00 Housing Project was built — Charter member of Columbiana Kiwanis Club. These and many other civic and public projects it has been my privilege to help promote.

My word is my bond, I won't go back on it. When elected I promise you a fair, clean cut, and honest administration of your Probate Judge's Office and your Board of Revenue and Control.

I want to thank you for the courtesies you have shown me and assure you that I appreciate any consideration you might be giving to my candidacy.

Respectfully,

Homer J. Walton

Candidate For Probate Judge

Home Clubs Have Made Great Progress

By MRS. LILLIE M. ALEXANDER
State Home Demonstration Agent

National Home Demonstration Week this year marks the 41st year of progress for the home demonstration program in Alabama. The program has broadened and the number of clubs has increased each year.

The 63,000 home demonstration women in Alabama today can look back on their accomplishments with pride. They started their program in the early years with an interest in growing and canning tomatoes, but today they are interested in a wide range of activities, of which lead to better living in their homes and communities.

The Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs is going forward with its objectives for a better life for families all over the state.

Home demonstration women are prepared to assume their responsibility for mobilization for defense, since their organization is functioning in 2,000 clubs in every part of the state. They are preparing themselves through cooperation with the Red Cross. There are 1,362 women trained as aids to nurses and 819 trained in home nursing.

Their interest in good citizenship is shown by the fact the members of each club study their responsibilities as good citizens in a democracy. Through their program, they are studying foreign countries in an effort to have a better understanding of their neighbors in other lands.

Club women have worked this year on improving the appearance of their communities by erecting 3,482 improved mailboxes and erecting 928 signs designating their communities. A number of clubs spent time and money beautifying cemeteries, churches, and club houses.

Home demonstration clubs sponsored 4-H Clubs all over the state, giving them help and encouragement with individual projects as well as with recreational activities.

The Farm Bureau objective of the Alabama council has emphasized the value of the Legislative program and the insurance program made available to Farm Bureau members.

Thirty-one minerals, including gold, are found in Alabama. But iron, not gold, is causing all the rush.

Mrs. Herbert Poole Selling Corsages

The making of nylon corsages has proved both pleasant and profitable for Mrs. Herbert Poole of the Pelham-Keystone Club. Since the recent demonstration on making of nylon corsages in Clubs in Shelby County, Mrs. Poole has sold them faster than she could make them. Her corsages are being worn in 4 states. Some have been fashioned from pictures in colored seed catalogues, some from famous paintings and some from nature. Colors are carefully blended and contrasted for artistic effects in which Mrs. Poole finds most fascinating.

Club Women Plan Attractive Homes

By ALICE PEAVY
A. P. I. Extension Economist in Home Furnishing

Each year more progress is seen in the home furnishings program. Home demonstration club members are even more enthusiastic about the program since they have found that so much can be done with what they already have.

They are interested in learning the right way to plan color schemes and to make curtains, linens, and lamp shades. They are anxious to know how to hang pictures more effectively, and how to use their accessories to better advantage. They are learning that attention to even the smallest details will add much to the attractiveness of their homes.

Alabama women are taking advantage of the information offered through their home furnishings program. In 1951 home demonstration agents estimated that $12,800 was saved on the 2,400 slip covers made by club members. The members also upholstered 2,300 pieces of furniture at a saving of $15,600. There were 7,600 pieces of furniture refinished at a saving of $12,400.

The 67 counties used a total of 93 home furnishings demonstrations and 20,186 club members were assisted. These demonstrations were given 1,277 times by agents and 386 times by leaders.

Last year, there was a total of 770 living room result demonstrations conducted, 345 dining room demonstrations, 791 bedroom demonstrations. These demonstrators improved 1, 578 walls and 1,125 floors. They refinished 2,003 pieces of furniture, upholstered 806, and made 841 slip covers. These club members acted as leaders in their communities and assisted others with their home furnishings problems.

A total of 40 4-H home furnishings demonstrations were used in monthly meetings. These demonstrations were given in 1,168 4-H Clubs for 16,098 club members.

Cash Prizes For Poster Contest

High School students in Shelby County will have an opportunity to win one of three cash prizes to be given in a State Poster Contest, inaugurated by the Department of Alabama, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4921 have voted enthusiastically to support the contest in this county, it was announced by Post Commander.

The contest is open to any student in the ninth to twelfth grades inclusive, and the State VFW is offering a total of $150 in cash prizes, the first being $75 for the best poster dealing with some phase of the rehabilitation of the physically handicapped, it was explained.

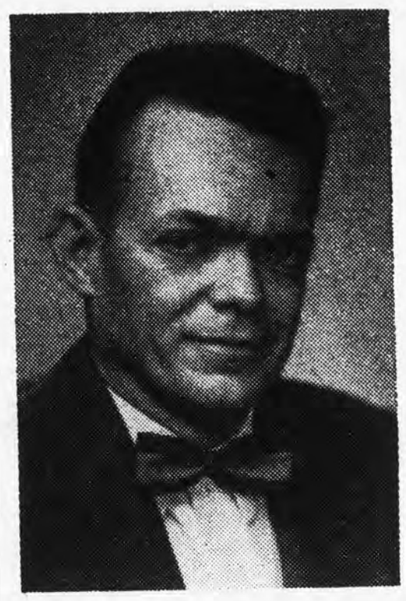

It is planned that posters of winning students will be used during National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, which is observed annually during the first full week in October.

In addition to State prizes, the local VFW Post No. 4921 also offers cash prizes to county winners as follows: $10.00, first prize; $6.00, second prize; and $4.00, as third prize.

Mr. Jeffers, director of public relations of Post 4921, has been named chairman of the committee in connection with the contest, and serving with him will be E. M. Smith, principal of Calera School, and B. J. Varden, veterans employment representative for the Alabama State Employment Service.

The committee has already contacted principals of all schools in the county, soliciting interest in the poster contest, and provided each principal with rules which must be followed. Anyone interested in the project is asked to contact his principal.

Montevallo Public Schools

Two members of the County Board of Education will be nominated on May 6. Three candidates for the two places have announced. All three are good men.

Mr. John Foshee is a citizen of Montevallo. He has made an excellent member of the Board for the past term. He was elected by the members of the Board as Chairman. He is entitled to a second term. Montevallo and surrounding area has a large section of the population of the county and is entitled to representation on the Board.

We appeal to all voters of Montevallo and surrounding areas to vote and work for John Foshee as one of the two for whom you may vote.

Jack Is Fair, Let's Keep Him There

Alabama's Public Service Commission will be run on the same "fair and square basis" it now operates on, after the election May 6 of C. C. (Jack) Owen to succeed himself as president.

This pledge and prediction today came from the Public Service Commission president himself as the campaign draws to a close.

"Friends from every section of Alabama indicate that the voters of Alabama will be kind enough to return me to office May 6," Owen said. "Therefore, I now pledge to continue operating the Publice Service Commission with but one aim: To serve faithfully the best interests of all the people of Alabama."

Owen, an Auburn graduate, said he was proud of these accomplishments during his service on the Public Service Commission:

Alabama has cheaper electric rates than any other Southern state, with rates being cheaper today than before the War.

The Alabama public has had millions of dollars refunded in gas and electric rate adjustments.

Gas rates are cheaper in Alabama than in any other state East of the Mississippi River.

Owen has fought every proposed railroad fare and freight increase in Alabama since he's been in office.

He also fought the telephone increase which was authorized by the State Supreme Court over the protest of the Public Service Commission.

"The voters of our State may be assured that their Public Service Commission will continue operating on the same fair-and-square basis now followed," he said.

Owen, the former Marine Corps dive bomber pilot, scored a direct hit with Alabama voters for a Public Service Commission post in 1946. Later, in 1950, he carried 64 of Alabama's 67 counties.

The 36-year-old ex-Marine won the Distinguished Flying Cross and three air medals while fighting the Japs during World War II. He is married and has three children.

YEAGER HORN

Candidate For

Member Board of Revenue and Control

Of Shelby County, First District

Your Vote and Active Support Will Be Appreciated

MY RECORD:
What I Stand For . . .

I lived in Montevallo during the first 25 years of my life.

I am an Auburn graduate in engineering, Class of 1924.

During the past 25 years I have operated and managed my present business in Columbiana.

I have served on the City Council and have always taken an active part in civic offairs both local and county wide.

I am a Member of the County Board of Education.

I have over the years worked with the county agricultural and club workers in every way that I could because I believe the welfare of our farmers directly affects the welfare of us all.

I have served as Chairman of the Agriculture Committee of our Kiwanis Club for two years and am a director of our County Fair Committee.

I am an active church member and am president of our Bible Class that is tauught by Mr. Luther Fowler.

I am much concerned about our whole government and I believe we can solve some of our problems by electing honest businesmen to office.

My record, serving on your Board of Education, shows that I will fight for Economy until I get results.

I have no political ties or promises with any group and no person asked me to seek this office. I am running strictly alone and the so called "professional ring" of politicians are not for me.

It is very encouraging for me to know that so many of you that want to see honest and fair government are supporting me.

My only promise to anyone is this:

I solemnly promise an Honest, Fair and Economical administration.

I am sorry that I could not see each of you personally, but I hope the above statement will clear the issue for you.

I will deeply appreciate your vote and support.

Election Returns of Shelby County

With unofficial returns from the Primary Election still coming in it appears that Owen Bridges and L. C. Walker will go into a run-off election for Probate Judge. Unofficial returns give Walker 1669, Bridges 1180, and Walton 1013.

In the race for Circuit Judge it appears that A. L. Hardegree has a substantial lead with Frank Head running second and a possibility of a run-off in theis race.

The race for congressman from the sixth district provided a surprise for many with Hale County's youthful Armistead I. Selden leading Ed DeGraffenried by approximately 500 votes in the unofficial returns. It is reported that DeGraffenried has conceeded the race to Selden.

Montevallo's John Foshee was defeated in the race for Member of the Board of Education. Returns indicate the following: Cowart 1905, McGraw 1892, Foshee 1618.

* * *

For Member of the Board of Revenue Offie Stinson apparently lead both his opponents by a sufficient majority for election.

Chamber of Commerce

Members sponsored an F. F. A. calf show. An entrant in the Maid of Cotton contest and the location of E. S. Eiseman table manufacturing firm in Montevallo.

To promote Montevallo. The chamber installed road signs on highways leading into town, printed and distributed 5,000 leaflets on advantages here, advertised in the New York Times for industries, studied the possibility of a farmer's curb market and put a representative on the Birmingham Committee of 100.

It cooperated with the Industrial Development division of Alabama Power, state chamber of commerce, state planning board, Southern Railroad to solicit new industries here. An active prospect is a Masonite Company interested in a branch plant in this area.

Housing Authority

Two low-rent projects will be finished by late October. F. F. Crow village on Main Street will include 20 units for white tenants. Alex Scott village on Graham Street behind Montevallo will house 32 negro families. Rent will be based on the size of family and amount of income. Apartments will be equipped with refrigerators, gas ranges, water and space heaters.

They will become town property when the cost has been paid back through rent.

The County Nurse visits Calera on the second Tuesday of each month and those children who were unable to take their shots this week due to late arrival of their notices can take them between the hours of 9:30-11:30 at the City Hall.

Messers Dick Dunaway and Carlos Warren enjoyed a fishing trip at Lay Dam Sunday. They report a nice catch of fish.

Lions Club

Recently organized, the Lions Club is headed by Lee Barclay. It has already assisted in the state sight conservation project of Lions Clubs and recommended three beneficiaries for treatment at the Jefferson-Hillman Hospital. The club will plan a community service program.

A Fourth of July Bar-B-Q at the College Lake is being planned by the Lions Club. Plans are being made for entertainment to make the afternoon and evening an enjoyable one. Ticket sale starts soon.

Study Club

A State Federated Club, the Montevallo Study Club has as its object to promote intellectual and social activities among its 20 members and take an active interest in civic affairs.

The community study has been made for the second year by the club. Its purpose is to make the community more aware of its civic responsibilities and to call attention of the community to the work of its various organizations.

This year the Study Club has also raised a $100 scholarship for a local high school senior to be awarded in May, 1952. Contributions were also made to the Bryce Hospital Recreation Fund and District and State Federated Scholarship Funds.

The club decorated and lighted a Christmas tree downtown and gave a Christmas box to a needy family. Members assisted in operating the Red Cross Blood Bank, maintained the climbing roses on the overhead bridge, purchased blind-made goods from Talladega, gave a school lunch each day to an underprivileged pupil, request added traffic lights, contacted the state legislators on public matters, contributed $40 to promote its county Maid of Cotton winner and raised $75 with a benefit bridge.

Town Council

A natural gas system was completed and gas code adopted. The council will furnish water and sewage facilities to the housing projects. New traffic and signal lights were installed and town limits extended out Siluria Road beyond Hubbard property.

City engineers made investigations and three recommendations for proposed new sewage disposal plant and system. Town employes other than elected personnel are now covered by Social Security.

Ordnances passed against unnecessary noise, regulating peddlers and solicitors and sale of goods from wagons. New truck, office furniture and combination sweeping and moving machine purchased.

Rotary Club

Members sponsored planting of over 500 crepe myrtle bushes, sold at cost to residents. The club contributed $50 to Negro High school library. sponsored the Red Cross drive and a $100 scholarship fund for a local student. Sponsored Boy Scouts and gave $25 to Maid of Cotton contestant.

Montevallo club was host to the district Rotary Assembly in Montevallo bringing delegates from all clubs in North Alabama.

NEW CONGRESSMAN

Youthful Armistead I. Selden of Greensboro according to unofficial returns has been elected to succeed Ed DeGraffenried as Representative in Congress from the Sixth Congressional District. Mr. Selden, who now represents Hale County in the state legislature will be one of the youngest men to ever represent this district in Congress.

Recreation Board

This board is supported by revenue from at least 50 per cent of the cigarette tax in the city and more if needed. It contributed $1,000 to the high school athletic field to add permanent bleachers and backstop. Highway department is grading and leveling the field.

Sanitary facilities were installed at Big Spring swimming area where an average of 65 children daily swam every afternoon last summer. The two guards on duty pulled 15 children out of the creek.

Swimming and tennis instruction have been added. Men's softball games are played on Monday nights and Fun Night is every Thursday. A total of $3,050 has been allocated for salaries and equipment to cover expenses for both white and Negro citizens.

Girl Scouts

There are two Scout troops. One of older girls and one of Brownies. The program includes typical Scout activities such as badge ceremonies, training and observance of Scout special days such as Juliette Lowe Day.

A. C., Laboratory School

The laboratory school is adding a lunch room to cost $20,000. The school has recently been evaluated by representatives of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The college has added a new indoor-outdoor swimming pool and a recreation area and lake. It received a bequest of $15,000 from the Edythe Savlor estate, the income from which to be used for scholarships.

Bloch and Comer Halls have been redecorated and requipped. New home economics facilities were added at a cost of $30,000.

Community Chest

The 1951-52 drive collected $1,743.71. Funds were allocated to support the Girl and Boy Scouts. Negro and white schools and welfare needs, including school lunches, clothing and medical care.

Dr. Kay Guest Speaker

The Montevallo branch of Alabama Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will have as its guest speaker May 20, Dr. Frank A. Kay, of Birmingham. [illegible] meeting in Reynolds Ha[illegible]a College, Dr. Kay will use a[illegible] "Basic Ingredients of Happ[illegible] People."

Dr. Kay, a Fellow [illegible] American Psychiatric Association and of the Southern Psychiatric Association, received his degree in premedicine at Birmingham Southern College, and did his graduate work at Emory School of Medicine. He completed his internship at Hillman Hospital and joined the Medical Staff at Bryce Hospital in 1923. He remained at Bryce's until he entered private practice in psychiatry in Birmingham in 1945. Along with his private practice he is Professor of Clinical Psychiatry at Medical College of Alabama. He is a Diplomat of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and a member of Sigma XI (Scientific Research Fraternity.)

This meeting is open to the public and everyone is invited to attend.

Honeymooning In Florida

Lt. and Mrs. Kent Garfield Alm are honeymooning in Florida after their wedding which took place Saturday afternoon. Also on their itinerary is a visit to the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. O. A. Alm in Binford, N. D. They will make their home in Europe where Lt. Alm is stationed with the USA.

The bride is the former Miss Jane Russell, daughter of Mrs. Festus Deal and R. H. Russell of Bessemer.

Farmers Market

The Montevallo Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a farmers market as a part of the program to promote farming in the area and at the same time provide an offering of fresh farm produce each Saturday morning. Any farmer is eligible to use the market to sell products he produces on the farm. The adult evening class and the F. F. A. chapter are working cooperatively with the Chamber of Commerce to get the market going.

Although the official opening is planned for May 24, it is expected that some products will be offered this Saturday. The market is located just east from Montevallo Lumber Co.

The committee working directly with the establishment of the farmers market includes: E. E. Aldridge, R. V. Cheatwood, Robert Thompson, Fred Haley, Eugene Reynolds, and M. Thornton. Agee Kelley, president of Montevallo F. F. A., will also have an active F. F. A. committee working in the project.

Sponsor Stock Show

Along with the official opening of the farmers market on May 24 will be the annual F. F. A. livestock show sponsored by the Montevallo Chamber of Commerce. Cash awards will be made to F. F. A. boys participating in the show. It is also expected that special prizes and gifts will be given to spectators as names are drawn from the official registration container.

The town recreation board and F. F. A. boys have provided nice dressing rooms and rest room facilities at big springs.

Civic Progress

New crepe myrtle bushes, ground breaking for federal housing projects to cost almost half a million dollars and added traffic lights downtown are some of the symbols of Montevallo's 1951 civic progress.

These were a few of the forward steps in the town last year as noted by the Montevallo Study Club in its annual civic report.

Mrs. M. L. Orr, Sr., and Mrs. John T. Caldwell made the study and presented it to the club at its recent meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Thornton, with Mrs. Rogan as co-hostess.

Gives Luncheon

On May 1, the Home Economics Foods I Class of the Montevallo High School had as guests for a luncheon Misses Jean Thomas, Ethel Harris, Mrs. Winona Brooks, Mr. B. W. Hamric, and their student teacher, Mrs. Christine Poe.

The luncheon which was served in the vocational building, was a climax of several weeks experience in planning and preparation of simple luncheons or suppers.

In this foods class the pupils are divided into four "family groups" who plan and work together to prepare simple meals that are suitable for families in this community. The invitation to their friends helped to make this meal a special occasion which the girls have learned can be happily practiced in their own homes.

The hostesses for the luncheon were Betty Lawley, Peggy Aldridge, Lou Ella Burdett, and Bobbie Dee Galloway.

Calera High School News

Two members of the 1951-52 athletic teams at Calera High School were initiated into the "C" club at the installaion ceremony in the club room at the school Wednesday.

President James Warren presided at this meeting and explained the purpose of the organization. He also stressed the improvement of scholastic work and loyalty to the school.

During the impressive ceremony the cardinal principles of the "C" club were explained by Jerry Mims as secretary-treasurer, James Findley and Billie Lucas vice-president.

The following lettermen were honored by being inducted into the organization: Wright Ingram and James Carden.

The Calera Schools will observe "School Beautification Day" next Thursday, according to an announcement made at the school assembly Wednesday.

All classes from the elementary grades through senior high school are expected to participate in the project. Committees were appointed to work the grounds, mow the lawn, clean the inside of the building in order that everything about the school would be ready for the graduation beginning with Class Night, Friday, May 16.

Approximately 30 children who will be six years of age on or before October 1, 1952 reported to the Calera P.-T.A. Wednesday in respond to annual summer round-up drive.

Some forty five letters were mailed to parents on Monday notifying them of P.-T.A. round-up by Mrs. John Thornton, chairman, and asking them to bring their children to the school for the pre-school check-up. Miss Dot Walker, County Nurse, checked the children and gave the vaccinations while Mrs. Thornton secured the information from the parents on the enrolment blanks.

Social Security

"No 'automatic' increase in benefits now being paid is provided for 1952 in the latest ammendments to the Social Security Act," said M. C. Folmar, manager of the field office located at 1825 First Avenue, North, Birmingham. "I wish to emphasize this, as every day in letters, telephone calls, and personal contacts, we notice misunderstanding exists in the minds of beneficiaries who are now receiving old-age or survivors insurance payments. No 'automatic' increase in the benefit rates presently being paid is possible under the law.

"The 1950 amendments do provide a new way of figuring benefits (the new start) in the case of those who have earned substantial social security credits for approximately a year and a half after 1950. In effect, this means full employment in 1951 and the first half of 1952. A pamphlet explaining the 'new start' is available at your social security field office.

"The only 'automatic' increase provided by the latest amendments to the Social Security Act was the increase in September 1950. That increase ranged between 50 per cent and 100 per cent of the monthly retirement benefit. There will be no additional 'automatic' increase in the benefit rate of some four and a quarter million persons now drawing monthly benefits, unless the Social Security Act is again amended by Congress."

On The Farms

To reach C. Cordes' contour planted strawberry patch one walks along a sericea field border. For several years this sericea has furnished good hay, although the tree shaded area would produce little else.

Below the terrace interval planted to the luscious Blakemores is a strip planted to corn, following contour lines. Each row helps handle rains that would erode this light soil, and also slows the water so that more of it soaks in to help the corn weather droughts such as this April-May dry spell.

Mr. Cordes, farming near Calera, insisted that I stop eating berries long enough to walk down to the terrace interval below the corn.

"Now there," he said, "is a grazing combination you can really recommend for winter and summer use."

There it was, a "critical slope," a steep area winding around the hill between two less sloping areas, bright crimson with reseeding clover blooms, but with thousands of waving tendrils of new kudzu in growth.

An electric fence around the long irregular area told how he utilized the area for emergency summer grazing, grazed it very close at frost to allow the clover to grow early, then to graze the clover just a few feet from tender green early corn.

Yes, Mr. Cordes, we'll buy that, but how about Rescue on kudzu, (Hugh McDaniel, 5 years) or Caley peas on kudzu, (John Rucker, W. J. Bailey, F. E. Williams, etc.) or just add Rescue to your clover. And, another F. E. Williams, this one from Chilton, finds hogs do fine year-round on that Cordes mixture.

Speaking of Rescue, see it now somewhere, and buy it where you can get mildew resistant strains.

Play At Thompson

"Hobgoblin House" is the name of the play to be presented by the junior class of Thompson High School May 9, 1952 in the high school auditorium at 8:00 p.m. The play was written by Jay Tobias and is being directed by Miss Iris Kirkpatric. The cast includes the following people: Jerry Bishop, Reba Bailey, Peggy Peeples, Jayne Acton, A. D. Causey, Dwayne Hardegree, Glenn Wade, Carolyn Barton, David Butler, Charles Garrett, Betty Fortenberry, and Kittie Crumpton.

South Calera News

The South Calera and Minooka Home Demonstration Clubs met jointly Saturday evening May 3 to celebrate Family Week with a tackey party.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Underwood very graciously donated the use of their building at South Calera as a community house until further notice.

About forty persons young and old attended this party and enjoyed fun. Prizes were given to the tackiest, the prettiest and ugliest persons.

Cake and punch were served. Everyone participating agreed they never laughed more and felt that the relaxation was well worth the work and effort.

"Better Get the V... on the Phone"

Pure-bred cattle—sign of the South's new, balanced agriculture—mean more money for stockmen, better standards of living on the farm, a growing demand for telephones.

Farm telephone expansion has been one of Southern Bell's biggest and most important jobs for years—and today is more important than ever. It is a job that takes a lot of money, materials, experience, know-how—and time.

In just the past 6 years we have tripled our rural telephones. We're building more and more rural lines as fast as scarce materials and defense needs permit.

Ten other letters were submitted with Mrs. C. C. Martin, Little Cahaba, winning second place and Mrs. Frank Wyatt, Klien, third place. Others entering the contest were: Mrs. P. A. Garrett, West Calera; Mrs. Lawson Ingram, Spring Creek-Valley Grove; Mrs. A. M. Muncey, Mrs. F. R. Wall, Yellow Leaf; Mrs. E. A. Turner, Mrs. G. S. Wilson, Mrs. Bessie Limbaugh, Klien; and Mrs. Zora Dunaway, Pelham-Keystone.

Mrs. Denson's letter follows: "Home Demonstration work has been an outstanding phase of my life because it gave me the dependable information of experts.

I learned the meaning of good nutrition; how to save vitamins, as well as how to cook and serve meals more attractively. This has meant better health for my family.

A study of fashions has taught me how to choose suitable fabrics, patterns and styles and more important, how to sew and save. This has not only meant a saving in the family budget, but, has also made me fashion conscious.

I have been able to make more beautiful, comfortable, and convenient home as a result of the demonstrations given in the club on home improvements and interior decoration. The demonstration on landscaping, gardening, laundering, child care, freezing and canning foods, dyeing, and several hundred other subjects of vital importance to a rural homemaker have meant better and happier farm living.

Home Demonstration work has given me an opportunity to meet with, and enjoy the fellowship of friends and to have an afternoon of recreation each month. Twenty years of the work has taught me ingenuity, given me more leisure, enabled me to spend wisely, and become a more efficient homemaker."

If you have an aluminum pan that's stained, stew some tomatoes in it and the stain will disappear.

MORE CHEVROLET TRUCKS IN USE THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

Stack up what you get for what you pay . . . and join the nation's largest group of truck users by choosing Chevrolet

By far the biggest number of truck users today are Chevrolet owners . . . and for good hard-headed reasons. Because what they get is this:

Low Cost—in purchase price and in upkeep. A truck that gets the job done. A truck that's rugged, long lasting.

Take a look at the four facts below . . . and see why you, too, will be money ahead with a Chevrolet truck. Come in and see us about it!

FACT NO. 1
Save money on purchase price
Stack up a Chevrolet truck against any other truck with comparable specifications. You'll find the Chevrolet truck lists for less

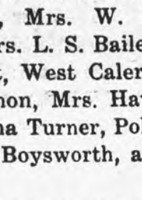

FACT NO. 2
Save money on operating costs
Hundreds of thousands of truck users have proved to their own satisfaction that Chevrolet costs the least of all to own and maintain.

FACT NO. 3
Save money on job efficiency
Chevrolet trucks are factory-matched to your payload requirements. You don't buy "too much or too little truck."

FACT NO. 4
Save money on low depreciation
Records show that Chevrolet trucks traditionally bring more money at resale than any other make which costs about the same new.

President, Alabama College

Jack Owens Is Still A Winner

In electing C. C. (Jack) Owen as President of the Alabama Public Service Commission, Alabama voters have for the third time picked this energetic young veteran for one of the State's highest elective offices, showing their recognition for the importance of his record and experience as Associate Commissioner and then as President of the Alabama Public Service Commission.

Upon his election, Jack Owen made this statement, "I am deeply grateful to the voters of Alabama for the confidence in me which they expressed on May 6th. I will continue, as in the past, to fight vigorously for lower utility rates along with more and better utility service for the citizens of this State."

Joint Concert At The College

A new type of cooperation among colleges will take place on Sunday, May 18, when the Glee Club of Alabama College at Montevallo is joined by the Auburn Men's Glee Club for a joint concert in Palmer Auditorium at 4:00 p.m.

The program will include selections by each of the groups as well as joint phases of the program. The serious music will include selections by Handel, Schubert, and Palestrina for the combined groups, followed by a group of folk songs by the Men's Glee Club and numbers by Greig, Ingegneri and others by the Alabama College group.

The combined groups will close with a spiritual and a Cole Porter number.

Harrison D. LeBaron is director of the Glee Club at Alabama College at Montvallo and the Auburn director is Walter S. Collins. Maxine Couch Davis will accompany the groups.

P.-T.A. Meeting

The P. T. A. will meet at Montevallo High School on May 20 at 7:30. Subject will be our lunch room. Dr. Lois Ackerly will be in charge of the program. Plans for next year will be discussed. All parents and interested friends are urged to attend.

Farmers' Market To Open Here Next Saturday

Plans are complete for the opening of the farmers' market on May 24. The F. F. A. boys will also have some of their animals on display and cash awards will be made to winners in the various classes of animals. In addition to the cash awards, several special prizes will be given to those having their names drawn at the time. Montevallo merchants will have special offerings and it is expected that an unusually large attendance will be on hand.

The G. I. on the farm trainees will also participate by having several of their choice animals in the livestock show. Mr. A. L. Little, teacher of the class, states that practically all the members of the class will have a part in the livestock showing and in opening the farmers' market.

Both the farmers market and the livestock show are sponsored by the Montevallo Chamber of Commerce. Mr. F. P. Givhan, the president of the Chamber of Commerce, has been active with the committee in getting all plans in order.

First, second and third prizes, from $5 to $1 in cash will be given for the following exhibits:

Best beef bull, any breed; best beef cow; best beef calf; best dairy cow; best heifer; best boar; best sow; best gilt; best of each breed of poultry, guineas, turkeys and ducks; best pair of rabbits; best saddle animal; best gent rider; best lady rider.

Edgar Givan Gets Scholarship

LATE THIS WEEK

Your paper is late this week on account of an accident in which our regular linotype operator, Nathan Mims, got severely burned on his hand by hot metal.

We were able to borrow the help of Carlos Wyatt from The Banner, at Clanton, and thus avoid what might have been a serious delay in our publication.

Printers are too scarce to burn, but accidents will happen, even in the best regulated industries.

Notice To Dog Owners

The present emergency order for confinement of dogs in Montevallo expires May 21. However, the Town Council has further ordered that no dog shall be released on the 21st unless it bear an official tag showing inoculation against rabies within the last 30 days.

Arrangement has been made for a veterinarian to be at Montevallo Milling Co., on May 19 and 20, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. for the purpose of inoculating dogs.

Dogs inoculated on those days will be registered and may be released from confinement. If a dog has already been inoculated in the last 30 days, it should be registered at the Town Hall before release on the 21st.

All dogs not bearing tags showing inoculation, if found running at large after May 21st, will be disposed of forthwith.

By order of the Town Council of Montevallo, May 13, 1952.

Reports Of Deaths

Montgomery, Ala., May 13—The 27,076 deaths from all causes which occurred in Alabama last year included 189 which occurred in Shelby County. The announcement was made today by the State Department of Health.

Students Visit Meat Plant

Excited and shivering from the cold air in the Ziegler meat packing plant in Bessemer, the Homemaking III class from Montevallo High School hurriedly put on fresh white coats provided them for their tour through the plant. The tour, which lasted an hour, showed many interesting processes in preparing meat for market. Probably the most interesting process seen was the progress of bacon through the various stages of smoking, chilling, pressing, slicing and packaging. In the 37 degree F. beef room, carcasses of cows exhibited three grades of beef — prime, choice, and utility grades.

Later in the afternoon the class visited the National Biscuit Co. There they saw the step by step process of commercial bread making.

Those visiting the two food companies were the members of the class: Glennie Dee Boothe, Clarice Chism, Bonnie Green, Lois Hoffman, Joy Holcombe, Gertrude Holsomback, Elaine Lucas, Joyce Lucas, Eleanor Mitchell, Lola Peete, Joann Phillips, and Emily Vest. The students were accompanied by Mrs. McGaughy, Mrs. Brooks and their student teacher, Miss Martha Alice Smith.

Combine School Next Week

We have arranged combine schools with the cooperation of our International Harvester, John Deere, and Allis-Chalmer Dealers. These dealers will all have combines and specialists to adjust and instruct in seed harvest. Tom Gailliard, Agricultural Engineer of Auburn will be here to assist.

We will harvest crimson clover seed, but they will give information on harvesting other seed.

The demonstrations are: 1:00 P. M., Thursday, May 22, on the Farm of C. D. Whitten. Mr. Whitten's farm is located just off the Columbiana-Wilsonville Highway, 2 miles north of Chapel Church.

1:00 P. M., Friday, May 23, on the farm of W. L. Lawler, which is located on the Calera-Montevallo Highway. All combine owners and operators are urged to attend.

P-K Home Club Family Night

In observation of National Home Demonstration Club Week, members of the Pelham-Keystone Club enjoyed Family Night with emphasis on husbands, April 26 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. McCoy. A huge bonfire provided outdoor pleasure for roasting weiners for the hot dogs. A horseshoe pitching tournament proved Geo. Bentley and Don Busby an unbeatable combination. The ladies enjoyed their session of "gossip-swapping", while the youngsters participated in rope skipping and games of their own choosing. The men are urging more such outings for the future.

Those enjoying this affair included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stubbs, Elaine and Martha Ann Stubbs, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Elliott, Barbara and Linda Elliott, Mrs. John Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hodges and son Brad, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Cumberland, Billy, Nancy, and Jane Cumberland, Mr. and Mrs. Kenith Cooper and Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Grady King and Elaine, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powers and Ida Eleanor, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bentley, Mynna, Eddie and Roger Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Don Busby, Jerry and Johnny Busby, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones, Raymond and Patsy Jones, Mrs. Zora Dunnaway, Rev. Willard Jones and son, Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pool, Mr. and Mrs. John Pool, Margaret of Camden, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pool, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. McCoy, Betty and Richard McCoy.

C. R. Falkner Expresses His Thanks

To The People of Shelby County:

I take this opportunity to express my appreciation to friends and supporters who assisted me in my race as a candidate for Member of the Board of Revenue and Control of Shelby County. I bear no ill will to those who did not see fit to vote for me, and I offer congratulations to Mr. Offie Stinson who won the race for this responsible position on our county's governing board.

Thanking each of you for your many courtesies as I traveled over the county and assuring you I shall never forget your kindness to me, I remain,

Yours very truly,

C. R. FALKNER

(Paid political adv. by C. R. (Shorty) Falkner, Columbiana, Ala.)

A Card of Appreciation

To the Voters of the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit:

I wish to express to you my deep appreciation for the ballot cast for me on May 6, 1952, in my candidacy for Circuit Judge. To those of you who voted for me, I am most grateful. To those of you who voted for my opponents, I hold no ill-will, for it is one of the great principles of our democracy to be able to cast our ballot for the candidate of our choice.

Sincerely,

A. L. HARDEGREE

National Guard Cooks Train At Camp Rucker

Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson, commanding the 657th Transportation Truck Company at Calera states that two members of his unit have returned from Camp Rucker after attending Food Service School since March 15. The two men who completed the course were Cpl. Edgar L. Crowson and Cpl. Lynn D. Naish. These men are assigned to the 657th Transportation Truck Company as cooks.

Cpl. Joseph S. Childress, another member of this unit, left last Friday for Camp Rucker to attend the Food Service School. He will be returned to his unit the last of August.

The Department of the Army is conducting schools of this type at all times for National Guardsmen. The men are carefully selected in National Guard units in Alabama and attend these schools upon their request and upon recommendation of their company commanders. No men are required to attend these schools unless they desire to do so.

Lt. Nickerson also stated that several more men are being processed to attend a general mechanics school at Fort Jackson, S.C. next month.

The 657th Transportation Truck Company, which is located in the high school in Calera, holds its weekly drills each Tuesday night at 7:00. Men who are interested in joining this unit can call at the headquarters from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday of every week. First Sgt. James C. Martin and SFC Harvey T. Bagwell are on duty there and will be glad to discuss the possibilities offered by that unit.

South Calera Club Meeting

The South Calera and Minooka Home Demonstration clubs met together Saturday evening, May 3 to celebrate Family Week at the J. T. Underwood place on Highway 31. Quite a number of families enjoyed this get together, dressed in fancy dresses, tacky costumes etc.

Prizes were given to the tackiest dressed person, the prettiest and the ugliest. Games for young and old were played. Refreshments were served to about 40 persons, and from all indications, everyone present had a most joyous evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Underwood offered their store building as a community center until the time they may want it for business.

This gracious hospitality is very deeply appreciated by the clubs and the young people.

Expression of Thanks From Offie Stinson

To you who stood so loyally by me in the Board of Revenue and Control, I do not know what words to employ in trying to express my gratefulness to you.

I wish to further say to you who may not have supported me that I am no less your friend than had you supported me.

I pledge to you my best effort in the discharge of my official duty to you as citizens of Shelby County.

Again I say to you if I can serve you in any way, I am ready to go the last mile with you and for you.

Respectfully,

OFFIE STINSON

Spring Time Is Slip Cover Time

A group of homemakers in Pea Ridge, Alabama, is transforming the old into the new with slip covers for their chairs and sofas. With the guidance and help of Mrs. Rebecca McGaughy and Mrs. Winona Brooks of the Montevallo Home Economics Department, these people have discovered that slip covers are an economical and practical way to add life and sparkle to old furniture.

Slip covers represent a considerable investment in money, time, and labor. Therefore, it pays to choose fabrics that wear well, wash without shrinkage and hold their color against light and laundering. The wise homemaker stretches her budget by choosing slip cover fabrics that can be washed at home. If a fabric is not labeled as preshrunk and fast color, the homemaker might buy three-fourths of a yard and launder it at home. Measure the sample of fabric before and after washing and see how much shrinkage occurs; also notice whether or not there has been any change of color. If the shrinkable fabric is still preferred it should be washed and ironed before being made into slip covers.

It is wise to choose closely woven fabrics for slip covers. They hold their shape and are easy to work with. Firmly woven fabrics protect the furniture from dust which may sift down through thinner, loosely woven fabrics. Some appropriate materials for slip covers are permanently glazed chintz, cretone, plain or striped denim, glatia, rep, and French ticking.

When selecting slip cover fabric one must be careful to choose colors and designs that harmonize with the other furnishings in the room. Many authorities recommend choosing one article in the room and building the rest of the color scheme around it. For example, a printed fabric may be used for the sofa and the colors in the fabric repeated in other furnishings in the room. The design of the fabric must harmonize with the piece of furniture on which it is to be used. The larger the piece of furniture the larger the design that can be successfully used on it.

ARMISTEAD I. SELDEN

Selden Plans District Tour

Greensboro, Ala., (Special), May.—Armistead I. Selden, Jr., 31-year-old Greensboro legislator who was recently nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Sixth District, announced this week that he had plans to visit every county in the district during the next few months.

"I expect to see as many people as is physically possible during this period, and to discuss with them their problems and their views on legislation.

"In the meantime, I want to thank them all for the wonderful support they gave me in my race. I am both grateful and humble, and I can assure you all that I will do the best job with in my ability as your congressman."

The official count, as announced by the State Democratic Executive Committee, showed Seldon's majority to 740 votes.

Dr. Carmichael Will Give Commencement Address

Dr. O. C. Carmichael, former President of Alabama College, will make the Commencement Address to the Class of 1952. Commencement Exercises will be held in Palmer Auditorium Monday, June 2, at 11 a.m. Dr. Carmichael, who left Alabama College in 1935 to become Dean of the Graduate School of Vanderbilt University, has chosen as the topic of his address, "The Role of the Teacher."

DR. O. C. CARMICHAEL

Many years of experience in the profession of education enables Dr. Carmichael to speak with the wisdom and insight that such a background would suggest. A native of Goodwater, Alabama, Dr. Carmichael received his A. B., M. A., and LL.D. from the University of Alabama. In 1917 he went to Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar, receiving a Bachelor of Science degree and a diploma in Anthropology.

In 1922, he came to Montevallo as Dean of the College and Assistant to the President. Alabama College knew him as its president from 1926 to 1935 when he took a position at Vanderbilt. From the initial post of Dean of the Graduate School, he became first Vice-Chancellor and then Chancellor in 1937.

Carnegie Foundation

Vanderbilt lost him to the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, where he served as President. At present he is President of the Executive Association of the Carnegie Corporation.

Dr. Carmichael holds numerous honorary degrees from various colleges and universities; among them—LL.D., Duke University; Doctor of Humanity, Birmingham- Southern; LL.D., University of South Carolina. He is Vice Chairman for the Committee on the Needs of State Universities, and Chairman of the Board of Trustees, New York State University.

The Commencement Address and awarding of degrees will climax Commencement Weekend.

CAPT. WALTER ADKINS

With the 3rd Infantry Division in Korea—Capt. Walter R. Adkins, Jr., of Montevallo, recently was awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon for meritorious service in Korea with the 3rd Infantry Division.

Captain Adkins was rotated to the United States last January.

He was cited for his service in the period of November 17, 1951, to January 27, 1952, as a member of the 15th Regiment.

Adkins joined the 3rd Division in November 1950. He had served 26 months in the Far East Command on a previous tour of duty.

He also holds the Bronze Star Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster. A graduate of the United States Military Academy, he attended the Airborne School at Fort Benning, Ga.

Star Spangled Banner was sung, after which Nancy Lou Avara led the American Creed and Jo Means the C. A. R. Creed. Joshua Lockwood Society's Junior President, Joanna Sharp, extended the welcome to the Conference. Caroline Jackson, Junior State First Vice-President gave the response.

Flowers and a letter of sympathy were reported having been sent on the death the preceding day of the father of Mary Bowling Breedlove, Junior State Recording Secretary, and Kay Strickland was appointed Recording Secretary pro-tem.

At this time the following distinguished guests were presented and brought greetings, Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, Regent of Hostess D. A. R. Chapter, David Lindsay; Mrs. A. W. Vaughn, General Chairman State Historian and Promoter and Past Vice-President General D.A.R.; two honorary State Presidents, C.A.R., Mrs. J. D. Albritten, State Promoter and Mrs. W. J. McRoy; Mrs. John O. Luttrell, Alabama State Regent, State and National Promoter; Mrs. Smith D. Fallow, Vice-President General D.A.R, and State and National Promoter C. A. R.; Mrs. J. H. Lane, Honorary Life State Regent of Alabama, and mother of the present State Regent.

Mrs. Harry Lee Jackson, Vice-President General C. A. R. was presented and spoke on C.A.R. work.

Following the C.A.R. song, Daniel Lee Albritten spoke on "The Continuing American Revolution."

Our 7 delegates to National Convention reported on same.

Anne Bonner, Credentials Chairman reported 72 members present, 13 state officers, 10 state chairmen, 23 delegates, 6 state promoters, 2 national promoters, 3 national officers, and 14 society presidents and 10 other D.A.R. visitors.

After luncheon in Annex to New College Dining Room the meeting was called to order by Joanna Sharp, George Washington's Prayer was read by Isabel Henderson and the Secretary read the minutes of the Thirteenth Annual Conference.

Following were the reports of State President, Mrs. Sharp, Junior State President, Joanna Sharp, Junior State Officers, Junior state Chairmen and Society Presidents.

Much excitement followed the awarding of the three sets of flags, three loving cups, the National Prize and the cash prizes.

Reese Hayes, chairman of the tellers, reported the election of the following Junior State Officers, who were installed by State Chaplain Isabel Henderson:

President, Caroline Jackson, Jane Bland Society; First Vice-President, Daniel Lee Albritten, John Robbins Society; Second Vice-President, Isabel Henderson, Anne Love Society; Chaplain, Annie Rankin, Captain Peter Jerrell Society; Recording Secretary, Kay Strickland, Jane Bland Society; Corresponding Secretry, Bill Hightower, Bonnie Kate Sevier Society; Treasurer, Dorvin Roden, Joshua Lockwood Society; Historian, Russell Caruthers, John Robbins Society; Librarian, Anne Bonner, John Robbins Society; Parliamentarian, Joanna Sharp, Joshua Lockwood Society.

"America" was sung by the assemblage.

Isabel Henderson led in the C. A. R. prayer.

The Recessional followed the adjournment of the Conference.

Next came a conducted tour of the campus including the "King House" built the year before Alabama became a state and still in perfect condition. The tour ended up at Alabama College's beautiful 28 acre lake where a most delicious picnic supper was served after an inspection of the large 180 bed girls' camp house and faculty house.

On returning to Reynold's Hall "Stunt Night" was held. There were 11 entries. First, second, and third prizes were awarded.

From here the group was driven to the ultra modern new California type swimming pool where they swam for as long as they wished. They were taken back to Reynold's for a bountiful midnight snack.

The girls were entertained overnight in Main Dormitory by the College girls, each of whom shared a room with a visitor. The boys were housed in the College Infirmary and in the home of the Junior State President.

Breakfast was served at 8:00 o'clock Sunday morning. Now came the trip up the "secret" stairs of Main Dormitory, down the hall of an upper floor and sliding down the circular fire escape which is a most hilarious occasion. Just a few minutes before eleven, Joshua Lockwood bid good-bye to the last departing visitors all of whom declared it was the best State Conference they had ever attended.—Joanna LaRue Sharp, Junior State President, Alabama Society C. A. R.

Students of Mrs. Hendricks Piano Class will be presented in Recital, Wednesday evening, May 28, at, 7:30 p.m., in Calkins Music Hall. Everyone is cordially invited.

Social Security Benefits $25,141.00 In Shelby County

Checks for insurance payments under Federal Social Security went to 936 aged persons, children and their widowed mothers in Shelby County for December 1951. Today the figures are slightly larger.

In releasing these figures today, Jack Adams, Field Representative of the Birmingham Social Security office, also said that these monthly payments under the old-age and survivors insurance program amounted to $25,141.00 in this county. "Without these payments earned by workers under this contributory system, the ability of many people to pay for necessities would have been drastically curtailed or entirely ended," he said.

More than one-third of all people over 65 in the United States who could not count on income from work for support, were getting social security insurance benefits. About 569 persons over age 65 in Shelby County were receiving these payments.

Mr. Adamson pointed out that this Federal program is affording substantial survivor insurance protection. Three out of every four mothers and young children in the nation are now assured of monthly payments if the insured breadwinner of the family dies.

In this connection, he cited monthly payments totaling $7,973 to 296 children and 71 widowed mothers in Shelby county. These monthly payments are going to families deprived of earned income by the untimely death of the wage earner. They are making it possible to keep families togeather, and keep children in the school, and, at the same time, lessening the drain on both public and private welfare funds, he declared.

Mr. Adamson added that he is at the Employment Office in Calera the first and third Thursdays in each month at 9:30 a.m. to assist the public in social security matters.

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA

To The Voters of The Eighteenth Judicial Circuit:

This is my announcement to you that I am withdrawing from the race for Circuit Judge. I wish to assure you that my aspiration is no less ardent than when the campaign began. The plain facts are that my opponent has received approximately forty-five percent of the votes, while I have received only twenty per cent. The odds seem almost insurmountable, and I am unwilling for a campaign of bitterness to be waged around the office of Circuit Judge such as would probably take place, should this campaign proceed further. To the many who registered their confidence in me, I am profoundly and humbly grateful.

My profession has meant a great deal more to me than any pecuniary remuneration which I may have received from it. In fact, the victories of which I am now proudest are those for which I received no such remuneration. To extend special favors from the bench to any individual or group because of past friendship, or from any personal motive, is to me most reprehensible. If any such favors should ever be granted, they would be to the weak, never to the strong. With those who might entertain any other concept of judicial integrity, there could be no compromise.

We shall now have for a judge a gentleman whose integrity is unquestioned, but his responsibility will be great. It is especially incumbent upon the members of the bar to up-hold him always, to the end that the confidence of the people in their Court shall not be shaken. To this end I pledge my best efforts.

Sincerely,

FRANK HEAD

Graduation Day Calera High School Last Sunday

The Baccalaureate Service for Calera High School seniors was held in the school auditorium Sunday at 11:00 a.m.

Rev. John Smith, pastor of the Baptist Church, Tallapoosa, Ga., preached the Baccalaureate Sermon. The subject of his timely message to the 1952 graduates was "Visions."

Rev. George Pharr, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Calera, gave the Invocation and Rev. Thomposn, pastor the Nazarine, pronounced the benediction.

The music for the service was under the direction of Mr. Pete Hill, Choir Director of the Calera Methodist Church.

The offertory prayer was sung by Miss Fernette Walton, Valedictorian of the 1952 class. The senior class also sang, "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead us."

The Prelude, Processional and Recessional was played by Miss Martha Rose Askins, member of the 1953 class.

Ushers for the service were: Norman Collum, Jerry Adams, Leon Dunn, Charles Alverson, Rebecca Sides, Lois Ford, Leila Timmerman, Carolyn Killingsworth.

The members of the decorating Committee were: Mrs. P. E. McMahan, Mrs. B. M. McRae, Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. Carlos Warren.

The 1952 senior class of the Calera High School was told to combine work, play, and religion in order to feel that life was worth living by Dr. James L. Brakefield, Director of Public Relations, Liberty National Life Insurance Company, at graduation exercises Monday evening.

The speaker said, "We need to learn how to work, play and depend on the Divine Power in order to gain the most from life." He also told the group when you work, work with enthusiasm in order to do the best possible job. There will be successes and reverses, but in either event never lose sight of the helping hand from above, which was always extended to help all mankind.

Diplomas were awarded to Fernetta Walton, Valedictorian; James Warren, Salutatorian; Delores Cadle, Citizenship; Activities, President; Eleanor Crim, Patsy Eden, Gloria McRae, Peggy Johnson, Ann Anderson, Sara Pearl Anderson, Gale Boggess, Dorcas Simpson, Myra Nell Spain and Harold Edwards.

Medals were awarded to Fernetta Walton, Valedictorian; and James Warren, Salutatorian; Delores Cadle, iCtizenship; Activities, Peggy Johnson. James Warren also received the athletic award given.

Leadership awards were presented to Billy Lucas and Eleanor Crim.

Home Club Leaders Training Meeting

"Painting Figurines" will be the subject of The Training Meeting for Home Demonstration Club Leaders on Wednesday, May 28th. The meeting will begin at 9:30 a. m. in the Old Courthouse Auditorium, Columbiana.

Leaders will learn to paint figurines and will teach special interest groups in their Clubs at a date to be scheduled.

Montevallo Summer Recreation Program Is Ready To Start

The summer recreation program in Montevallo will get under way June 3 for the boys and June 9 for girls. Miss Behannon and Coach Fisher recently conducted a survey in the Montevallo school to see the recreational activity that was most popular. The first choice for girls was swimming; with softball second; and tennis third. For the boys first place was baseball; second place, swimming; third place, fishing. There was a total of 41 recreation activities to be chosen from. The boys voted on 34 different ones and the girls 33. The total results will be posted on the bulletin board between Jeter's store and Montevallo Drug Store.

Girls' Program

Softball — All ages invited to participate. Want as many teams as possible. Plan to play out of town teams. If practice hour is not satisfactory, can be changed to accommodate most everyone.

Tennis — Tournament later in the summer.

Swimming — At the creek. Every afternoon except Sunday, 2:00 to 5:00.

Camping — This program has been especially designed for the Girl Scouts, but anyone interested in campcraft and outdoor cookery is invited to come. The director will be happy to help in any activity not included in the program, and volunteer workers are always appreciated.

Boys Program for Summer

Monday through Friday —Baseball (boys under 12), volley ball, tennis, boxing. High school ground 8:30 to 12:00 morning.

Monday through Saturday — Swimming at the creek, volley ball ping pong, checkers, water polo, diving and swimming contests. 2:00 to 5:00, afternoon.

Monday night — Men's softball league (if field is available).

Tuesday night — Adult night at the school.

Thursday night — Teen age group night with teen agers helping to plan their own program.

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday nights — Tennis available with one of the directors there.

Notice!

This is a tentative plan. We hope to add many things to it—some of those that were voted on in the survey. And outside assistance will be welcomed. — Theron Fisher, Gail Houston, Directors.

Girls' Morning Program

Monday — Tennis instruction at high school 9:00 a.m. Softball practice at high school, 10:00 a.m.

Tuesday — Youngster program.

Wednesday —Swimming instruction at creek, 9:00 a.m.

Thursday — Softball practice at high school, 9:00 a.m.; tennis instruction at high school, 10:00 a.m.

Friday — Miscellaneous at the high school, 9:00 a.m.; crafts and sports, etc.

Night Program

(For girls and boys; men and women).

Monday — Softball.
Tuesday — Adult night.
Thursday — Fun night.

Specials

1. Community picnic.
2. Overnight camps.
3. Square dances and social dances.
4. Skating party at Jemison.

Rev. G. E. Mullen Is Sunday Speaker At The College

The Reverand Gordon Edward Mullen, who will deliver the Baccalaureate address at Alabama College on Sunday, June 1, has served as Rector of Trinity Episcopal Church in Florence, Alabama since 1946.

Baccalaurate sermon is scheduled for 11:00 a.m. on Sunday in Palmer Auditorium.

The Reverend Mullen spent the years from 1929 to 1946 as missionary to China and the Philippines, serving most of that time as Administrator of St. Luke's Hospital in Manila.

The appearance of Dr. Mullen at the Baccalaurate begins the two final events of Commencement. On Sunday afternoon the traditional Garden Party of the President will bring friends, visitors and alumnae to the campus to meet Dr. O. C. Carmichael, former president of the college, now with the Carnegie Foundation.

Dr. Carmichael will deliver the Commencement address on Monday, June 2, at 11:00 a.m. in Palmer Auditorium. Commencement activities close with the luncheon honoring Dr. Carmichael and the graduating seniors at 1:00 p.m. on Monday.

Calera Guard Unit Week End Camp At Spring Creek

Last week end the National Guard unit located at Calera, conducted the second of a series of 3 week end training periods. The 657th Transportation Truck Company bivouac was held Saturday afternoon and Sunday near Spring Creek Church. Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson, commanding officer of the company, directed the training for the men during the training period. He was assisted by Lt. Charles A. Knowles and Warrant Officer, Hobson G. Searcy.

The 657th is receiving training in basic military subjects at this time in preparation for the annual summer camp. At camp this summer the men will receive training in the jobs they will be expected to perform in the company, such as truck driving, mechanics, clerks, and other jobs essential to keep the company in operation.

The men of this company are progressing satisfactorily in their training, according to First Sergeant James C. Martin. They are rapidly forming into a military machine that would be able to operate as a truck company in the event they were needed.

The 657th is assigned to the 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group at Selma. This group is commanded by Col. Bob E. Morrow of Selma.

Regular armory drills are held at 7:00 p.m. every Tuesday night at Calera High School by this national guard unit.

Opening Of Farmers Market Last Saturday Brought Many People and Events of Interest

Last Saturday was the beginning of a farmers market in Montevallo. The Chamber of Commerce under the direction of F. P. Givhan, president, gave the farmers market a grand opening by giving close to 100 prizes and gifts to those attending. Gifts ranged from special fabricated seat covers to hamburgers and barber service. Although it rained most all morning over 400 people were registered for the special gift award program at 4 o'clock. Farmers in attendance expressed thanks and appreciation to Montevallo Merchants and the Chamber of Commerce for the fine spirit shown in promoting the market and gifts.

F.F.A. boys were given $84 in cash awards for display livestock. A. L. Little and his on-the-farm trainees and their families treated the 70 F.F.A. boys to ice cream, lemonade and cake. This group ducked from the rain to the vocational agriculture building where they were active for part of the day's events from 10 o'clock until 1 o'clock. Mrs. Ernest Lucas was the winner in the $5.00 award for the best home prepared cake.

At 3 o'clock, Agee Kelly, F.F.A. president, and Alton Smitherman, F.F.A. president elect, crowned the F.F.A. Sweetheart, Florence Daly.

The farmers market should be well under way within a few weeks and it will be fine if customers would check by the market each Saturday morning. The market is located just back from Hoffman's Store and is east from the Montevallo Lumber Company. Any farmer can use the market place to sell his produce any day of the week; however, it is expected that Saturday morning will be the regular time.

The Agriculture Committee of the Chamber of Commerce is anxious to see the farmers use the market place each week. Effort is being made to encourage farmers to produce for the market and consumers to purchase there in order to make the market mutual to all concerned.

Poultry Processing Plant In Prospect At Montevallo

If present plans materialize it should not be a surprise to hear of several local families realizing an extra $1,000 or $2,000 annually from producing broilers as a supplement to present income. If the processing plant goes in here along with it should go a promotional program making it possible for those desiring additional income to go into either small-scale or large- scale production. The Chamber of Commerce has been following the processing phase of poultry production carefully since the F.F.A. boys and some business men visited Gainsville, Georgia early this year. Don Lovelady has constructed the first demonstration unit and now has a 3000 capacity house using infra red electric brooding lamps. Indications are that the market should be favorable to producers with chicks in the brood now.

Auburn Graduates

Among the candidates for degrees at the spring quarter commencement at Auburn May 31, are the following students from Shelby County:

Robert Adams Edwards, Calera, Bachelor of Science in Agriculture; Gerald Alfred Jackson, Wilsonville, Bachelor of Science in Agriculture.

F H A Convention Next Week At Alabama College

The Alabama Association, Future Homemakers of America, will meet at Alabama College for its 16th annual convention beginning June 4 and continuing through June 7. Over 700 girls are expected to attend.

Playing an important role in the convention will be the 11 state officers who come from eleven different Alabama schools. Edith Bailey, president, Glencoe High School; Beth Avery, vice president of Central District, Five Points High Schoo l; Carolyn Johnson, vice president of Northern District, Morgan County High School; Sue Murphy, vice president of Northwest District, Central High School; Gatra Reid, vice president of Southeast District, Andalusia High School; Jennie Ruth Eddins, vice president of the Southwest District; Elaine Jones, secretary treasurer, Barbour County High School; Sarah Mayton, parliamentarian, Orrville High School; Mary Chalres Mahaffey, reporter, Montevallo High School; Betty Jane Henderson, historian, Tuscaloosa High School; and Nanette Nivens, song leader, Chilton County High School.

Dr. John T. Caldwell, president of Alabama College, will give the welcome address at the opening session. Also on the agenda for the week will be the district and state selections of Miss Future Homemaker of Alabama, election of state officers for 1952-53, a talent show, swimming in the new pool on the college campus and business sessions.

Honarary membership will be bestowed on Dr. Agnes Ellen Harris, dean of the school of home economics, Universtiy of Alabama; Mr. C. S. Keller, managing director of the Alabama Chain Store Council, Abbeville; Mr. W. J. Terry, State Superintendent of Education; and Mr. R. H. McIntosh, general manager of the Alabama State Fair, Birmingham.

Serving in an advisory capacity to the state officers and chapter members are the state supervisor of home economics education, the assistant supervisors of home economics education, and the high school home economics teachers in Alabama.

Miss Baxter Wins F H A Scholarship

Wanna Leigh Baxter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Baxter, of Tibbie, Alabama, has been selected as the 1952 recipient of the Mary Ling Hayley FHA Gift Scholarship.

Applicants for the scholarship stood an achievement test at Alabama College March 15.

Miss Baxter is a senior at the Washington County High School at Chatom and has been active in FHA work both at the local and state levels.

The recipient will use this scholarship to begin her college education at Alabama College in September. She will major in vocational home economics.

Clubs May Get Defense Films

Mrs. Mary Hood relays to us for publication the following letter from J. M. Garrett, Jr., Director of the Alabama Department of Civil Defense, to civic clubs of the state:

"In every community across the country, civic organizations are launching energetic efforts to educate their people on the nature of atomic attack and to provide them with training for protection against it. This will be all-important in the event of emergency.

"This department has established an excellent film library from which we shall be happy for you to select films to be used on your programs. There is no rental charge for the films."

To this letter Mrs. Hood adds: "I think this information should reach all civic clubs in the county, and I don't know of any better way than for you to publish it in your paper. I believe each civic club should make an effort to use these films at least one meeting a year. I have a list of the available films and will be glad to furnish it to any club."

Dr. Bernice Moore Is F H A Speaker

Dr. Bernice Milburn Moore, consultant in the fields of home and family life education and mental hygiene in family and community living, will be a featured speaker at the 16th annual convention of the Alabama Association, Future Homemakers of America. This convention will be held on the Alabama College campus in Montevallo June 4 to 7.

On Dr. Moore's education record appear all the degrees one could wish for — Bachelor of Journalism, University of Texas; Master of Arts, University of Texas; and Doctor of Philosophy, University of North Carolina.

"When We Share, We Care," is the topic which Dr. Moore will discuss with the Future Homemakers at the Thursday morning session. During the afternoon Dr. Moore will direct some thirty interest groups on "Processes of Sharing."

A Statement

BY OWEN BRIDGES

Candidate for the Office of Probate Judge
Subject to the Primary Election of June 3, 1952

I want to express my appreciation to the people of Shelby County for the many courtesies extended to me during my entire campaign.

It is my feeling that the office which I seek is one of dignity and honor; that a candidate for this office should not stoop to mud-slinging and smear tactics; therefore, I have waged a clean, aggressive campaign, at all times showing the proper respect for my opponent.

With an unshaken faith and the utmost confidence in the good people of Shelby County, I leave the fate of my candidacy in your hands.

Your vote and active support will be appreciated.

Home Loans For War Veteranss

The Regional Office of the Veterans Administration in Montgomery has announced that the sum of $835,000 has been appropriated for the purpose of making direct home loans to veterans in Alabama. This money is to be used for the quarter ending June 30, when another appropriation will be made.

Officials of the VA regional office in Montgomery say that they now have on hand about 400 applications for direct loans. In addition, they have about 300 letters requesting application forms. The letters have been received since the VA discontinued accepting applications some time ago. We are informed that the present $835,000 will take care of about 111 loans. We are unable to say how much the additional amount to be received on July 1 will be. It may be more and it may be less, or it may be the same.

It is believed that a number of applications now on hand will be canceled. Also, it is probable that a number of veterans ,who wrote the VA requesting loans have now made other arrangements for financing their homes. The Veterans Administration advises us that interested veterans who have not filed formal application or who have not written letters about a direct loan should continue to write letters so that they may be placed in line for consideration.

At the present time the Regional office is processing formal applications on file according to the date of receipt of the application and will continue this policy until the total number of pending applications is disposed of. When this is done, they will send a notice to each veteran who has made a request by letter, as their names are reached by receipt date, informing them that they will be allowed 15 days to file a formal application. The application form will be enclosed with the letter. There are some cases where the veteran filed a formal application after the date on which the VA stopped receiving them. In these cases the application was returned to the veteran with a notice that he would be advised when his name is reached for consideration and that application should be made again at that time.

The Alabama Department of Veterans Affairs is compiling a complete list of all former prisoners of war residing in the state. If you were in the hands of the enemy during war time, we ask that you contact your nearest county veterans service officer of the State Department of Veterans Affairs. This might be of great importance to you or your survivors.—E. J. Sullivan, Veterans Service Officer, State Department of Veterans Affairs, Columbiana.

Ebenezer Club Weiner Roast

The members of the Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club entertained their families with a weiner roast May 17 at the Ebenezer Church. Games were played and lunch was served to the following members and their families: Mr. and Mrs. Warren Williams and Pascal Williams; Mr. and Mrs. John Harper and Miss LaVada Harper; Mrs. Amos Davis and Howard; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Nolen, Sue, Jackie and Paula and Jeannie; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. On The Farms Of Shelby County

G. I. trainees and F. F. A. members are cooperating in the F.F.A. Chapel Hill rescue grass harvest this week. The progressive young G. I. farmers stole a march on others by purchasing this entire crop.

A. L. Little invited us to attend the opening of the Montevallo farmers' market and we were unfortunately unable to come. We feel this is a good move and typical of the awakening interest in farming in the Montevallo area.

Only occasional plants of the recently planted coastal bermuda are coming up at most of the locations. What plants are living after the severe drought are growing fast. Fertilize them with a high nitrate fertilizer and get the quickest coverage possible.

O. M. Perry, of Wilsonville, is already cutting off rooted runners from his growing plants and transplanting to fill skips.

The Columbiana F. F. A. boys have already nitrated the growing coastal bermuda plants in their plot. They have made more than 6,000 pounds of Chapel Hill rescue seed on their four acre patch. Also there is an area devoted to several rows each of fescue, two varieties of sericea, two varieties of Bahia, Texas Blue Stem, etc.

Bobby Hawkins continues his good work at conservation farming by combining his rescue and other seeds. He also has the best first year ladino (in oats) we have seen.

J. W. Street is awaiting anxiously the germination of his test planting of rugged Alyce clover, planted for observation by the North Central Soil Conservation District and S. C. S.

Attending Girls' State

JOY HOLCOMB

ELEANOR MITCHELL

Miss Joy Holcombe was selected by the American Legion Auxiliary to represent Montevallo High School at Girls' State at Huntingdon College June 8 to 14. Miss Eleanor Mitchell was selected as alternate and is being sent by the Montevallo Rotary Club.

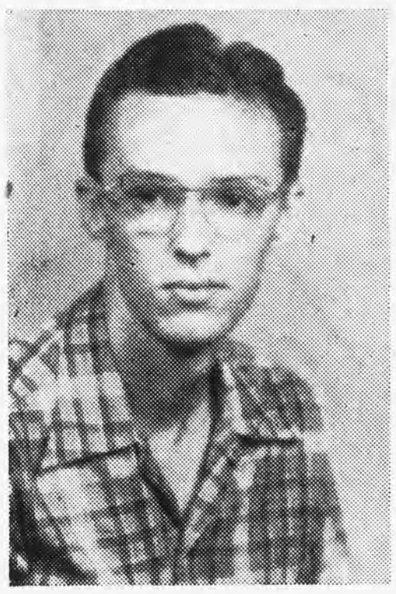

Joy is the daughter of Mrs. Robert P. Holcomb and the late Mr. Holcomb. She is head majorette for the high school band, member of the concert band and glee club. She was Homecoming Queen for 1951-52.

Among her other attainments and activities, she is song leader for the Montevallo Chapter, FHA, vocalist for the Montevallo Swing Band, vice-president of M. Y. F. of the Methodist Church, junior choir director for the church. She sings in the church choir and takes part in various community activities.

Eleanor is seventeen years old and has been a resident of Montevallo all her life. She is an active member of the Jr. Class and was a candidate for president of the Student Council in the recent election. She held the office of Sec-Treas. of the Student Council for the 1951 summer school term. She has been a member of the Montevallo High School Band for four years in which she has played the flute and piccolo, and served as a majorette for three years. She has been a member of the Glee Club for two years and an FHA member for three years. Eleanor enjoys all activities in the Montevallo Baptist Church, of which she has been a member since she was ten years old. During a recent revival meeting she rededicated her life to Christ. Eleanor is a member of the Youth and Chancel Choirs of the Baptist Church. She enjoys her sewing, which she makes nearly all her clothes. She has taken Home Economics for two years and has decided upon that for her future occupation.

Delegates To Boys' State

KENNETH SMITHERMAN

AGEE KELLY

Two boys, Agee Kelly and Kenneth Smitherman, who are top-notch in activities and accomplishments at Montevallo High School, will represent the school and community at Boys State.

Agee, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kelly, of the Merchants and Planters Bank, is one of the most active and successful students in the high school. Presently he is President of the Montevallo F. F. A. chapter, President of the M Club, President of the Student Council, active member of the Methodist Youth Fellowship, two-letter man in football and baseball.

In his past he has been member of the Student Council for three years; was president of his class in Junior two years; vice-president of his class in Junior three years; vice-president of F. F. A. in Junior three; president of F. F. A. in Senior one year; vice-president of his class in Senior one; vice-president of the Student Council in Senior Two.

Kenneth has been in Montevallo only one year, during which time he has shown exceptional qualities as a student. He will be a senior next year. He is prominent in all school activities; is vice-president of the Student Council. Last year he served as vice-president of his junior class. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Smitherman.

"The Spotlight" says:

"Climaxing an active school week of campaigning, Agee Kelly captured a landslide majority over Eleanor Mitchell in last Tuesday's school-wide election to win the top Student Council position of presidency.

"Agee, vice-president of the 1951-52 Council is also president of the M Club, president of the F. F. A. chapter, and is very active in church work. In the past he has held various class offices and has acted as representative to the Student Council for three years. Agee also plays football and baseball."

F. F. A. Members Present Program For Lions Club

The program at the meeting of the Montevallo Lions Club Tuesday night was presented by the Montevallo F. F. A. boys under the direction of M. Thornton, adviser. It was one of the four radio programs which the local boys will present at the F. F. A. convention at Auburn this week, June 4 to 6.

The Montevallo boys go to the state convention where they will represent 252 chapters of the Northwest District in state competition. Preliminary contests have already placed the Montevallo chapter in the top four chapters of the state.

At the Lions Club meeting the radio program was presented by Delmus Anthony, Calvin Hatcher, Charles Daviston and Agee Kelly.

Dan Whetstone made to the club the speech which he will offer in state competition at the Auburn Convention.

Judge Walker Wins In Close Race

It was a nip-and-tuck race between Judge L. C. Walker and Owen Bridges for Probate Judge in Tuesday's run-off primary.

Complete but unofficial returns for the county give a total of 1975 for Walker and 1861 for Bridges.

A majority of 114 for Walker therefore gives him a fourth term as Probate Judge.

The votes cast in the Montevallo box was Bridges 411, Walker 76. By holding on to the 76 votes in Montevallo, Judge Walker was able to stem the tide that was running strong for Bridges.

If the 76 votes who stayed with Walker here had gone for Bridges it would have made the county total 1937 for Bridges and 1899 for Walker.

All-Day Singing At Concord Church

There will be an all day singing and homecoming service at Concord Baptist Church, (Dargin Cross Roads), four miles North of Calera, just off Highway 31, next Sunday, June 8th.

This is becoming an annual event, and many outstanding singers and quartets are expected to be present.

A well qualified committee on program arrangement has been appointed, and all singers, directors, and quartets will have their splendid cooperation. Dinner will be spread at the noon hour. The public is cordially invited.

As the American Legion Magazine puts it, "Alimony is a matter of wife and debt."

H. B. Lackey Is Made Manager of Southern Bell Co.

Harry B. Lackey, a native of Alabama who started a career with Southern Bell Telephone Company in the Birmingham business office, soon will head his Company's business operations in his home state. He has been appointed Alabama Manager, with headquarters in Birmingham, to succeed Sam H. Youngblood, who has been appointed Tennessee Manager effective July 1.

The new Alabama manager, was born on Sand Mountain in DeKalb County, was educated in the Birmingham public schools, Marion County High School at Guin, the University of Alabama and Georgia Tech, being graduated from the latter. Joining Southern Bell in 1927, he steadily advanced to positions of increasing responsibility. He is widely experienced and is well qualified to assume his broadened duties.

HARRY B. LACKEY

Following his initial assignment in Birmingham, Mr. Lackey filled various supervisory positions in Atlanta, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla. He was advanced to Savannah, Ga., district manager in 1941, and became New Orleans, La., district manager in 1942. He joined the staff of the general commercial manager at general headquarters in Atlanta in 1950 and has assisted in directing business operations in the nine-state Southern Bell territory.

In addition to his telephone duties, Mr. Lackey has been active in civic and other public spirited enterprises wherever he has lived. While in New Orleans, he was a member of the boards of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau, International House, Safety Council, American Red Cross and Boy Scouts. He is a past president of the New Orleans Rotary Club, New Orleans Electrical Association and Louisiana Armed Forces Communications Association.

Barbecue, Dance Sponsored By Lions For Fourth of July

The Lions Club of Montevallo is completing plans to furnish entertainment for the people of this section on the Fourth of July. The planned events are a barbecue at the college lake at 5:30 p.m. and a square dance at the high school auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

The committees in charge of the arrangements plan to take care of everybody who may come, and all are invited.

Tickets for the barbecue are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children; for the square dance, $1.00 per couple. Tickets are now on sale and may be secured from any member of the Lions Club.

The Lions will use the money they make from these events in their civic improvement program. The Alabama Sight Conservation program is a special beneficiary of Lions Club assistance.

It is pointed out that already the Montevallo Club has aided four persons in Montevallo and Wilton who received treatment for fective vision. Two who were practically blind have been treated and one of them has already become able to hold a job as a result of Lions help.

This Fourth of July effort of the Lions deserves the hearty support of everybody. First, it will furnish a good barbecue and dance that will be excellent entertainment for the Fourth, and furthermore, those who attend these events will be contributing to the most worthy cause which the Lions hope to serve by the money they make out of the events.

The Curb Market In Montevallo

Editor The Times:

I've never thought I'd like to have my name in the newspaper, but since Mrs. Ollen Harris and I were the only ones to go sell at the Curb Market Saturday, I'd like to say a few words. The people of Montevallo were extra nice to come by Saturday morning, May 31st. We appreciated that.

I don't think I have ever talked to any people who were more interested in helping than those who came by our tables. One little boy saw Mrs. Harris there at 7 a.m. and came over and helped her rake and clear the ground where the heavy rain had washed quite a bit of trash near the tables. The ladies next door were our first customers and they spent some time with us, which made us feel good. As we felt a little bad over being the only ones who brought produce. A little girl stayed awhile too. I grow flowers and since I'm the pastor's wife of the Enon Baptist Church, I thought I'd like to take some flowers over on Saturday, sell what I could, and meet the people.

We welcome any who are interested, not attending services any where, to our little country church. I think once they come to Enon, they will get a blessing and we need more christian workers. So we can reach out and get the unenlisted and unsaved. Our revival begins June 15th, with Dr. L. E. Barton doing the preaching.

You can count on Mrs. Harris and me to be back Sat. to the Curb Market, where we hope to be able to bring a larger supply and some more of the Dry Valley people. This is a good community. We all grow things out this way and we hope to see those who we met last Saturday and also make new friends. A Curb Market booster. —Mrs. L. W. Stamps.

Columbiana Home Club Activities

Already this year the club has had Husband's Night, a barbecue in the beautiful garden of Mrs. John Green with 51 members and friends present.

Transportation was furnished to carry 4-H boys and girls to the 4-H Rally in Montevallo. (21 cars)

The club helped sponsor the cancer drive in Columbiana.

Cards are sent to members who are ill and to new arrivals.

The club has welcomed eight new members. They are as following: Mrs. Myra Chandler, Mrs. Kyle Mitchell, Mrs. L. T. Bozeman, Mrs. H. T. Seale, Mrs. W. H. Lee, Mrs. J. M. Leonard, Mrs. H. King, and Mrs. Jerrell Edwards.

The club members voted to start improving the cemetery grounds. The members requested that all persons interested in improving the cemetery grounds meet at the cemetery May 30th and spend the day.

The club will furnish refreshments such as home made cookies and punch for ninety veterans at the Veterans Hospital, June 10th.

The club also plans to cooperate with other organizations for the local school lunchrooms.

Uncle Bud Retires From School Job

Uncle Bud, for many years janitor at Montevallo Elementary School, has reached the time for his retirement from the job.

When it was told to the children last week that Uncle Bud would not be at school any more, it brought many expressions of disappointment to them. Their feelings toward Uncle Bud were expressed in many ways from silent tears to outbursts of praise in poetry.

The following expression was contributed by children in Mrs. Phillips' group, Ronda Albright, Sara Jeter, Judy Wallace, Sally Broadhead and Minovee Southern;

Our Uncle Bud

Our Uncle Bud,
So thoughtful and kind.
You would never find another such an Uncle of his kind.
When we play ball
He watches us all.
When we are anxious
For school to turn out,
He rings the bell early
And then how we shout!
We hope he will
Never, never change.
We know he will
Love us just the same.
We will always love him too—
Our Dear Uncle Bud!

Another touching tribute to Uncle Bud was don by Grover Hayes, Jr., as follows;

Uncle Bud is the best man
we ever knew.
He means the same to me
as he does to you.
He was here when we came many years ago.
Everyone loves him, that we all know.
Many good wishes, Uncle Bud,
to you.
From all of your children,
both old and new.

Home Club Leaders Attend School

Twenty-four leaders from 14 clubs learned to mix colors and paint figurines at a Leadership School in Columbiana recently. Painted figurines were exhibited and used as guides for color combinations. Leaders painted fruit and vegetable placques for the kitchen, colonial and chinese figurines, choir boys, angels, madonnas and ballerinas. The Leadership School was conducted by the home agents.

Leaders who attended this Training Meeting and will teach their club members at an arranged special interest club meeting are; Mrs. John A. Kent, Siluria; Mrs. Nelson Archer, Mrs. B. H. Green, Westover; Mrs. L. S. Hill, Mrs. N. T. Frost, Ebenezer; Mrs. H. J. Payne, Mrs. Carlos Warren, Calera; Mrs. D. G. Owens, Mrs. Farris Oldham, Acton; Mrs. P. M. Tennyson, Mrs. C. W. Champion, Sewell Hill; Mrs. F. E. Williams, Mrs. Bob Bolton, Columbiana; Mrs. George Bentley, Mrs. Herbert Poole, Pelham-Keystone; Mrs. E. A. Turner, Mrs. A. W. Justice, Klien; Mrs. Elvis Nolen, Mrs. Weaver Roper, Fourmile; Mrs. Guy Youngblood, Dargin; Mrs. Lydia Stockdale, South Calera; Mrs. W. G. McLendon, Helena; and Mrs. C. G. Saunderson, Mrs. W. E. Barrett, Wilton; Polly Morris and Martha Turner.

Visitors Here Last Sunday From Abbeville

Mr. Charley Nordan and "Miss Susie," from Abbeville in Henry County, were here last Sunday to visit their son, Clayton Nordan, and family.

The Nordans were brought here by their son-in-law, Mr. Horace Carter, and Mrs. Carter (daughter Inez) of Washington, D. C. Also members of the family group on the Sunday visit were Susan and Sandy Carter.

Mr. Carter is employed by the U. S. Weather Bureau in Washington. He is being transferred to a station in Asheville, N. C. Pending his transfer he and his family are on vacation.

Mr. Charley, who is up in the eighty-some-odds, was in his usual good spirits, and was having a good time, as is his custom wherever he goes. He very appropriately claims to be an "old timer," and he does not take on to any of the modern fads, except those which suit him, and which he has first proved to be sensible and practical.

For instance, he says: "Just look at that Johnson grass out there in Clayton's garden. The only weapon he has to deal with it is a goose-neck hoe and a little push plow. What he needs to keep even with that stuff is a fifteen hundred pound mule and a good Georgia goober plow stock with a six or eight inch turn plow and maybe a ten inch scooter to make it go a little deeper.

"Miss Susie has got one of them goose-neck hoes she piddles around with, making-out like she is working the garden. I guess they are just made for women. You couldn't kill a snake with one of them let alone Johnson grass. When you hit the ground with it, it will bounce three feet high.

"What I use is a No. 1 Scovil hoe with a good handle. And I can tell you no snakes nor Johnson grass don't bother me around my place. And as for plowing, I don't sweat and fool around with one of them little push plows. I hitch up my mule to a good plow stock and in a few rounds I can put the Johnson grass out of business for a month at least."

While here Mr. Charley insisted on visiting his friend, Mr. Luther Wooten. "When and where did you ever know Mr. Wooten?" I asked. "Well," he said, "I have known Mr. Wooten ever since Clayton came to Montevallo. He has been down to see me at my place a few times, and Charley Ray and some the boys take him bird hunting, and ocacsionally we go over to Georgia or down in Florida to a chicken fight if we can hear of one that has been announced."

Cancer Drive Starts June 9

The Cancer Drive in Montevallo will begin next Monday, June 9, and continue for one week. Funds collected will be used for scientific research into causes and cures for cancer. Cancer can strike anywhere anytime. Many of our own Montevallo homes have been hit by it. For most types of cancer no satisfactory cures have been found. With the number of cancer victims growing each year the need for research becomes more urgent.

Contribution boxes will be put in public places and a house to house canvass is planned. The Drive is being sponsored locally by the Yomaso Club. Give and give generously.

Students Represent Montevallo High

Montevallo High School is doing a splendid job in keeping this community up front in various state school activities.

This week there are four top-notch students representing the school at Girls State and Boys State. They are Agee Kelly, Kenneth Smitherman, Joy Holcomb and Eleanor Mitchell.

On the athletic side, Coach Fisher's Bulldog baseball team in the past week got to next to the top notch in North Alabama high school competition before they were knocked off.

M. Thornton's F. F. A. boys went to the State Convention at Auburn carrying the torch for the Montevallo district.

Fashion Show

On Tuesday afternoon, May 27, the Montevallo Home Economics II students had a fashion show and exhibit in the Home Economics department.

Some girls modeled dresses, blouses and skirts; others wore tailored garments, and several modeled afternoon dresses, all of which were made in class or as part of their home experiences.

A variety of colorful spring material, dotted swiss, organdy, dimity, waffle pique, broadcloth, and denim were used in the garments.

Several girls exhibited place mats, rugs, napkins and stools which were made as home experiences.

At the conclusion of the fashion show the girls served punch, cookies and mints to their mothers and other visitors.

Mrs. Glenn Lien, the former Doris Chism, of Larson, N. D. is spending a few weeks in Montevallo with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Chism.

Dr. Carmichael Pays Tribute To Teachers In Commencement Address Here Monday

Oliver C. Carmichael, President of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, paid tribute to the teaching profession of the nation in his commencement address Monday morning to the Seniors of Alabama College at Montevallo.

A former president of Alabama's state college for women, Dr. Carmichael returned to the platform in Palmer Auditorium today to address 120 graduating seniors, and to recognize the work of Dean Thomas H. Napier and President John T. Caldwell.

Dr. Napier retires as Dean of Alabama College on July 1st. and Dr. Caldwell assumes the presidency of the University of Arkansas on the same date.

"First of all, let me suggest that the teacher is the central figure in education," Dr. Carmichael said. Acknowledging the importance of the library, the laboratory, the physical plant and the endowment, the former president pointed out that genuine educational results may be measured "only by performance in the classroom and by daily contacts between the mature and immature mind."

DR. O. C. CARMICHAEL

Potential Influence

Aware that business, medicine, law and engineering have great appeal and perhaps greater prestige, Dr. Carmichael asserted that these professions have less potential influence on the social progress of the nation than does college and university teaching.

"The professor in the college and university guides, inspires and instructs the doctor, the lawyer, the preacher and all other business and professional leaders," the speaker said. Continuing he noted that the teaching faculty must mould the social outlook and crystalize the ethics and philosophy under which business and professional leaders are guided. Too often the brunt of scorn and derision in the past, the professor of today is respected and admired, said Dr. Carmichael.

"Pure research led to discovery of atomic fission, the greatest achievement of a technological age, so the scholar is not so impractical after all. The practical business man, the hard-boiled military leader and the government expert are all turning to the universities for help in the solution of their problems," he continued.

Greatest Asset

Institutions, today, are entrusted with the vouch of the nation, which Dr. Carmichael regards as this country's greatest asset, and as such, are highly regarded, capable of preparing and equipping the young people to fight the battles of tomorrow, he asserted.

"America's faith in education is the marvel of this century, as evidenced by growth of college population, by the increase in its support, and by expansion of the demands made upon it," Dr. Carmichael told the audience, adding that "this is another way of saying that America's faith in its teachers is unbounded."

The former Alabama College president urged teachers to maintain confidence in their own importance, warned that indifference may cause the student to lower his drive so that his education is less effective.

Waste in Resources

Referring to the waste in human resources, Dr. Carmichael noted that "home, school and church are the responsibility for this waste and consequent retardation of social progress."

The great teacher, he said, "has an inquiring mind, is alert, curious, interested in all knowledge, in knowledge for its own sake. He is a pioneer, striving constantly to push back the frontiers of learning."

Continuing he told his audience that the great teacher must constantly experiment with new ideas, that they must have, not merely curiosity, but a sense of social responsibility.

"There is danger that more will be trained for specific occupations, such as law and engineering than are needed," the speaker warned but reminded that here the college professors have another task in helping to adjust society to greater educational needs.

"Science and technology can teach men how to go but not where, what to do but not what to be, the means of living but not the meaning of life," he concluded.

Highest Honors

Students who were graduated with highest honors are: Olive Ruth Autrey, Kimbrough; Carolyn Cleveland, Gadsden; Dorothy Cobb, Birmingham; Joan Gregory, Montgomery; Patricia Isbell, Gadsden; Margaret Ann Kirkpatrick, Montevallo; Patricia Mayher, Mobile; Irene Pace, Scottsboro; Elizabeth Smythe, Hurtsboro.

Honors

Graduating with honors were these students: Erma Dean Barker, Brewton; Frances Box, Fairfield; Billie Buttram, Piedmont; Earline Decker, Albertville; Alice Ruth Eason, Prattville; Frances Echols, Greenville; Gloria Golson, Dothan; Betty Harrison, Dothan; Virginia Harrison, Greenville; Mary Jones, Phenix City; Sue Kyzar, Montgomery; Ann Lowery, Oneonta; Jane Odom, Mobile; Betty Ann Overton, Montgomery; Julia Studebaker, Indianapolis, Indiana; Lois Alene Plier, Randolph.

Home Ec Students Make Summer Dress

Sheers are out in front in the choice of fabrics for summer dresses and blouses. Many old favorites, such as dotted swiss powpuff muslin, organdies, batiste and voile, more popular and pleasing than ever.

The Clothing II students of the Montevallo High School Home Economics Department are well aware of this, because a glimpse of the attractive dresses and blouses they are making shows a beautiful variety of summer sheers.

Some of the fabrics that were popular with our grandmothers are back again in cooler crisper colors than ever—nile green, dimity, red and white dotted swiss and lovely pastel shades of organdy. These materials are ideally suited for the very femine styles of skirts in which the girls are featuring soft unpressed pleats or full gathers.

In class the demonstrations and discussions are about attractive seam and hem finishes for sheer materials, with stress on how to prevent fraying and stretching.

The slip that is worn under these sheers is an important part of the ensemble and can do much for the attractiveness of the dress; plain slips generally look better under figured or fancy sheers and dressy slips will be more appropriate under plain sheers.

No matter whether the slip is matching or contrasting in color, sheers are popular and very appropriate for comfortable summer wear.

Many Events For This Summer At Alabama College

The summer school session of Alabama College began Monday, June 9, with ten conferences planned for the eleven week session, according to Dr. M. L. Orr, Director of the summer session.

Fourteen new faculty members joined the College staff for the summer term.

Workshop credit courses will include studies in many fields, with the college's noted Resource Use Workshop beginning its ninth summer. Assisting Miss Ethel Marshall with this workshop will be Miss Blanche Dean of Birmingham.

New faculty members in the Teacher Training Workshop will include: Miss Esther Murphy, Director, Supervisor of Elmore County Schools; Miss Ollie Elmore, Elementary School, from D. A. R. School, Grant, Alabama; Mrs. Crump, Elementary School, Supervisor of Pike County Schools; Miss Ruby Cook, Elementary School, Livingston State Teachers College; and Miss Irene Ray, Elementary School, Georgiana, Alabama.

Mrs. Ward Barrett will teach Spanish in the foreign languages during the summer months.

Four new assistants in the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation are: Miss Elizabeth Howard White, Department of Physical Education, Michigan State College, Lansing; Miss Frances Bleick, Department of Physical Education, Pennsylvania State College, State College, Pennsylvania; and Miss Jane Kirk, Teacher in Dade County, Florida.

From Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Georgia comes Miss Emily Dexter, who will assist with the Psychology courses.

Miss Jean Dorrell of Washington D. C. and Mrs. Sara Towery of Alexander City will instruct in the Art Department.

First conference of the summer that of the Future Homemakers of Alabama was concluded Saturday after a three-day session on the campus in which more than 900 members from over the state took part.

Already in progress is the two-week conference which brings Dr Daniel A. Prescott, noted authority in child problems to Alabama College.

On June 9-14 and 16-21, two Methodist Youth assemblies are scheduled, with the Rev. Paul Duffey and Dan C. Whitsett holding key speaking positions.

The Alabama's Writer's Conclave will assemble June 22-24 for its annual workshop and convention. Mrs. J. A. Dahl of Mobile, president of the organization will be in charge of activity.

The Executive Board of Alabama Federation of Women's Club will have a two-day session on June 27-28.

Other conferences are the Alabama Christian Society, July 13-19, Business and Professional Women Board Meeting, July 26-27; Vocational Home Economics Teachers Assembly August 4-8; Children of the Confederacy, August 14-15; and Alabama Education Association Leadership Conference August 17-19.

Teachers Studying Child Behavior

An outstanding authority in the field of child study is on the campus of Alabama College for a two-week work shop with educational leaders from Shelby County, Cullman County and Cullman city schools.

He is Dr. Daniel A. Prescott, author, lecturer, Professor of Education and Director of the Institute for Child Study at the University of Maryland, and recognized international authority in child study work.

Dr. Prescott, who holds degrees from Tufts and Harvard, has taught in Geneva Switzerlad, Rutgers University, University of California and the University of Chicago before coming to Maryland. He served on the staff of UNESCO in 1948 and has contributed many articles to publications in Europe and in this country. His publications include Education and International Relations, The Training of Teacher, Emotion and the Educative Process, and Helping Teachers to Understand Children.

Sponsored by Alabama's Division of Mental Hygiene of the Department of Health, Dr. Prescott's two-week workshop in Montevallo is one of a series which will cover educational groups in some 15 states. In each workshop, Dr. Prescott will work with leaders in the area, who, in turn, will carry on the educational workshop programs on a wider basis during the coming year.

The workshop seeks to gather objective facts about child behavior as a basis for group study.

Educational leaders from Cullman County who have been selected to participate in the workshop with Dr. Prescott include: Mr. James Lovvorn; Mr. Ray Brown; Mr. Charles D. Smith; Mrs. Charles D. Smith; Mr. John Harding; Mr. Robert Stewart; Mrs. Maybelle J. Hamner; Miss Gladys Hawks; Miss Lou Ellen Proctor; Miss Hazel Farmer; Miss Nina Gay Whatley; Miss Doris Wheeler; Mrs. Fay Rice; Miss Lorene Bailey.

From Shelby County come the following participants: Mrs. Nannie Dee Durden; Miss Elizabeth Mays; Miss Aileen Pope; Miss Anita King; Mrs. Ulmer Fancher; Mrs. Sara Walker; Mrs. Bertha Cosper; Mrs. Margie Sullivan; Mrs. Sara J. Phillips; Mr. S. H. Hurt; Mrs. Irene Hamric.

4-H Club Meeting For Next Week

13 4-H Neighborhood Meetings will be held the week of June 16. The meetings scheduled are:

Nash, Wright; Mrs. Carson Farris, Siluria; Mrs. Ruel Stock, Helena; Mrs. Royce Morris, Mrs. Martha Turner.

4-H Girl Makes Money By Sewing

"Knowing how to sew is like money in the bank" says Annie Lou Edwards of the Vincent 4-H Club.

Annie Lou has saved about $15 on the sewing she has done on her 4-H project. In completing the project she has made: a skirt, two blouses, garment bag, cotton dress which she entered in her Club Dress Revue, 3 sets of doles, sewing box, and 2 scarves.

This is Annie Lou's 3rd year in 4-H and she has taken sewing as her project each year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Edwards of Harpersville.

TENT REVIVAL

Rev. and Mrs. O. L. Bynum of West Blockton, will begin a revival in Montevallo this Friday at 7:15 p.m.

There will be a special singing each evenin aglong with special instrumental playing. Everyone is welcome. Near Ferman Moore Res. on Highway 25, Montevallo.

Baptist Church Dedication June 22

Sunday, June 22, the Montevallo Baptist Church will dedicate the new building which has recently been completed. This building cost between 30 and 35 thousand dollars and was paid for by money which had been designated by the Baptist State Board and by money which had been given through the church budget and set aside for building purposes.

The New Educational Building will be dedicated and along with it the organ and part of the Sanctuary that has been revoked.

Dr. A. H. Reid, Executive Secretary of Alabama Baptists, will deliver the Dedication sermon and a number of the friends of the church will be present to take part in this service.

On Sunday afternoon, "Open House" will be observed. The congregation is extending an invitation to all people. Refreshments will be served by the ladies of the church. The Open House will be from 3:00 to 5:30 p.m.

Best Biscuit Maker In Shelby County

And Martha Pair gives a winning touch to hers.

This young lady has just been announced by Home Demonstration Agent Marian Cotney as the topnotch biscuit baker in the Shelby County 4-H Club senior girls' baking contest held May 3, in Columbiana.

Miss Pair, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Pair is a member of the Vincent Junior 4-H Club.

The winner in the junior girls' baking contest was Alma Jean Jones. She is a member of the Columbiana Elementary 4-H Club and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jones.

"There were twelve contestants, and each girl is to be congratulated upon her baking ability; the judges can vouch for that." said the home agent.

Both winners are the proud recipients of certificates of merit. In addition, Miss Pair received a complete 26 piece set of baking equipment and Miss Jones a year subscription of the National 4-H Club News. All of these presents, explained Miss Cotney, are Calumet Baking Awards.

"We feel confident that Miss Pair will put her equipment to good practice, because now she is eligible to enter the state contest to be held in Auburn, July 7-12, at the state 4-H Camp. And the state Calumet Baking Award — a $100 scholarship — is really worth working for, said Miss Cotney.

Miss Cotney said the county-wide baking contest is another 4-H Club program to teach girls to be better homemakers. "And judging by the fine response we have to the contest this year, we certainly are making progress in this direction," she added.

National Guard Training Program

On June 7-8 a Staff Training Assembly was conducted by the 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group at Selma, Alabama. Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson, Commanding Officer of the 657th Transportation Truck Company, attended this assembly. These meetings are held periodically for the purpose of coordinating the training within the Group. This Transportation Corps Group is composed of units located at Calera, Lineville, Selma, Enterprise and Troy, Alabama. Various problems of the units are discussed and training programs are set up for the different units at these assemblies. Emphasis on training that is to be conducted at the summer camp was the main topic. These National Gaurd units will hold summer camp this year at Ft. McClellan, Alabama in August.

Cpl. Fred B. Simpson, a member of the 657th Transportation Truck Company is being sent to Ft. Jackson, S. C. to attend the Army Area Schools for a period of ten weeks according to the Commanding Officer, Lt. Edwin B Nickerson. Cpl. Simpson will be a student in the Auto Mechanic Course and will learn to repair and maintain new types of military vehicles. The Army has developed many new types of trucks since World War II and these schools are being held to train National Guardsmen in the function and operation of these trucks. Cpl. Simpson will report to the School on June 19, 1952.

SFC. Harvey T. Bagwell has just returned from a three day school in mechanics at Ft. Thomas R. Burroughs, Montgomery, Alabama. One of the new type cargo trucks developed by the Army was demonstrated while he was there. Sgt. Bagwell commented that the new truck was superior to any commercial truck he has seen. It will operate submerged in six feet of water and is equipped with an automatic transmission. Many improvements have been made over the World War II vehicles. The National Gaurd will be issued these trucks in the near future.

Uncle Sam Says

Farm folks place a high value on dependable friends. The family dog is one of those friends—faithful, and reliable as a companion and protector. Another dependable farm friend is a U. S. Defense Bond. In these days of mechanized farming when cash expenses are high, farmers know they can depend upon Defense Bonds in time of emergency. Defense Bonds are easily converted into cash to make up for a crop or livestock loss, family accidents and sickness, or other unexpected setbacks. U. S. Treasury Department

New Babies Given Life Expectancy of 68 Years

Babies born in the U.S. today may be expected, on the average, to live to age 68, compared with age 47 for those born fifty years ago, but the person in middle or later life has a relatively small additional expectation of life.

This was emphasized by the Institute of Life Insurance in analyzing the mortality and longevity trends of the first half of the century.

"The greater strides towards longer life," the Institute said, "have been made at the younger ages and the most direct result is that the nation is rapidly building up a larger proportion of middle aged and aged persons, rather than adding any great number of years to later life."

Two of the major trends that have contributed to the greater expectation of life today, compared with 1900, were cited by the Institute as follows: 1. Drastically reduced death rate in infancy and childhood; 2. Greater decline in death rate among women than among men.

Mexican Rural Orchestra Goes on Musical Strike

MEXICO CITY, Mex.—The 44 members of the Mexican rural orchestra didn't have to go on a sit-down strike to get $1,200 in back pay they had coming to them. All they had to do was to play.

The group tired of waiting for all the red tape negotiations involved and marched on the office of Mayor Fernando Casas Aleman, playing military airs, waltzes, polkas and loud jazz melodies.

Employees stopped working to watch from windows, bystanders began to crowd around, traffic became stalled. The mayor did the only possible thing—gave the band members their money and sent them on their way.

When preparing oranges for a salad, pour boiling water over them and let stand five minutes. This makes the white lining come away from the skin easily.

In its recent meeting in Montgomery, the Alabama League of Women Voters plumped for equal rights for women. If women ever do get equal rights, it will be quite a comedown for some of them.

Honolulu Shopping Is the Experience Visitors Remember

HONOLULU, HAWAII—Shopping in Honolulu is a sightseeing tour of the world.

Porcelains, ivory, jade, teakwood, koa, bronzes and brocades reward browsers in modern marts and dozens of neighborhood stores.

Peacock-feather hatbands, Polynesian war gods, mandarin jackets, polished driftwood and rare coral may be displayed in a single window.

In Oriental arcades by Nuuanu stream, paper parasols and velvet-thonged sandals share floor space with wooden cooking spoons, bags of rice and blue and white yukata cloth.

If the lure of white ginger perfume or black lacquer goblets becomes too much and browsers turn buyers, they find the price-tags as easy to read as in any other U.S. city. American money is the coin of the Hawaiian realm.

Waikiki shops have three specialties, in addition to standard stock of any Chicago, New York or San Francisco store: Polynesian craftwork and oriental art objects; island fashions, and gowns from top mainland and Paris designers.

Distinctive to Hawaii are blendings of the Pacific and Far East in everything from floral arrangements to cocktail dresses.

Japanese flower artists assemble miniature gardens in polished bowls of tropic wood and place island vines and blossoms before oriental scroll paintings.

Seamstresses stitch sarongs from dragon-emblazoned brocade, and Hawaiian muu-muus with Chinese sleeves.

Goods of many lands are sold in the same happy mix-up of countries and cultures that Hawaii's varied population creates in other fields.

Necklaces of kukui nuts and the fragile shells of Niihau lie side by side with jade and mellow ivory in downtown jewelry shops, and miniature Polynesian outrigger canoes are sold in Japanese novelty stores.

Dime stores carry hoop ear-rings dear to the islands' Portuguese and Puerto Ricans, and Japanese seaweed is sold in the American supermarkets.

One modern branch store of a mainland mail-order house stocks Hawaiian macadamia nuts and coconut candy, and recognizes the casual marketing attire of the islanders with a sign requesting persons without shoes to stay off the escalator.

Modern Generation Gifted With Medical Knowledge

HOBOKEN, N. J.—The new generation never ceases to amaze!

Two 11 year old boys found a .32 calibre bullet and managed to somehow fire it in a toy pistol.

When the bullet lodged in the leg of Joseph Lawless, he calmly dug it out with a penknife and walked to a nearby hospital.

As an intern began to probe the wound in search of the bullet, Joe politely informed him: "You don't have to go digging in there, Doc. I already dug it out. Just put some penicillin in it."

Zoo Suspends Talking Crow For Using Foul Language

CLEVELAND, Ohio—One of the star performers of the municipal zoo has been suspended indefinitely by the management. He is Jimmy, the talking crow.

The two year old Jimmy had been selected to represent the zoo's birdhouse in a travelling zoo. Cheerfully, Jimmy would always have a big "hello" for Cleveland youngsters. Somewhere in his travels, however, Jimmy added a lusty phrase ("Go to U-NO-WHERE") that caused officials to bring him home to roost.

"He will be indisposed until he cleans up his language," the zoo director announced.

When basting roast beef, add one tablespoon of brown or white sugar to the gravy. Both the flavor and color are improved.

Grandmother Enjoys Party; But Wishes Daughter There

PITTSBURG — Mrs. Elizabeth Dent recently celebrated a birthday —her 108th—at the McDonough Convalescent Home in suburban Millvalle. She enjoyed herself by visiting the eighteen other patients and singing songs and hymns for them.

Mrs. Dent, well known as "Grandma" was born in Devonshire, England.

At a party given for her the day before, she was very happy, but regretted that her daughter was unable to attend. The daughter, 89-year-old Mrs. Eliza Hopkins, Ogden, Utah, was unable to come to the celebration because of ill health.

One American Lost Part Of Shirt at Peace Talks

KOREA—One American's shirttail was hanging out at the Kaesong cease-fire talks.

W. A. Hartney, quartermaster chief on the U.S.S. Los Angeles, sailing off Korea, was ordered to produce two small admiral's flags to fly over the jeeps of Vice Adm. Charles T. Joy and Rear Adm. Burke at Kaesong. The navy's flag for admirals is blue with white stars. Hartney could find only the larger size flags in the ship's locker.

The regular white bunting material available also proved too stiff and coarse for the 10 by 12-inch flags, so all Hartney could do was tear up one of his shirts—that is, tear the tail from one.

From the material provided came two bright blue and white flags to adorn the jeeps of the negotiating admirals.

Thanks!

I wish to express my most sincere appreciation to those voters of Shelby County who so loyally stood by me in my candidacy for the office of Probate Judge.

It will ever be a source of great personal satisfaction to me to know that I had so many friends who showed their confidence in me throughout the entire campaign by such a splendid and unshakable support and vote in my behalf.

Respectfully,

Feasts from a freezer last all year!

Freeze berries picked in June . . . or a fresh-caught fish in July . . . and enjoy them both in November. Every season is open season for your favorite foods when you have a home freezer.

You'll take advantage of "specials" on plentiful fruits and vegetables now . . . and just reach into your home freezer for them later, when they're selling at out-of-season prices. And, of course, it takes the zero temperature of a home freezer to keep frozen foods properly. You can store commercially frozen fruits and vegetables at zero or lower for months . . . when you have a home freezer.

Freezing is so quick and easy . . . it's simple as 1-2-3 to pop the vegetables from your garden, Dad's prize catch, or a bargain in beef into a home freezer. Get yours now!

Convenient sizes for large or small families.

Little Bighorn Stand of Custer Echo of History

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Americans have not forgotten Custer's last stand.

On the afternoon of June 25, 1876, victory war whoops of the Sioux and their Cheyenne allies echoed over grassy ridges by the Little Bighorn River. Sunshine splashed through powder smoke on the dusty bodies of 225 dead troopers of the Seventh U.S. Cavalry.

An entire column led by Brevet Major General George Armstrong Custer, known to the Indians as "Yellow Hair," had been wiped out.

This year on June 25, ceremonies at Custer Battlefield National Monument in Montana marked the 75th anniversary of the massacre. Visitors from all parts of the nation attended.

Already this year, nearly twice as many people have been to the Little Bighorn as were counted last year. National Park Service figures show a total of 18,739 visitors in the first half of the 1951 travel year (beginning October 1, 1950), only 11,891 last year. The Army shrine at Montana's Crow Agency has become a national stopping-place.

Gold in Paha-Sapa

Trespassing, gold-seeking white men provoked the Sioux to war three-quarters of a century ago. Although the Laramie Council of 1868 closed the Bozeman Trail and guaranteed to the Indians that whites would be kept out of Paha-Sapa, the sacred hunting grounds in the Black Hills of Dakota, the lure of gold had become stronger than treaties.

Two years earlier Custer, with 1,200 men, had marched through the Black Hills, officially in search of military sites. In the expedition rode two miners fresh from California, Horatio Ross and William McKay. When Ross found yellow dust in the gravel of French Creek—where Custer, South Dakota, stands today—the last great gold rush of the Old West was on.

Winter came early and hard in 1875. Starving Indians began to leave their reservations. From Chicago, General Phil Sheridan ordered a three-way pincers to close on the increasingly hostile tribes. Custer's Seventh Cavalry marched west from Fort Abraham Lincoln.

On the Yellowstone River, Custer was ordered to split off from the main column and cross the ridges to the Little Bighorn. From the heights his scouts spotted the lodge-poles of the Indian camp. They apparently did not realize that at least six tribes—an estimated 12,000 to 15,000 Sioux, Cheyenne and Blackfeet—were in the hostile gathering. Custer divided his regiment into three columns, and with five troops rode to his doom.

Crazy Horse

Today's school children learn the names of the Indian chiefs who met him: Crazy Horse, Gall, Black Moon, Inkpaduta, the brutal old Wakpekuta, and the craftiest of Sioux medicine men, Sitting Bull.

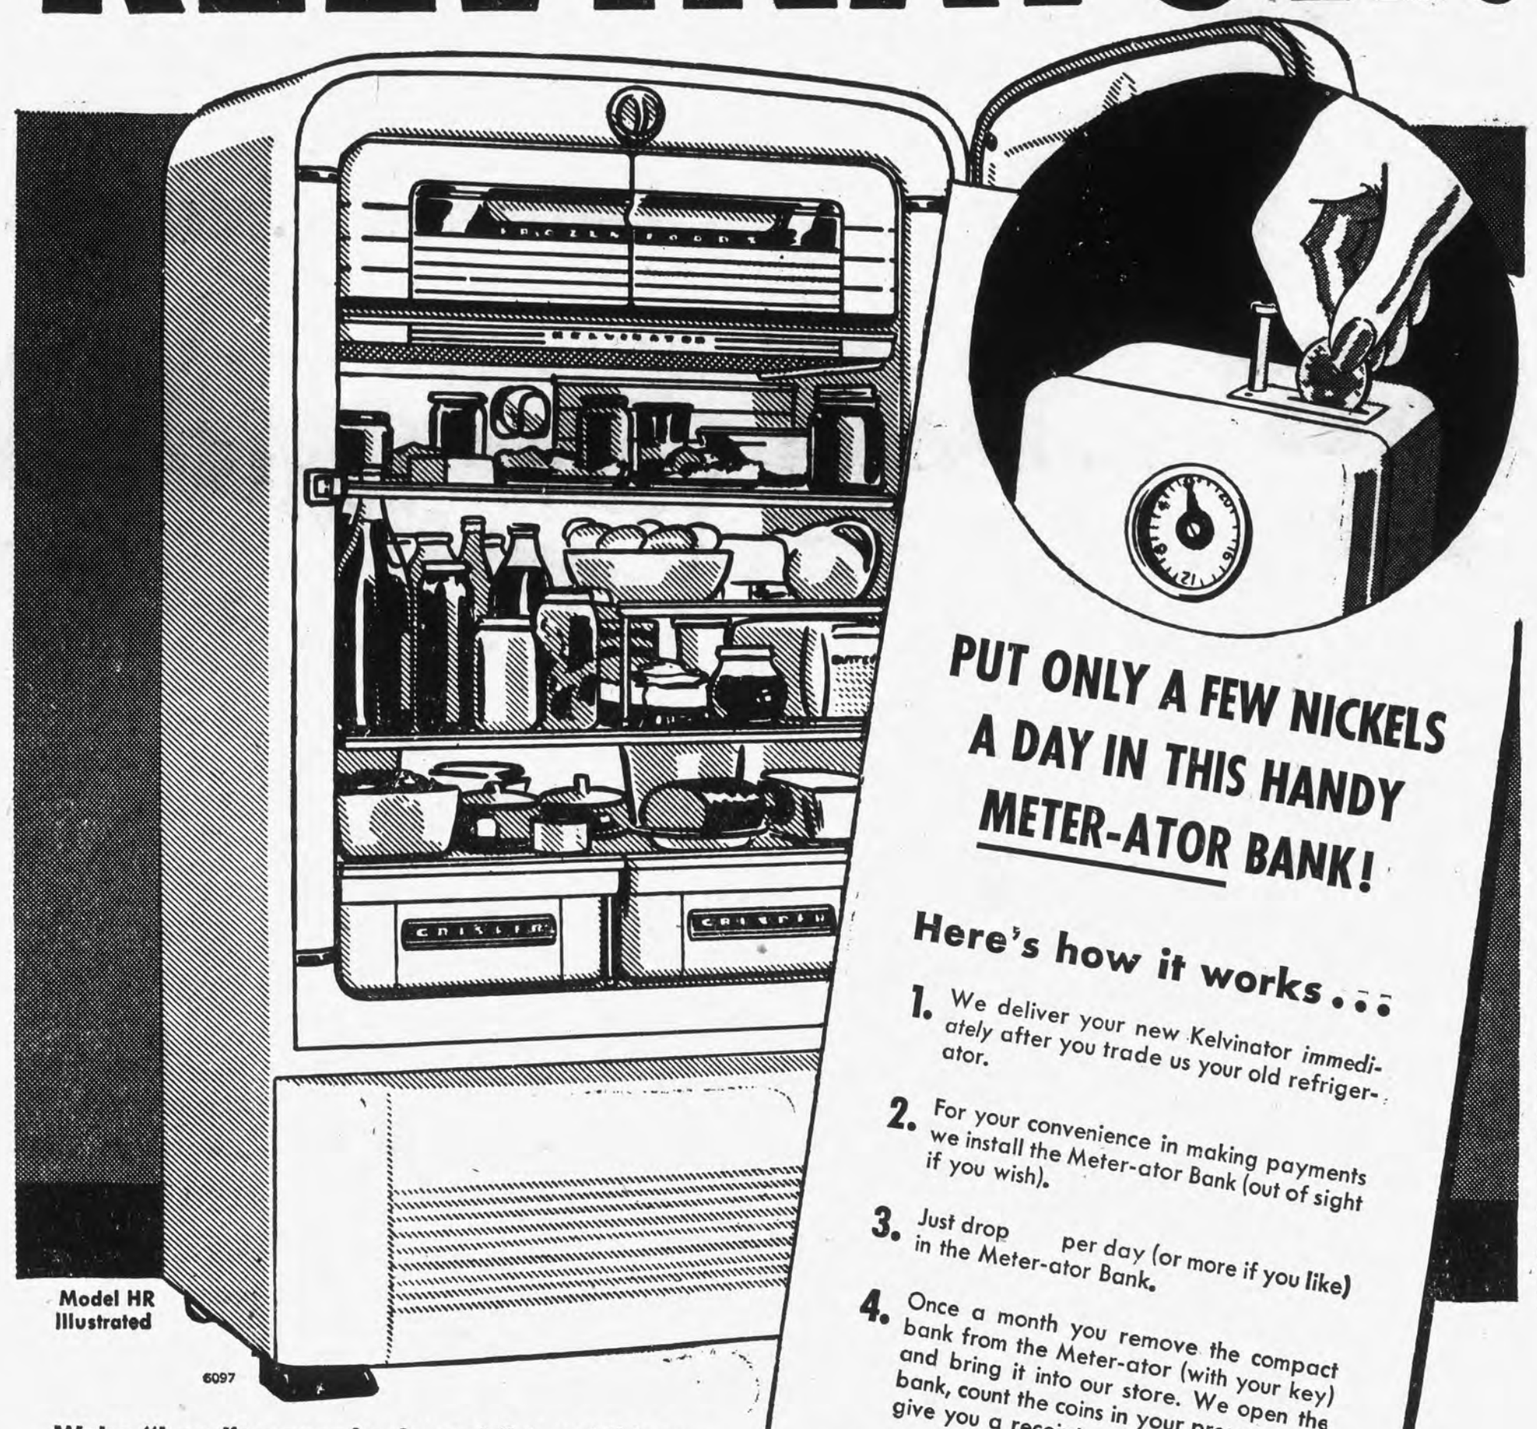

Crazy Horse led 2,500 warriors in a swirling attack, sweeping Custer and his outnumbered command with a rain of fire. The battle was over within three hours. Major Reno, entrenched on a hill a few miles to the south with the remainder of the regiment, fought for a full second day before learning of the complete disaster which had befallen Custer.

The Little Bighorn battlefield has held a soldiers' cemetery since 1879. It contains nearly 1,700 graves of men who died in this and other battles with the Indians.

Atomic Probers Seeking India's Monazite Sands

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "A place where the goddess of prosperity dwells" may soon become a true description of Travancore, the region of India whose name means just that.

For a hundred miles along the Arabian Sea, Travancore's beach sands are rich in monazite, a source of potentially fissionable thorium for atomic energy. This mineral is so greatly in demand in the United States that attempts were made in Congress to require shipments of monazite as part payment for the recently approved $190,000,000 wheat loan to India.

Travancore is situated at the southern tip of India's Malabar Coast and is a favorite vacation land. Shut off from the rest of the Indian peninsula by a chain of mountainous jungles, the Western Ghats, the State is crisscrossed by dozens of rivers, lakes and canals and has many good natural harbors.

Trade Started Early

The ancient Phoenicians were probably the first traders to come to Travancore. They were followed by merchantmen of Greece and Rome. In modern times traders from Portugal, the Netherlands and England competed for the copra, teakwood and coir rope produced in this fertile region.

Under the Republic of India's 1949 Constitution, Travancore is now merged with Cochin, a smaller state to the north. The 39-year old Maharaja of Travancore, Bala Rama Varma, is titular ruler of the combined area, which has more than nine million inhabitants.

Deposits of monazite were discovered near the town of Colachel about 1907 and an extracting plant was established. At that time Brazil was the world's only large-scale exporter of the mineral.

The beach sands and dunes were worked at Colachel by a sluicing operation similar to the washing of gold. Grains of monazite were then separated electromagnetically from the associated zircon and ilmenite. The product was shipped to Hamburg and until 1934 Travancore's monazite, representing 75 per cent of the world's supply, was controlled by Germans.

Originally, the thorium extracted from monazite was used in the manufacture of incandescent gas mantles. After World War I, the decline in gas lighting fixtures brought a halt to monazite mining. Another mineral, ilmenite, which is present also in the Travancore sands, was found to be valuable in paint manufacture, and production switched to ilmenite.

Atom Researchers Want Monazite

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission in 1946 listed thorium as a potential source of fissionable material, although its usefulness at that time was said to be limited to research.

In April, 1946, India placed an embargo on the export of monazite sands, and the Indian Atomic Energy Commission, created in 1948, later authorized the construction of a factory for production of thorium at the town of Alwaye.

Monazite has been found in the Urals, Siberia, Finland, the United States, Brazil, Colombia, New South Wales and Quebec. Small quantities have been taken from North Carolina and Florida.

Klien Home Club Erected Mail Boxes

Hats off to Klien Club! They have recently erected 62 new mailbox posts on the Harpersville-Pelham City, Westover-Childersburg Road.

Sixty-two mailboxes meant a cooperative project of the Klien Home Demonstration Club, Vincent F. F. A. Boys, and their Instructor, and several husbands of Club Members.

Mrs. Frank Wyatt, President of the Club and Mrs. S. M. Embry, Community Activities Chariman were the leaders in the project. Work got underway after voluntary committees on each segment of road made contacts and got argeements for the improved posts and boxes.

Each patron agreed to pay $1.50 for a new post, painted and erected, a fresh coat of paint on the box and names printed on the box and posts. These people erected the posts and boxes. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Butler, L. J. Embry, W. B. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wyatt.

All Club members sent food for the Picnic Lunch which was served by Mrs. L. N. Wyatt, Mrs. Frank Wyatt, Mrs. M. P. King, Mrs. W. W. Stillwell, Mrs. L. H. Hoyle, Mrs. E. A. Turner, Mrs. A. W. Justice, Sr., and Mrs. Tillman Edwards.

Dr. Sloan Warns Owners of Dogs

The continuing outbreak of Rabies among dogs in nearly all parts of the county makes it imperative that more stringent action be taken to enforce the State Dog Control Act.

Failure of dog owners in the past to comply with the existing Regulations and to cooperate with the Rabies Inspector has brought about this situation.

It is the responsibility of the dog owner to have his dog innoculated against Rabies once a year.

The Rabies inspector makes this as convenient as possible by conducting clinics in various parts of the county.

The schedule of these clinics is published in your county paper and you are further notified of the dates and time by posters.

The Dog Control Law was passed for the protection of you, your family, your community and your dog.

Records have been checked on the known rabid dogs and no record is found that these dogs were innoculated within the last year.

After the Rabies Inspector has given dog owners the opportunity to have their dogs innoculated, a check-up will be made and those who have failed to comply with the law will be brought to Court.

Should the present Rabies Control program fail to be effective the only alternative will be for the County Board of Health to adopt Regulations requiring that all dogs be kept constantly and continuously confined, and any dog found running at large be summarily destroyed.

If such regulations become necessary, it is probable that a yearly dog license of $1.00 a head would have to be imposed in order to pay the enforcing officers.

Remember, if you are a dog owner, it is your own responsibility to see that your dog is innoculated each year against Rabies.

Fred A. Duran, Prominent Montgomery Banker, Goes With The Bank At Auburn

(From Montgomery Advertiser)

Election of Fred A. Duran, of Montgomery, as president and chief executive officer of the First National Bank of Auburn, was announced yesterday by the board of directors.

Duran, who is in his 14th year as vice president of the Union Bank and Trust Company, of Montgomery, will assume his new duties in Auburn on July 1.

G. H. (Monk) Wright, who has been with the bank since it was organized in 1923, will continue with the bank, thereby giving it two "top-flight officers of long and successful banking experience," said the official announcement.

Born in Calera and reared in Montevallo and Birmingham, Mr. Duran attended Birmingham-Southern College, and, during the First World War, he was a student at Auburn. He began banking as assistant cashier of the Traders' National Bank of Birmingham, later merged with the First National Bank of Birmingham.

Next he served as vice president and secretary of the Banker's Mortgage Bond Company, of Birmingham, and from 1932 to 1938 he was assistant manager of the Alabama agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It was in 1938 that he became vice president of the Union Bank and Trust Company, here where he has been active in church, civic, social, athletic, and other affairs of the city.

He has served as chairman of the board of stewards, of the Montgomery First Methodist Church and president of the Men's Club. He is now president of the Blue and Gray Association, a member of the Blue and Gray Colonels, and the Beauvoir Country Club.

He is a member of the board of directors of the American Cancer Society, a member and past president for five years of the board of directors of the Montgomery Chapter, American Red Cross; a member and former president of the board of directors of the Montgomery Community Chest; a member of the executive council of the Boy Scouts of America; a director of the Montgomery Department of Public Welfare; a former president of the Executive Club and the Kiwanis Club of Montgomery.

He and Mrs. Duran, the former Lucille Mills, of Birmingham, will move to Auburn when he assumes his duties there. Their only child, Fred, Jr., is an Auburn graduate in engineering and is now with the General Electric Company, of Bridgeport, Conn.

The directors announced that the First National Bank of Auburn has grown to the extent that a fulltime executive officer is needed as head of the bank and that this action is to meet the expanding needs of the bank.

FRED A. DURAN

Duran succeeds W. W. Hill, who requested to be releived of his duties before leaving with Mrs. Hill on an extended visit to relatives and friends in Europe.

FRED DURAN

In this issue of The Times we reproduce an article from The Montgomery Advertiser about the election of Mr. Fred A. Duran to the presidency of the First National Bank of Auburn.

For several years Mr. Duran has been vice-president of the Union Bank and Trust Co., of Montgomery. During his residence in Montgomery he has been prominently identified with many community activities which are related in the Advertiser story.

Mr. Duran, a native of Montevallo, son of Mrs. Lena Duran, has many friends in his home town who are gratified with the eminently successful career he has made in financial and civic activities. Best wishes from all of us, Fred!

Harry Klotzman has enrolled as a student at the University of Alabama in the School of Commerce. He was at home last week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Klotzman.

Farm Suggestions By Lauderdale

Check Lightning Protection Equipment

Lightning protection equipment isn't something to be installed by anyone who is "handy around the house", finds Bill Cox, API Extension specialist in farm buildings.

It should be designed by experts and installed by someone who has done satisfactory jobs before. When it is finished, it should carry the Master Label from the Underwriter's Laboratories, which certifies approval of its materials and construction.

Cox warns that what was good protection last summer may not be so good now. Some systems are subject to corrosion, and any system that has been in service several years should be checked carefully.

"Lightning has a particular love for television antennaes," says the specialist. "To discourage any romance, be sure the antenna is well grounded and that an Underwriter approved lightning arrester is installed on the lead-in to protect the television receiver."

Scientist Studies Region of First Landing in America

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Archeology and ethnology of the region where Columbus made his first landing on the mainland of the Americas in 1502 has been studied intensively during the past six months by a joint Smithsonian Institution — National Georgraphic Society expedition led by Dr. Matthew W. Stirling, director of the Bureau of American Ethnology.

The country concerned is northwestern Panama and contains the drainage system of three rivers between the Canal Zone and Costa Rica. Largely because it is a land of dense rain forests and is quite difficult of access, the region has remained almost unknown to anthropologists; little has been written of its people since Columbus' original description.

By and large, Dr. Stirling, who was accompanied by Mrs. Stirling, was able to confirm the observations of Columbus, although the great navigator may have exaggerated a trifle when he wrote of Indians wearing plentiful gold ornaments. Stirling found none of these.

The Spaniards were impressed by the fact that these Indians did not live in fairly large settlements, as did those with whom they had been in contact before in the West Indies, but in isolated huts in the forest. Dr. Stirling did not find any village sites but plenty of single house sites, which were excavated.

From the Atlantic coast the country is extremely difficult to enter. There are no harbors. The rivers empty into the sea between beaches and high, rocky cliffs. Small banana boats anchor a mile off shore and natives bring out their produce through the surf in dugout canoes. It is possible to enter on foot over high mountain trails from the Pacific side—much the safest and easiest way.

At the mouths of each of the three rivers visited, the Rio Salud, Rio Indio, and Rio Cocle' del Norte, there are small Negro settlements. The Indian inhabitants are encountered about 5 miles up these streams, and practically all their contact with civilization is across the mountains.

Police Captain Confesses Spent Time Shooting Bull

PADUCAH, Ky.—Police captain Gerald Stewart was quick to admit to townfolk that he spent a whole morning "just shooting the bull."

A large bull escaped from a local packing company and left a trail of wreckage and frightened people for several blocks. Police were called.

Stewart shot the animal, but the bull continued to charge him. He started to fire again, but found he was out of ammunition. Dodging the mad rushes of the infuriated animal, the police captain began to reload his pistol. Another officer rushed to his aid. After some time and nine "bull's eyes" they managed to kill the animal.

Actually, There Are Only Seven Marines in Corps

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Despite record numbers of new recruits there are yet only seven "Marines" in the Marine Corps.

The seven, all named Marine, range from a master sergeant to a private first class. They have a total of almost 40 years Marine service.

They are: Master Sergeant Noel G. Marine, Haverlock, N.C.; Technical Sergeant Joseph N. Marine, Springfield, Mass.; Sergeant John D. Marine, Oakland, Calif.; Corporal Edward E. Marine, Oshkosh, Wis.; Sergeant Victor J. Marine, Downington, Pa.; Corporal Alonzo W. Marine, Jr., Cambridge, Md.; Private First Class Houston D. Marine, Hurlock, Md.

Crippled War Vet Hopes For Wheel Chair Vacation

LONG BEACH, Calif.—A crippled war veteran from Tennessee, here for a checkup, intends to prove to the people that "paraplegics can't be counted out until they are dead."

The 30-year-old veteran served in the infantry for almost five years without receiving a wound and was injured in a tractor accident on a farm in Tennessee. He once hitchhiked from his home in Monterrey, Tenn., to Venice, California, where he now lives. The trip was so easy he did it three times, in fact.

He intends to cross the country after his checkup, rolling his wheel chair "just to show people that we are not helpless."

Reading Devices Donated To Milwaukee Vets Home

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — To help speed the recovery of tubercular comrades, the Army and Navy Union has donated to the soldier's home here four devices to let them read without moving.

Operating on a magic lantern principle, they project book pages on the ceiling above the patient's head. The only physical movement needed is the pressing of a button that automatically turns the pages of the book the patient is reading. The devices are intended for patients encased in iron lungs.

I can't understand why they call them "cover girls," when much of them isn't.

Oldtimer Says Moderation Is Key to Longer Living

LEONIA, N. J.—Henry B. Hooke recently celebrated his 102nd birthday, defying the longevity figures of our present age.

Hooke attributed his long life to "moderation" in all things and listed his main interests as reading, strolling and viewing television.

In 1886 Hooke was a member of the Queen's Guard Regiment in the Fenian Raid, and the Northwest Rebellion.

Hooke marks each birthday with additional pride, recalling that doctors once told his parents that he had only a short time to live. That was sometime during his 12th year.

Moslems Collecting Funds To Repair Tomb of Mohammed

CAIRO, Egypt—Collections have been started around the Moslem world to obtain funds for necessary repairs to the holy tomb of the great Islamic prophet, Mohammed.

An Arabic newspaper recently announced that the centuries old tomb—the shrine of millions of Moslems—needed immediate repairs to prevent complete collapse.

King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia ordered that technicians be brought in immediately to begin the repair work.

Male Fireflies Carry the Torch For Lesser Sex

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The firefly season is in full swing, and welcome to millions of Americans is the gentle, lamptoting beetle which brightens warm summer nights.

East of the Rockies along a wide, populous band centered on the 40th parallel, each year brings a race to see which arrives first—the first day of June or the earliest "lightning bugs."

Millions have marveled at the firefly and its strange, cold light. Few, however, know that those on the wing are males signaling to flightless females among the blades of grass. Flashes by the grounded sex answer the airborne glimmers at intervals precise to the split second, Frederick G. Vosburgh writes in the National Geographic Magazine.

1,500 Species

Like lovers everywhere, Vosburgh observes, fireflies are vulnerable to jest. Shine a small flashlight from aloft in imitation of the male beetle's signal and you may get an answer from a female in her bower. Or, from the grass, flash an answer to an aerial spark at the proper ladylike interval, and down comes the male to your mating beacon—and perhaps a few of his rivals too.

Science knows more than 1,500 species of the firefly-family Lampyridae—each with its own system of signals. The common firefly of the eastern United States flashes at intervals of about six seconds, usually on a short, rising flight. Codes of some other kinds suggest series of dots and dashes.

England knows the glowworm, as the female and larva are called, but its flying males are virtually fireless. The same is true of northern Europe and our own far West. There are fireless species east of the Rockies as well as those that flash. "Fire beetles" that sustain their light for minutes at a time serve as lamps and party jewels in the American Tropics. The Japanese collect fireflies to brighten night festivities.

Sparking in Unison

Rhythmic flashing of firefly legions has been reported by observers in southeast Asia for two centuries. What invisible cheerleader they follow remains their own secret, Vosburgh comments. Scientists give this explanation as to why our own fireflies sometimes flash in unison over a half-acre area:

A male gets a response from a female, and other males near by wink back, taking their cue from her or from the male who found her first. Their lights together are enough to stimulate another female several yards away. Males near her then answer with one accord, a third female responds, and the chain reaction is on.

Firefly light, scientists calculate, has a usual strength of one 400th candlepower. Cold light of this kind can be produced in the laboratory by oxidation of certain chemical substances, but only at a cost that bars it from practical use.

It's Fun To Learn How To Sew

"It's fun to learn to sew," says Betty Hatchett, Columbiana Elementary 4-H Club.

Betty has done outstanding work on completing her first year sewing project. She has assembled a sewing box, made an apron, 4 dishtowels, and 4 potholders.

She is the 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hatchett, Columbiana. Her Teacher Sponsor is Mrs. Effie Sims.

How select can you get? A folder from a hotel in Crystal River, Fla., lists among other attractions, "Here you will meet successful industrialists and professional men and their wives, and probably a few Democrats."

Microfilm Brings Expense Of Bulky Publications Down

URBANA-CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — A new way in which bulky or rare, but highly-important publications are becoming available at low cost to the world's libraries is being demonstrated at the University of Illinois.

The system, microprinting, is somewhat like the well-known microfilm system in that a reading machine is used to project the pages back to original size for use. But unlike microfilm, which is a photographic process, microprint is a printers' ink process. When 50 or more copies are desired, this makes it cheaper than microfilm. With it, 200 greatly-reduced pages can be printed on the two sides of a 6x9-inch card.

Prof. Edgar L. Erickson of the University's history department is displaying results of 10 years of work toward editing and microprinting the 6,000 volumes of the British House of Commons "Session Papers" for the 19th century. He is editor of this project, sponsored by the American Historical association and the Readex Microprint corporation.

Information in the "Session Papers" is highly important for historical and other studies. Yet complete sets of the volumes exist only in two places, the British Parliament's own library, and the British Museum.

The first large scale floral show to be held in the state was the Alabama Agricultural Fair which took place in Montgomery in 1855.

Rhonda Lacey Has Bedroom Project

Good color is the keynote of any room, thinks Rhonda Lacey of the Siluria Jr. I 4-H Club. That's why in working on her Bedroom improvement project she chose to paper her room with a design of Rose, Gray, and Yellow wallpaper.

A gray rug, white curtains, a yellow and white chair cover, which her mother helped her to make were the added touches of color to make her room complete.

Painting the woodwork, good lighting, arrangement of furniture, waxing and polishing floors are other ways she has improved her room.

Rhonda, 13, has been a 4-H member for 3 years during which time she has served as Song Leader and Neighboraide.

Her mother Mrs. J. G. Lacey is 4-H Adult Leader of the Siluria Community and an active member of the Home Demonstration Club Her Teacher Sponsor is Mrs. Mildred Sparks.

Remember the old saying about the labor-management problem: "Nobody wants to labor and everybody wants to manage." Well, here's a definition of capital and labor. The other fellow has the capital and getting it away from him is labor.

Student Elections At High School

The students of Montevallo summer school held a student government election Tuesday, June 24. The officers of the summer session of school were elected. They were as follows:

Mary Fancher, President; Nancy Horn, Vice-President; Shirley Simpson, Secretary; Mary Thornton, Treasurer.

The representatives to the Student Council were selected from each class. They are Rosemary Splawn, Robert Cleckler, Charles Daviston, Calvin Hatcher, Billie Sue Averett, Jerry Weems, Lenora Cunningham, Sue Moody, Jade Higgins, and Johnny Ziolkowski.

The function of the Student Council is to bring the opinions of the different groups to the attention of the Executive and to act as an advisory body.

The purpose of this Student Government is to promote the general welfare of the school, to insure cooperation of the students, and to create a better understading of the way student government should be organized.

Nancy Leonard Wins Award

Miss Nancy Leonard, of the English faculty of Alabama College, is a winner of the top writing award of the Alabama Writers Conclave for her original novel, "The Earth is Precious."

Miss Leonard shares the Evelyn P. Dahl award with Ethel Gorman, of Birmingham, author of "Red Genesis." Judges said they could not decide between the two novels and so awarded $50 to each writer.

The award was announced Tuesday night at the closing banquet of the conclave, which held its annual session on the campus.

Guests at the banquet included Dr. F. Edward Lund, incoming president of Alabama College; Dr. M. L. Orr, director of summer school, and Lowell S. Hamilton, director of public relations.

Resource Use Study Group

Forty enrollees of the Alabama College Resource workshop spent three days last week studying soils, their capabilities, and conservation plans, crops and methods.

The group, under Miss Ethel Marshall, toured the Alabama College farm, Mrs. Ethel Rogers beef cattle farm, and the Thorsby Soil Conservation Nursery. The tours and some classroom discussions were led by State Conservationist, O. C. Medlock, District Conservationist, A. L. Harrell, Soil Scientists Perry and Kelly, and Shelby County S. C. S. men, Hatchett and Starcher.

Mr. R. O. Williams, district supervisor, explained the purpose of the North Central Soil Conservation District, its organization and methods.

Enon Revival

The Enon Baptist Church (Dry Valley), Montevallo, Route 1, just closed a good revival, June 15-22. Dr. L. E. Barton from Montgomery did the preaching. Quite a number joined the church.

The baptizing will be the 5th Sunday, June 29, at 2:30 p.m. at the Wilton Baptist Church, by L. W. Stamps, Enon Church Pastor.

We welcome you to our services.

Buck Smith Is Farming For Profit

Buck Smith, a first year Vocational Agriculture student at Siluria and a member of the Siluria FFA chapter, believes in putting what he studies in Vocational Ag. classes into practice. The fifteen year old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Davis of Siluria has demonstrated his belief in learning by doing by conducting a fine supervised farming program this year. A limited amount of land on the home farm did not discourage this young farmer. He and his grandfather have rented land on which Buck carries out much of his program.

Buck's first year supervised farming program includes 17 acres of oats for hay, 22 acres of soy beans for hay, 6 acres of corn, 3 head of beef cattle, and 25 chickens. These are only his productive projects, and in addition he has carried out several improvement and supplementary practices. He has constructed a garage to house the family car. The 17 acre oat field yeilded 600 bales of hay which Buck split half and half with R. W. Kent to repay Mr. Kent for the use of land and equipment.

Buck started his crop this year with mules, but decided that he needed a small tractor to handle things easier and better. He now has a Farmall Cub in partnership with his grandfather. In order to get full use of this equipment Buck mows hay and prepares gardens and fields for his neighbors. He states that this will help the tractor to pay for itself quicker.

Charles Knowles, Siluria Vocational Ag. teacher, says that Buck plans to expand his farming program during his two remaining years of Vocational Ag. training and will probably continue to farm upon completion of high school.

There will be a cake sale Saturday, June 28, beginning at 8:30 at the Alabama Power Co. The FHA girls are doing this to make money to improve the grounds around the Vocational building. Come and help them out by buying their cakes, pies, and cookies.

Promotions Made In College Faculty

Dr. Eva Golson, long a favorite professor of the English language and classics among students at Alabama College, is the head of the college department of English.

Dr. Golson has been acting head of the English department for the past year. The board of trustees recently approved her appointment to permanent department head.

A native of Prattville, Dr. Golson is a graduate of Huntingdon College and received her master's degree and doctorate from the University of Chicago. She is a member of the Modern Language Association of America.

Other faculty promotion, approved by the board and announced by President John T. Caldwell, include:

Dr. Anne L. Eastman, a graduate of Wells College, Aurora, N. Y. and awarded her Ph. D. degree by Cornell University, is promoted from associate professor to porfessor of history.

Miss Lorraine Peter, also promoted from associate professor to professor of history, is a graduate of Ripon College and holds her M. A. degree from Columbia University.

Another member of the social science division, Mrs. Mary Whatley, is now associate professor of social work, having been promoted from assistant professor. She holds degrees from the University of Alabama and University of North Carolina.

In the field of psychology, Finis Poole, who holds A. B. and M. A. degrees from New Mexico Highlands University, is promoted from instructor to assistant professor.

The music department has two promotions. Mrs. Maxine Couch Davis, of Guntersville, is now associate professor, having been promoted from assistant professor, and Putnam Porter, organist, is promoted from instructor to assistant professor of music. Mrs. Davis holds her master of music degree from Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y. and Mr. Porter is a graduate of the University of Chattanooga in his home city and has a master of music degree from Northwestern University.

In 1702 Mobile was chosen as the capital of the French explorations in the New World, due to its magnificent harbor facilities. But then in 1719 a great hurricane came and sand bars chocked up the opening of the Mobile Bay where ships no longer could pass. It was then the capital was moved on to Biloxi.

One English writer noted, in the 1700's that "The Bay of Mobile forms a most spacious harbor—and is capable of containing the whole British navy."

Home Club Has Spend The Day

The Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club held a "Spend the Day" meeting at the home of Mrs. Dewey McDonough on May 18. The meeting opened with the group singing "Sweet Hour of Prayer." Mrs. T. S. Hill gave the devotional and Mrs. Grady Wyatt called the roll and gave the secretary's report.

Chairmen reports were made by Mrs. Ferman Albright, Mrs. H. A. Pauly, Mrs. W. A. Nolen, Mrs. T. S. Hill, Mrs. Nathan Frost and Mrs. W. A. Jones.

Wednesday, June 26, was chosen as the day to meet at the home of Mrs. Hill to paint figurines. It was decided to display figurines at the County Fair, August 25-30.

The club voted to have a birthday party for members observing birthdays during the month at each meeting. Each member is to bring a hand made gift or small remembrance for two members celebrating birthdays during July.

Mrs. H. A. Pauly presented a wedding gift of sterling silver to Mrs. Edward Pendergast, the former Elizabeth Albright.

Mrs. Frank Frost, recreational leader, had charge of the program, after which the group adjourned for lunch. Each member had brought a covered dish and Mrs. McDonough served it buffet style. After lunch, Mrs. Pendergast discussed life in South America.

Mrs. Ferman Albright gave the demonstration, cake baking, after which she served the cake to the members.

One guest, Mrs. Edward Pendergast, County Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Boysworth, and the following members were present: Mrs. Ferman Albright, Mrs. Amos Davis, Mrs. W. A. Jones, Mrs. H. A. Pauly, Mrs. W. A. Nolen, Mrs. T. S. Hill, Mrs. Dewey McDonough, Mrs. Gladys Allen, Mrs. Frank Green, Mrs. Grady Wyatt, Miss Minnie Harper, Mrs. Nathan Frost, Mrs. Frank Frost, Mrs. R. H. Davis and Mrs. Jimmie Spain.

Social Security For Domestic Workers

Housewives can help their domestic employees make certain of receiving full credit for the social security taxes paid. Here's how!

Be sure to copy the name and social security number directly from the worker's account-number card. Here's why!

Social security accounts are kept by name and number. The machines that credit wages individual accounts will not record a worker's wages unless the name and number agree with the name and number on social security records.

So, if Sally Jones marries and changes her name to Sally Smith, she should have her name changed on her social security card. If she doesn't, and if her employer reports wages for her in her new name, Sally Smith, the Social Security Administration can't credit those wages to her without investigation.

It is important to take the number from the official social security card only. Do not accept a memorized number or a number copied on a slip of paper. They are too often incorrect.

If your maid or other domestic employee has lost her social security card, or never had one, or if she has changed her name since getting her original card, ask her to go to the social security office and obtain an official social security card. If there is no office in your locality, she can obtain an application at the post office and mail it to the social security office.

Remember, the amount of sacial security benefits which will some day be paid on your maid's account depends entirely on the earnings credited to that account. It's good business to see to it that the money you help pay in goes for that purpose.

Select Exhibits For County Fair

Seven Home Demonstration Clubs have selected exhibits for the Shelby County Fair, August 25-30.

Ten dollars will be allowed for expenses of decorating each booth and prizes totalling $50.00 will be awarded. The fair is sponsored by the Columbiana Kiwanis Club.

These clubs have chosen the exhibits listed: Making pickles, West Calera; secrets to smart sewing, Spring Creek-Valley Grove; cake baking, Sewell Hill; figurine painting, Columbiana; textile painting, Helena; articles made from sacks, Westover; before and after Home Demonstration club work, Calera.

Dr. Edward Lund Becomes 7th President Of Alabama College At Montevallo

Dr. F. Edward Lund, historian, Phi Beta Kappa, and son of an Episcopal minister, became this week the seventh president of Alabama College.

He follows in the tradition of other distinguished educational leaders who have headed the college since its founding October 12, 1896.

Dr. Lund succeeds Dr. John Tyler Caldwell, who ended his five-year presidency of the college when he left office Monday to become president of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville.

Alabama College receives its new leader from the deanship of Florence State Teachers College, a position Dr. Lund has held since 1946. He brings to the stately president's mansion at Montevallo his wife, a native of Elkmont, and their 13-year-old daughter, Sigrid.

Born in China while his father was in church work there, Dr. Lund found his first roots in this country in Virginia, where he attended Washington and Lee University. His Ph. D. degree is from the University of Wisconsin and he has held a Sterling Fellowship at Yale for a year's post-doctoral study.

His teaching experience includes three years on the Washington and Lee faculty and a former position at Wisconsin State College. At Florence, he headed the social science division before becoming dean.

In the Tennessee Valley, Dr. Lund was active both in church and civic affairs, serving as district governor of Exchange Clubs and vice-president of the Tennessee Villey Convocation of Episcopal Laymen. He is a member of the executive committee of the Episcopal Diocese of Alabama.

While he was dean at Florence, educational leaders of the state recognized his abilities by electing him president of the Association of Alabama Colleges.

Dr. Lund's predecessors include: Captain Henry Clay Reynolds, merchant, planter and Confederate officer; Dr. Francis Marion Peterson, whose field was ancient languages; Dr. Thomas Waverly Palmer, mathematician; Dr. O. C. Carmichael, nationally-known head of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching; Dr. Arthur Fort Harman, former state education superintendent, and Dr. Caldwell, political scientist and a leader in Southern education.

DR. F. E. LUND

Dr. F. Edward Lund took office this week as seventh president of Alabama College.

Mr. F. P. Givhan Lost His Foot

The many friends of Mr. F. P. Givhan regret exceedingly to learn that his recent injury has been so stubborn of recovery that he had to undergo surgery Monday for the amputation of his foot.

His son, Ed, who was injured in the same accident, has recovered sufficiently to be able to return home from the hospital.

Dobbins To Speak Here Monday Night

Mr. W. O. Dobbins, Jr., of the State Planning Commission, will speak to the Montevallo Chamber of Commerce at its meeting next Monday night. Place of meeting is the Town Hall, time 730 p.m.

Everybody is invited, whether you are a member or not.

A man of 82 and a woman of 78 were recently wed in New England. We'll bet that's one bride who won't run home to mother.

"Mr. Z" Giving Summer Recital

"MR. Z"

Alabama College students and Montevallo residents are looking forward to the musical highlight of the Summer session, the annual Summer recital by Miecislaw Ziolkowski. The program will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, July 11 in Palmer Auditorium and the public is cordially invited. Mr. Z will play selections from Chopin and Liszt and will feature the Beethoven "Moonlight Sonata" Also on the program will be two compositions by the pianist himself, one a minuet and the other a Polish dance named for the city of Krakov.

Miss Ibbie Jones Succeeds Miss Irvin

A widely-experienced dietitian who served with the armed forces during World War II, is the new dietitian at Alabama College.

Miss Ibbie Jones, of Daleville, a graduate of Alabama College, returns to her Alma Mater to succeed Miss Anna Irvin, food supervisor at the college for many years.

Miss Jones comes to Montevallo from her most recent position as tea room manager in the well-known Dallas department store, Neiman-Marcus.

Formerly, Miss Jones served as chief dietitian at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn; dietitian at Troy State Teachers College and was assistant dietitian at Alabama College after her graduation here.

Her service as an armed service mess officer was from 1943 to 1946.

She has studied at the school of business and institutional management of the University of Chicago and is author of several articles published in magazines dealing with home economics and college business management.

Vet Farmers Buy Rescue Seed

Ten veterans of the Montevallo Class have just completed the purchase of the entire seed production of a Rescue Grass seed project conducted by the FFA Chapter of Montevallo under the supervision of Mr. M. Thornton, Voc. Ag. teacher, Montevallo. These veterans contracted for the seeds in January after seeing the abundance of grazing furnished by the approximate 2 acres of Chapel Hill Rescue Grass, a disease resistant strain of Rescue. Eight head of cattle grazed this seed patch from the first of January until March 20, when they were removed to allow for seed production. In spite of the late grazing that this grass had it nevertheless produced 1700 pounds of cured seed which were sold at 30 cents per pound to the veterans of the Montevallo Class. All of these seeds will be used to produce winter grazing and for additional seed production in the vicinity of Montevallo.

The North Central Soil Conservation District furnished the foundation seed stock for this and other FFA seed projects in Shelby County, under the supervision of B. F. Hatchett and George Starcher, of SCS.

Dr. Mildred Berry Keynotes AAUW

University, Ala.—Dr. Mildred Berry, professor of speech and American literature at Rockford (Ill.) College, will make the keynote address for the Summer Workshop of the Alabama Division of the American Association of University Women at the University of Alabama July 11 and 12.

The workshop will bring at least 100 AAUW members from the 22 chapters in Alabama to the University campus. Theme will be centered around the contribution each branch can make to education in its own community.

Mrs. R. E. Tidwell, Tuscaloosa, is incoming president. Mrs. Bert Williams, 89 Cedar Crest, Tuscaloosa, is local chairman in charge of arrangements and reservations.

Dr. Berry will speak to AAUW board members at an informal meeting Friday morning. She will officially open the workshop in Doster Hall at 2 p.m. Friday, July 11.

Rural Minister Of The Year

Birmingham, Ala.— The Rev. J. Paul Gilbreath, pastor of the Methodist Church, Mentone, has been named Rural Minister of the Year for 1952 for Alabama by The Progressive Farmer magazine.

He will receive along with the award, a scholarship to the Town and Country School for Ministers from Candler School of Theology, Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., July 29-August 14.

The Rev. Mr. Gilbreath is a preacher and farmer. He owns a 340-acre farm in the Big Wills Valley, and for some years has been a district supervisor in the Northeast Alabama Soil Conservation District. Civic organizations and clubs in all North Alabama seek him out for appearances.

Apart from these activities he is recognized as an outstanding preacher and leader of revival meetings. He led in the organization and construction of a beautiful brick rural church in Fyffe, where there had never been one. He is now working on a diversified farming movement in the Fyffe area.

The Rev. Mr. Gilbreath graduated from Birmingham-Southern College in 1920. He has been a Methodist minister for 30 years.

Alabamians who have received the Rural Minister of the Year award earlier are Rev. J. W. Lester, East Bethlehem Baptist Church, Kent, 1949; Rev. Robert Glenn, First Christian Community Church, Valhermoso Springs, 1950; Rev. M. Lockhart, Randolph, 1951.

Pvt. Albert Pickett At Fort Benning

Pvt. Albert Lee Pickett, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pickett of Route 1, Marvel, has been transferred to the Airborne Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga.

He just completed 16 weeks of basic training with the 5th Armored Division at Camp Chaffee, Ark. During the rigorous training he received instruction in basic weapons and tactics employed by the Army. He will receive specialized training at his new post. Private Pickett is a graduate of Montevallo High School.

Deaths In County

The 6,725 deaths attributed to all causes and occurring in the entire state between January and March, inclusive, included 40 occurring in Shelby County. The announcement was made today by the State Department of Health. The State total consisted of 3,833 white people and 2,892 Negroes.

The first church in Alabama was built by Father Davion and Father Douay in 1702 at Twenty-seven Mile Bluff. Within a few years, the two priests had converted several hundred Indians who inhabited the region around what is now Mobile.

Farm Suggestions

By A. A. Lauderdale
County Agent

Good Market For Cattle and Hogs

Heavy summer marketing of cattle and hogs is almost here according to A. W. Jones, API Extension marketing specialist.

And he says farmers have three good reasons to sell many animals during July, August, and early September.

For example, the supply of good market hogs and beef cattle is low at this time of year. The large runs of animals to market that were fed out from the previous year's crop are over.

Also, the short market supply of meat animals increases demand, resulting in higher prices. During the last four years a 200-pound hog sold in Alabama in July brought an average of $46.25, while the same size and weight hog sold in December brought only $34.10.

And last but not least, with abundant grazing and early corn, Alabama farmers can finish out beef cattle and hogs more economically at this time of year.

State Jersey Owners Serve National Club

A recent report by the American Jersey Cattle Club shows that Alabama breeders rank high in programs sponsored by the club.

J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman, points out that Alabama breeders rank seventh in number of cattle on registry of merit test and seventh in classification. Alabama ranks sixth in number of new breeders and ninth in number of registrations. The state ranks fifth in junior membership, and there are 77 members of the American Jersey Cattle Club in Alabama.

Start Changing Now To Conservation Farming

A change to conservation farming will maintain and improve the soil while it is being used.

"Conservation farming fits into and becomes a part of the regular farm program," states S. R. Doughtry, API Extension soil conservationist. "However, changing to conservation farming should be done gradually. The important thing is to get started now and work toward putting every acre of the farm to its best use while conserving and improving soil.

Many farmers already practicing farming say that since lay-by season is approaching, now is a good time to start planning for fall and winter farming. The plans might include a "cover of green" on every acre of row cropland; overseeding sericea with reseeding crimson clover or caley peas, and preparing land, fertilizing and seeding lowland area to fescue and white clover.

The specialist adds that saving soil and increasing its productivity to a high level is good business. And the time to start is right now.

DANGER!

Relating to Television Antennae

The main purpose of this advertisement is to try to save a life--perhaps yours--by calling attention to possible hazards incidental to the erection of TV antennae.

If your antenna is to be mounted on a roof, have someone erect it who is accustomed to working on roofs or higher. Do not install the antenna too close to electric wires, even if they are only service wires to the house. You may come in contact with them during erection, or your antenna may be blown into them during a storm. This could be dangerous.

If your antenna is on a tall pipe or tube mounting, you should give careful attention to the guy wires, as well as the supporting fastenings. Be sure they are strong enough and securely fastened. There should be at least four of them. They should be of rust-resisting material, and you should check their condition every two or three years. It is especially necessary that you keep such antenna mountings well in the clear of electric wiring because they are limber, top-heavy, hard to handle, and because they fall easy prey to strong winds.

If you have to go "really up in the air" for your TV signals, then your antenna may be mounted on a pole or mast. If you use a pole, be sure it is a substantial, treated wood pole set sufficiently deep so that it will not fall. You may have to guy a pole, and you will always have to guy a metal mast. Be sure the guys and fastenings are adequate and that they are of rust-resisting metal. In some cases you will need more than one set of guys. Don't take chances with adjacent electric wires during erection.

People have been killed in Alabama due to antennae falling across live electric wires. Other persons have been killed trying to get the first victims away from the live wires.

If you are about to erect an antenna or have one erected—please require these three things:

Adequate initial strength
Safe clearance from electric wires
Amply strong, rust-resisting guys and fastenings

One more very important caution: If perchance an antenna gets into any live electric wires during erection or later—or if you have to deal with live electric wires which have fallen or burned down—do not attempt to touch or move such live wires or anything in contact with them. Keep people away from them and notify the nearest Power Company office, or the Police or the Fire Department.

Observing these simple precautions may save a life—perhaps your own.

Alabama FHA Girls Are Attending National Meeting

Three teen-age Alabama girls have been selected to represent the Alabama Association, Future Homemakers of America at their seventh national meeting, Miss Ruth Stovall, State Supervisor of Home Economics announced today. This meeting will be held at Green Lake, Wisconsin, July 14-17.

The lucky girls are: Janice Jordan, Straughn, 1952-1953 president of the Alabama Association; Gatra Reid, Andalusia, 1951-1952 vice-president of Southeast District and a candidate for the national office of vice-president of Southern B Region; and Jeanie Ruth Eddins, Frisco City, 1951-1952 vice-presiden of Southwest District. They will represent Alabama's 11,499 Future Homemakers in 251 chapters.

The girls will be accompanied by Miss Ruth Stovall, Montgomery, State Supervisor of Home Economics and State FHA Adviser; Miss Ruby Lea Robinson, Montevallo, Assistant Supervisor, Southeast Alabama and Assistant State Adviser and Mis Mildred Hart, Andalusia, Chapter Adviser.

The theme of the four-day Delegates Meeting is: Decisions in the Making. Approximately 150 girls from forty-five states, Puerto Rico and Hawaii will attend. The agenda will include setting up a national program of work, national projects and electing twelve new national officers from the thirty-five candidates present.

Future Homemakers are students of home economics in the secondary schools throughout the country. The group is sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education and the American Home Economics Association, but supported entirely through national dues of the membership which has now reached 321,297 in 7,957 chapters in schools from coast to coast.

The purpose of the organization, founded in 1945, is to promote better home and family life for all. Through their many chapter activities the girls work not only for improving family relationships, but toward service to school and community as well.

Mary Woolley Training For Church Work

Miss Mary Woolley of Wilton, is attending the Methodist Youth Caravan Training Center in Nashville, preparing for voluntary service in local Methodist churches during the next six weeks.

Experienced in the leadership of Christian activities among fellow youth, Miss Woolley is one of 216 college young people and 54 adult counselors who will work as members of Caravan teams this summer. Caravaners will serve a total of 324 churches in the United States and Cuba this season.

Composed of four young people and one adult counselor, each Caravan team is especially trained to give leadership and direction to the development of a youth program, fulfilling the ideals and purposes of the Methodist Youth Fellowship in each local church. Caravaners assist local youth in planning programs of evangelism, world friendship, and community service. They give suggestions for work projects, and interpret the youth program of the church to civic leaders.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Baxley and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Baxley of Birmingham are leaving Friday about noon for Chicago, Ill., where they will attend the Republican Convention. They expect to arrive in time to attend a reception given Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m., honoring Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower at Palmer House, also attend the reception given in the Grand Ball Room, Conrad Hilton Hotel honoring Sen. and Mrs. Taft.

The Baxley's expect to be away for a week.

Dr. M. L. Orr Is Acting Dean Alabama College

Dr. M. L. Orr, director of Summer School and head of the education department, has been named acting dean of Alabama College at Montevallo.

His appointment was one of the first official acts of President F. Edward Lund, who took office last Tuesday succeeding Dr. John Tyler Caldwell, new president of the University of Arkansas.

In naming Dr. Orr as acting dean, Dr. Lund said the education professor will serve until the permanent dean of the college is appointed and assumes his duties. Dr. Orr is chairman of the curriculum committee of the faculty.

President Lund also paid tribute to Alabama College's new Dean Emeritus, Dr. T. H. Napier, who retired Monday.

"Upon behalf of the faculty and staff," said the president, "we welcome Dr. Napier to his new position with all best wishes and with the sincere hope that Dr. and Mrs. Napier will continue to participate in all the official functions of the college as well as in all the social life of the official family of which the Dean Emeritus will be the honored, beloved and senior member."

Numerically speaking, the strongest Nego religious groups in the state are the Negro Baptists and the African Methodist Episcopal Church. Countless churches of both sects are scattered throughout Alabama today.

Beyond the Call of Duty

● Disregarding his personal safety, Telephone Man H. H. Kilpatrick crawled 150 feet through a storm sewer to save a child from drowning. For his "prompt, intelligent and courageous action", Mr. Kilpatrick was presented the Vail Award for outstanding service. He was one of 23 Southern Bell men and women who received recognition last year for service beyond the call of duty.

Edgar G. Farlow In Air Force

"SPOOKY"

Lackland Air Force Base, Texas—Airman Edgar G. Farlow, 20, son of Mrs. Violet Farlow of Montevallo, is completing his AF basic airmen indoctrination course at Lackland Air Force Base, the "Gateway to the Air Force."

Lackland, situated near San Antonio. is the world's largest air force base, site of Air Force basic training, for men and women, headquarters of the Human Resource Research Center, and home of AF's Officer Candidate School.

His basic training is preparing him for entrance into Air Force technical training and for assignment in specialized work. The course includes a scientific evaluation of his aptitude and inclination for following a particular vocation and career.

Pfc. Joe Henderson Returns to Korea

With The 25th Infantry in Korea — Pfc. Joe Henderson, Route 1, Montevallo, recently returned to the 25th Division in Korea after a five-day rest and recuperation leave in Japan.

The men, along with hundreds of soldiers from other divisions in Korea, stayed in the finest hotels in Japan and enjoyed many luxuries unobtainable in Korea. The leaves are part of the Army's policy to give the fighting soldier a rest from the rigors of combat.

Private First Class Henderson is a rifleman in Company L, 14th Infantry Regiment.

Alabama College Gets Building Fund

Montgomery — The State Building Commission has allocated some $615,000 to Alabama institutions of higher learning and trade school, and $43,000 to the Bryce Hospital at Tuscaloosa.

Largest single allocation went to Auburn, $300,000 for a women's dining hall.

Jefferson-Hillman Hospital, Birmingham, a part of the University Medical School was given $150,000 for alterations.

The $45,000 went to Bryce Hospital after Supt. J. S. Tarwater had appeared before the commission in a Montgomery session and disclosed that two patients had died there this summer because of improper ventilation. The money will go to ventilating and remodeling.

Also included were: Livingston State Teachers, $75,000; Alabama State College for Negroes, Montgomery, $20,000; Gadsden Trade School, $28,000; Dothan Trade School, $15,000; Alabama College, $15,000; Boys Industrial School, Birmingham, $15,000; Industrial School for Negroes, Mt. Sgt. John R. Cunningham has recently been assigned at Camp Rucker, Alabama.

Sgt. Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kenneth Cunningham, Montevallo, has been assigned to the 78th Explosive Ordnance Disposal Sqaudron as a bomb disposal specialist.

He was formerly assigned to the same unit at Rariton Arsenal in New Jersey.

An Ordnance Disposal Unit is composed of men who meet the highets physical standards and is strictly on a volunteer basis. During World War II a unit of this type suffered a high per cent of casulties but due to more careful selection of personnel and better training this work is now considered less hazardous.

Donald S. Vaughan Goes To Gadsden

Montgomery — Donald S Vaughan, assistant director of the Montgomery University Center, has been named director of the Gadsden Center.

Vaughan joined the University staff in 1949 as a political science instructor. He was named research assistant in the Bureau of Public Administration in 1949. Vaughan studied at Vanderbilt, the University of Alabama, and Columbia University.

The Resource-use Education Workshop of the Alabama College Summer School extends a community-wide invitation to a meeting Tuesday evening, July 15, in Comer Hall at 7:30 o'clock.

There will be an address: "Conservation on the National Scene," by Mr. Carl Shoemaker, of Washington, D. C., Conservation Director of the National Wildlife Federation.

Doesn't This Look Better?

This is the way the Kennerly corner across from the Post Office looks since the new Pure Oil Service Station has been completed. It is the most striking improvement made in the business district of Montevallo in recent years.

New Pure Oil Service Station Open For Business

One of the greatest improvements made in the business district of Montevallo in recent years is the construction of the new Pure Oil Service Station on the corner across Vine Street from the Post Office and diagonally across the intersection of Vine and Main from the Masonic Building.

This is the corner that has been an eye-sore for many years, and everybody is delighted that the former pile of rubbish has given place to a beautiful, modern and convenient business enterprise.

The building was constructed on the Kennerly property by the Pure Oil Co. It is made of concrete blocks and is designed and equipped with everything needed to render the most modern service to the motorist.

The operator of the new station is Mr. M. C. Lovelady, a well-known local citizen and business man of Montevallo. Mr. Lovelady says:

"Pure Oil has put up here a plant that is capable of rendering a service more complete and up-to-date than anything before known in the vicinity of Montevallo. And we are going to add to this excellent equipment the full component of man power with the spirit and aim to serve the motoring public in the very best possible manner."

Mr. J. K. Cunningham, local distributor for Pure Oil products will supply the products retailed through this station.

One of the particular things pointed out by Mr. Lovelady in the equipment of the new station is the very latest type of machine that will do the work of greasing and lubricating cars.

The facility of getting in and out of the station is a feature that will attract automobile drivers. Before the building was erected, the lot was dressed down to practically street level. The old side walks were torn away and new ones built. The space between streets and side walks was surfaced with concrete. Cars may enter or leave the service station by way of Vine Street or Main Street.

Eddie G. Downs Joins Calera Bank Staff

Mr. Eddie G. Downs has joined the staff of the Central State Bank at Calera. Prior to coming with the bank Mr. Downs was associated with the Livestock Sanitary Board of the State of Florida and was stationed at West Palm Beach.

Mr. Downs graduated at Auburn in 1949 and spent four an a half years in the service with the Coast Artillery.

He is a brother of Mr. Roy Downs, president of the Central State Bank; is married and has a little daughter three years old. He hopes to get his family moved to Calera in the near future, where the citizens of the Town welcome them as an additional asset to the community.

Water Board Making Extension of Mains

The Montevallo Water Board is constructing an extension of its 6-inch main from the present terinus at J. A. Brown's store near the ice plant, from which point the new line will run up Shelby Street, cross the railroad to the highway; thence run eastward along the highway to a point 500 feet from the city limits.

The Council has also requested the Water Board to install three fire plugs on the new extension. The new line will provide better water service and fire protection to a large area of the Town.

The Council has also rejuested the installation of a fire plug on the Andy Wood corner and one near the residence of Dr. Leslie Hubbard.

Annual Meeting Of Farm Bureau At Alabama College

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Farm Bureau, arrangements were made to hold the annual meeting and barbecue on the campus of Alabama College at Montevallo, Wednesday, July 23rd.

A large attendance is expected and a splendid program of speeches and music for the morning meeting is ready and as has been the custom in the past a barbecue will be served at 12 o'clock.

Mr. Walter Givhan, Safford, will be the principal speaker and he will discuss some of the pressing problems of farm people and just what the Farm Bureau's place in country life is. Farm Bureau is fortunate in having Mr. Givhan on this program. He has served with distinction as the President of the Dallas County Farm Bureau for a great many years. Few men are better acquainted with the problems confronting the farmers today or is better able to lead the farm people in their efforts to find solutions to their problems.

The President will briefly sketch some of the accomplishments of the Farm Bureau for the past year and some plans for the future.

In addition to the speaker there will be music, but the program will not be long. The Sec-Treas. will make his report and read the minutes of the 1951 meeting and the nominating committee will make their report. After the election of officers and directors for the coming year, the meeting will adjourn and members and their families will enjoy a feast of barbecue.

Farm Bureau members will have the opportunity of meeting their friends and neighbors and visiting together among the most beautiful and inspiring surroundings to be found anywhere in the state. Farm people will have splendid opportunity to leisurely inspect this magnificent campus and glimpse the wonderful educational work being carried on there. Beautiful buildings set in a park like landscape should make us proud of our state college for our young women.

The Farm Bureau is profoundly grateful for this invitation to meet at the college so cordially extended by President Lund and the staff of the college.

Mayor Makes Call For Town Election

Mayor W. M. Wyatt has this week issued and published the official call for the municipal election in Montevallo to be held on September 15, 1952, in accordance with provisions of the law.

This will be a general election in which the qualified voters of the Town will elect a Mayor and Council Members to serve for the next four years.

Simultaneously with the call for the election, Mayor Wyatt makes the following personal statement:

"I will not be a candidate for re-election as Mayor of Montevallo in the election of September 15, 1952."

R. E. Whaley Buys Furniture Store

Mr. R. E. Whaley, of the Whaley Furniture Co., of Montevallo, has bought out the business of the Wallace-Allen Furniture Co., of Calera, and has taken over the operation of same at the location the business has formerly occupied.

Mr. Whaley announces that Mr. Cline will continue in charge of the business.

This is the fourth unit in the Whaley chain of furniture stores. In addition to his office and business at Montevallo, Mr. Whaley has stores at West Blocton, Childersburg, and Calera.

Believe me, these conventions are going to be the best-covered political meetings ever held. Bob Hope has been hired by NBC as a "radio-TV commentator" to deliver a daily summary of the proceedings. The United Press has signed the Quiz Kids—ranging in age from four to 15—to write a daily column on the conventions.

And speaking of politics, who said "Old soldiers never die, they just trade awey?" Well, anyway, one side can always brag that while the other fellow was out lining up delegates, their man was out linging up allies.

Alabama Power Co. Wins Safety Award

Alabama Power Company has received word that the 850 employees of its Engineering and Construction Department have achieved the record of having worked one million manhours without a disabling injury accident. The announcement was made by the Safety Merit Award Committee of Edison Electric Institute. This is the first time in the 10-year history of the Institute's merit awards that an engineering and construction group has achieved this record as a unit although engineering and construction personnel have contributed to the winning of safety merit awards of companies as a whole.

Alabama Power Company employees have made it possible for the Company to have been awarded seven Company-wide safety certificates and twenty plant or divisional certificates.

Alabama Power Company's Engineering and Construction Department is under the direction of vice president F. C. Weiss, Birmingham, D. F. Elliott, construction manager, and E. R. Coulbourn, engineering manager. Mr. Weiss observed that the record of Engineering and Consruction employees is all the more exceptional when it is considered that, during the period covered by the million manhours, major construction projects were at the stage when accidents could have been numerous had safety precautions not been observed. Included in these projects were the enlargement of Gorgas Steam Plant No. 2 in Walker County, initial work on the multi-million dollar Barry Steam Plant near Mobile and the installation of another generating unit at Martin Dam on the Tallapoosa River. During the 7-month period covered by the Department's safety record, nearly 100 transmission and distribution substations were built, enlarged or improved, over 300 miles of high voltage line, including a major transmission line in southeast Alabama, and over 600 miles of distribution line were completed.

Alabama Power Company's construction expenditures for the period 1952-1954 are expected to reach 102 million dollars.

RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Seven-year-old Karen Blecha enacts 1952 polio precautions recommended by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. When polio is around, the National Foundation cautions parents to watch for these signs: headache, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, tenderness and stiffness of neck and back. A person showing such symptoms should be put to bed at once, away from others. Then, call your doctor and follow his advice. If polio is diagnosed, call your local chapter of the March of Dimes for advice and assistance, including needed financial help.

34 Teachers Make Study Tour On Resource-Use

The Alabama College Resource-use Education Workshop for Teachers under the direction of Miss Ethel Marshall of the Social Science Department made a trip last week that was most interesting and informational.

In order to study first hand some of the problems concerned with our soil, water, forests and wild-life, the group of 34 teachers left Montevallo by bus at noon on Monday, June 30.

Their first stop was at Clear Creek Falls in the Bankhead National Forest in Winston Co. Here was made the first study of the trees, flowers and wild-life of the region. Mr. John Shirey, the Soil Conservationist, explained to them some of the problems and accomplishments of the work in this county.

Later in the afternoon they drove on to the Hotel at the Grayson Lumber Camp where supper and beds awaited them. Several films stressing the importance of conserving our wild-life, soil and forests were shown to the group by Mr. Johnson, the U. S. Forester in the Bankhead National Forest.

The following morning the bird group was out early and were rewarded by seeing a number of birds of that region. After a hearty breakfast and accompanied by Mr. John Shirey and Mr. Johnson they climbed into the bus and made a tour into the heart of the forest.

The next stop was the King Cotton Tourist Court at Florence, Ala., where they enjoyed a Tennessee River fish luncheon.

After a look at the T. V. A. area they set out for Tishamingo Park in Northern Mississippi. In this most beautiful spot they spent the night, ate two delightful meals, wandered over the park, identifying birds, flowers and trees and found many examples of good conservation practices for study.

Their last stop, the Gulf States Paper Co. in Tuscaloosa, was reached about 2:00 p.m. on Wednesday where they were guests of the company at a luncheon.

Mrs. H. D. Warner, president of the Co., gave in a charming manner a brief account of the history of the Co. Mr. Vance Miles, Chief of Lands Division, told the group something of the importance of the forestry development to the economics of the state. Also, present at the luncheon were the following officers, Mr. Charles Schusler, Sec.-Treas. and Mr. Frank Parham, member of public relations division and editor of the "News Bag," the Co. magazine. Mr. Parham was in charge of all the plans for the luncheon and for the tour of the plant which the group made immediately following the luncheon.

The group arrived in front of Main Dormitory in their Alabama Coaches Bus driven by Mr. Calvin Wilson at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday evening.

Assisting Miss Marshall in the Workshop is Mrs. Blonce Dean of the biology department of the Woodlawn High School in Birmingham and Miss Nona Sparks of the Montevallo Laboratory School.

Shelby County teachers attending the Workshop are Mrs. Gertrude Cobb, a teacher at Camp Branch, Mrs. Inez Underwood, Montevallo, teaching at Dogwood, and Miss Earline Moore, teaching at Chelsea Jr. High.

Shelby County students taking the course are Miss Delene Dement of Marvel, and Miss Edna Earle Green of Underwood.

Dora Grace Frost To Clay County

Ashland, Ala., — Miss Dora Grace Frost of Calera, has been appointed assistant home demonstration agent of Clay County, effective July 14.

Miss Frost is a graduate of Alabama College and received a degree in home economics. For the past two years she has taught vocational home economics at Beatrice.

Miss Frost was a 4-H Club member for four years in Shelby County while attending high school. She will assist Miss Margaret Anne McGowin in home demonstration and 4-H Club work.

In the early 1700's when Jesuit missionaries traveled up the Alabama-Tombigbee river system, carrying their gospel message to the Indians, their mode of river transportation was a pirogue—a light dugout of cypress, whittled from a cypress log.

On The Farms of Shelby County

A famous slogan of one of the finer automobiles was "Ask the man who owns one!"

Paraphrased into "Ask the man who uses it!" the slogan applies to conservation farm plans and equally well to S. C. S. methods and recommended crops.

Notice we substitute use rather than has. The distinction is very important.

Not every farmer who has a conservation farm plan uses it. When you want to know the value of being a cooperator of your soil conservation district ask the man who actively carries out his agreement and his farm plan.

If you want to know about water disposal systems, crop rotations, fertilizer programs or crops suggested as a part of the district's planning service, ask those farmers successfully using them.

About sericea: Ask the man who mows, grazes, fertilizes, and makes hay from his sericea, not the man who merely has it, overgrown, stemmy and bitter, under-fertilized and neglected.

Likewise Fescue: The man who has it is not necessarily the man who maintains fertility and controls grazing. Some farmers might better have other pasture grasses less productive but requiring less management.

Those who use their conservation farm plans usually make getting one their first move if they move or get another farm. If you have one you are not satisfied with, it may not be in use because either you have not realized its value, or it does not fit your permanent intentions. If the first, let us show you farmers finding it valuable to them. If the second reason is true, we are gland to help you fit a plan to your changed situation.

Motor Accident Death Report

The 174 motor vehicle accident deaths reported from the entire state in January, February and March included 2 reported from Shelby County. The announcement was made today by the State Department of Health.

The Department revealed that 20 of the 67 counties failed to report any deaths attributed to that cause during that three-month period. With the exception of the 27 reported from Jefferson, 21 from Mobile and 14 from Montgomery, no county reported more than six deaths of this kind.

The first cotton cloth mill incorporated in Alabama was established in 1832 on the Flint River near Huntsville.

575,000 4-H'ers Get Training to Cut Farm Accident Toll

Farm safety surveys made by 4-H'ers show that matches within reach of small children and stairways littered with toys, jars and other articles were much in evidence as fire and accident hazards in rural homes.

Chicago—(Special)—More than 575,000 4-H Club boys and girls throughout the nation are receiving training in farm accident and fire prevention this year. The outstanding feature of this training in the National 4-H Farm and Home Safety program is to check and remove from farms and homes any conditions likely to cause fire, accidents or injuries. These 4-H surveys are acclaimed a valuable contribution to the nation-wide campaign to reduce the annual toll of 15,000 farm people dying and 1,300,000 being injured as a result of rural accidents each year.

Here is a report, made by a 4-H girl on behalf of her local club, after making a safety survey of every home in the community:

"In all homes having stairways that we visited, the stairs were full of toys, jars, tools and other articles," she stated. "In many homes people used kerosene to build fires. They also had oily cloths and papers stored close to the stove and flue. Matches and unlabeled bottles of poisonous liquids were within reach of small children.

"On several farms visited, boards with rusty nails pointing upward were much in evidence. In our local schoolhouse, the ceiling plaster in the classroom was loose. If it fell it would cause severe injuries to the pupils.

"After we had made our survey, we called a community meeting. Attention was called to the hazards we had found. Immediately following the meeting everyone present began work necessary to make our community a safe one. Every hazard we had found was corrected."

Medals of honor are presented to five county winners having the best 4-H records in safety work, and a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago is awarded to the State champion. Eight of the latter will be selected as national winners, who will each receive a $300 college scholarship. Awards are provided by General Motors for the eighth consecutive year. The program is conducted under the direction of the Co-operative Extension Service.

Rebecca Grady Is Lucky Girl

Mrs. Emma Grady showed us a letter Tuesday from her daughter, Miss Rebecca, saying that she is "up in the air" about suddenly getting an opportunity to attend the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Rebecca was so excited about it you could actually hear her heart fluttering as you read the letter.

Miss Grady is secretary to Senator John Sparkman in his Washington office. She said the Senator left for Chicago Wednesday, July 9. She and Mr. Hyde went by American Air Lines Saturday and will return to Washington July 25.

"I feel that I am a lucky girl to get this opportunity," she says—and we indeed agree with her.

Meetings Will Be Held Next Week

Nine 4-H Neighborhood meetings will be held the week of July 21.

The meetings scheduled are:

Mr. and Mr[illegible]ur R. Garrett and sons, Arthur, Jr., and Bill Bob, were called to Birmingham last week on account of the death of Mrs. Garrett's father, Mr. Robert Branch Tarpley.

Services were held at the First Christian Church, where Mr. Tarpley was the oldest member in point of service. He served in the church for fifty-one years.

The Barbecue Was A Great Success

The Montevallo Lions Club reports that their Fourth of July barbecue and dance was a big success both in the attendance and enjoyment of the public and from a financial standpoint. The Club cleared close to $300.

It is planned to make this an annual affair and bigger and better.

Ladies Night will be observed by the Club at its regular meeting the first Tuesday in August.

Herman Campbell In Air Defense

Boston — Sergeant First Class Herman E. Campbell, whose parents live at Calera, will participate in the one-week exercise "Operation Signpost," July 19 through 28.

He is with the 56th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Brigade, one of several Army units in the first controlled training exercise geared to put the air defenses of the United States and Canada on an all-out operational basis.

His anti-aircraft artillery batteries, working jointly with Canadian air defenses and a major portion of the Civilian Ground Observer Corps (GOC), will comprise the team co-ordinated for this air defense maneuver over Greater Boston and northeastern U. S.

Telephone Company Honors Miss Donkle

Miss Kathleen Donkle, well-known Birmingham business woman, was honored Friday at a reception and dinner party for 40 years of loyal and distinguished service to Southern Bell Telephone Company.

Miss Donkle, the telephone company's Alabama cashier, will retire on July 31. She has held her present post for 19 years.

At the afternoon reception given by fellow workers, more than 1000 friends and company employees paid Miss Donkle their respects. On display were scores of gifts presented the honoree by her associates.

B. E. Baker, of Atlanta, company treasurer, under whose direction and guidance Miss Donkle has worked for a long part of her career, lauded the honoree as one of Southern Bell's and Alabama's outstanding business women. He presented her with a gold pin emblematic of her long and loyal service to the telephone company. Eight gold stars on the pin symbolize her four decades of service—a star for each five-year period.

Kathleen (Kay) Donkle, who was born at Rome, Ga., came to Southern Bell in 1913 after her schooling was completed and was destined to spend her entire career in Birmingham. She entered the business as a clerk and, through her energy and ability, she steadily advanced to jobs of more and more importance. By 1929, she had risen to the position of Assistant Cashier for Alabama.

When the position of Cashier became vacant in 1933, the ability that she had demonstrated in rising through the ranks in true telephone tradition caused her to be promoted to the top job in the financial department in Alabama. She has served with outstanding ability in this position for 19 years, including the recent period of the company's greatest growth.

National Guard Going To Camp At Ft. McClellan

Summer camp for the 657th Transportation Truck Company, Alabama National Guard, will be held this year at Ft. McClellan near Anniston, Alabama, beginning on August 17th.

Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson said that members of his company would be paid at regular Army rate for the summer training period. Guardsmen are also paid one day's pay for each weekly drill performed.

Vacancies for both officers and enlisted men now exist in this unit for men who can qualify. "Young men who wish to take advantage of the many opportunities open to them in the National Guard should get down to the office in the Calera High School today," said Lt. Nickerson.

Men who enlist in the National Guard become part of America's oldest military organization with a fighting record dating back to early colonial days. The National Guard is part of the Nation's first line defense team with a vital M-Day mission. Guardsmen train with the latest available equipment under supervision of combat-tested leaders. They get training that pays off in both military and civilian life.

"Men who enlist immediately will be prepared to attend camp this year," Lt. Nickerson stated. The unit will have five more drills here before they leave for the two week camp. Col. Bob E. Morrow, commanding the 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group at Selma will be the Camp Commander.

Reservists Now At Fort Jackson, S. C.

Four Montevallo reservists are training at Fort Jackson, S. C., with the 87th Infantry Division (USAR). They are members of the 582nd Field Artillery Battalion, located at Birmingham.

The 87th is composed of reserve units in Alabama, Florida, and Mississippi, and is commanded by Brig. Gen. John D. Higgins of Birmingham.

Men from here now at Jackson are Sgt. John M. Rochester, Cpl. J. T. Atkinson, Cpl. Julien E. Horne, and Cpl. Floyd L. Lovelady.

The two-week summer training period will end July 27.

Farm Bureau Meeting July 23

Shelby County Farm Bureau Members and their families are reminded of their Big Day set for Wednesday, July 23rd at Alabama College, Montevallo, at 10:00 a.m. in Palmer Hall. It is hoped that every member will attend, and will attend the entire meting. Mr. Walter Givhan, Safford, President of Dallas County Farm Bureau will be guest speaker. Mrs. J. Frank Baker, President of the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs will conduct the devotional. A fine musical program has been arranged and the program will not be long.

Announcement in regard to where the barbecue will be held will be made in Palmer Hall after the meeting.

Plan For A Safer Farm This Month

National Farm Safety Week will be observed throughout the nation July 23-29.

Extension Director P. O. Davis says the purpose of setting this week aside is to reduce the tragic farm accident toll. And it can be done if every farm family adopts safe practices of living, working, and playing.

Mr. Davis states that one-fourth of all on-the-job work deaths occur in agriculture. Also, one-fourth of all home accidental deaths occur in farm homes.

"In addition to deaths," concludes Mr. Davis, "1,300,000 farm people are injured in rural accidents each year."

Plant Grain Sorghum Now For More Grazing

Farmers who want more grain to harvest or graze this fall can have it by planting grain sorghum within the next few days.

"When planted after June 1, grain sorghum usually makes more grain per acre than corn planted on the same date," says D. R. Harbor, API Extension agronomist. "Grain sorghum can be used to follow winter legumes harvested for seed, winter grazing crops, and early harvested crops."

While it may be a little late to plant grain sorghum in North Alabama, it should be planted in the remainder of the state by July 15. And grain sorghum success practices include planting on adapted land, doing a good job of soil preparation, and planting an adapted variety.

Harbor further advises farmers to use plenty of treated seed, to do a good job of fertilizing, and to cultivate enough to control grass and weeds.

Radio and TV have done one helpful thing: They have shortened the two and one-half hour political speeches to the half-hour program time available.

I suppose that most parents are like the man who said recently: "My son is home from college. I know he is because I haven't had a letter from him in three weeks."

A teaspoonful of baking powder added to potatoes while they are being mashed will make them light and fluffy. Also, add the salt when the potatoes are nearly done instead of at first.

A good way to use up cold bacon is to grate it over the top of a vegetable salad or an au gratin dish such as potatoes or rice and cheese. It imparts a delicious flavor and adds food value.

Farm Tips

Keep weeds and bushes mowed in permanent pastures. Two or three seasons of systematic mowing will kill out weeds and bushes.

If you have low wet bottom land on which you need to grow winter grazing, prepare the seedbed, lime and fertilize as for clover-grass permanent pasture, and seed to ladino-fescue grass mixture. Top dress with nitrogen as soon as plants are up to a stand.

July and August are good months to clear and prepare wet areas now in worthless brush that would pay off if in pasture.

Sericea lespedeza can be planted successfully during the July rains.

Grain sorghum can be planted for the next few days for silage or grain production.

If cattlemen expect the most from summer pastures they must spray cattle every 4 to 6 weeks to control flies and mosquitoes. Many dairymen have found that by following a good spray schedule, the so-called "summer drop" in milk production is greatly reduced. Beef animals protected from barn flies gain from one-fourth to one-half pound more per day than unsprayed animals.

Health Department Announces Clinics

Members of the County Health Department will be at the following places at the time to give immunizations against Typhoid Fever, Diphtheria, Tetanus, Whooping Cough and Smallpox.

One visit only will be made to each community and it is urged that all citizens of these communities attend the clinics promptly at the time given, and protect themselves against these communicable diseases.

Three Killed In Collisions In March

Montgomery, — Three Alabamians were killed in March in collisions between motor vehicles and railroad trains, presumably at crossings, according to the State Department of Health.

The Department pointed out this represented a slight decline from the February total of four. Only one death of this kind was reported in March of last year.

The State Health Department announcement explained that it was based upon provisional reports prepared by the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics. These may differ slightly from the final reports not yet available.

Retail Sales Up For Month Of April

University, Ala., — April retail sales in Alabama were up 16 per cent from April 1951 with the largest increase scored by the clothing industry (up 36 per cent).

The , University's Bureau of Business Research in its semi-monthly publication Business News reports that of the 67 counties in the state only 13 had sales declines this April as compared with April of 1951.

Net retail sales in Shelby County for April increased 4.5 per cent over a year ago.

Other 12 month gains in retail trade concerns show secondhand stores up 19.9 per cent, filling stations up 12.4 per cent, furniture and food concerns up over 10 per cent.

Greatest increase in the wholesale trade field was 133.7 per cent sales hike of petroleum products; electrical goods sales almost doubled in a year's time.

During March and April, auto sales and auto equipment showed the biggest jump in the manufacturing category — up 53.6 per cent.

Business News quotes the Council of Economic Advisers as reporting that new housing starts across the nation increased seasonally in April to 108,000 units, or 12 per cent above April 1951. This was the second successive month of 1952 in which starts exceeded those of the corresponding month a year ago.

Bible Lecture At Pea Ridge Home

The Columbiana Company of Jehovah's witnesses are continuing their Bible education work under the direction of the Watchtower Society to encourage more home Bible reading and study.

In working the rural areas this summer, they will be joined this week end by the Bessemer Company of Jehovah's witnesses in calling back and revisiting the people of Shelby county in the Pea Ridge community and vicinity to acquaint others with the knowledge of God's name, purpose and Kingdom.

This evangelistic work will be featured by a Bible lecture Sunday, July 20th, at 3 p.m., at the home of Charles T. Wallace, Sr., in the Pea Ridge community. The subject of the talk, "Training Children for Life" should be of vital interest to all people at this time and especially parents who are concerned over the welfare of their loved ones. The cause and increase of juvenile and parental delinquency will be dealt with, along with the remedy therefor, and how both parents and children may even now experience many blessings of worship and service.

An invitation is extended to the public to attend, seats are free and no collections will be taken.

Unemployment Pay Shows Increase

Montgomery, Ala. — June made four straight months that unemployment compensation claims have mounted in Alabama, Department of Industrial Relations Director, Joe L. Coleman, has announced.

Initial applications for benefits in June were 16,916, an increase of 1,000 over the May figure.

The principal factor in the larger number of persons filing for benefits, said Coleman, is the unemployment of miners caused by the steel strike. Actual jobless insurance payments to the miners during June almost doubled.

Insurance benefit payments to coal miners increased by 4,000, while payments to ore miners went up 800 during the month.

Payments also increased to workers in the textile and apparel industries, where large numbers have been laid off.

However, several other industries, notably the construction industry, recorded decreases among workers drawing benefit payments.

Total payments of $1,005,764, averaging a weekly $18.36, went to an estimated 19,500 persons. The average weekly payment for May was $17.80, while the maximum weekly payment is $22.

The larger average weekly payment in June was ascribed to the fact that more workers from the highly-paid industries began to draw benefits.

Job-seekers at the local offices of the State Employment Service numbered 39,393 at the end of June, with 11,923 new applications for work during the month.

June non-farm job placements by local employment offices numbered 11,576, slightly down from May but the same as June 1951.

Dr. Carey V. Stabler Succeeds Lund As Dean of Florence State College

Florence, Ala., — An Alabamian who climbed the ladder to success in the teaching profession in his native state has been named dean of Florence State Teachers College, Dr. E. B. Norton announced today.

He is Dr. Carey V. Stabler, a native of Greenville, Alabama, and a former member of the FSTC faculty.

Dr. Stabler, who will assume his duties as Dean of Florence State Sept. 1, has served as dean of Sheperd State College, Shepperdstown, W. Va., for the past four years. He succeeds Dr. F. E. Lund who resigned in April to accept the presidency of Alabama College at Montevallo.

Dr. Stabler confirmed his acceptance of the Florence State deanship Friday morning in a long-distance phone conversation with President E. B. Norton after being granted his release from the West Virginia college.

In his conversation with Dr. Norton, Dr. Stabler said, "All the members of my family are extremely happy to be coming back to Florence. It will be like a homecoming to us."

Appointment of Dr. Stabler is certain to meet with wide-spread approval in Florence and throughout Alabama. Dr. Stabler served as head of the Florence State department of social sciences briefly, following his return from service with the United States Navy during World War II.

Dr. Stabler will bring to the deanship of Florence State Teachears College a rich background of scholarship and experience in the teaching profession. He served as a high school teacher and athletic director at Holt High School in Tuscaloosa County; as principal of Lowndes County High School, Ft. Deposit; as an instructor at the University of Alabama on a graduate fellowship; as associate professor of history and political science at Alabama College, Montevallo; and later as administrative assistant to the president of Alabama College.

DR. STABLER

The above is a picture of Dr. Carey V. Stabler at the time he was serving as Lieutenant in the U. S. Navy.

During World War II, Dr. Stabler served in the United States Navy with the rank of lieutenant, assigned to the United States Naval Historical Staff at Pearl Harbor.

The new dean received his B.S. degree from the University of Alabama in 1928, with a major in economics. His M.A. degree, with a major in American history, was granted by the same institution in 1932. Dr. Stabler received his Ph. D. degree from Duke University in 1945, writing doctoral disertation on the subject, "The History of Alabama's Experiment in Public Health Administration from 1875-1941."

Mrs. Stabler is the former Sarah Riviere of Greenville, Ala. Dr. and Mrs. Stabler have two children; Carey V. Stabler, Jr., aged 16, who Beeland Stabler, aged 19, who is is a senior in high school, and Ann a unior in college, preparing to become a teacher in the primary grades.

Jerrell Moore To Attend Forestry Camp

Jerrell Moore, a member of the Thompson High School Future Farmers of America Chapter will attend a summer Forestry Camp at Camp Grist near Selma August 3 through August 9. This camp, sponsored by The Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association and its member mills, is for the farm boys of Alabama who have interests in Forestry. Over one hundred boys from all of the timber producing areas of the state will be present. The camp is being held exclusively for members of FFA chapters. A full schedule of activities will be enjoyed by the boys who attend. Of course there will be plenty of time devoted to the study of forestry, but there will also be time for recreational activities.

Jerrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore of Columbiana Rt. and has been active in his FFA work at Thompson High School for the past two years. Some of his projects have been a dairy cow and calf, ten acres of corn, building a garage, and helping in the management of some 100 acres of timber land owned by his father. Jerrell works each summer with his father in the timber and pulpwood business. So this camp should be of value to him.

Mr. Pete Givhan returned home from the hospital last week end. He is able to get about some and to begin practicing on his problem of doing without his right foot. His many friends are happy to have him back among us.

A Mr. Henry, of Birmingham, has completed local arrangement for the establishment and operation of a creosoting plant located on the lot adjacent to the gas reducing station on Highway 25. Operation will begin as soon as equipment can be installed.

L. W. Wooten and R. E. DeSear emerged as winners of the recent domino tournament in Montevallo in which 14 players were entered. In the finals, Wooten and DeSear bested M. C. Lovelady and Mack Dennis.

Pat J. Kroell First Candidate

Before leaving for a two-weeks visit with friends and relatives in Texas this week Mr. Pat J. Kroell became the first announced candidate in the Town election of September 15, when he threw his hat in the ring for election to membership on the Town Council of Montevallo.

A former Mayor and long time business man here, Mr. Kroell is one of our best known citizens. He always takes a keen interest in our public affairs. He is plain, honest and straightforward in his views about things and he is always ready to take a firm stand for what he thinks is right.

Jane Triplett Is Attending Youth Training School

Lake Junaluska, N. C. — Jane Triplett of Montevallo, is among 250 Methodist youth attending a South-wide leadership workshop under way here at the church's southeastern summer assembly.

She is representing the Sub-District.

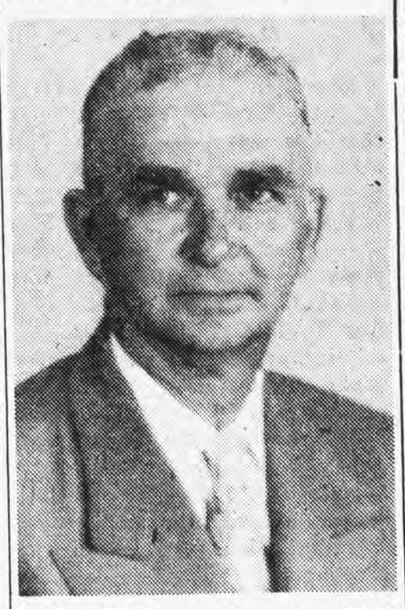

Delegates are here from nine states for the training sessions which will run through July 23. The workshop is sponsored jointly by the Methodist General Board of Education, which has its national headquarters in Nashville, Tenn, and the Board of Education in each of 16 annual conferences in the southeast.

The Rev. Larry Eisenberg, Nashville, staff member of the General Board, is serving as educational director.

Dean of the training program is the Rev. Warren W. Willis, Lakeland, Fla., director of Methodist youth work throughout Florida. The daily platform speaker is the Rev. Dan Whitsett, Sylacauga, Ala.

Delegates are officers of the Methodist Youth Fellowship in annual conferences or districts. Workshop sessions will feature training in program administration, worship, evangelism, missions, community service, Christian social action, public relations and recreation.

Mr. W. L. Lawler Is A Director Of Calera Bank

Mr. W. L. Lawler, prominent citizen and business man, has been elected as a member of the Board of Directors of Central State Bank of Calera, according to announcement made this week by Mr. Roy Downs, president of the bank.

"We are happy to announce the addition of this outstanding and most worthy citizen to our Board of Directors," said Mr. Downs. "We know that Mr. Lawler is the kind of a man who represents in his business and personal life the ideals of community service and progress that are and have been the keystone of our bank's successful operations."

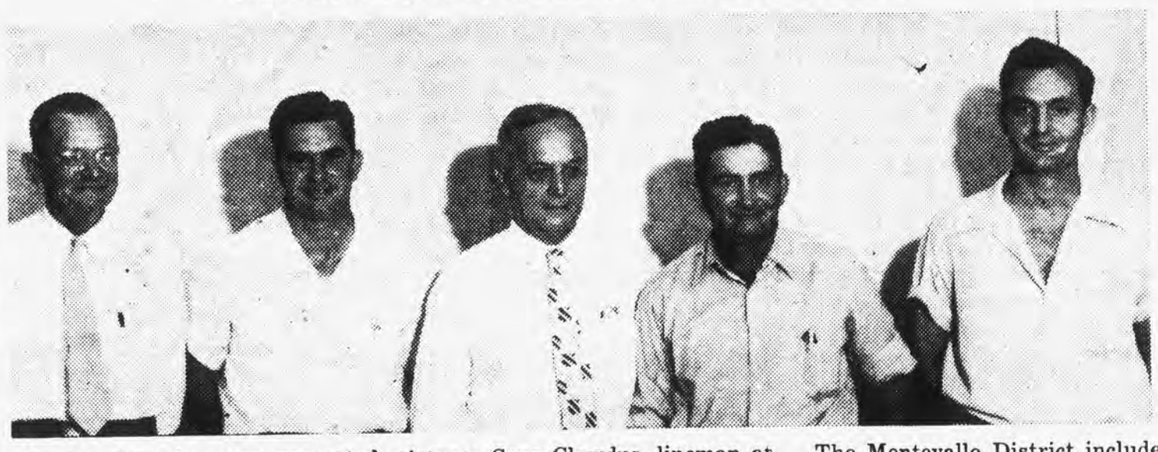

Mr. Lawler is 49 years old. He has operated a beef cattle farm on the highway between Calera and Montevallo since 1942. He moved to his farm from Birmingham in 1951. He operated the Lawler Machine and Foundry Company in Birmingham.

He takes an active part in many of the worthwhile movements directed toward the advancement and progress of this section of our county.

He is a member of the Methodist Church, a Mason, and a member of Montevallo Lions Club. He is treasurer of the Shelby County Beef Cattlemen's Association.

In his young days Mr. Lawler attended school in Calera in the years 1912 and 1913.

Service Awards of Alabama Power Co.

Service Awards were presented to five Montevallo District employees of the Alabama Power Company at the last safety meeting July 14, 1952, by Mr. H. Maulshagen, Division Vice President. These awards are presented to employees for each five years of servic or multiple of five years of service in recognition of continuous of service with the Company.

The employees receiving awards are from right to left in the above picture: Gene Clowdus, lineman at West Blocton, 10 years; J. L. Thomas, line crew foreman at Montevallo, 15 years; Mr. H. Maulshagen, Division Vice President, Birmingham, who presented the awards; L. L. Barton, local manager at Alabaster, 15 years; J. F. Thompson, local manager at Columbiana, 30 years. Mrs. Willie Faye Bradley, cashier at Columbiana, not shown in the picture received a 5 year service award.

The Montevallo District includes most of Shelby County, all of Bibb County and a portion of Chilton and Tuscaloosa Counties. At the present time there are approximately 10,700 customers in the District and approximately 1100 miles of rural line most of which has been constructed since the Company started the rural construction program immediately after the war.

Curb Market Shows Progress

Although severe drouth has prevented normal production of farm crops this year, the Montevallo Farmers Market sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce continues to offer quality produce each Saturday morning.

Last Saturday nine sellers were present with produce at the market and although the sales reached almost $100 some farmers could not sell all the produce they offered.

Participating last Saturday were C. R. Knowles, Ollen Harris, Reggie Lucas, Audis Lucas, L. H. Smith, Roy Maldroy, George Moody, Mrs. W. R. Atkins, Mrs. L. W. Stamps.

Members of Montevallo Chamber of Commerce are urging cooperation on the part of consumers in support of the cooperative marketing program. The policy has been not to sell under the merchants' prices, however, the farmers might choose the lowest price to sell by. Indications are that much will be in the offering Saturday morning at the market. Come early or until 12 o'clock.

FFA Chapter Plans Activity

M. Thornton, Voc. Agri. Teacher, looks to next school year with much enthusiasm after seeing his local F. F. A. Chapter take fourth place in the state this year with 252 chapters participating. At present sixty all-day students are enrolled and indications are that the number will be increased when school opens in September.

Plans are under way to organize classes for young farmers not already enrolled in a class and for adults with interest in farming. Already over thirty individuals have expressed on interest in the adult program for this year.

During this next year it is expected that much emphasis will be given to poultry production, vegetable production, orchading, livestock farming, and landscaping.

County PTA Council Meeting July 30

The Shelby County PTA Council is having its School of Instruction at the Columbiana High School, Wednesday, July 30, 1952, beginning at 11:30 a.m., with a luncheon. Everyone is requested to bring a covered dish. After the lunch hour, there will be classes on "Program Planning," "Parliamentary Procedure," and "National Parent Teacher Magazine and Study Groups." Mrs. John Bruce, Vice President of District V and Mrs. Harry Nelson, General Secretary of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers are to be leadres. At least one representative from each standing committee of the local PTA's are urged to attend this meeting.

Roy Downs, Key Banker of Shelby County Reports On Farm Finance With Banks

Alabama agriculture is in such excellent condition that the state's farmers found it necessary to borrow less money from banks during 1951, and savings and income of farm families reached record levels, according to Roy Downs, Central State Bank, who represents the Alabama Bankers Association as Shelby County Key Banker.

"In recent years, the state's banks have cooperated closely with their farm customers in modernizing the plant and equipment of Alabama farms," he said. "This program has been so successful that the state's farms are now in the best condition in our history, and farmers have found it possible to maintain high production of vitally needed farm products and still reduce their borrowing.

"This healthy situation has been particularly valuable in the past few months when farmers have been faced with rising costs of the things they buy and lower prices of the things they sell. Under those conditions, production is the key to keeping agriculture profitable."

Quoting from the eleventh national survey of agricultural lending by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, Mr. Downs noted that "the vast majority of farm loans made by banks are for production and operating requirements." In 1951, the last full year of operation, Alabama banks serving agricultural communities loaned out $60,990,000 to 48,418 farmers to meet all types of financial needs. Of this amount, $46,088,000 was borrowed by 41,471 farmers to finance production and operating needs. This compares with 67,837 production loans, totaling $56,038,000, during 1950. These production loans were quickly repaid, too, and only $31,545,000 were outstanding at the end of 1951.

"During 1951, Alabama banks made 6,947 farm real estate loans in an aggregate of $14,902,000. Yet, so much of the mortgage debt was paid off during the year that, on December 31, 1951, the total amount of this debt outstanding had risen only $542,000 to $15,379,000.

"The fact that the state's banks are serving particularly the operators of small and moderate-sized farms is shown by the size of the average loan made by banks during the year. The average production loan was $1,111 during 1951, and the average farm real estate loan was $2,145.

"The total of bank-held agricultural debt outstanding in Alabama on January 1 of this year was $46,924,000, excluding C. C. C. loans," Mr. Downs said.

When cooking macaroni, rice, noodles, or other starchy foods, add one tablespoon of butter to the water and it will not boil over. And the butter will also make the dish richer.

Southern Bell Asking For Increased Revenue

The Southern Bell Telephone Company today filed an application with the Alabama Public Service Commission asking increased rates to offset the effects of a general wage increase just approved by the Wage Stabilization Board retroactive to June 8.

The amount of additional annual gross revenue sought is approximately $917,000. Alabama Manager, Harry B. Lackey, pointed out that it will not be necessary to increase basic business and residence rates. The amount requested is only the specific cost incurred as a result of the increased wages negotiated through collective bargaining.

The proposed increases will change the pay station local call from 5 to 10 cents and some of the long distance within the state, as well as certain other miscellaneous charges.

Filing of the petition had been expected in view of the WSB approval and of an earlier Company statement that increased costs would require increased telephone rates.

"Alabama telephone rates set for Southern Bell back in January were short of the amount requested and badly needed," Mr. Lackey said. "The new wage level just approved will force our earnings down to an even lower level unless relief is obtained.

"By seeking only the costs incurred in the recent wage negotiations, we are asking the Commission to do nothing more than restore our earnings to the minimum level set by them last January."

Work was started this week on the construction of the new Episcopal Church. The location is the vacant lot across the street from the high school and between Sharp Apartments and Dr. Parnell's residence.

Jimmie Rowe, Vincent Farmer Has Good Corn In Spite Of Dry Weather

Jimmie Rowe, Vincent, prepared for this extremely dry summer nearly five years ago!

No, he didn't buy an irrigation outfit. He planted 70 acres of sericea lespedeza in accord with his soil conservation farm plan.

For four years this fine soil builder filled the red upland soil with deeply penetrating roots and built up a surface mulch of leaves and twigs, while furnishing summer grazing and hay for the Rowe dairy herd.

In January and February of this year Jimmie turned the sericea stubble preparatory to planting corn. A soils test showed a fair supply of nitrogen and potash, but a shortage of phosphate. So his first move was the application of of a broadcast 500 lbs. per acre of 20 per cent super phosphate to balance the books, so to speak.

Partly on April 12 and partly on April 22 he planted Pfister's 631 white hybrid corn in forty inch rows, spaced eleven inches in the rows. He used 500 lbs of 6-8-8 fertilizer per acre, and topdressed at about six weeks with 275 lbs. of ammonium nitrate per acre. Some of the corn was cultivated twice, much of it grew so fast that one cultivation only was possible.

In the neighborhood there were very few showers, no general rain, and one hail storm during the corn growing season. Other crops seen nearby are total failures or will produce below normal yields, ranging up to 20 bushels per acre. The hail did some damage at Rowe's and near there, on July 7th.

Yet, conservative estimates by numerous farmers and several agricultural workers estimate an average yield of 80 bushels per acre, with some areas of the fine field, dark green on July 20th, promising as much as 100 bushels per acre. While undoubtedly the drought has reduced even this field's production somewhat, there are more than enough large ears to average one ear per stalk, and the dark green foliage is a striking contrast to the yellow, fired appearance of the corn not following sericea. Both Jimmie and his father freely expressed the opinion that full credit should go to the sericea for conditioning the soil and increasing the water holding capacity of the soil by "sub-soiling" the clay and providing great masses of organic material to hold the water.

The Rowe's would not destroy this huge field without replacing it. They planted 100 acres of new sericea this spring.

"I intend to return this seventy acres to sericea again in the spring of 1954," Mr. Rowe said as we discussed the matter in the shade of his tractor shed. "In the meantime, I will plant 30 acres of it in a Chapel Hill Rescue Grass seed patch. I am going to see just how much rescue seed can possibly be made, for I want to grow enough from the 1600 pounds you helped us get to plant on all our sericea and grazing land. Hegira will follow the oats and rescue next summer, and the next winter grazing crop will be turned early to get the sericea in that spring."

This is a working, and paying, example of the long term rotations being recommended to its cooperating farmers by the North Central Soil Conservation District.

To rid a duck or goose of down, after the feathers have been plucked, spread over it a generous coating of paraffin wax and let dry. When hardened, rub the paraffin off and down will come too.

"Better Get the Vet on the Phone"

Pure-bred cattle—sign of the South's new, balanced agriculture—mean more money for stockmen, better standards of living on the farm, a growing demand for telephones.

Farm telephone expansion has been one of Southern Bell's biggest and most important jobs for years—and today is more important than ever. It is a job that takes a lot of money, materials, experience, know-how—and time.

In just the past 6 years we have tripled our rural telephones. We're building more and more rural lines as fast as scarce materials and defense needs permit.

About 1,050 People in Shelby County Will Get Increased SS Benefits

About 1,050 people in Shelby County will receive higher social security payments as a result of the social security amendments which President Truman signed into law last week. The first increased checks will be for the month of September, delivered early in October.

M. C. Folmar, manager of the Birmingham social security office, emphasized that no one needs to apply for the increased ayments. "The Social Security Administration is already changing the amounts," he pointed out. "We expect to get them changed in time to have them in the mail October 3, the regular delivery date, but if in a few cases we don't meet that schedule we'll send the regular check and make up the difference in a later check."

Mr. Folmar pointed out that although nearly every family receiving payments would receive an increase, the additional amount would not always be divided among all the members of the family receiving monthly checks. In some cases the entire increase will go to the retired worker. Under terms of the law, most families will get an increase of about $5.00; some will get less, some will get more.

The amended law provides a new formula for determining the amount of the payments for people who retire in the future. This provision will apply mostly to those persons whose benefits are based on earnings after 1950. Under the change, a retired worker's monthly benefit would be 55 per cent of the first $100 of his average montly earnings plus 15 per cent of the remainder up to $200. Formerly this provision gave only 50 per cent of the first $100 plus 15 per cent of the remainder.

The amended law contains a provision of special importance to self-employed people who have or plan to retire during 1952. Before the passage of the amendments their earnings for the year in which an application was made could not be used to figure their old-age benefit payments. Now, those self-employed people who originally applied for benefits in 1952 may re-apply at the close of the taxable year and have their 1952 earnings used in figuring their monthly benefit payments. In general, this will increase the monthly benefit payment to self-employed persons.

The amended law allows social security wage credits of $160 for each month of active military or naval service after July 24, 1947. This provision is simply an extension of the one which already gives social security wage credits to servicemen of World Warr II. It applies to service in the armed forces up to January 1, 1954.

For more information, contact the social security representative who is at the Employment office in Calera each Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

4-H Club Meeting At Bolton's Place

The Ebenezer-Cross Roads 4-H Club met under the trees at the T. A. Bolton's recently. Linnie Green conducted the meeting. A most interesting program on Growing with Friends was presented by members of the group. A general discussion added much to the program.

Plans were made for the picnic with the Camp Branch 4-Hers on Friday, August 8th at Big Springs, Montevallo.

Outdoor games were played by the group and refreshments were served to 15 4-Hers, 4 Adult Leaders and 2 hostesses. Those present were: Lennie Green, Mason Green, Rhonda Albright, Eva Joe Fisher, Betty Fisher, Barbara Fisher, Betty Johnson, Norlene Johnson, Linda Holcombe, Edda Edfeldt, Peggy O'Neil, Patsy Johnson, Della Smith, Jean Bolton, Myrtle Sue Fisher, Mrs. L. G. Bolton, Mrs. A. P. Bolton, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Frank Green, Mrs. Lawson Johnson, and Mrs. H. A. Pauly.

Alabama Power Co. Adds Two Units

Alabama Power Company this week placed in operation two more large generating units. One was a 100,000 kilowatt unit at its Gorgas Steam Plants, bringing the total generating capacity there to 390,000 kilowatts and making it the largest investor-owned steam generating center in the Southeast. The other was a 55,000 kilowatt unit installed at Martin Dam on the Tallapoosa River, bringing the total capacity there to 154,000 kilowatts (approximately 200,000 horsepower).

Construction for both units was completed on schedule. The Company's total generating capacity now is 1,129,500 kilowatts, or approximately one and one-half million horsepower. It has under construction near Mobile a 250,000 kilowatt (333,000 horsepower) steam generating plant, the first unit of which is expected to be in operation by the summer of 1953.

The Company's construction program for the period 1952-1954 will be approximately one hundred and ten million dollars.

Health Clinics Are Announced

Members of the County Health Department will be at the following places at the time specified to give immunizations against Typhoid Fever, Diphtheria, Tetanus, Whooping Cough and Smallpox.

One visit only will be made to each community and it is urged that all citizens of these communities attend the clinics promptily at the time given, and protect themselves against these communicable diseases.

Thursday, July 31, New Hope School, 9:30; McGuire's (Scales), 11:00; Helena School, 2:00.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. McConaughy had visiting them during recent weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Walter McConaughy and children.

Mr. McConaughy was taking a few weeks rest in the course of his transfer from the position of U. S. Consul at Hong Kong, China to the State Department in Washington, where he will serve as director of the department of Chinese affairs.

Mrs. Henry T. Davis is at home in Montevallo for the summer. Mrs. Leslie Davis returned to her home in Valdosta, Ga., last week after spending six weeks with her mother-in-law and attending the first term of Alabama College summer school. Mr. and Mrs. James Stripling of Tallahassee, Fla., came up last week end. Mrs. Stripling is staying with Mrs. Davis for a few weeks. Mr. Stripling returned home last Sunday.

It was not at all an uncommon site to hear a candidate for public office make a political speech at an early Alabama funeral, for the candidate could always expect a good audience since everyone for miles around usually was in attendance. A funeral in that day and time was an excellent excuse to get away from the loneliness of pioneer life.

The first telegraph system in Alabama provided service between Montgomery, Cahaba, Mobile and New Orleans. The system was chartered by the legislature March 3, 1848. The average pay of each operator in the three Alabama cities amounted to $750 annually. His duties ranged from relaying messages to sweeping out the telegraph office.

National Guard Summer Camp

Approximately 220,000 members of the Army and Air National Guard will spend 15 days in Summer camps between June and September this year. Over 3,600 units are now recruiting in an effort to reach full authorized strength before starting on their field training.

Combat veterans from Korea and World Warr II will assist in the full time field conditioning of the citizen-soldiers. Stress will be on the training of individuals and the efficient operation of company size units.

Simulating actual mobilization conditions, the units will move to camp by airlift, rail, truck and bus. When possible, entire divisions and groups will move as a unit and train at the same site.

The 657th Transportation Truck Company located at Calera, Alabama will join a convoy composed of the 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group on August 17th enroute to Ft. McClellan, Alabama where they will undergo training for fifteen days.

Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson, commanding officer of the 657th, stated today that his unit will accept enlistments in the National Guard as late as July 31st. After that date no more men will be enlisted until after camp.

Any man between the ages of 17 and 35 who would like to go to camp this summer with this unit should contact Lt. Nickerson or go by the Armory located in the Calera High School before July 31st.

The 657th will train under command of Col. Bob E. Morrow of the 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group which is located at Selma, Alabama.

Family Reunion Last Sunday

The Killingsworth reunion was held Sunday, July 20, on the Calera High School grounds. There were seventy five attending the occasion and relatives from far and near were present greeting each other.

Out of town guests were Mr. Grady Killingsworth and son, Messers Sam and Gerry Killingsworth from Fayette, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Burton Killingsworth of Sumterville, Ala., Mr. Bernard Killingsworth of Jasper.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Killingsworth and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Killingsworth of Selma; Mrs. Clem Seales, Mr. and Mrs., Walter Seales, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Earl Seales, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McCain all of Selma; Mr. Henry Killingsworth of Wetumpka; Mrs. Jessie Busby and Miss Jennie Killingsworth of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Matt Spraul and children of Montana.

Everyone enjoyed the picnic lunch and are looking forward to the celebration next year.

River travel on the Alabama River reached its peak in the 1850's, during which time Selma and Montgomery grew in importance as cotton shipping points.

6th ANNIVERSARY in Calera

I sincerely thank my many customers for their patronage and our employees for their loyal cooperation through these six years.

The past six years have seen progress, not only for me, but progress, too, for the City of Calera which makes me proud to be a citizen and business woman in the Town.

I hope to continue to serve my customers in the future as I have in the past and to continue to have the friendship of the people of this vicinity.

May Calera and Shelby County continue to grow and prosper as they have been doing in the years past.

The State 4-Club Short Course

(Joyce King—Vincent 4-H Club)

"Believe me a trip to Auburn for the State 4-H Short Course is really worth working for. It was by far my most enjoyable trip. The 4-H boys and girls that visited Auburn were the friendliest people that I have ever met. I felt at home every minute and certainly had no time to get homesick.

"The Dress Revue was the most important and delightful part of the week. I was overjoyed when the announcement was made that I was Alternate State winner and also proud that my county was among the top state winners. I learned that it is the project record that is kept year after year that really counts in winning a State Award. Don't say 'I'd never get anywhere.' Have you really tried?

"The most enjoyable part of the camp was the Talent Contest. Alabama 4-H boys and girls are talented. I shall always remember the beautiful Candle Lighting Ceremony. If I could make a wish for every 4-H boy and girl it would be that someday each one would be able to go to the State Camp.

"Along with the good times at Auburn, we had some business meetings that would be important to every citizen in our country. Perhaps the most significant was the Safety Meeting. We sang some safety songs to the tune of familiar songs. Miss Stella Mitchell, home management specialist, gave a demonstration, a basketful of safety tricks. She stressed the ABC's of safety — Always Be Careful. The most important points of her demonstration were: study accident hazards, remove accident hazards, be alert.

"Miss Mitchell demonstrated many everyday safety precautions such as using only safe bottle openers, cutting away from you with a butcher knife, placing sharpening stone on a cloth to prevent slipping, keeping knives in a knife rack, and never loose in a drawer, sticking an ice pick in a cork. Vegetable tongs will prevent cut fingers from being burned. Another handy utensil to have in the kitchen is a pair of pliers. Surely we all know better than to turn the handles of saucepans on the stove to the front where anyone might bump into them.

"Another point that was stressed was the cook should dress for safety. She should not wear frilly dresses and aprons with big bows which might catch something. Throw rugs are often accident hazards, but they need not be. Fruit jar rings sewed on the bottom of the rugs will prevent this hazard. All poisons should be labelled with red paint. Light cords should have hand holds so the wires won't wear or pull out. A group of Calhoun County boys and girls gave a skit on highway safety pertaining to rural children riding school buses. They pointed out that a good rider always stands back from edge of road while waiting for school bus, waits until the bus stops, gets on and sits down immediately, keeps hands and arms away from open windows, keeps his seat and is not noisy, takes his turn when getting off bus.

"July 20-26 should have been an important week to everyone because it was farm safety week. A certain type of accident was to be prevented each day: Monday, home safety; Tuesday, livestock safety; Wednesday, fall prevention; Thursday, highway safety; Friday, machinery safety; Saturday, Review Day.

"We learned that farm macinery can be very dangerous. The dangerous part should be painted a contrasting color as a warning. There is room for only one person on a tractor, the driver.

"Steps and stairs should be kept clear, always. The top and bottom basement steps should always be painted white."

Family Fun And Safety

Swimming

Seven-eighths of drownings are boys and men. Precaution is always in order. Some sound precautions are:

Teach children to swim. Also teach them safety rules. The best of swimmers can drown.

Stay out of water for at least an hour after eating.

Be considerate of beginning swimmers. A playful push can cost him not only his balance, but his life as well.

Learn to swim correctly. It is less fatiguing. The mastery of a simple stroke, correct breathing technique, floating, and treading water are a part of good swimming. They contribute to pleasure as well as safety.

Swim along shore. Distance can easily be too far. Cramps can hit very suddely. The heart can tire quickly. It seems twice as far back to shore, when you are tired and the wind is against you.

If you tire easily, stay in shallow water. Come out when you feel tired or begin to shiver.

Do not dive if you have sinus, ear, or nose trouble.

Use common sense. The sight of sand and water seems to cause many people to ignore common sense and courtesy.

Efforts at rescue. A long pole with which you can easily reach swimmers, or a boat, is much better than trying to rescue them by swimming to them. Even swimmers attempt a swimming rescue only as a last resort.

Boat trips. Put life savers on all children. Have them available for each adult. Be sure your boat is large enough and strong enough to take the water and the load. Be sure to take oars or paddles along in case of motor trouble, enuogh gasoline for the trip, motor tools, and a can or bucket in case it is necessary to bail out water. Rocking the boat is dangerous. A small overloaded boat can tip over very easily. Keep as far away from big boats as possible. If the boat is capsized, hold on to it.

Nearly one-third of all drownings are children under 15. Teach water-safety early. Avoid accidents and perhaps tragedies, and have more fun.

Sunburn

Remember to take beach sun gradually. There isn't any such thing as a person who "does not blister" when exposed too long to beach sun and wind. A cloudy day only increases the intesity of the burn. Rest in the shade frequently. Use sun lotion.

Vacation Driving

Start early and do not try to cover too much distance in one day. Speed kills, so take it easy. Don't fight traffic. Patient and courteous driving is more restful and a lot safer.

Friends of Mr. Pete Givhan are glad to see him again able to carry on his business after several weeks in a hospital with injuries, and the subsequent loss of his right foot.

My rich father left me something for a rainy day — an umbrella.

William Cunningham At Lackland AFB

Lackland Air Force Base, Texas — Airman William L. Cunningham, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Cunningham P. O. Box 222, Montevallo, Ala., is completing his AF basic airmen indoctrination course at Lackland Air Force Base, the "Gateway to the Air Force."

Lackland, situated near San Antonio, is the world's largest air force base, site of Air Force basic training, for men and women, headquarters of the Human Resource Research Center, and home of AF's Officer Candidate School.

His basic training is preparing him for entrance into Air Force technical training and for assignment in specialized work. The course includes a scientific evaluation of his aptitude and inclination for following a particular vocation and career.

Training Course For Home Clubs

"Painting textiles" will be taught to clothing and handicraft leaders Friday, August 1.

The meeting will begin at 9:30 in the old Courthouse Auditorium, Columbiana. Leaders will bring kitchen curtains and breakfast cloths made up, washed and ironed (not starched), organdy to make aprons, and material for potholders.

It is important that each club send two leaders to this Training School. They will give the demonstration in all Home Demonstration Clubs in October.

Helena Club will exhibit textile painting at the County Fair, August 25-30. Wilsonville Club will make articles to exhibit at their community fair September 26-27.

Farmers Market Had Good Day

The Farmers Market had a good day Saturday. Fifteen farmers participated in the selling and a total of $65 was received by the farmers. Although weather conditions have been very unfavorable to production of vegetables and other produce for sale, farmers continue to bring some produce each Saturday morning. The sellers have indicated that they appreciate very much what the Chamber of Commerce is doing to help them. They also are grateful to the customers buying at the market.

James Ross At Fort Wadsworth

Fort Wadsworth, N. Y. — Pfc James Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ross, Route 1, Siluria, Ala., is participating in "Operation Signpost," the exercise geared to put the air defenses of the United States on an operational basis.

He is a member of the Army's 52nd Anti-Aircraft Artillery Brigade, which guards the New York-New Jersey area.

The brigade is working with the civilian Ground Observer Corps (GOC) and with Canadian air defense forces during the July 19-28 exercise.

Ross is a member of the 369th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Gun Battalion.

NOTICE TO VETERANS

The Shelby County Ofice of the Department of Veterans' Affairs will be closed August 3rd through 6th, 1952.

Service Officer will be attending the State Conference at Fairhope, Alabama.

Wood Treatment Plant Begins

Adding to the many new developments of Montevallo and the surrounding area, H. H. Henry of Birmingham is locating a Everlast Wood Treating Company here. In addition to offering the plant as community service to the farmers in the area Mr. Henry will peel, dry, creosote, and sell posts. He will also treat foundation timbers, cross arms, and telephone poles. The new plant is located across the railroad on the highway with 158 ft. frontage along the highway.

Before coming to Montevallo, Mr. Henry was with the Rheem Manufacturing Company as National Safety director.

Special Classes For Young Farmers

The vocational agriculture department annuonces that beginning early this fall special classes will be organized for young farmers already farming. During these classes which include 5 or more farmers approximately 30 years of age studies will be made in line with special interests of the members.

Allen Robinson Starts His Chicks

Allen Robinson, a first year F. F. A. boy of Montevallo, has recently started with his first brood of 300 chicks. He and his father have completed construction of a new brooder and growing out house. It is expected that during each 12 months period Allen will produce and sell 2400 broilers in this project. Richard, Allen's brother, will share in the project also. Under favorable conditions for production, prices and marketing the project should show an income of near $800 not counting out labor costs.

Howard Harkins, Montevallo F. F. A. member, will attend the one week special summer camp at Selma next week as a special representative of Montevallo chapter. He will devote much time to a study of forestry under specialists there for the week. When he returns he will share his experience with the other 70 F. F. A. members.

James A. Putman To Expand His Poultry Enterprise

M. Thornton, vocational agriculture teacher, reports that James A. Putman continues to expand his poultry enterprise and looks toward a profitable operation this year. Coming to this area only one and one-half years ago and settling as a young farmer on a fifteen and one-half acre farm, Mr. Putnam has already has already expanded his enterprise to the production of 90,000 broilers annually. At present he has three and one-half units producing 20,000 broilers annually in each unit and expects to complete another 24 feet by 180 feet house this year. At present he has 14,640 square feet of housing space. In addition to the production of broilers Mr. Putman grows corn, rabbits, hogs, and pheasants. He has 59 rabbits, 39 pheasants, four hogs and four acres of corn. Mr. Putman has a total of $15,000 invested and expects to gross as much as $60,000 to $70,000 this year. With a 10 cent margin per bird he would have $9,000 profit from producing 90,000 broilers. Even with 5 cent margin he would have a profit of $4,500.

He plans to use two additional part-time workers. Ed Holcombe, Montevallo F. F. A. boy, is busy laying blocks in the new building construction.

Before coming to this area Mr. Putman was a salesman of steel for C. I. Crais Co. for one and one-half years. He also was a salesman for South Eastern Products Corp. and traveled Alabama. He attended the University of Alabama for two years in study of electrical engineering immediately after he hed spent three years in Merchant Marines as a cadet midshipman and later assistant engineer. We have no research at hand to indicate that it makes any difference if a man is a republican or a democrat so far as consuming poultry is concerned, he still eats fried chicken.

Mr. Putman is located 6 miles north from Montevallo on Siluria road and welcomes visitors.

Automobile Wreck Saturday Night

M. C. Lovelady and Farmer Cunningham had a close call in an automobile wreck last Saturday night. After closing the Pure Oil Service Station they got into M. C.'s Pontiac and started to Mr. Wooten's to join in the domino game.

At the intersection of Vine and Valley streets a Chevrolet driven by a man from Centreville plowed into the Pontiac. The Lovelady car was terribly damaged, but luckily the occupants escaped with only a bump or two on the noggin.

Too much speed by the Chevrolet is assigned as the cause of the wreck.

Rotary members and their guests enjoyed a special treat Thursday when the group had a trip on the Warrior river with dinner served on the boat. A total of 70 attended. The boat is owned by Gulf States Paper Corp.

Not all girls are interested in boys. Some are interested in men.

F F A Delegates Will Attend Forestry Camp

One hundred FFA boys representing all 67 counties in the state will meet at Camp Grist, near Selma, next week, August 3rd-9th, to participate in their seventh annual FFA Forestry Camp.

The action packed week will be jammed with events ranging from practical forestry instructions, demonstrations, and practices, to a round of tours and athletic events.

According to J. M. Stauffer, state forester, this is an all FFA camp and is being administered by the Division of Forestry of the Alabama Department of Conservation. It is sponsored by the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association and its member mills which are as follows: Gulf States Paper Corp., Tuscaloosa; Hollingsworth and Whitney Co., Mobile; Southern Kraft Division of the International Paper Co., Mobile; and Coosa River Newsprint Co., of Coosa Pins.

J. C. Cannon, supervisor of vocational agriculture said the FFA boys were chosen by the local vo-ag teachers in each county and that only active FFA members were to attend. Their selection for the camp was based on interest and demonstrated ability in forestry. Most of these boys are carrying on such forestry projects and their interests in forestry which won them their places in camp.

Topics the boys will study in camp includes thinning, reforestation, marketing, harvesting, fire control, tree identification, farm safety and first aid. Demonstrations will include fire control and the use of forestry hand tools and equipment.

Tours will include a visit to log and pulpwood operations, a fire tower, and other milling operations.

Daily activities also include supervised recreation, various athletic events, morning and evening vesper services, and morning and evening flag ceremonies.

Instructors for the various courses to be taught are as follows: Tree Identification and planting, Joe G. Burns and Grady G. Cleveland; Forest fire prevention and control, L. L. Smith and Knox Davis; first aid and farm safety, A. J. Leak; harvesting, utilizing and marketing forest products, Douglas Sellers and H. B. Stark; harvesting, utilizing and marketing forest products — field trip, Douglas Sellers and H. B. Stark; Timber management, J. M. McCullough; timber management —field trip, J. M. McCulloug; timber management — silviculture, Dawson Jennings and D. Virgil Willett.

Five vo-ag teachers have been selected to attend the camp and assist in its operations. They are as follows: L. W. White, Northport; G. W. Ward, Glencoe; R. L. Yielding, Beulah; K. C. Ezell, East Brewton and C. F. Martin, Hayneville.

Paul Grist, general secretary of the Selma Y M C A is general camp director and Dan C. Royal, chief forester, Miller and Company, will again serve as forestry camp director.

These FFA members from all parts of the state will arrive at Camp, Sunday, August 3, and return home the following Saturday, August 9th.

FFA delegates to attend camp are as follows: From Shelby County, Howard Harkins, Montevallo and Jerrell Moore, Siluria; from Talladega County, Alton Presley, Alpine, Jimmy Wilcox, Munford, and Clyde Bussey, Lincoln.

There is a rumor going around that the government is considering issuing this directive: "Anything that moves, control it. If you can't control it, tax it. If you can't tax it, give it a billion dollars."

Home grown lettuce, shredded, mixed with hard boiled eggs and a little minced onion, the whole well seasoned with boiled salad dressing, makes an unusually good salad relish.

The drama found great favor with early Alabamians in every part of the state except in the Tennessee Valley. In this area camp-meeting evangelists spent many a sermon denouncing the theater and theater-goers.

Now Is A Good Time To Kill Pond Weeds

Summer is an excellent time to get rid of pond weeds, such as cattails and water lilies, according to Earl Kennamer, API Extension fish and wildlife specialist.

They can be controlled by spraying them with a strong ester type of 2, 4-D on the exposed leaf surface. Mix one cup of 2, 4-D in five gallons of kerosene or diesel fuel. Apply on hot, sunshiny days when no breeze is blowing. Repeat spray application when new growth appears.

Trace Minerals No Brucellosis Cure

Widespread claims that the feeding of trace minerals will prevent or cure brucellosis in animals or undulant fever in man have been proven false by controlled experiments.

J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman, says scientists at the University of Wisconsin found that natural feeds given the cattle in the experiments contained all required trace minerals. Inasmuch as the animals could not use additional amounts, feeding trace minerals wasted materials and time; trace minerals did not influence the susceptibility of cattle to brucellosis or lessen its effects when the diseases was establihed, and feeding of trace minerals did not shorten the course of the disease.

Parrish adds that feeding of the trace minerals to cattle is not given a blanket condemnation by the committee of scientists, however. There are some instances where such mineral feeding is desirable from a nutritional standpoint, but not for its efefct on brucellosis.

Hog Care During Hot, Dry Months

Temperatures of hogs often rise to 105 degrees Fahrenheit or higher if shade isn't provided for them during hot summer days.

"Of course," says G. B. Phillips, API Extension hog production specialist, "these high temperatures knock out appetites and, in turn, upset money-making possibilities."

The specialist adds that shade and plenty of clean, fresh drinking water are the cheapest things hog producers can give their pigs. Brush arbors in corn fields provide good shade. And it should be remembered, says Phillips, that thirsty shotes at a dry watering trough are costing their owners real money.

275 Births Are Reported In March

Montgomery, Ala., — The 19-275 births reported from the entire state in January, February and March included 515 reported from Talladega County. The announcement was made today by the State Department of Health.

These totals, based upon provisional reports prepared by the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics, included live births only, no stillbirths.

The provisional reports may differ slightly from the final reports not yet available, the Department pointed out.

A friend of ours has just bought a new house and is outfitting it. She has now advanced as far as the library. She's buying her books, by the yard. Silly thing. That's not the way to buy books. Books should be purchased by the color.

Keep Records On Child Employment

Birmingham, Ala., — Amendment of the Fair Labor Standards Act's record-keeping regulations as they apply to children employed on farms was announced today by the U. S. Department of Labor.

Issued by Michael J. Galvin as Acting Secretary of Labor, the amended regulations become effective August 11. Under them the farmer will be requested to record three items for children under 18 yeas of age who work on his farm on days when school is in session. They are the child's name, his date of birth, and the address of his permanent home, and where he lives while working if not at his permanent home. These items need be entered only once for each child hired by the farmer.

Galvin's action was taken under the Act's provisions which prohibit the employment of children under 16 in agriculture during school hours for the school district where the child lives while so employed. The Act as now written does not prohibit the employment of children outside school hours and does not apply to the farmer's own children who work on their parent's farm.

Galvin's action simplifies the present requirements applying to farmers.

Complete text of the amendments was published in the Federal Register July 12. Copies may be obtained from the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Diivsions. In Alabama, offices of the Divisions are located at 1007 Comer Building, Birmingham, and 445 U. S. Court and Custom House, Mobile.

Korean Veterans Get Extra Pay

Veterans who served in Korea combat since June of 1950 will get retroactive combat pay at the rate of $45 a month under terms of the bill approved by Congress last weekend.

The $45 a month pay will go to every person who served in a combat unit for six days or more during any month since May 31, 1950.

But veterans eligible under the bill may have a long wait before checks roll their way. The services must draft regulations and establish payment machinery after President Truman approves the bill.

The $258,000,000 measure will provide $45 monthly to every serviceman and veteran who was in a combat unit defined in the bill for six days or more during any month since May 31, 1950.

In cases where a veteran was in combat for less than six days at the end of one month and less than six days at the beginning of the next month, he would get combat pay for the second month so long as he had six consecutive days' service in a combat situation.

Combat pay will go to all members of a unit of regimental size or smaller which was in actual physical contact with the enemy and under hostile ground fire for six days during a month and also to troops attached to units of battalion size or smaller when physically with and serving this unit under competent orders.

The combat units defined by the bill include not only regiments or smaller in physical contact with the enemy but also "elements" or details from units not larger than a regiment while subject to hostile fire in the course of rendering aid or assistance, directly to a military unit, not larger than a battalion, which is engaged in actual combat on land or by fire to any military unit engaged in actual combat on land.

This language indicates that Air Force Forward Controllers, naval units engaged in shore support with offshore fire and naval forward observers are all eligible to draw combat pay.

Amphibious and airborne support units are also given the right to combat pay while they are performing their work under fire in support of combat operations. Ships engaged in ship-to-shore bombardment which brings them under the fire of shore batteries or under threat of sinking by mines and aircraft that is subjected to hostile fire are also included as combat units.

Ground crews of aircraft and crews of vessels in support of combat ships are not included under this act for combat pay.

Veterans' record will have to be checked to verify their claims. Exactly how this will be done awaits the approval of service regulations by the office of the Secretary of Defense.

Peter White . . . That Is

"For Pete's Sake"

Pete is very sorry to learn that Lt. Col. John P. Brown, Executive Officer of the 34th Infantry Regiment since its reorganization on September 10, 1951, has been reassigned to the ZI, where he will attend the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. But Pete is also pleased to learn that replacing Colonel Brown as the executive officer of the 34th will be Lt. Col. Claude P. White, who has commanded the 2nd Battalion, 34th Infantry, since September 18, 1951. Colonel Brown said goodbye to his 34th Infantry friends Thursday when he left for Camp Drake.

Colonel Brown was not a stranger to the 24th Division. Between 1916 and 1941 he was a member of the 21st "Gimlet" Regiment, which was stationed at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii. He attended Officer Candidate School in 1942; the advanced class, Infantry School, 1943; and the advanced class, Armored School, Fort Knox, 1950-1951. His permanent residence is in Gerard, Pennsylvania.

Colonel White, the new executive officer, brings years of staff experience to his new assignment. From February 2, 1943 to September 14, 1945, he served as the S-4 for the 442 Infantry Regiment. At the outbreak of Korean hostilities he joined Headquarters, EUSAK, where he assumed the duties of executive officer, Supply Division, G-4 Section. Colonel White makes his home in Montevallo, Alabama.

The foregoing was taken from a military news bulletin given to us by Mrs. G. T. Elliott.

Lt. Col. Claud P. White (Peter to his many friends in Montevallo) has been on active duty in Japan and Korea ever since the racket started over there. He, with his wife, Laura Elliott, and their three White boys, live in Tokyo.

Mrs. Elliott talked to them over the phone a few days ago. They said they are scheduled to come home for a visit in Febraury.

The People Talk Back

University, Ala., — Should government be a field for men only?

This is a question which Alabamians had a chance to answer this week. These answers will be the basis for a series of radio programs entitled "The People Talk Back," to be broadcast throughout the nation this fall and winter.

Alabamians tape recorded comments and remarks on the first question were made in reply to an initial statement concerning women in government made by Miss Pauline Frederick, women's news analyst for the American Broadcasting Company.

The opinions and comments of ten Montevallo citizens were recorded during the past week when the N. A. E. B. recording crew spent an entitre day in and around Montevallo. Those expressing their comments were: Mrs. Virginia Hamilton, Miss Ethel Marshall, Mr. Donald Lovelady, Mr. W. Fullman, Mr. Denson Elliott, Miss Ethel Reasoner, Mr. Stanley Mahan, Mr. F. P. Givhan, Mrs. F. P. Givhan, and Mr. Frank Baker.

The program will be edited by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters in Boston, providing comments both for and against women in government. The completed program will be broadcast over the 70 stations of the N. A. E. B. radio network. At present one of the national commercial radio networks is arranging to carry this series of programs.

A grant from the Ford Foundation, Fund for Adult Education, is making the series possible.

Five recording crews from the National Association of Educational Broadcasters are tape recording comments from a representative cross section of the nation. Comments from people in the Southeastern section of the United States will be recorded by Walt Whitaker, program director of radio station W U O A (FM), University, Alabama; Ralph Sears, director of radio at Alabama College, Montevallo, Alabama; and David Marxer, W U O A (FM) engineer.

Good News For Korean Vets

By E. J. Sullivan

I know you veterans of the Korean War have been waiting to hear the news that everything is now ready for you to start making your application for education and other benefits. The Manager of the Veterans' Administration Regional Office in Montgomery, has announced that it will probably be the 20th of August before veterans may start applying for their benefits under the Korean G. I. Bill. He stated that it will be then before full instruction and the necessary forms are received from the Central Office in Washington. However, we have very recent information which indicates that informal application will be accepted now. Your County Service Officer will assist you in preparing a letter which will constitute an informal application and which in many cases may serve to secure payments dating back to August 1st. If you are planning on going to school when the September term starts, you will have time to make your application to the VA.

And here is a word of advice to Korean Veterans who are planning on taking advantage of education or training benefits, be sure to give very careful thought to the type of training or education you desire to take, because once you have made your choice and have commenced training or education, you may make only one change of program. For instance, if you start a course of training as an automobile mechanic, and several months later you decide to change your course to carpentry, the Veterans Administration will no doubt approve the change. If you desire another change, the chances are it will not be approved.

Here is some more good news that you have been waiting for regarding mustering-out-pay. All Veterans' Service Officers have a supply of blanks upon which to make application for these payments. Payments of $100 will be paid to veterans with less than 60 days of active service. $200 for those with 60 days or more active service but no foreign service, and $300 will be paid to veterans who have had 60 days or more active service and who have served outside the continental United States or in Alaska after June 26, 1950.

Report On 1952 Cancer Crusade

A full report of the 1952 Cancer Crusade is being made today to each County Campaign Chairman by the American Cancer Society's State office.

Mrs. Lillian G. Meade, Executive Director, announces that the Alabama Division has again more than raised its State quota of $150,000. The 1952 Cancer Crusade results total $162,453.92.

Mrs. Meade stated, "This is a great tribute from the people of Alabama to the American Cancer Society's program of Research, Education and service.

I am particularly gratified that Alabama was able to raise more than its quota, because this will enable the Alabama Division to expand its, program, something it has been desirous of doing for some time.

For the first time in the history of the Cancer Society the three large counties of Mobile, Montgomery and Jefferson have all raised their respective quotas."

W. D. Alston, Southern Bell Telephone Company, was 1952 Cancer Crusade Chairman.

Shelby County's quota was $1,125.00, and $834.18 was raised for the 1952 Cancer Crusade. Mr. Leon Meyers, Columbiana, was County Campaign Chairman.

Leaders To Teach Their Home Clubs

Forty-two leaders from 18 clubs learned to stencil textiles recently.

An exhibit of aprons, pot holders, place mats, table cloths, napkins, curtains, and baby bibs was displayed. Leaders painted fruit and Mexican designs on kitchen curtains, floral and leaf designs on table cloths, place mats, napkins and organdy party aprons. Pillow cases and table runners were painted with attractive designs. The Leadership School was conducted by the Home Agents.

Leaders who attended this training meeting will teach their club members at the October Home Demonstration meeting were:

Grady G. Carter Died Wed. Night In Birmingham

Grady G. Carter, age 48, of Calera, died Wednesday night about 9 o'clock in Jefferson Hospital, in Birmingham. He had been sick a long time. He was carried to the hospital Tuesday night.

The deceased was the husband of Mrs. Eloise Fancher Carter who survives him.

He was a native of Columbiana, where his mother, Mrs. W. W. Carter, now lives. He has three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Underwood, Tuscaloosa; Mrs. Perry McCormick, Birmingham; Mrs. J. P. Mansfield, Birmingham.

Funeral arrangements will be in charge of Walton-Bolton, Columbiana.

Tenth Anniversary Of L. & H. Grocery

This week is the 10th Anniversary of one of Calera's outstandgin business firms, the L. & H. Grocery Company.

Mr. T. W. Lawrence, owner of the business, is celebrating the occasion with a big anniversary sale to which he invites everybody to come and be his guest.

People who trade with L. & H. Grocery get the best to be had in eatables. But they also get something good which they can't eat. We mean the kind of courteous and friendly service which makes them feel and know that Mr. Lawrence has an interest in his friends and neighbors that extends for beyond the mere matter of selling them groceries.

Get Peaches At The Curb Market

Farmers Market continues to operate each Saturday morning with all available vegetables and produce from the farm. This Saturday consumers will have an opportunity to purchase peaches coming direct from the Aldredge farm at Jemison. It is expected that some vegetables along with live poultry and eggs will be offered.

Over thirty individual sellers have used the market and over 200 individuals have made purchases since the market started in early June. The Chamber of Commerce hopes to see the market prove mutual to all concerned as from time to time merchants, consumers and farmers all benefit from it.

FFA Boys Going To Prattville

Montevallo F. F. A. boys will go to Prattville Saturday to participate in the Tractor Derby day as well as observe the REA show. Houston Ingram and Lewis Wooley are official entries in the contests. Tractor operators will be scored on how skillfully each can handle tractors and attachments used in farming operations. All F. F. A. boys desiring to make the trip to Prattville should get in touch with the adviser or with Lewis Wooley.

The many friends of Mrs. W. J. Mitchell will regret to learn that she is very seriously ill. She is at her home in Montevallo.

McClendon Reports Work Progress On Bessemer Road

Our Road Commissioner, Mr. Fred McClendon, came in the other day and gave us a very encouraging report on the progress of construction on the county farm-to-market road from Montevallo to the Jefferson County line near Bessemer.

According to Mr. McClendon, the preliminary work of locating and grading is about complete on the first part of the project from Montevallo to Maylene; and considerable progress has been made also on the upper end of the road.

Routing of the road through Dogwood was arranged so as to make it pass directly by the Dogwood School.

The people of this section of the county are glad to note the progress which has been accomplished on this important road. The action of Mr. McClendon and the other members of the County Board of Revenue in the building of the road has the hearty commendation of the people of West Shelby County.

August 16th Is Candidate Deadline

The law provides that candidates for Mayor and Councilmen in the general municipal election must announce and qualify not less than 30 days before the election.

Since the date of the election is September 15, therefore candidates in Montevallo must qualify not later than August 16.

The proper blanks for filing and qualifying are in the hands of the Town Clerk. Any and all prospective candidates are urged to take note of the requirements and to get under the wire in time. See the Clerk for the necessary blanks.

Rotary Club Takes River Cruise

Twenty members of the Montevallo Rotary Club and their wives and twelve guests were entertained with a cruise up the Warrior River at Tuscaloosa last Thursday afternoon aboard the Gulf States Paper Corporation boat the "E-Z Kraft".

The group left the Gulf States Paper Corporation dock at 5:30 p.m. and cruised up the river until 7:00 when dinner was served on one of the three decks of the boat. The cruise ended at 9:30 p.m. at the Gulf States dock.

Typhoid Clinics

Members of the Health Department will conduct the regular Typhoid Clinics at the following places at the time specified:

Thursday, August 14, Siluria, 10:00, Dr. Stinson's Office; Alabaster, 1:30, Walker's Furniture Store.

At this time immunizations will be given against all the common diseases.

It is urged that all citizens in these communities attend these clinics for their own protection.—

Dr. E. F. Sloan, Shelby County Health Officer.

4-H Club Camp Is Good Time

4-H Camp is a wonderful experience for any 4-Her. You learn a lot about 4-H work and how so much fun working with 4-Hers from the entire state. Many awards are given to 4-Hers who have done outstanding work.

Joyce King, Vincent, claims the title of Alternate State Dress Revue winner. Other Dress Revue winners are District I, Betty Marvis, Blount County, State winner; Jurldian Wigintan, Marion County, District II; Jearell Kite, Russell County; Betty Wise, Covington County; District III, Wanda Joyce Davis, Mobile County, Mary Kay Boyd, Sumter County, District IV; Mable Layton, St. Clair County.

The Dairy Foods Contest was another highlight of the week. The girls gave demonstrations on how to prepare dairy products, retaining all of the nutrients. State team winners were Jo Ann Cranberry and Ann Hudson, Houston County. Individual State winner was Carolyn Stockley, Cleburne County.

Winners of the Baking Contest were Jo Ann Catchings, Coosa County; Olene Howle, Cleburne County; and Jean McElro, DeKalb County. Each of these girls won a $100 scholarship.

The Talent Contest was one of the most enjoyable parts of the entire program. State winner was Charles Bryant, Mobile County, who played "It is No Secret" on the organ, a waltz on the accordion and "I Give the World A Smile." "Down Yonder" and "Glory, Glory to Old Auburn" on the piano. Alternate State winner was Hollis Cannon, Calhoun County. He sang "Cry',, "Danny Boy," and "I Get My Loving in The Evening Time." Other district winners were Billy Barnes, Cherokee County, who sang "Lazybones," Billy Davis, Clyde Douglas, and Roy Owens, Crenshaw County. These boys had a fiddle, guitar, and bass fiddle ensemble. All state winners will be given a trip to Chicago.

Our new State Officers were elected as follows:

President, Ed Young, Snowdown; Vice President, Brown Eastman, Gordo; Vice President, Leigh Richard, Florence; Vice President, Sue Meadows, West Point, Ga.; Secretary, Bobby Aderholt, Haleyville; Treasurer, Jean Talley, Lincoln; Reporter, Nell Pentan, Hissop; Song Leader, Franklin Wilson, Georgiana.

The week was ended with a most impressive candle lighting ceremony Friday night.

We hear by the grapevine that Miss Sallie Hooker is having a great time visiting with her sister, Mrs. Esther Calder, in Denver. It is not reported whether she has seen "Ike" or not.

Ten Alabama Organizations Sponsor Statewide Program For Citizenship

Montgomery, Ala., — A proposed "Citizenship Program" aimed at getting more people actively interested in public issues, sponsored by ten Alabama organizations with membership totaling many thousands, will be discussed at a series of nine meetings during August.

Dates for the meetings were announced by Walter L. Randolph, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, one of the sponsoring groups. Following preliminary discussions by representatives of all ten, Randolph said:

"The purpose of the meetings will be to discuss a proposed "Citizenship Program" in Alabama. The main objective of the program will be to get more people acquainted with the major issues now facing them and to get more of them to assume their responsibilities.

"The idea behind the meetings is well stated in a resolution on 'Citizenship' adopted at the last annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation. Many other organizations have adopted similiar resolutions."

These organizations, in addition to the Farm Bureau, were listed as sponsors:

Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, Associated Industries of Alabama, Alabama Bankers Association, Medical Association of Alabama, Motor Vehicle Association of Alabama, Alabama Forest Products Assn., Alabama Petroleum Industries, Alabama Real Estate Commission, and Alabama Automotive Wholesalers.

Meetings will be held Aug. 11 in Montgomery; Aug. 12 in Ozark and Auburn; Aug. 13 in Gadsden and Huntsville; Aug. 14 in Florence; Aug. 15 in Birmingham; Aug. 18 in Demopolis; and Aug. 19 in Mobile.

The American Farm Bureau's Citizenship resolution follows:

CITIZENSHIP

"The United States is one of the few remaining strongholds of free people. In a republic, the people are the supreme power and exercise control through a system of representation. The primary purpose of the state is to protect the God-given rights of the individual, as documented in the Constitution.

"Our policies, domestic and international, must be intelligent and have moral purpose. The moral integrity of the Nation will depend upon the effectiveness and courage with which the individual meets his citizenship responsibilities.

Therefore, responsibility for the preservation of our democratic form of government rests with the individual. Citizenship responsibility begins in the home and community. It implies the thorough study of local, state, national, and international issues and as a result, the intelligent use of our cherished right to vote.

The proper functioning of our system of government is dependent upon the checks and balances between the legislative, judicial, and executive branches of the government and on the maintenance of two-party system. We urge our members to promote good candidates for office, and to be active in the affairs of the political party of their choice.

We commend the community, county, and state Farm Bureaus on their educational, informational, and promotional programs designed to develop leadership and stimulate greater civic responsibility on the part of rural people.

Our citizenship is a priceless possession. On the survival of freedom in America rests the hope of the liberty-loving people of the entire world."

Local Sportsmen Will Be Interested In These Dates For Hunting Season

Montgomery, Ala., — Conservation Director Earl M. McGowin has announced that the Advisory Board of Conservation at a recent meeting recommended to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service the following seasons on doves in Alabama: October 17-October 31 and December 27- January 10. The Board in considering the dove season was limited to the framework set by the Federal agency on migratory birds. Alabama, located in the southern part of the Mississippi Flyway, was permitted to choose September 15 or a later date to start a season of thirty consecutive days, or two periods of fifteen days each, with January 10 in either case being the latest closing date. Federal regulations prohibit the zoning of a state and dates selected for the open season on doves must apply to the entire state. Since hunters in south Alabama have always preferred a late opening date while in North Alabama desire an early date, a split season appeared to be the answer. Alabama's split season compares favorably with that recommended by two adjoining states. Mississippi has indicated a preference for October 15-October 29 and December 27-January 10 while Georgia has requested September 15-September 29 and December 25-January 8. According to these recommendations Alabama had requested a later opening day than either of its sister states.

Word has been received by Director McGowin from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service that Alabama's recommendations on the dove season have been approved. Therefore hunters will be permitted to enjoy an open season on doves from October 17 to October 31 inclusive and from December 27 to January 10 inclusive.

At the same meeting of the Board the seasons were set for the various species hunted from October 15 to December 15 and south of U. S. Highway 80 from November 1 to January 1. The quail season will open on Thanksgiving Day, November 27, and close on February 20. The season for turkeys will be the same as last year with the exception that Russell County will be open and Pickens and St. Clair counties will be closed to such hunting. In North Alabama turkeys can be legally hunted from November 20 to January 1 and March 20 to April 15.

With certain exceptions the deer season will be the same as last year, opening November 20 and closing January 1. Hale and Tuscaloosa Counties will be opened on a county-wide basis. Those portions of Jefferson and Walker Counties that were open last year will have the season reduced to fifteen days, which will make the closing date December 5. This change has been made because of the increased hunting pressure in the area. Franklin and Colbert Counties, with the exception of the Colbert County sanctuary, will be opened to stalk hunting only for a period of fifteen days. Managed hunts in the National Forests of Alabama will be announced jointly at a later date by the Department of Conservation and the U. S. Forest Service.

When hunted as game with a gun, the rabbit season will extend from October 1 to February 20. This is the same as the 1951-52 season.

The season for fur bearing animals will be the same as last year with the exception that the trapping muskrats will be permitted on a state-wide basis from December 1 to February 20. This is a reduction of thirty-nine days in the muskrat season which appears necessary for the protection of this valuable fur bearer. The research progam, being conducted by the Depatment, reveals a decline in the muskrat population.

More specific information on the game seasons and on the areas open to trapping furbearers and the hunting of deer and turkey may be obtained by contacting the Department of Conservation.

The season for hunting water fowl will be announced at a later date by the U. S. Wildlife Service.

PLAN FOR TEACHERS DAY — Frank Grove, Secretary of the Alabama Educational Association, is shown going over plans for the Second Annual Alabama Teachers Day which opens the Alabama State Fair on Monday September 29, with Mrs. D. D. Black, Montgomery, president of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers (left), and Miss Ruth Holleman, Birmingham, chairman of the Alabama Teachers Day Committee.

Alabama Education Association To Hold Leadership School At Alabama College

The Alabama Education Association will hold its annual Leadership School at Alabama College, Montevallo, on August 15-17.

The theme of the School is Education Communication. The overall theme will be discussed under five topics, as follows: When we talk to ourselves; It begins in the classroom; Keeping in step with the public; Building the 1953 legislative program; Retirement, social security and tenure.

The out-of-state consultants include Dr. William Lloyd, director of public relations for the city of Richmond, Va.; Dr. B. I. Griffith, director of public relations of the Ohio State Education Association; Dr. Lyle Ashby, director of professional relations, National Education Association, Washington, D. C.

All officers of the Alabama Education Association, and more than two hundred other leading educators from over the state will attend this leadership school. Shelby County will be officially represented by the county president, Mr. D. B. Smith, and the secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Poole, both of Vincent.

Superintendent W. W. Elliott, vice-president of the Alabama Education Association, will. preside at the opening meeting on Friday afternoon, August 15.

Miss Anita King, will serve as leader of the discussion group, It Begins in the Classroom.

The Shelby County and Alabama College Teachers' Associations will serve as hostesses to the group at an informal reception on Friday night, August 15.

Auto Dealers Give FFA Truck

Helping to promote a greater agriculture in the Montevallo community the automobile dealers of Montevallo and Floyd Hawkins have made a Ford truck available for use in the FFA activity program. Items included in the FFA program have been difficult to accomplish during the past year because of the lack of transportation. With a truck available more boys can be encouraged to produce, show and market swine, poultry, beef, and other farm produce.

The truck was used first to take contestants to Prattville Saturday to participate in the Tractor Derby and REA Show.

Lewis Wooley and Houston Ingram represented the Montevallo Chapter in the contests.

The 70 FFA members and all honorary members are certainly thankful to W. E. Lovelady, Victor Scott, Cooper Shaw, and Floyd Hawkins for this gift and we look to greater accomplishments in the FFA Chapter here.

Mustering Out Pay

(By E. J. Sullivan)

Veterans who were in serivce on or after June 26, 1950 have been calling at the office for the past two weeks, seeking information about when the mustering out pay application forms would be ready. The forms are in the hands of the County Department of Veterans' Affairs Office. It will not be long until those checks will be delivered. At the same time, we must remember that applications are pouring in to the various service departments from all over the United States, and it is quite a job to get them all paid without at least some delay. We don't know how long it will be after you make your application before you get your check. But the Armed Forces advise that payments will be made as soon as possible. Incidentally, veterans of World War Two, who collected mustering out pay upon release from service prior to June 27, 1950, are eligible to receive additional payments, provided, of course, they re-entered service and qualify under the new law. Payments will vary from $300 for those with more than 60 days service, any part of which was outside continental United States or in Alaska, to $200 for those with more than 60 days service in the United States, to $100 for those with less than 60 days in the United States. Among those veterans who are not eligible are those transferred or returned to retired pay, except those retired or separated for physical disability; those discharged or released to take civilian jobs and who had no oversea service; those whose entire period of service was spent in civilian schools; those whose duty or service was solely training duty or who was called up for physical examination if duty was less than 60 days.

Survivors of qualified veterans who died after release from service are entitled to mustering out pay. The payment will be made first to the widow, next to the child and then to the parents.

Just as soon as you are released from service, go to the Probate Judge's Office and have your discharge recorded. I have already made application for a new discharge for a veteran who was discharged only a short time ago. This recording is free service to all veterans.

Now in filing your claim for mustering out pay, it is essential that you send in your original discharge, or notice of separation, form 214, with your application. Also, put your address on the back of your separation so that it may be returned to you.

Bring Product To Farmers Market

The Farmers Market continues to operate each Saturday morning offering available farm produce to consumers. The farmers market operates as a cooperative project aimed at proving mutual to all concerned. The farmers are encouraged to bring all available produce for sale to the market and consumers are encouraged to make purchases there.

Special adult classes will be held by the vocational agriculture department aimed at giving instructions concerning production and marketing of farm produce. Farmers and farm women interested should enroll early as possible.

4-H'ers and Leaders at Camp include: Peggy Sue Cobb, Charlon Whisenhunt, Sara Fullman, Eva Jean McQueen, Lou Ellen Wilder, June Hand, Martine Vanderslice, Nona Fay Roberson, Yoby Sims, Blair Mabry, Edward Earl Nelson, Avery Seglers, Larry Pearce, Benny Owens, Ronnie Brown, Larry Barton, Tim Ross, Gene Quick, Richard Rodgers, Sonny Burdett, Houston Seale, Jack Armstrong, Tommy King, Sam Roberts, Lamar Hinds, Joe Mooney, Gay Clark, Jonny Sims, Kay Clark, W. M. Clark, Marian Cotney, and Elizabeth Collins.

FFA Promotes Production Plans

M. Thornton, teacher of vocational agriculture, announces that the program of vocational agriculture will be geared to help handle the situation created by unusual weather conditions this summer. Effort is being made to get all possible production this summer and fall. Special lonas are available to farmers and special classes will be held to promote the production program. Much concern is being given to fall gardens, poultry production, milk production, beef production and swine production. Disaster loans are available in cases where loans cannot be obtained otherwise.

Telephones Reflect Community Growth

Indicative of the growth of Montevallo and surrounding communities is the large increase in the number of telephone directories now being distributed to local telephone subscribers.

Approximately 964 new directories are being delivered to homes and businesses, according to S. C. Stutts, Group Manager for Southern Bell Telephone Comany, compared to 908 when the last directory was delivered.

The new telephone directory contains many new and changed listings and other helpful telephone information and is easily distinguishable from the old green covered telephone book by its light gray cover. A sufficient quantity of the new directiries has been printed to supply every telephone subscriber and to allow for future telephone expansion.

The classified section—yellow pages—contains listings for business telephone subscribers under headings alphabetized according to their businesses or professions. "The variety of classifications describing products, services, professions and businesses provides a convenient ready reference guide when you want to locate a firm or individual", Mr. Stutts pointed out.

He requests that the old directory be discarded and that the new directory be referred to when telephone numbers are desired. Looking up the desired numbers helps to avoid the possibility of getting wrong numbers and saves time for both calling and called parties. "Information" should be called only when the number you are seeking is not listed in the directory.

The Kendricks Buy Popular Grocry Store

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kendrick have sold their cafe business and have bought out the grocery store originally known as Holcombe's. They have changed the name of the store to "The Dollar Saver."

"We invite the people of this area to come to see us and trade with us," said Mr. Kendrick. "Our grocery store will really be just what the name says — a dollar saver to all who come here to buy groceries.

"Our friends have been good to us since we have been here in the cafe business. We invite you to continue your patronage and friendship in our new line, the grocery business.

"The best quality merchandise, the most courteous and considerate service is our motto."

Town Pays Off Debt For Bridge

The town of Montevallo has paid off its debt obligation that was assumed to finance the construction of the new bridge over Shoal Creek at the junction of Main street and Selma Road.

Entire cost of the bridge was about $18,000.00. At the Council meeting Tuesday night it was ordered that the balance due on the obligation, $6,000, paid and the same has been paid, thereby saving two years interest on the balance.

Announcement

We wish to exxpress our appreciation to our many friends and customers for their support in our business at the cafe which we formerly operated.

We have sold the cafe and purchased the Grocery Store known so long as the Holcombe Store. In the future the name of the store will be "THE DOLLAR SAVER."

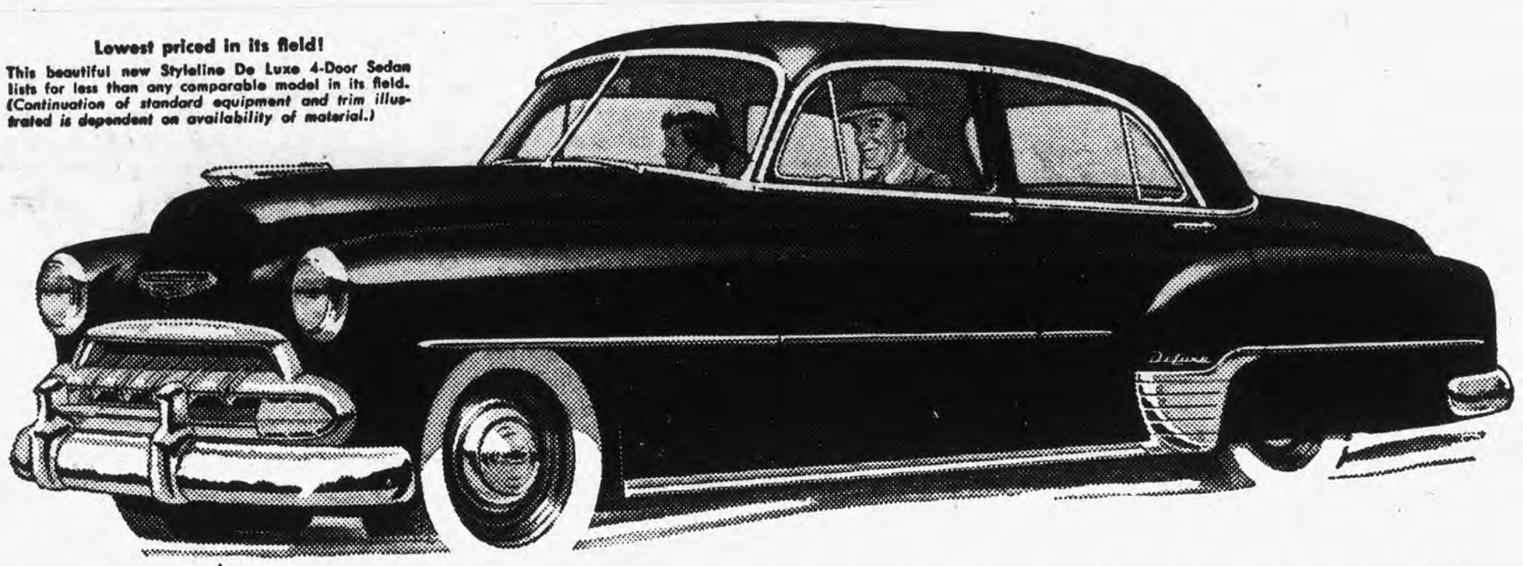

We want to assure the public that we will strive to do what the name implies — that the prices, quality and conduct of the personnel shall be enticing to all.

Local Committee Pursues Plans For Industrial Expansion

The Industrial Expansion Committee of the C. of C. went to Montgomery Tuesday for a conference with the State Planning Board concerning industrial development of Montevallo. Clarence Chism, V. P. of C. of C. reports that the conference was very successful and information will soon be released concerning future plans. John Foshee continues to represent Montevallo on the Birmingham Committee of 100.

J. B. Higgins is writing a prospective manufacturer of household furniture in Chicago in the hope his firm will look into the possibility of locating in Montevallo.

After talking with Mr. J. J. Henry of the Alabama State C. of C. the committee feels that much will be directed toward helping locate industry here.

F. P. Givhan, president of the Montevallo C. of C. is making the necessary plans to follow through with the industrial committee.

Agr. Trainees Plan More Production

The fifteen veterans taking Vet. Voc. Agri. training in the Montevallo Class, Shelby County, Ala., are well on the way toward increased production for the Fall and Winter, following the severe drought this Summer. The planned production includes planting 1385 pounds of Chapel Hill Rescue Grass, 159 Acres of Seed Oats, 193 Acres of Rye Grass and Crimson Clover, 91 Acres of KY. 31 Fescue, 39 Acres of Crimson Clover alone, 95 Acres of Caley Peas, 40 Acres of A. Winter Peas and 42 Acres of Vetch. All of the above seeds have been purchased except Vetch and A. Winter Peas and arrangements have been made for the Fert. Land preparation for the above crops in approximately half completed. Several of these Trainees have obtained the loans to finance the above through the cooperation of the FHA Program in Shelby County.

Man is like a worm . . . some chicken always gets him.

Rev. Charles Wellborn

Wellborn Returns To The Baptist Hour

Charles Wellborn, dynamic young pastor of Seventh and James Baptist Church, Waco, Texas, returns to the Baptist Hour the first of October. His theme for the fall quarter will be "Blue Print for Christian Living."

Mr. Wellborn was heard on the Baptist Hour during the first six months of 1952, and he has been named by the Southern Baptist Radio Commission as speaker for nine months of 1953. He has been heard on this nation-wide broadcast more than any other one man.

A graduate of Baylor University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Mr. Wellborn has had a wide and varied experience. He served in the Ski Troups during the war, and was twice decorated for heroism in action. He is a former professor of political science and of Bible at Baylor University, and has spoken in revival meetings and youth rallies all over America, and in several foreign countries.

The programs for October, November and December are as follows:

October 5, "The Terrible Week," 12,, "Let's Open Up The Ministry" 19, "The Art Of Seeing God;" 26, "Songs In The Night."

November 2, "Leaven and Light;" 9, "All — Or Nothing At All;" 16, "Divided Loyalties;" 23, "Thank You Lord" 30, "The Way Out."

December 7, "The Door To Life;" 14, "Rock Of Ages;" 21, "What If There Were No Christmas;" 28,"Now Or Never."

Montevallo Legion Wins The Prize

At the Fifth District Conference in Bessemer last Sunday the Montevallo Post of the American Legion was awarded a prize of $5.00 for having made up the highest percentage of its last year's membership at this point in the annual membership drive.

Total membership of the Post last year was 63. At this time it is 73 for this year.

According to Commander Harry Kendrick, the goal set for this year is 115 members.

CHAMBERLIN-WILSON

Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Chamberlin have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lyle, to Mr. Edward Mellor Wilson, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Eleven Candidates For Town Council

Closing time for candidates to announce for participation in the municipal election of Setember 15, brought the total up to eleven, offerings for membership on the Town Council. There are five to be elected. Following is the official list of candidates:

For Mayor

The incumbent, W. M. Wyatt, has no opposing candidates for Mayor.

For Councilmen

Two members of the present council are up for re-election. They are Dr. M. L. Orr, Jr., Milton C. Jeter. The three present council members who chose not to run again are F. P. Givhan, L. W. Mooten and Sam Klotzman.

The New Prospects

Among the candidates are three men who have seen prior service. Pat J. Kroell is a former Mayor. He served two years about 1915 and 1916. When he ran for Mayor he made the race on a committment to build the old Grammar School, and did build it during his term.

T. E. Watson and S. M. Mahan, each have served as members of the Town Council in former years.

Fresh Meat

The following candidates are seeking their first election to public office:

M. C. Lovelady (who was a candidate four years ago), Don Lovelady, Victor Scott, Haywood Wooley, Grady Parker and "Shorty" Smitherman.

Hamilton Takes Job With Birmingham Chamber of Com.

Lowell S. (Larry) Hamilton has been appointed to manage the affairs of Birmingham's Good Neighbor Committee.

Hamilton, assistant to the president and director of public relations at Alabama College, Montevallo, will assume his new duties Sept. 8.

The announcement of Hamilton's appointment came yesterday from Hugh Bigler, executive vice president of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce. The Good Neighbor Committee is one of the Chamber's newest and most aggressive organizations.

James A. Head, chairman of the committee, said Hamilton's appointment will enable the committee to develop more activities "which are vitally important to the development of Birmingham as the metropolitan center of the Southeast."

Hamilton formerly worked in Birmingham as a member of the Van der Veer advertising firm. He attended DePauw and Indiana Universities and has had several government posts with the Office of Defense Transportation. During World War II he served in the U. S. Coast Guard.

...and you'll keep America strong

AMERICA is growing trees for its citizens to use and to enjoy. Her forests, and the industries they supply, produce 44 percent of the world's lumber, 43 percent of the world's pulp and paper and 58 percent of its plywood. If protected from fire, these forests will continue to produce the wood 150 million Americans need. Forest fire prevention is everybody's job. Always be careful with fire — avoid setting the wood on fire!

The American Forest Products Industries, Inc., reports that after more than a century of use Alabama's commercial forests are producing new crops of trees at a rate almost one-third faster than the national average.

"If it hadn't been for Fescue in my creek bottom land this summer I wouldn't have had any pasture," Harry Dorrough of Wilsonville says.

"Fescue on our low ground was the only grazing we had during the worst part of the drought."—A. A. Blackerby, on the L. L. Stevenson farm, Dargin.

"I am planting a lot more sericea on my higher ground as it stood the drought fine here."—J. J. Hinds, Wilsonville.

"I am getting ready to plant Rescue grass, Chapel Hill, of course, on about 20 acres. Some will be doctored with 10 pounds an acre of alfalfa, and there is already a crop of reseeding crimson clover on the ground."—I. P. Johnson, Alabama College.

"Our champion Chapel Hill rescue grass seed patch has a thick reseeding stand about two inches high now. It has been limed and fertilized for the fall."—Elvin Hill of Columbiana FFA.

"We have found the severe dry weather did not stop our grass where reseeding crimson clover has been used for several years. Our cattle had a surplus of grazing, although only one and a half acres per head was allowed." M. B. Bates, Vincint.

Over 800 acres of Chapel Hill Rescue will be planted in the next 30 days in Shelby County, and only 30 were planted last year altogether!

We hope most of this acreage will be fertilized at least as well as oats would be.

Alabama College Fifty-Seventh Year Begins September 8

One of the largest freshman classes in recent years will begin registration week at Alabama College when doors open for the 57th academic year Monday, Sept. 8.

New students who will begin arriving in front of Main Dormitory Sunday, September 7, will be greeted in the traditional Montevallo manner by upperclassmen wearing white suits and dresses.

Members of the welcome committee will guide freshmen to their dormitory rooms, take them on campus tours and entertain them at parties in the new swimming pool, on the shores of the college lake and in Bibb Graves Hall.

Upperclassmen will begin their registration at 8 a. m. Tuesday, September 9 and the business of getting down to classes will start when the first class bell rings at 8 a. m. Thursday, Sept. 11.

Alabama College begins the year under leadership of a new president, Dr. F. Edward Lund, and with seven new members on its faculty.

Dr. Lund will discuss plans for the college year at the annual preschool faculty meeting at 5 p. m., Saturday, September 6 when faculty members will gather at Reynolds Hall after summer study and vacations in all parts of the country.

Among the new faculty members are: Dr. Laurence J. Rosan, New York City, assistant professor of religious education; Miss Jean Forhan, Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, instructor in modern dance; Miss Ruth Lee Ladoga, Indiana, assistant professor of secretarial science.

Miss Geneva I. Myrick, Deatsville, Alabama, assistant professor of physical education; Gerald Silveire, Gloucester, Massachusetts, instructor in English; Gideon Nelson, Clearwater, Florida, instructor in biology; John B. Madih, Tallahasse, Fla., instructor in speech.

Following the faculty meeting, Dr. and Mrs. Lund will entertain at a formal reception to be held at the president's home, Flower Hill.

School Cafeteria

According to Mr. S. H. Hurt, Principal of the Montevallo High School, the Cafeteria is almost finished. It will seat 300 people at a time and will be used for the High School and Elementary School pupils. It will be used for the first time when the County Teachers have their pre-school conference here at Alabam College on September 3, 4, and 5.

Mr. S. H. Hurt, announces that he will be in his office on Saturday, August 30, Monday Sept. 2, and Tuesday, Sept. 3, and will be glad to help any pupil or pupils and their parents in arranging their studies for the coming fall tem.

The woman who thinks no man is good enough for her may be right, but more than likely she'll be left.

F. O. Miller Is New Power Co. Manager

Henry Maulshagan, vice-president of Alabama Power Company, Birmingham, today announced the appointment of F.O. Miller as division manager of the Western Division, of which the Montevallo District is a part, replacing O. D. Wendel, who assumes new duties and responsibilities in the General Office of the Company.

Mr. Miller, who until his recent transfer, was division manager in the Southeast Division of Ala. Power Company, is a native of Clanton, Alabama, and an electrical graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Employed as junior engineer immediately after his graduation in 1928, he served in various sections of the Company for two years when he was made office engineer. Progressive promotions brought him to the position of assistant superintendent of the Western Division. He was transferred to the Southeast Division in the same capacity in 1945, and the next year became Southeast Division manager. And while there, Mr. Miller took an active part in various community, religious and civic affairs, and had an active interest in industrial development.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller have two daughters. Marian is a freshman at Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Nancy in high school.

Presbyterian Church Meeting

The session of the Montevallo Presbyterian Church has issued a call for a congregational meeting following the worship service next Sunday. The purpose of the meeting is to concur with the session and the minister in a request to the Birmingham Presbytery to dissolve the pastoral relation of the minister, Dr. Henry C. Niles, with the Montevallo Presbyterian Church; and any further business growing out of this act may be considered.

Dr. Niles has been offered the position of college chaplain and teacher in the Bible department of Westminister College, Fulton, Mo.

School Opening September 8th

The schools of Shelby County, including Montevallo High School and Montevallo Elementary school will open at 9:00 a. m., September 8th.

The Montevallo schools will remain in session until 2:40 p. m., that day. The following day, and thereafter, the Montevallo schools will open at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at 2:40 p. m.

Funeral Services For Mrs. John R. Lewis

Mrs. John Ramsey Lewis, age 67, prominent civic and church worker here, died Sunday morning in her sleep.

Mrs. Lewis remained active up until her death, though she had suffered a heart ailment for several years. A native of Weptumpka, she came to Montevallo thirty-three years ago. Mr. Lewis is owner of the Montevallo Coca-Cola Bottling Co.

Funeral services were held at 3:00 p. m., Monday at the Montevallo Baptist Church, Dr. Malcolm Fuller of Bristol, Va., and Edward Glover of Montevallo officiating. Burial was in Montevallo. Johns-Ridout of Birmingham in charge.

Surviving in addition to the husband, are three daughters, Mrs. F. P. Givhan, Montevallo; Mrs. J. H. Starling, Lexington, Va., and Mrs. Leslie Hubbard, of Montevallo; a sister, Mrs. O. C. Powell, Wetumpka and 6 grandchildren.

Active pallbearers were: Dr. Milton, Orr, Jr., Frank Morgan, Eugene D. Reynolds, Sanders Rowland, T. E. Watson, Dr. Julian Hardy, Calvin Roden and Hobart Love. Honorary pallbearers were C. G. Sharp, Dr. T. H. Napier, Dr. L. C. Parnell, Dr. E. G. Givhan, B. F. Roden, Crawford Johnson, Jr., Fred Hardy, T. A. Walthall, Judson Salter, Wilfred T. In Applying For Veterans Benefits

MONTGOMERY — Veterans Administration today advised all veterans to have photostatic or certified copies made of their original discharge or separation papers for use in applying for veteran's benefits.

Veterans with service since June 27, 1950—the start of the Korean conflict—should have these copies made immediately if they plan to attend school under the Korean G. I. Bill this Fall, said Harley A. Smith, Alabama Regional Office Manager of the VA.

Post-Korea veterans can avoid delay in receiving their education and training benefits if they have their report of separation (Form DD 214) papers, which are acceptable to VA, copied before the original is sent to the armed services for mustering out-payment. Mustering-out payments are handled by the individual services and NOT by VA.

For most VA-administered benefits, photostatic or certified copiies of discharge or seperation papers are acceptable. One exception is the VA-guaranteed G. I. loans.

Veterans applying for certificates of eligibility for G. I. loans must present their original discharge or separation papers which will be endorsed and returned to the veterans.

VA also asked the veterans to make sure that in submitting the photostatic copies of both sides of the document and not just the front.

Veterans who have been released to the reserves since June 27, 1950, should submit their report of separation or certificate of service, since they do not get dischage papers.

Getting Your Old Job Back Again

A number of laws have been passed since 1940, which will help a veteran get his job back when he is discharged from service. Any person who is drafted or enlisted in the Armed Forces of the United States, is entitled to RE-EMPLOYMENT RIGHTS. This also includes members of the Reserves who go on active duty for training, as well as members of the National Guard and reserve officers of the United States Public Health Service. Of course, in order to be entitled to re-employment rights, you must have satisfactory completed your period of service and have a certificate to that effect. In addition, the job you left in order to enter the service must have been with a Private Employer, the United States Government, or any Political subdivision of the United States Government.

Employees of States and their sub-divisions are not covered by the Federal laws, but most states have their own laws under which they may be covered. The job you left must have been a PERMANENT job, and you must still be qualified to perform the duties of the job. Application for re-employment must be made within 90 days after you are relieved from military training. And the emloyer's circumstances must not have changed to such extent as to make it impossible or unreasonable to restore you to your old job, or one of the same type with the same pay. Now, if you can meet all these requirements, which are very reasonable, what rights are provided for you? Well, your employer must restore you to your old job, or one similar to it, in which you will get the same pay, and keep your same standing with your company. You shall be considered as being on a furlough, or leave of absence from your old job during your period of military service. When you return to your old job, you will be entitled to take part in insurance or other benefits according to the established rules and practices in effect at the time you entered service. You shall not be discharged from the job within one year, without just cause. Now, suppose you meet all requirements and your emloyer refuses to restore you to the position to which you believe you are entitled. What can you do about it? The circumstances to both the employer and the veteran may have changed in many respects. Whether such changes are sufficient to deny an employee of the rights which the Congress mean to confer, must depend upon the facts in each case. Any person who desires assistance with re-employment problems may contact the nearest office of the State Employment Service.

Where necessary, he will be referred to a local volunteer committeeman for information and assistance. In cases where such problems can be solved locally, you may get in touch with the nearest office of the Bureau of Veterans' Re-employment Rights. The office in Atlanta serves the State of Alabama. A field Representative of the Bureau will consider all the facts in the case and will make every effort to work out some agreement which will be satisfactory to the veteran and his employer. E. J. Sullivan, Veterans' Service Officer.

The Deals' Trip To North Dakota

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Deal of Athens are spending the remainder of their vacation in Montevallo after a very delightful trip to Binford, North Dakota, where they visited Mrs. Deal's daughter, Mrs. Kent Alm, the former Jane Russell. Mrs. Alm will fly to Frankfort, Germany, in the next few days to join her hansband, Lt. Alm who is located with Headquarters European Command as Press Facilities Officer in Public Information at Frankfort. Mrs. Deal reports that her visit to North Dakota was one of the most pleasant trips she has ever made. She was the honoree at a number of social functions given by Jane's friends. Montevallo friends of Jane will be interested to know that she has had a very pleasant summer in North Dakota where she has served as swimming instructor at Red Willow Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Deal are making their home in Athens, Alabama now, where Mr. Deal is claim adjuster of the Farm Bureau in the Athens District.

Johnson-Barton

Mr. and Mrs. Ingram Pursur Johnson announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Lt. Claude E. Barton of Andalusia.

Miss Johnson received her education at Alabama College, Montevallo.

Mr. Barton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Barton of Andalusia, received his doctor of veterinary medicine degree from API, Auburn. His fraternity is Alpha Psi.

The wedding will be an event of October.

The first two sessions of the provisionanl Confederate Congress met at Montgomery, on February 4, 1861 and April 29, 1861. The third and fourth sessions were held at Richmond, Va.

The Curb Market

Although many vegetable crops have suffered due to lack of rain some products are reaching the farmers market in good condition each Satuday morning. Prospects tomatoes and some other items Twelve sellers participated at the market last Saturday and most of the quality produce was sold before 9:30. Farmers using the market are thankful to the Montevallo Chamber of Commerce and to the agricultural commiittee for sponsoring the farmers market. It is the hope of those concerned with the market that it can prove a mutual operation for consumers, farmers and merchants as well. The committee appreciates very much the cooperation given by consumers and merchants in getting the market established.

Planting Orchards

Indications are that this fall will be an unusually large planting season for fruit trees and vines. M. Thornton, teacher of vocational agriculture and FAA adviser, states that it might be well for those anticipating the planting of new orchards or replacing diseased or dead trees and vines to place oders during September while a 20 per cent discount can be realized. Mr. Thornton and the FFA boys will be glad to assist those interested in planting an orchard.

PTA Council Has Instruction Course

Forty-five representatives from various P-TA organizations in Shelby County attended the School of Instruction conducted by the Shelby County Council of Parents and Teachers, held at the Shelby County High School in Columbiana on July 30th.

Shower Given For Mrs. J. A. Brown, Jr.

Mrs. W. L. Lawler, Sr., and Mrs. W. L. Lawler, Jr, were hostesses at a stork shower in honor of Mrs J. A. Brown, Jr., last Friday night at the home of Mrs. Lawler, Sr., on the Calera Highway. Twenty-seven guests attended. Mrs. Lawler, Jr., began the entertainment with the song, "Ten Baby Fingers," accompanied by Mrs. Lawler, Sr. A number of contests were held, prizes being gifts which were presented to the honoree. A shower of gifts were presented the honoree in the form of a basket of laundry. The guests were served an attractive desert carrying out the theme of the shower.

Harry Klotzman and Dickie Dickson who have been attending the University of Alabama have returned home until the fall session begins.

In Broiler Business

Both Allen Robinson and Richard Robinson are in the broiler production business now. Under a special plan agreed upon by the boys and their father Charles Robinson, they will be able to make the broiler brooding house do double duty. This is realized by brooding chicks only six weeks and then transferring them to a growing out area. The boys expect to produce 2400 broilers this year.

NOITCE OF TIMBER SALE

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be called for and received until 2:00 p.m., September 10, 1952, at the office of the Department of Conservation, 7 North Bainbridge Street, Montgomery 4, Alabama, by the Director of Conservation, acting by and for the State of Alabama, for all merchantable timber on seventy-six acres, more or less, of a proposed lake site on Oak Mountain State Park, Shelby County; said lakesite lying in parts of Sections 13 & 24 T 19 S, R 2 W and part of Section 18 T 19 S, R 1 W.

Composition of timber on this area has been estimated by Scribner Rule as follows: These volumes are estimates only and are not guaranteed. The Scribner volumes ordinarily saw out ten per cent more than the estimate:

Pine	843 trees—	105,760 bd. ft.
Poplar	59 trees—	8,550 bd. ft.
White Oak	60 trees—	5,400 bd. ft.
Red Oak & Post Oak....		5,510 bd. ft.
Hickory		2,100 bd. ft.
Beech		1,530 bd. ft.
Grand Total		128,850 bd. ft.
Pine Pulpwood		App. 100 cords

These figures include all trees inside the water line, which is surveyed and marked, and trees standing within five feet of the water line. Trees tallied outside of the water line and marked with a spot of yellow paint at 4½ feet above ground and stump height are also included.

The pine is approximately 98% loblolly, containing approximately 1% each of long leaf and shortleaf. Logging conditions are good over most of the area.

The purchaser will be required to remove the timber by the Cahaba Valley road, which passes within a few hundred yards of the area, in order to eliminate a hazard to traffic on the State Park roads. The purchaser may remove all merchantable timber, but must leave no stumps higher than six inches from the ground. All trees occurring near the water line, the stumps of which will be under two feet or less of water, must be cut at ground level or not over two inches from the ground.

An area of approximately five acres making up the dam site and borrow pit must be cleared of all merchantable timber by October 1, 1952. The remaining area must be cleared of all merchantable timber by November 1, 1952.

TERMS OF SALE, CASH, with a ten percent deposit in the form of a certified check made payable to the Director of Conservation, to accompany the bid. The deposit will be applied toward the purchase price of the timber, except in the case of the unsuccessful bidders, whose deposits will be returned.

A performance bond of not less than $2,000.00 (two thousand dollars) will be required of the successful bidder to insure compliance with the contract of sale.

A sample timber sale contract may be obtained by writing the Alabama Division of Forestry, Department of Conservation, 607 Monroe Street, Montgomery 4, Alabama.

The envelope containing bid should be marked TIMBER BID so it will not be opened prematurely as ordinary mail.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved by the Department of Conservation.

Dated this the 25th day of August, 1952.

Villa Bentley Is Maid Of Cotton

Carrying the hopes of Shelby County into the state Maid of Cotton contest this year is Miss Villa Bentley, 24, social worker and graduate of Alabama College.

Miss Bentley was named Shelby County Maid of Cotton Friday night, August 29th in a special cotton program at the Shelby County High School, Columbiana.

Alternate Maid of Cotton is Miss Marcia Buck, 19, of Chelsea.

Miss Bentley, five feet, five inches tall, weighs 120. She is the daughter of E. W. Bentley, Columbiana.

She has blue eyes and brown hair. She graduated from Alabama College, where she majored in biology and chemistry. She became a hospital technician, taking her training at St. Margaret's Hospital, Montgomery. However, at present, she is employed in Columbiana as a case worker by the Department of Public Welfare.

She was sponsored by the Columbiana Kiwanis Club in the Maid of Cotton contest.

At Alabama College, Miss Bentley participated in Elite Night, was treasurer of the junior class, a member of the student senate, and was a "Purple" for four years at College Night. "And," she adds proudly, "the 'purples' won each year." She is a member of the choir of the Columbiana Baptist Church.

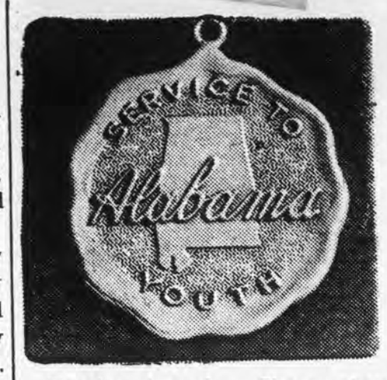

The Alternate Maid, Miss Buck, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray S. Buck, Chelsea. She is five feet, seven inches tall and weighs 128. She has brown eyes and light brown hair. A junior at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, she is majoring in secretarial sciences.

Judges were O. V. Hill, Talladega county agent; Miss Irby Barrett, Jefferson county home agent; and Luther Fuller, TCI, Birmingham.

Other contestants were Miss Peggy Perry, Miss Faye Wilson, Miss Martha Morrow, Miss Doris Edwards, Miss Hazel Davidson, Miss Ida Jo DeVaughn and Miss Willie Garrettt.

Mrs. J. Frank Baker conducted the program and introduced each contestant. Organ music was by Homer Walton, Jr. The contest details were handled by a special Maid of Cotton Committee composed of Mrs. J. Frank Wyatt, chairman; H. A. Pauly, Mrs. Douglas Kent, A. C. Adams, Mrs. E. B. Hughes, Mrs. J. H. Crawford and W. Royce Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Hendrick and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Kirkpatrick spent the week end in Panama City, Florida.

State Farm Bureau Meets At Auburn

Alabama Polytechnic Institute will be the scene Sept. 15-17 of the state's largest annual gathering of farm people, the 31st annual convention of the Farm Bureau and the 26th meeting of the State Council of Home Demonstration Clubs.

Held most of the time in recent years at Biloxi, Miss., due to the fact that adequate accomodations were not available within the state at the time farmers could most conveniently get away from their work, the concurrent meetings were scheduled for Auburn this year earlier than usual to povide a more central location, said Farm Bueau President Walter L. Randolph.

The Federation chief said A.P.I. dormitory and cafeteria facilities for 1500 to 1600 men and women, more if necessary, had been made available. Additional hundreds of delegates and visitors will commute from many counties by auto and chartered bus.

Mrs. J. Frank Baker, Montevallo, is president of the HD council. The organizations will hold separate business sessions, while general figures including American FBF Pres. Allen B. Kline, of Iowa; Vermont Sen. George Aiken, ranking republican on the senate agriculture committee; Mrs. Marie Daugherty, Chicago, director of AFBF women's work, and others. Alabama Sen. Lister Hill and Congressmen George Andrews and George Grant have been invited to discuss farm legislation. Important Farm Bureau policies will be drawn up during the convention.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

FORTY YEARS OLD and STILL GOOD

Alabama Power Company issued in October, 1913, a bulletin to employees which stated, in part:

"The Alabama Power Company is operating a system to supply service to the public and the success of the Company will depend on the manner in which this service is given and on the treatment which consumers or prospective consumers secure from our employees."

After nearly forty years, that is still our policy, more recently stated as follows:

"We recognize a triple responsibility — to the public, to our employees and to investors—and our obligation to try to maintain a just balance among these three interests.

"We recognize that it is a duty and a privilege to participate as a good citizen in the development of every community within our service area through the payment of taxes and otherwise, and to this end we pledge the services of the men and women of our organization."

Poultry Show At The County Fair

The Shelby County Poultry show was one of the highlights of the annual Shelby County Fair. Nine 4-Hers entered 12 of their best pullets in the show. The awards presented were; blue ribbons to Lyle Roach, Saginaw; and Bobby Coolsby, Route 2, Columbiana; Red ribbons to Terrel Lucas, Route 1, Montevallo, Shirley Steele, Route 1, Columbiana, and William Taylor, Shelby; White ribbons to Helen Starnes, Route 2, Columbiana, Iris Helen Martin, Route 1, Maylene, Peggy Wood, Route 1, Calera, and J. W. Carden, Shelby.

H. G. Sims, manager of the Sears Roebuck, farm store, presented the awards. This Poultry Chain is sponsored by Sears Roebuck and Company who awarded $80.00 in prizes each year.

Judges were A. A. Thornburg, Marshall Durbin and Company, Alford Randell Cosby Hodges Milling Company.

The first act that marked the inauguration of the Civil War of 1861-1865 was the firing upon the "Star of the West," a staunch merchant vessel chartered by the government to convey supplies and men to Sumter, on January 5, 1861. The vessel withdrew without returning the fire, and there were no casualties.

Klein Home Club Wins First Place

Klein Club recently added to its title, Shelby County's outstanding Home Demonstrtion Club. Columbiana placed second in this contest and Ebenezer was third. The contest was sponsored by The Farm Bureau Insurance Company. Judges were: Miss Dottie Walton, Shelby County Nurse; Miss Anita King, Elementary School Supervisor and Miss Jeanette Niven, Alabama College.

The Klein Club boasts of 21 active members and an average monthly attendance of 15. Five new members were added during the year. The members enjoy a luncheon meeting each fourth Thursday. Mrs. J. Frank Wyatt is the energetic president of this industrious club.

The club is 100 per cent in Farm Bureau Membership, has improved 62 mailboxes, cleaned, improved, and planted the cemetery, sold $200 in ads for the Council Cook Book, sent cookies to Veterans Hospitals at Tuscaloosa and Montgomery, assisted Negro P. T. A. with programs in sewing and gave them two demonstrations on "Making Nylon Corsages." Made and sold quilts and sold flavoring to add to club treasury, sent flowers and cards to families of club members in case of sickness or death.

Two parties were given for 4-H members and a chicken fry for 37 Vincent FFA boys. Leaders directed two summer 4-H meetings, a picnic, 4-H Sunday and arranged transportation for Vincent 4-Hers to annual 4-H Rally.

Subject matter leaders have attended every leadership school and conducted all demonstrations. All chairmen and the Club president have attended workshop and council meetings. All club members have worked on increasing membership. All chairmen, Farm Bureau, Rural Youth, Citizenship, Community Activities and Defense Chairman, have made brief reports at each meeting and presented at least one program during the year.

Families Will Get Increased Benefits

Nearly every family in Shelby County now getting old-age and survivors insurance payments will receive more money beginning with the September payments due about October 3. If the increase does not show on a check when it arrives early in October, and an increase is due, a later check will make up the difference. It is not necessary for people already receiving benefits to apply for the increased payments.

M. C. Folmar, manager of the Birmingham social security office, stated today that the recent amendments to the law will mean monthly payment increases ranging from $5 to $8.60 for practically all of the 426 retired insured workers in Shelby County. The average increase for retired workers will be about $6. In general, benefit payments to wives, widows, children, or parents will be increased proportionately; Mr. Folmar pointed out, however, that the increases for these 602 dependents and survivors would be less than those for retired workers. In most cases, these increases will be about $2 to $5. In a few families the increase will go only to the retired insured worker.

"The reason for this," Mr. Folmar explained, " is that the law has always provided limits to the total of benefits which may be paid to any one family in a month. In some cases, the increased benefit of the retired worker alone will absorb all of the permissable increase. Under these circumstances the full increase will be given in the check to the retired worker and the benefits to the remaining members of his family will remain unchanged."

The 1952 amendments to the law also provide for larger payments to future beneficiaries, Mr. Folmar declared. Until now, the law has provided for payments to most such newly retired persons, equal to 50 per cent of the first $100 of his average monthly wage after 1950, plus 15 per cent of the next $200. The new law just passed provides for a benefit of 55 per cent of the first $100 of average monthly earnings, plus 15 per cent of the next $200. The effect is an increase of up to $5 a month. Proportionate increases for dependents' and survivors' benefits will be based on that of the worker. This revised formula will apply generally to most persons who will become eligible for benefit payments in the future, Mr. Folmar said.

Vacancies Exist For Navy Officers

Lt. L. H. Gary, of the Nashville Naval Officer Procurement Office, will be at the Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Birmingham, Alabama on September 8 and 9 to inteview applicants for Naval Commissions. Active and Inactive duty in the Naval Reserve is available to college graduates, also doctors, dentists, nurses and chaplains.

NOITCE OF TIMBER SALE

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be called for and received until 2:00 p.m., September 10, 1952, at the office of the Department of Conservation, 7 North Bainbridge Street, Montgomery 4, Alabama, by the Director of Conservation, acting by and for the State of Alabama, for all merchantable timber on seventy-six acres, more or less, of a proposed lake site on Oak Mountain State Park, Shelby County; said lakesite lying in parts of Sections 13 & 24 T 19 S, R 2 W and part of Section 18 T 19 S, R 1 W.

Composition of timber on this area has been estimated by Scribner Rule as follows: These volumes are estimates only and are not guaranteed. The Scribner volumes ordinarily saw out ten per cent more than the estimate:

Pine	843 trees—	105,760 bd. ft.
Poplar	59 trees—	8,550 bd. ft.
White Oak	60 trees—	5,400 bd. ft.
Red Oak & Post Oak....		5,510 bd. ft.
Hickory		2,100 bd. ft.
Beech		1,530 bd. ft.
Grand Total		128,850 bd. ft.
Pine Pulpwood		App. 100 cords

These figures include all trees inside the water line, which is surveyed and marked, and trees standing within five feet of the water line. Trees tallied outside of the water line and marked with a spot of yellow paint at 4½ feet above ground and stump height are also included.

The pine is approximately 98% loblolly, containing approximately 1% each of long leaf and shortleaf. Logging conditions are good over most of the area.

The purchaser will be required to remove the timber by the Cahaba Valley road, which passes within a few hundred yards of the area, in order to eliminate a hazard to traffic on the State Park roads. The purchaser may remove all merchantable timber, but must leave no stumps higher than six inches from the ground. All trees occurring near the water line, the stumps of which will be under two feet or less of water, must be cut at ground level or not over two inches from the ground.

An area of approximately five acres making up the dam site and borrow pit must be cleared of all merchantable timber by October 1, 1952. The remaining area must be cleared of all merchantable timber by November 1, 1952.

TERMS OF SALE, CASH, with a ten percent deposit in the form of a certified check made payable to the Director of Conservation, to accompany the bid. The deposit will be applied toward the purchase price of the timber, except in the case of the unsuccessful bidders, whose deposits will be returned.

A performance bond of not less than $2,000.00 (two thousand dollars) will be required of the successful bidder to insure compliance with the contract of sale.

A sample timber sale contract may be obtained by writing the Alabama Division of Forestry, Department of Conservation, 607 Monroe Street, Montgomery 4, Alabama.

The envelope containing bid should be marked TIMBER BID so it will not be opened prematurely as ordinary mail.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved by the Department of Conservation.

Dated this the 25th day of August, 1952.

Honor Teachers At State Fair

Birmingham, Ala., — One hundred eight principals from city and county school systems throughout Alabama will be honored at Alabama Teachers Day here Sept. 29 when they are presented with Service To Alabama Youth Awards.

The awards are given each year by the Birmingham News and Post-Herald to representatives to Teachers Day which is celebrated on opening day of the Alabama State Fair.

The program was instituted last year to honor those in the teaching profession who have served longest in their respective school systems. Last year those honored were county teachers.

Dr. W. J. Terry, state superintendent of education, is again serving as honorary chairman of the program, and Miss Mary Ruth Holleman, president of the Alabama Classroom Teachers Association, is chairman of Teachers Day Committee.

The Service to Alabama Youth Award, to be presentted to the 108 principals, is a bronze medallion inscribed with the principal's name and the county or city he or she represents.

Miss Bernice Finger has returned to Montevallo and will resume her teaching at Alabama College after a year and a half in New York, where she did work on her doctorate at Columbia University.

Chamberlin - Wilson

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Louis Chamberlin announce the engagement of their daughter Lyle to Edward Mellor Wilson of Philadelphia, Pa.

The wedding will take place on Sept. 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Winthrop Chamberlin, Wilmington, Del.

Miss Chamberlin is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Boyd Chamberlin of Chicago, Ill., and of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Blair of Gadsden. Her maternal great-grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sibert of Gadsden, Ala.

She is a graduate of the Baldwin School, Bryn Mawr, Pa., and of Smith College.

Mr. Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Wilson of Philadelphia, Pa. He is a graduate of the Princeton University.

Study Club Plans For Coming Year

Mrs. L. H. Hubbard, president of the Montevallo Study Club, has announced plans for the club for the coming year and yearbooks have been issued to the members. Club officers in addition to the president are: Mrs. M. L. Orr, Jr., vice-president; Mrs. J. A. Wyatt, secretary; Mrs. T. E. Watson, treasurer; and Mrs. L. C. Parnell, Parliamentarian.

The first meeting of the year will be a supper meeting at 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday, September 23, at the home of Mrs. T. E. Watson. The officers of the club will be hostesses at the meeting.

The theme of the program for the year will be "The Contemporary Theatre." Committees are: Program and yearbook, Mrs. M. L. Orr, Jr., Chairman; Mrs. A. C. Anderson, Mrs. C. O. Nordan, and Mrs. E. D. Reynolds. Membership and absentee, Mrs. J. A. Wyatt, Chairman. Finance, Mrs. F. M. Morgan, Chairman; Mrs. N. E. Phillips, Mrs. T. E. Watson, Mrs. A. C. Jeter. Civic, Mrs. M. Thornton, Chairman; Mrs. J. F. Baker, Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, Mrs. M. L. Orr, Sr. Welfare, Mrs. F. P. Givhan, Chairman, Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. L. C. Parnell, Mrs. G. P. Rogan. Publicity, Mrs. C. O. Nordan, Chairman. Cookbook sales, Mrs. A. C. Anderson, Chairman. Scholarship, Mrs. E. D. Reynolds, Chairman; Mrs. T. Bridges, Mrs. L. C. Parnell.

To be included in projects for the year will be a benefit bridge party, as has been the custom for a number of years. Plans for this project will be announced at a later date.

The meeting date of the club has been changed from the first Thursday of each month to the fourth Tuesday of each month.

Bloodshed in the Civil War was on April 19, 1861. When President Lincoln issued his proclamation of April 15, 1861. Gov. John Albion Andrew of Massachusetts sent five regiments of infantry, a battalion of riflemen and a battery of artillery to Washington. While passing thru Baltimore, they were stoned and fired upon by a mob of citizens. Four Union soldiers were killed and twenty injured. Nine casualties were reported among the mob.

Elections Occupy State Spotlight

Montgomery, Ala. — Election preparations occupied the Alabama political spotlight this week, with city and state posts to be filled, and four constitutional amendments to be voted.

Voters will decide the fate of our four constitutional amendments, two of statewide application, in the Nov. 4 balloting. One amendment would stretch the terms of sheriff from four to six years. The other general amendment proposes other than road-building.

The local amendments for Blount and Fayette counties are almost identical in purpose. They would let the municipalities in these counties use tax revenue to promote industry.

Meanwhile. Alabama League of Municipalities Executive Director, Ed E. Reid, says mayors, city commissioners and councilmen will be chosen this month to run the affairs of 294 Alabama cities and towns for the next four years. These municipal elections will be held throughout Alabama on September 15.

Special elections to fill three vacancies in the Alabama legislature will be held in the Nov. voting. One senator and two state representatives will be chosen in the special elections set by Gov. Gordon Persons.

In the third senatorial district, a successor will be named for the late Sen. B. R. (Ben) Fant, who died several weeks ago. Blount, Cullman and Winston Counties are included in the third district.

In Cleburne County a scccessor to Rep. Pelham J. Merrill will be chosen. Merrill won the Democratic nomination to the State Supreme Court, and his election to that office in the Nov. 4 general election is virtually assured.

State Rep. Armistead I. Selden, Place No. I, Hale County, must be replaced also. Selden was nominated as Alabama's sixth district congressman in the Democrat primary last spring. He defeated the incumbent Rep. Edward de Graffenreid.

Mrs. Agnes Baggett, state secretary, said certificates of nomination have been sent out to Alabama probate judges so they can start getting ballots printed for the Nov. 4 general election.

First Play By College Theatre

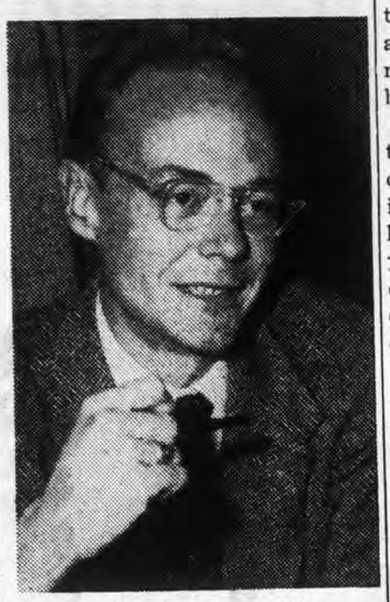

The first College Theatre play will be Somerset Vaughan's, The Unattainable, done in the round.

Townspeople who may be interested in participating in a College Theatre production during the coming year should contact Mr. Trumbauer as soon as possible.

Edwin Mahan Has Found A "Booger"

Edwin Mahan reports that a strange wild animal of some sort has been seen in the vicinity of Ashby and Brierfield. He thinks it is a Cougar or Mountain Lion.

Mr. Mahan plans to organzie a hunt to capture the animal, whose lair is on the Baird place in the territory known as Buzzard Holler.

RALPH W. SEARS

New Public Relations Director

Ralph W. Sears is the new Director of Public relations for Alabama College. He will succeed Lowell S. Hamilton, who will direct Good Neighbor activities of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Sears will also continue his position as director of campus Radio Station WRSD.

Since 1948 Mr. Sears and his wife Marcia have lived in Montevallo. At that time he joined the Alabama College faculty. As assistant professor of radio, he supervised installation of the modern radio station operated entirely by students.

Before coming to this campus Mr. Sears was associated with station KOLN, Mutual Broadcasting System's affiliate in Lincoln, Nebraska, where he was staff anouncer and assistant promotion director.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska with a B.S. in business Administration and an associate degree in Radio-Speech, Mr. Sears is a member of the Alpha Epsilon Rho, association for education by radio; and Sigma Gamma Epsilon. He has his master's degree in radio and television from the University of Southern California.

Mr. and Mrs. Sears have a new son, Stephen Ralph.

Class For Adults In Homemaking

The first fall meeting for ladies interested in working on problems of homemaking will be held in the Montevallo High School Home Economics Department on Wednesday afternoon, September 17, at 3 p.m. At this time we will decide on day and time of meeting which will be most satisfactory to all members for further meetings.

At this meeting you may plan further activities in sewing, meal preparation, home improvement, and/or other problems. Individual help will be given by either of the Homemaking teachers when desired. Call 6791, Mrs. McGaughy, or Mrs. Brooks for further information.

Alabama College Begins Year With Large Freshman Enrollment

Alabama College's 1952-53 school year officially began today with classes starting at 8:00 o'clock, and the traditional Opening Convocation at 11:00 o'clock.

Dr. F. E. Lund, new president of the college, welcomed the students and presented the new faculty members and the new staff members at the convocation exercises.

Registration for the fall semester began last Monday and will continue through today. According to Miss Virginia Hendrick, college registrar, registration for this year's freshman class shows an increase of approximately 10 percent over last year's freshman class.

As part of the annual freshman orientation program a Religious Leaders Convocation was held on Wednesday in Palmer Hall at 12 noon. Mary Ann Blackwell, Y.W.-C.A. president, presided, and Mr. Edward G. Glover, pastor of the Montevallo Baptist Church, gave the devotional.

Martha Ann Blair, president of Westminster Fellowship, introduced Mrs. Harold Anthony who spoke on behalf of the Montevallo Presbyterian Church. Mr. Minar L. Triplett, pastor of First Methodist Church, was introduced by Nancy Masdon, president of Wesley Foundation.

The president of the Canterbury Club, Carol Hurt, presented Mr. Jack Bingham, lay leader of the Episcopal Church. Mr. C. A. Norred, introduced by Martha Geeter, represented the Church of Christ. On behalf of the Newman Club, the Catholic student organization, Rixie Torre presented Betty Joe Benton.

The Baptist Student Union president, Glenn Green, introduced Mr. Edward G. Glover. Alyene Reese, president of the Alabama College Religious Council, was also introduced at this time. The convocation closed with the singing of "God of Grace" and the benediction by Mr. Minar L. Triplett.

New faculty members for the 1952-53 school year include: Dr. Laurence J. Rosan, assistant professor of religious education; Miss Jean Forhan, instructor in dance; Miss Ruth Lee, assistant professor of secretarial science; Miss Geneva Myrick, assistant professor of physical education; Gerald Silviera as instructor in English; Gideon Nelson, instructor in biology; John Mader, teacher of speech therapy; Mrs. Mary F. Hunt, instructor in journalism.

Recently added to the staff are: Dr. Floris M. Herbert, college physician; Miss Ibbie Jones, college dietitian; Miss Barbara Cotton, assistant dietitian; Mrs. Jessie Forrest McGaughy, secretary to the director of public relations; Mrs. Catherine Smitherman, secretary to the director of education; Mrs. F. M. Witty, Mrs. Mary Eagerton and Mrs. Dorothy C. Rorher, house directors of college dormitories.

Information From Probate Office By Judge Walker

All business, professional, and store licenses will be renewable on October 1, 1952, and will be delinquent on November 1. Automobile tags will be delinquent on November 16.

The price of the tags will be $3.75 for all passenger automobiles regardless of the time of year the tag is purchased. All truck and trailer tags will be the same price as in the past. During the busy season, we will not be in position to handle many tags by telephone or mail, as it takse quite a bit of time waiting in line to get the cars assessed, paying the tax to the Collector, and wrapping and mailing the tags and receipts. Please keep this in mind and come or send by your neighbor some time during the 6 weeks period you have to get these tags.

The driving test is given here all day Friday and Saturday until noon of each week, except State holidays. If you have lost your 1952-53 Drivers License, you may secure a duplicate license by mailing an application to the Department of Public Safety, Montgomery, Alabama, with 25 cents.

We are not permitted to issue a learner's permit until the written test is given by the examiner.

The law exempting veterans of World War II from the payment of privilege license provides that a veteran may be exempt up to $35 to the State and $35 to the County for a period of consecutive years from the date of the passage of the law (July 6, 1945) or for a period of 6 years from the date of his discharge, whichever is later. A veteran of World War II discharged on or before September 30, 1946 will not be exempt from the privilege license this year. A veteran discharged on or after October 1, 1946, will be exempt for the full license year. It is important that the exact date of discharge be known when purchasing license. — Thanks. L. C. Walker, Judge of Probate.

Malaria Killed Thirteen People

Malaria killed only 13 people in Alabama in 1950, according to a booklet being issued by the State Department of Health. It adds that, in spite of the much smaller population, this same disease killed 500 Alabamians in 1915. The 1950 figure is provisional. The booklet, titled The Health of Your State, gives the state's 1915 malaria death rate at 22.2 per 100,000 population and the 1950 (provisional) rate at 0.4 per 100,000 population.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Dr. E. C. Allen of Newburn, Alabama, will conduct worship services at the Montevallo Presbyterian Church next Sunday at the eleven o'clock hour.

The David Lindsay Chapter, D. A. R. will meet on Monday night, September 15, at seven thirty, with Mrs. W. H. Lyman and Miss Julia Boyd.

Moody Barbecue

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Moody and family of Centreville entertained with a barbecue and fishing party at Lake Forest August 5.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mitchell, Miss Toots Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Moore all of Dry Valley.

A most enjoyable time was had by all.

Mr. T. A. Whaley, of Tampa, Florida, has been visiting his brother Mr. R. E. Whaley, here. He has gone on to Birmingham to visit his sister.

Hamilton, the county seat of Marion County, was named in honor of Captain Albert J. Hamilton, the man who donated the site upon which the town was built.

Report of County Health Officer

The past school year was marked by an unusual incidence of the common communicable diseases especially Measles, Whooping Cough, and Chickenpox.

Through the 1951-52 season there were 307 cases of Measles, 95 cases of Chickenpox and 48 cases of the Whooping Cough.

Whooping Cough can, in the vast majority of cases, be prevented by giving the child vaccine at the age of 4 months.

Measles can be modified or prevented, if the time of exposure is known, by having your doctor give Gamma Globin.

Little can be done to control Chickenpox.

Shelby County had one case of Diptheria in 1951 and no case in the first 8 months of 1952.

One case of Typhoid was recorded in 1951 and one case in 1952.

Preventive inoculation and improved sanitation will prevent the rather widespread occurence of these diseases as was experienced only a few years ago.

There have been four cases of Polio in the County this year. Three of these have entirely recovered with residual muscle weakness. One is in the Crippled Children's Clinic at present.

With the opening of schools for another year, the possibility of exposure to the communicable diseases is, of course, increased.

Parents are urged to be sure that their children have had their immunizations or "boosters" that are against the preventable diseases at this time. — Dr. E. F. Sloan, County Health Officer.

Kent's Dairy Herd Was Classified

Peterborough, N. H. — R. W. Kent, Kent's Guernsey Farm, Siluria, Alabama has recently had his Guernsey herd classified for type by L. V. Wilson, Owatonna, Minnesota, official classifier for The American Guernsey Cattle Club.

A complete analysis of the herd for type was prepared for Mr. Kent. This shows that of his 52 cows classified: 3 are excellent, 22 very good, 22 desirable, and 5 acceptable.

Results of this work tell the breeder the strong and weak points in the conformation of his herd. By selecting the better cows and breeding them to sires that transmit good conformation, herd type can be improved.

Ten daughters of Owendale's Napoleon's Champion were classified. Three were rated very good, 6 desirable and 1 acceptable.

The daughters of Riegeldale Emory's Consummate were classified. One was rated excellent, and 2 very good. Riegeldale Consummate's Lady classified excellent.

Three daughters of Doneddy Pilot C.G.H.B. were classified. One was rated excellent, 1 very good, and 1 desirable. Craigie Mains Pilot's Kitty classified excellent.

The report of this official classification has been sent to the national office of The American Guernsey Cattle Club in Peterborough, N. H., for approval and publication.

Iris Martin Will Represent Shelby In Bessemer Event

An outstanding 4-Her, Iris Helen Martin, will represent Shelby County in the District Dairy Maid Contest at Bessemer. The contest is a part of the District Dairy Show program Friday and Saturday.

Iris Helen has been active in 4-H work for five years. She has been president of the Helena Club two years; secretary-treasurer three years; neighboraide five years; and vice president of the County Council. She also participates in many school activities.

She has completed 5 years in sewing projects; personal improvement, 4 years; foods, 2 years; and she is carrying a poultry project this year.

Joe Money will be Iris' escort at a buffet supper, a square dance Friday evening and to a barbecue Saturday morning. The maids will be judged Thursday at 4 p.m. They will participate in a program and the District Dairy Maid will be announced at the Bessemer High School at 8 p.m. Friday. Maids will be presented at the District Dairy Show at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Iris is the daughter of J. R. Martin, Route 1, Maylene.

Naval engagement in the Civil War took place September 14, 1861 at Pensacola, Florida. Lt. John H. Russell with a detachment of the crew of the U. S. S. "Colorado" descended upon the navy yard at Pensacola at 2 A. M. The steamer "Judah" (five guns) lying at anchor was burned and the only gun in the yard spiked. There were no Confederate casualties. Three of the Union troops were killed and four wounded.

On July 1, 1720, the first cargo of slaves was landed at Mobile aboard the French sailing vessel "Hercules".

Pre-School Conference Held At College

A three day pre-school work conference was held on the campus of Alabama College last week for the classroom teachers and administrators of Shelby County.

The purposes of the conference were to provide opportunities for teachers to discuss common problems in special interest groups, in grade and departmental meetings, and in local school groups; to provide opportunities for teachers to play together, as well as work together, and make social contacts with one another.

To carry out these purposes, meetings were planned for morning, afternoon and evening. Many took advantage of the new college pool for swimming; square dancing, group singing, and other group games were enjoyed at night. A large number enjoyed a picnic on Thursday evening which was held in the Faculty Club House overlooking the 25 acre lake.

Mr. W. W. Elliott, superintendent of Shelby County Schools, presided at the opening meeting on Wednesday morning and introduced the Rev. Minar Triplett, pastor of the Montevallo Methodist Church, who delivered an inspiring message based on Paul's letter to Timothy (I Timothy 6:20) "O, Timothy, guard what has been entrusted to you." Rev. Triplett said, "I would lift these words out of the Scriptures and make them my message to you. O, teachers, guard what has been entrusted to you. We entrust you with our most valued, our most precious possessions. We committ unto you our children, Guard that which is entrusted to you. Be diligent to teach the truth; faithfully endeavor to create the right attitudes; by the word and deed teach reverence, and so walk before our children that you will not be ashamed to see them walk in your foot steps. Thus shall you be true to the sacred trust which is yours."

Dr. W. M. McCall, of the State Department of Education gave the keynote address on The Place of In-Service Education in a Good School Program. Dr. McCall said, "In-service education is the conscious job on the part of teachers and administrators to do a better job. An organized study program for teachers and administrators in each local school, and on a county-wide basis, is one of the technique of good in service program.

"Some of the results that may be expected from a good in-service program are the growth of teachers as individuals, as well as professionally; more democratic leadership on the part of administrators; an improved instructional program in the classroom; and more use of community services agencies, and lay groups."

Dr. Louis E. Armstrong, president of the Indian Springs School, addressed the group on Thursday on the subject, The Role of The School Principal in an Instructional Program. Dr. Armstrong said said that progress in education depends upon invention just as in industry. He thinks a principal can be of much help to teachers by helping them to analyze what they want to do, providing opportunities for them to discuss their ideas and problems with one another, and by releasing them to do creative teaching.

Educators from different sections of the state served as consultants in the study groups. Besides Dr McCall, who is continuous consultant to the Planning Committee, there was Mr. E. S. Van Cleave, Supervisor of Music Education, State Department of Education, Miss Lucille Mixon, Supervisor of Marion County Schools, Hamilton, Miss Bernice Dilworth, Consultant for the Birmingham Paper Company, Miss Dottie Walton, Shelby County Public Health Nurse, and Mrs. Watts, Consultant for Scott, Foresman and Company.

Music was part of each program. The entire assembly participated in group singing several times under the leadership of Mrs. Gertrude Cobb, and Miss Mary Mims. Mr. Van Cleave played several violin numbers on Wednesday night; Mr. Charles E. Bryan, Instructor of Music, Indian Springs School, sang some old folk songs and accompanied himself on the dulcimer, which is an old, little known musical instrument; and on Friday, Mrs. S. H. Hurt delighted the entire group with a vocal number.

On The Farms Of Shelby County

Preparing land for Ky. 31 Fescue and Ladino, Calera's J. J. Reeves was pulling a "clod-buster" behind a bush and bog harrow. This new-to-us tool was leaving a finely pulverized seedbed. Mr. Reeves had called us for preliminary surveys on a large fish pond site, and a siphon system to carry water from a smaller pond over a hill to his barn.

Cattle and sheep man Bob Russell plans a pond just out his back door on his Shelby Springs farm. A national farm magazine last month had color pictures of a similar pond, but the Russells had their idea prior to that. Mr. Russell had showed us his very heavy re-seeding stand of rescue grass.

A heavy proportion of cooperators with the North Central Soil Conservation District was seen in the long line at the local P. & M. A. fall opening Tuesday. The P. & M. A. materials and seed are a great deal of help in getting Shelby County soil improved and saved for the future. In spite of the rush we were impressed with the courtesy and care with which Oland Smith was helping each farmer work out his needs and his farm allowance.

W. W. Watkins deserves a great deal of credit for his single-handed clearing and preparing a perfect seedbed on that several acre wilderness along Highway 25 near Wilsonville. He is planting several recommended winter grazing combinations, including several acres of Chapel Hill Rescue to produce seed on a share arrangement with the District.

Farmers planting Rescue for the first time should not expect it to come up quickly like oats, as the hard seed must soften gradually. Reseeding stands come up early due to softening in contact with the soil during the summer.

Report of County Health Officer

The past school year was marked by an unusual incidence of the common communicable diseases especially Measles, Whooping Cough, and Chickenpox.

Through the 1951-52 season there were 307 cases of Measles, 95 cases of Chickenpox and 48 cases of the Whooping Cough.

Whooping Cough can, in the vast majority of cases, be prevented by giving the child vaccine at the age of 4 months.

Measles can be modified or prevented, if the time of exposure is known, by having your doctor give Gamma Globin.

Little can be done to control Chickenpox.

Shelby County had one case of Diptheria in 1951 and no case in the first 8 months of 1952.

One case of Typhoid was recorded in 1951 and one case in 1952.

Preventive inoculation and improved sanitation will prevent the rather widespread occurence of these diseases as was experienced only a few years ago.

There have been four cases of Polio in the County this year. Three of these have entirely recovered with residual muscle weakness. One is in the Crippled Children's Clinic at present.

With the opening of schools for another year, the possibility of exposure to the communicable diseases is, of course, increased.

Parents are urged to be sure that their children have had their immunizations or "boosters" that are against the preventable diseases at this time. — Dr. E. F. Sloan, County Health Officer.

Kent's Dairy Herd Was Classified

Peterborough, N. H. — R. W. Kent, Kent's Guernsey Farm, Siluria, Alabama has recently had his Guernsey herd classified for type by L. V. Wilson, Owatonna, Minnesota, official classifier for The American Guernsey Cattle Club.

A complete analysis of the herd for type was prepared for Mr. Kent. This shows that of his 52 cows classified: 3 are excellent, 22 very good, 22 desirable, and 5 acceptable.

Results of this work tell the breeder the strong and weak points in the conformation of his herd. By selecting the better cows and breeding them to sires that transmit good conformation, herd type can be improved.

Ten daughters of Owendale's Napoleon's Champion were classified. Three were rated very good, 6 desirable and 1 acceptable.

The daughters of Riegeldale Emory's Consummate were classified. One was rated excellent, and 2 very good. Riegeldale Consummate's Lady classified excellent.

Three daughters of Doneddy Pilot C.G.H.B. were classified. One was rated excellent, 1 very good, and 1 desirable. Craigie Mains Pilot's Kitty classified excellent.

The report of this official classification has been sent to the national office of The American Guernsey Cattle Club in Peterborough, N. H., for approval and publication.

DAIRYMAN FINDS COWS DISDAIN DAIRY FEED

"My cows prefer to chew their cud and neglect their evening feed after grazing in this pasture," said R. W. Kent, Siluria dairyman, early this week.

It wasn't too difficult to believe even so startling a statement as this when we stood watching the fine Guernseys wading knee-deep in luscious ladino, orchard grass, and fescue, eating greedily. The pasture is stocked at the rate of one and one-half cows to the acre, but after three weeks of this the cows are getting behind the grass.

This same mixture furnished a fine winter grazing all last winter, and produced a large harvest of the mixed seed last spring. Mr. Kent will sell surplus seed to other farmers who want to duplicate his pasture.

Visitors to see this unused pasture can also see Tombigbee grain sorghum, Chapel Hill Rescue grass, and Coastal Bermuda being used as part of the program developed cooperatively with the North Central Soil Conservation District.

Grocerymen To Meet With O. P. S.

Alabama grocerymen are scheduled to meet soon with representatives of the Office of Price Stabilization to discuss the community food pricing program that will go in effect this fall.

"All food retailers, wholesalers, and chain warehouse heads are urged to attend one of the meetings to discuss this important proposed food pricing system," Charles G. Dobbins, OPS state director, said today.

"OPS officials will be present to explain the program and answer questions."

Meetings will be held as follows:

Birmingham, Friday, September 12, 11:00 a.m., past president's room, second floor, Chamber of Commerce Building.

Montgomery, Monday, September 15, 11:00 a.m., City Court Room, City Hall.

Mobile, Wednesday, September 17, 3:00 p.m., Assembly Room, Chamber of Commerce Building.

Director Dobbins said that under the new system, retail grocers will be required to display ceiling price posters prominently in their stores.

"The community food pricing system proved popular with both housewives and grocers during World Warr II," Dobbins said.

"When prices are posted on the wall, housewives can determine at a glance the correct ceiling price of a food item. Most grocers like the system because OPS saves them a considerable amount of work by figuring ceiling prices for them."

About 400 major food items will be shown on each price poster. The first posters probably will be displayed about October 1.

BIG LIFT to Better Farming

Better farming, new methods and machines, better livestock, and improved marketing are helping bring about a new era of progress and prosperity in Dixie.

Rural telephones (they tripled in number since World War II in the area served by Southern Bell) are bringing a big lift to farm work and farm living. During the first eight months of this year, we installed more than 92,000 rural telephones.

We'll keep on putting them in as fast as we can—because we know how much they mean to prosperity on the farm and in town . . . and to a strong, well-fed America. More farm telephones also mean more valuable telephone service for everyone.

June McQueen Maid Of Cotton

Miss June McQueen, junior at Alabama College, from Greenville, will represent the college in the state Maid of Cotton contest during the Alabama State Fair.

Selected last Saturday from four other finalists, the 20-year old speech major is the daughter of Mrs. Wlliiam A. McQueen.

A campus favorite from the heart of Alabama's cotton belt, June is five feet, five inches tall, weighs 124 pounds and has brown hair and eyes.

Now vice president of the Student Government Association at Alabama College, June has been receiving similar honors since her first year on the campus here.

While a freshman, June was selected secretary of her class, then became president of her sophomore class.

Her honors have not been confined to academic work. She nas won several other beauty awards before becoming Maid of Cotton on the campus.

Last October June was chosen a favorite during Elite Night Judgings, and was presented in the beauty section of the college yearbook, the Montage. This was her first college beauty award after having been Miss Greenville High during her senior year in high school, and Camellia Queen of Greenville in 1950. She was also a drum majorette for the Greenville Band and was high school Queen of Hearts.

An honor student, June was awarded an American Legion Scholarship last year. She takes time out from her studies to participate in College Theatre production and to take a leading role in activities of the local Baptist Student Union.

June was selected from among these other four contestants for the Alabama College Cotton Maid honor: Julia Bruce, Birmingham; Carolyn Frizzle, Montgomery; Ethel Rattray, Gadsden; and Chita Hodges, Ashville.

Iris Helen Martin Was Dairy Maid

A vivacious 15 year old Shelby County girl with a gracious smile Saturday reigned over Bessemer's annual corn and livestock fesitval.

Selection of Miss Iris Helen Martin of Maylene as Dairy Maid was announced Friday night at a talent show in the Bessemer High School auditorium.

She was presented by Miss Irby Barrett, home demonstration agent of Jefferson County. Her award was a silver trophy.

She is a sophomore at Thompson High School, Siluria. Miss Martin has been active in 4-H club work for five years. She is president of the Shelby County 4-H Council. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Martin.

She carried a 4-H sewing project for five years; a personal improvement project four years; food preparation two years and lamp and poultry project a year.

Iris Helen has been an active leader in the Helena Club. She has held the office of president of the Club for two years, secretary and treasurer three years, neighboraide five years, and vice president of the County Council.

Olive Ruth Autrey Studying For Master's Degree

Miss Olive Ruth Autrey, a 1952 graduate of Alabama College, is studying toward her master's degree in psychology this year on a scholarship granted by the University of N. C.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Y. C. Autrey, of Kimbrough, Olive Ruth was granted the $900 scholarship after her recent graduation from Alabama College with highest honors.

While on the campus Miss Autrey was a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman honorary society, and was president of Delta Phi Alpha, German honorary society.

She was a member of Pi Tau Chi, religious organization; Wesley Foundation of the local Methodist Church; and was advisor to the freshman class during her senior year.

Miss Emma Dendy Plans Exhibit Of Holy Bible

We think this is an opportunity which Montevallo should not miss. On Sept. 30, the Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible will come off the press. This is a day which will be celebrated in thousands of communities. Lets be one of them. We think Sunday is the most appropriate day for such an observance. So on Sept. 28 we are planning an exhibit of different translations of the Bible, different versions and interesting copies to be on display at the Forbes House (Westminster House). Please help us add to this display. If you have an interesting, valuable copy of the Bible, won't you lend it to us for this one day? Please give us any interesting information concering your copy, so that the whole community may know about it. Lets make this a real community project. We should like to have your Bibles on Saturday, September 27, so that our display exhibit may be attractively displayed. Bring them to the Forbes House, or call the House telephone 6371 and we will come for them. — Thank you, Emma Dendy.

Dr. Richard Powers Succeeds Dr. Napier As Dean Of Alabama College October 6

DR. RICHARD POWERS

The appointment of Dr. Richard Powers as Dean of Alabama College at Montevallo is announced today by Dr. F. Edward Lund, Alabama College president.

The 36 year old educator comes to Alabama College from Richmond, Va., where he has held the positiion of Regional Economist of the Office of Price Stabilization for the states of Va., W. Va., Md., N. C., and the District of Columbia Dr. Powers will assume his duties as Dean of Alabama College on October 6, succeeding Dr. T. H. Napier, who became Dean Emeritus of the College in July of this year after serving 26 year as Dean.

Dr. Powers gained wide recognition as coordinator of the Advisory Council on the Virginia Economy in 1950-51. This Council, popularly known as the "Governor's Economic Council," made recommendations to the Governor of Virginia on such subjects as farm income, transportation, marketing, tourist trade, mineral resources, fisheries, tobacco, labor arbitration, and other reports still to be published. With Dr. Powers as the Chief Editor and technician, this program resulted in legislation, public and private action and other efforts to improve the well-being of the citizens of Virginia.

Dr. Powers, who was born in Hopewell, Va., holds the Bachelor of Science, M. A., and Doctor of Philosophy degrees from the University of Virginia. During the course of his graduate work he was awarded and held a General Education Board Rockefeller Fellowship until he completed his Ph. D. degree.

Shelby Teachers Enter Child Study Program

Educators are beginning to realiize, more and more, that in order to provide the best school program possible for boys and girls they need to better understand the basic facts underlying child growth and development.

As a result of this felt need, teachers in three school systems in Alabama, Shelby county, Cullman County and Cullman City, have entered into a three year study of child growth and development under the guidance of Dr. Daniel A. Prescott, a world specialist in this field.

Last June, ten Shelby county teachers, the Supervisor of Instructions, and the Superintendent, along with teachers from Cullman county and city, attended a two week workshop under the direction of Dr. Prescott. These teachers were trained to serve as leaders of the child study groups in their respective school systems.

The teachers participating in the study will meet twice a month in small groups. They will study literature in the fields of biology, sociology, anthropology, and psychology. They will discuss the relationships of these sciences to the study of the growth and development of boys and girls at different age levels.

The leaders of these groups will meet every week; twice as leaders of their prospective groups and twice to study the techniques of group leadership. Teachers who will serve as child study group leaders are: Miss Elizabeth Mays, Mrs. Bertha Cosper, Mrs. Margie Sullivan, Miss Aileen Pope, Mrs. Ulmer Fancher, Mrs. Nannie Dee Durden, Mrs. Sara Walker, Mrs. Irene Hamric, Mrs. Sara Phillips and S. H. Hurt.

Other Shelby County teachers who selected to participate in this threeyear study are: Mrs. Mildred Beavers, Mrs. Louise Curtis, Mrs. Ruth Baker, Mrs. Virginia McGraw, Mrs. Lillie Phillips, Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, Miss Irene Bishop, Mrs. Frank Ellis, Mrs. Lillie Mae McKnight, Mrs. C. E. Nivens, Mrs. L. C. Taylor, Mrs. Frank Head, Miss Mamie Hill, Mrs. Ruby Lyon, Mrs. Sadie Reece, Mrs. Gertrude Cobb, Mrs. Mary Kirby, Mrs. Juanita Ryan, Mrs. Lesta Lucas, Mrs. Renie Fore, Mrs. Henry Peete, Mrs. Beulah Whalty, Miss Lavada Harper, Mrs. Emily Eddings, Miss Beatrice Kunstler, Mrs. Maggie Anderson, John Ramsden, Miss Ethel Harris, Miss Anne Grove, Mrs. Murry Fancher Mrs. Gladys Holcombe, Miss Lela Wade Rice, Mrs. Charlotte Peterson, Mrs. Inez Underwood, Mrs. Margaret Eddings, and Miss Minnie Dunn.

W W. Elliott and Miss Aniita King will serve as coordinators of the study.

On The Farms Of Shelby County

Maurice Poe, at his farm in the Kingdom community showed us a fine reseeding stand of button bur clover and another of Ball White clover. He has saved 20 pounds of Ball clover from a handful given him for test two years ago. Maurice likes its vigorous growth and bee keepers will especially like its long blooming season and many blooms.

Mr. C. B. Kirkpatrick is planting two acres of Chapel Hill Rescue on some choice land on his river farm.

William L. Hollis bought the last surplus Rescue seed from the second crop of the Columbiana High School patch.

The 625 acre farm of W. C. Butler, of Vincent was planted this week under agreement with the North Central Soil Conservation District.

Terraces were planned and laid out on two large watersheds of B. B. Mooney's farm this week.

These farmers have also made conservation farm plans on their farms recently:

F. G. Wright, H. H. Maske, H. W. Maske, Sam Sharp, R. M. Byrd, Clarence B. Sides, D. H. Richards, J. H. Kincaid, L. T. Bounds, E. W. Hare, Ned Cary and A. W. Baker.

At latest report there was still a supply of Chapel Hill Rescue seed available from Columbiana seedsmen and in Sylacauga, at varying prices.

For some years farmers have wanted a source of Grandiflora vetch seed. Seed is difficult to harvest, often quite expensive. However, it is best of all vetches for reseeding winter legumes. Work unit Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Fort Payne, Ala., can put you in touch with the farmers who have seed for sale. We have no prices.

Jenkins To Get Legion Award

Selma, Ala. — George Jenkins, veterans employment representative with the Selma office of the State Employment Service, will receive a $100 award from the Alabama American Legion department for outstanding service to veterans at the Selma Legion post Thursday night, September 18.

The presentation of the award, by State Legion Commander John E. Drinkard of Cullman, will mark the second year that Jenkins has placed first in the state in veterans employment activities.

A disabled veteran himself, who has been hospitalized several times in recent years from wounds received in the European theater during World Warr II, Jenkins is a past commander of the Selma post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is also a member of the American Legion and Disabled American Veterans, as well as the Selma Civitan Club.

In addition to State Commander Drinkard, speakers at the meeting will include Lowell J. Black, assistant director of the State Employment Service in Montgomery and James C. Gates, assistant veterans employment representative for Alabama.

Governor Proclaims Teachers' Day At State Fair

Monday, September 29 has been proclaimed Alabama Teachers Day by Gov. Gordon Persons.

In a proclamation issued from the governor's office, the state's chief executive called on all Alabamians to join with him in supporting the move to honor Alabama school teachers.

Allabama Teachers Day will be celebrated on the opening day of the Alabama State Fair at Birmingham. The second annual event this year will honor principals with the longest service in their particular school system. The state's 108 city and county school systems are participating in the program.

Principals will be guests of the Alabama State Fair for one day, hotel accommodations for the night being paid for by the Fair. A luncheon and a barbecue also is planned for Monday. The program is climaxed by the presentation of the Service to Alabama Youth Award in ceremonies before the grandstand. The award is given each year by the Birmingham News and Post-Herald.

The proclamation by Gov. Persons pointed out that the special day will serve to "focus the attention of the entire state on the services, sacrifices, loyalty and devotion to duty of every single member of the State's teaching profession."

In addition, the proclamation called attention to the "close working relationship between the Alabama State Fair and the educational forces of the state."

Gov. Persons called the move to honor Alabama Teachers "commendable."

A delegation including Miss Mary Ruth Holleman, president of the Alabama Classroom Teachers Association and state chairman of Teachers Day Committee; Dr. W. J. Terry, state superintendent of education; Mr. Frank Grove, executive secretary of the Alabama Education Association; Miss Sybil McKinley, president of the Birmingham Classroom Teachers Association; Dr. L. Frazer Banks, superintendent of the Birmingham Public Schools; R. H. McIntosh, general manager of the Alabama State Fair Authority; Mrs. D. D. Black, president of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers and Mrs. Harry Nelson, executive secretary of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, called on the governor in behalf of the program.

Alabama Teachers Day is sponsored by the Birmingham Classroom Teachers Association. Cooperating with the State Fair and the Teachers Association are local P. T. A. groups who will serve as official greeters and guides during the day.

Club Year Book Is Completed

The Home Demonstation Club Yearbook is ready for the approval of Council Directors.

The committee, Mrs. J. Frank Wyatt, chairman, Mrs. Nelson Archer, Mrs. C. H. Naish, and Mrs. Lois Farmer set dates for leadership schools, pograms by Youth, citizenship, community activities farm bureau and defense chairman and reminders for monthly meetings.

The Directors will meet at a luncheon meeting Monday, October 6, to complete plans for the 1953 programs of work to be inculded in the year book.

Tax Collections Make Big Increase

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — State Revenue Commissioner Joe M. Edwards says Alabama tax collections for August were up almost $2,000,000 over the same month last year.

August collections for the first 11 months of this fiscal year total $120,791,494, Edwards said. This is more than $22,000,000 over the same period last year. He added that collections thus far this year are more than $13,000,000 above the record $107,671,656, collected in the entire previous fiscal year.

The sales tax accounted for $16,072,079 of the total, he said. During the first 11 months of this fiscal year, the sales tax has netted $47,440,143, compared to $31,368,064, during the same period last year.

Use tax returns brought in $338,971 in August, compared to $174,555 the same month a year ago.

Other major revenue producers: Gasoline tax, $3,412,428, compared to $3,216,292 in August, 1951; Income tax, $320,262, compared to $341705 in August 1951, and Tobacco tax, $662,728, compared to $740,970, last August.

VETERANS' COLUMN
STATE DEPT. OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By E. J. Sullivan

INSURANCE DIVIDENDS — Back in the early part of the year, you were supposed to have received a card from the VA District Office that handles your insurance account. For most veterans in Alabama, that's the district office in Atlanta. On this card, there was a place for you to indicate whether you wanted your dividend paid to you in cash, or applied to your account to pay for future premiums. This card was to be mailed back to the VA district office. If you signed the card expressing your choice to get the cash, and it is 60 to 90 days AFTER THE ANNIVERSARY DATE of your policy, you should have already received your dividend for 1952. On the other hand, if you did not return the card, your dividend will AUTOMATICALLY be credited to your account. When this credit is made, the VA will send you a notice to that effect. Most of the veterans who have inquired about their 1952 dividend state that they never received the card. If this is true in your case, all you have to do is come by this office we'll take care of the matter for you.

If you entered the service before April 25, 1951, the chances are you applied for and received National Service Life Insurance for which you had to pay a PREMIUM every MONTH. You kept this insurance in force until about June or July, 1951, at which time you decided to take advantage of what's comonly known as FREE GI INSURANCE, that is, you were fully protected for $10,000 without having to pay for it. At this time, you were given the opportunity to place your other insurance under a PREMIUM WAIVER, Now, under these circumstances, just what happens to your insurance when you are discharged from service. In the first place, after you are discharged, you are still covered for $10,000 for a period of 120 days.

If you should die within 120 days after discharge, even though you don't pay a cent on your insurance, the Veterans' Administration will pay your beneficiary a total of $10,000. If you want to keep your insurance in force after that 120 days period, and for the years to come, just what must you do? Before that 120 day limit expires, you must apply to the Veterans' Administration to have your insurance continued and you must start paying premiums. In the case of a veteran having insurance before the FREE INSURANCE law went into effect, and whose premium payments were under a WAIVER, he can RE-INSTATE his original policy. Or, if he prefers, he can apply for Term Insurance under the 1951 insurance law. And comes the question, what is the difference between the two? If you re-instate your policy which was in force before April 25, 1951, your monthly premiums are going to cost more thran twice as much, depending on your age, as they will cost for thre NEW type of insurance. On thie other hand, your OLD insurance pays dividends, while the NEW type insurance does not. Also, your old N. S. L. I. term policy may be converted to any one of several different plans, such as ordinary life, 20 or 30 year pay, 20 year endowment, endowment at age 60 or endowment at age 65.

The NEW type can never be converted to any such PERMANENT plan, unless you have a SERVICE-INCURRED DISABILITY of at least 10 per cent.

The Helen Sloan X-Ray Clinic

Realizing the magnitude of the Tuberculosis problem in Shelby County and the urgent need for facilities to aid in the solution of this problem, Mrs. Helen Sloan, in September 1944, donated the funds necessary to purchase a combination x-ray and fluoroscopic unit in order to establish a chest x-ray clinic at the County Health Department.

This machine with the necessary appurtenances cost approximately $2000.

In addition to this donation, she has devoted her time and talents to the Tuberculosis Clinic for 8 years without financial remuneration.

It is considered appropriate by this Department that, in apreciation of her financial suport and her untiring efforts, this Clinic be named for its' founder and it is our desire that the Clinic be hereafter known as the "Helen Sloan Clinic."

The Board of Revenue and Control purchased for the Clinic a pneumotorax macine of the best design, which has been invaluable in this work.

The Clinic has averaged 65 to 70 x-rays a month and 25 to 35 "refills" for patients under pneumothorax and pneumoperitoneum treatment.

In 1951 twenty-seven new active cases of tuberculosis were found and so far this year twenty new cases have been discovered.

Tuberculosis is the major communicable disease problem and one of the major Public Health problems in the County because of its' prevalence and its' far reaching consequences. — E. F. Sloan, M. D. County Health Officer.

Savings like this

Machines like this enable Southern Bell to salvage about three million feet of copper wire a year by splicing left-over lengths together and re-insulating the joints.

MEAN SAVINGS ALL ALONG THE LINE

Saving every usable bit of wire, each pound of lead, aluminum and steel that can be salvaged for re-use, is just one of many ways Southern Bell keeps down the cost of telephone service.

Making every practical economy, working our facilities to the utmost and constantly improving our methods and equipment help keep telephone service one of today's best bargains. Day and night, a well-trained, capable and courteous team of telephone folks is working to provide good service at the lowest possible cost . . . for National Defense, for industry, and for you. — Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Telephone service takes a smaller part of the family budget than it did ten years ago . . . and most subscribers can call twice as many people.

Baptist Revival Services Begin Sunday, October 5

Beginning Sunday, Oct. 5, Dr. David O. Moore, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Arkadelphia, Arkansas, and Teacher at Ouachita College, will lead in a series of Evangelistic Services at the Montevallo Baptist Church. Dr. Moore graduated from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in 1949 and accepted the position as Head of the Bible Department at Ouachita College. In 1951 he was called as Resident Minister for the First Baptist Church of Arkadelphia and has had a very prosperous and fruitful ministry.

DR. DAVID O. MOORE

Dr. Moore held student pastorates during all of his College and Seminary training and was a very successful speaker and debater. During his college career he was a member of Pi Kappa Delta, National Forensic Society, and traveled 25,000 miles in debate competition winning 175 decision debates.

Dr. Moore is a Pastor-Evangelist and knows the needs of a college town church. Through his own church, at the present time, he ministers to some 1500 college students from the two colleges in Arkadelphia, in addition to the local membership. We feel very fortunate to have him come to Montevallo and we hope that many will take advantage of the opportunity to hear him.

CHARLES DAVIS

Charles Davis, a graduate student from Howard College, will direct the singing for the services and will assist in visitation during tthe week. He is a ministerial student and has been active in Student and Youth Evangelistic work.

The services for the meeting will be as follows:

7:16 to 7:45 a.m. each Monday through Friday at the Church; 12:05 to 12:25 noon in Reynolds Auditorium at the College; 7:30 p. m. each evening at the Church.

The public is cordially invited to the services at the church.

Weems - Norris Wedding Date

Miss Virginia Bridges Weems has set Sept. 27 as the date of her marriage to Roger Charles Norris of Montgomery.

The wedding will take place at 4 p.m. at the First Methodist Church. The Rev. James E. Harris, pastor of the Ensley Highlands Methodist Church of Birmingham, will officiate.

Walter Colquitt Weems will give his daughter in marriage. Miss Nancy Weems of Atlanta, Ga., will be her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmatron and maid will be Mrs. T. Reuben Bell, sister of the bridegroom, of Sylacauga, and Miss Betty Adams of Montgomery and Leeds. Miss Darthea Bell, niece of the bridegroom, of Sylacauga, will be flower girl.

William E. Norris, Beaumont, Tex., will serve his brother as best man. Ushers will be Paul Norris of Montgomery, another brother of the bridegroom; George Ferrell of Huntsville, Walter C. Weems, Jr. of Carrollton, Ga., a brother of the bride-elect, and Hugh Thompson of Montgomery.

Music will be presented by Victor Young, organist, and Mrs. Harry C. Howell, Jr. of Gadsden, vocalist.

A reception will be held after the ceremony at Reynolds Hall, Alabama College.

Karl C. Harrison Speaks To Lions

Representative Karl C. Harrison was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Montevallo Lions Club, Monday night in the new school cafeteria.

Mr. Harrison gave a very impressive talk on our government, its constitution, laws and the progress that has been made in the past few years.

Other guests were Putanm Porter, Bill Alexander, Wallace Weaver, Gideon Nelson, Arthur Garrett, Jr., and John Ramsden.

Miss Ethel Marshall Attends Conference

Miss Ethel Marshall, Alabama College faculty member, was one of five representatives from the Southeastern area of the United States attending the Study Conference on the Status of Conservation Education held at Purdue University this week.

Sponsored by the National Conservation Foundation and the National Committee on Policies in Conservation Education, the six day conference publicly recognized that the Southeastern area of the United States had provided more opportunities in the field of Conservation of natural resources than any other region in the United States.

Leaders in the field of conservation in attendance at the conference were Paul Sears, one of the three outstanding Ecologists of the world and head of the Yale School of Natural Resources; Henry Cain, director of the Natural Resources School at the University of Michigan; and Laurence Palmer, head of the School of Natural Resources at Cornell University.

Miss Marshall, one of the leaders in the fields of conservation and natural resources in Alabama, is director of the annual Resouce Use Workshop held on the Alabama College Campus each summer.

Robert Payne To Be Moderator

ROBERT PAYNE

Robert Payne, professor of English and Author in Residence at Alabama College, will serve as one of the moderators at the International Conference on Asian Problems to be held in New York City, Wednesday through Sunday, Sept. 24-28. Chief sponsors of the Conference are Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Dr. Arthur Upham Pope, Chancellor of the Asia Institute. Payne, author of many books concerned with Oriental and Asian problems, joined the Alabama College faculty in 1949.

Constitution Day Observed By DAR

Constitution Day was observed by David Lindsay Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at their September meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Lyman and Miss Julia Boyd. Dr. Anne Eastman, Professor of History at Alabama College, was the speaker for the evening, and gave a most instructive talk on the Constitution to the seventeen members and the three visitors present.

Another interesting feature of the program was the presentation by Mrs. E. H. Wills of a new flag for the use of the Chapter, the gift of Dr. Willena A. Peck, a charter member of David Lindsay.

District Governor Visits Rotary Club

The Montevallo Rotary Club had as its guest speaker last week District Governor Ernie Farrar, of Reform, Alabama, who spoke on "What Rotary has done for My Town."

The Director of Music at Indian Springs School for Boys will present a musical program at the regular meeting tonight.

Dr. Chas. T. Acker Fetes Fire Fighters

Dr. Charles T. Acker presented the Montevallo fire fighters with a supper Wednesday night at the Plaza Grill.

The fine meal was Dr. Acker's appreciation for the good work done by the local firemen in preventing the destruction of his office building by fire, last winter.

Following the meal there was considerable discussion of the history of the volunteer fire department. It was brought out that Dr. Acker was one of the originators of this organization back in the days of the bucket brigade, and has played very important parts in its development to the present organization. Also attending were two active members of the bucket brigade, Brewer Carpenter, and "Red" Mahan.

The department made plans to start having regular monthly meetings to study movies of modern fire fighting techniques as well as just exchanging experience.

Plans are also to have a few "live drills" soon.

Mrs. Dean Speaks At Convocation

Speaking to Alabama College students at convocation Tuesday morning, Mrs. George P. Dean, Montgomery civic leader, urged college educated people to take their places as leaders in their communities.

"We who would maintain our intellectual vigor must become aware that we cannot depend upon the movement of the crowd to carry us along," Mrs. Dean said.

In defining the title of her talk, "The Good Life," Mrs. Dean referred to "the good life of the mind, rewarding adventure of learning, the seeking out of those deep sources of strength and happiness which have fed the human spirit throughout the ages."

Mrs. Dean served three years as national president of Alpha Omicron Pi, and in this capacity gained experience in working with college women. A Phi Beta Kappa from Northewstern University, Mrs. Dean is the second speaker on the Alabama College convocation series for the 1952-53 school year.

Columbiana F F A Gets Beef Project

Between showers all the members of the Columbiana FFA Chapter are sharing in the work of fencing five acres and making hay from nearly ten acres to get their beef on pasture project going.

This is a follow up of their very successful Chapel Hill Rescue growing experience of last winter. On the fine Rescue grass already ready for cattle, the boys expect to put five stocker steers of medium weight. The large stack of mixed hays the boys have saved will be fed, and some supplementary feeding will be done.

Careful records will be kept and visitors will be welcome to study with the boys the practical aspects of this project.

Vincent FFA Chapter is busily preparing their exhibit, "Better Livestock on Better Pastures," for State Fair. It is worth visiting when you visit the Fair. Also worth seeing are the many grazing combinations being grown on the farm of their instructor, Edward Lansford, at Vincent.

On the Ingram farm near Montevallo, where the FFA chapter had their Chapel Hill Rescue Grass seed project, one area grazed all summer has almost no second season plants. The field not overgrazed has almost a stand of old plants. However, both fields have fine reseeding stands, and both will be fertilized soon says Mr. Ingram.

BIG LIFT
to Better Farming

Better farming, new methods and machines, better livestock, and improved marketing are helping bring about a new era of progress and prosperity in Dixie.

Rural telephones (they tripled in number since World War II in the area served by Southern Bell) are bringing a big lift to farm work and farm living. During the first eight months of this year, we installed more than 92,000 rural telephones.

We'll keep on putting them in as fast as we can—because we know how much they mean to prosperity on the farm and in town . . . and to a strong, well-fed America. More farm telephones also mean more valuable telephone service for everyone.

How To Prepare Christmas Packages For Overseas Mail

The period Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 has again been designated for the acceptance of Xmas parcels for members of our Armed Forces serving outside the continental United States with the concurrence of the several Departmentts of the National Military Establishment.

It is expected that many parcels will be mailed this year and the following instructions have, therefore, been issued with the view of assuring delivery of the gift parcels on time and in good condition.

1. Foodstuffs subject to spoilage and breakage should not be sent overseas since military personnel are well supplied with food by the Armed Services.

2. The regular size and weight for domestic surface parcel post are applicable to Xmas parcels for the Armed Forces except that a limit not to exceed 50 lbs. has been established for parcels addressed for delivery thru A.P.O.'s 22, 120, 124, 125, 125-B, 147, 179, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, and 755, care of Postmaster, N. Y., N. Y.

3. Boxes for overseas transmissions must be strong construction. It is absolutely necessary that all articles be packed in boxes of metal, wood, solid fiberboard, or strong double faced corrugated fiberboard. Each box should be securely tied with strong cord, preferably by four separate pieces, two length and two cross, knotted at crossings. Boxes should contain sufficient cushioning material so that the contents will be tightly packed to prevent any rattling or loosening of the articles within the parcels. Unless completely packed and tightly filled, boxes are likely to be crushed. It is also desirable that all fiberboard boxes be securely wrapped in heavy paper, which strengthens the package. They should be tied as above suggested before and after applying the heavy paper.

4. Matches of all kinds and lighter fluid may not be mailed overseas. Cigarettes and other tobacco are prohibited if addressed for delivery in certain military post offices. Inquiry should be made of your local Post Office before including these in any package.

5. Addresses must be in typewriting or ink. It is preferable that the outside address be hand printed directly on the wrappers of the boxes rather than on labels pasted to the wrappers, since the labels frequently fall off. The address should show in addition to the name and address of sender, the name including the full first name, middle name or initial, grade, service number, branch of service, A.P.O. number of the addressee, and the post office through which the mail is to be routed. — M. F. Watson, Postmaster.

VETERANS' COLUMN
STATE DEPT. OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By E. J. Sullivan

Regulations recently issued by the Labor Department make it clear that unemployed Korean Veterans will not follow in the path of a comparatively few World War II Veterans who rode the 52-20 club gravy train. Veterans are not eligible to collect the Federal unemployment pay until they exhaust any State unemployment benefits due them. The Korean GI Bill allows unemployment pay of $26 a week for 6 weeks for veterans who are unemployed through no fault of their own. Now here are some of the restrictions placed on eligibility for unemployment pay: no benfits may be drawn for weeks of unemployment beginning before October 15. To be Eligible for Federal benefits, a veteran must be unemployed, able to work, available for work and willing to accept just about any job offered to him. Any waiting period required by state law must be served by the veteran before he becomes eligible for Federal benefits. Veterans discharged after July 16 must wait from 30 to 90 days before becoming eligible for unemployment benefits, depending upon the amount of mustering-out pay they are eligible to receive. A veteran eligible for $100 mustering-out pay must wait 30 days; if he gets $200 in mustering-out pay, he must wait 60 days and if he receives $300 mustering-out pay, he will have to wait 90 days. To be eligible for unemployment pay, the veteran must have served 90 days on active duty, some part of which was after June 26, 1950, if he can answer all the requirements, it still isn't just a question of walking in and picking up the unemployment checks. He must register for work with the local Employment Service, and keep his registration active by reporting to the office at required intervals. Now if you are planning on signing up for these benefits, listen carefully to these instructions: when you file your initial claim for Federal unemployment benefits, you must have with you, your discharge papers, Separation form DD 214, your Social Security Card, if you have one, and a list of employers for whom you worked during the 18 months before you entered the service and the time following your discharge.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
By Mary Lee Taylor

Marshmallow Fruit Loaf

1½ cups canned, drained peaches
16 marshmallows, cut in pieces
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup juice off peaches
1 package lemon gelatin
1 cup ice cold Pet Milk

Mash peaches in 2-quart bowl. Fold in marshmallows, lemon rind and salt. Chill. Heat peach juice to boiling. Add lemon gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool to room temperature, then stir in fruit mixture. Chill until slightly thicker than unbeaten egg white. Rub with vegetable oil a loaf pan holding 8 cups. Whip ice cold milk with cold beater until stiff. Fold into chilled fruit mixture. Put into loaf pan. Chill until firm. Keep chilled until ready to serve. Then turn out and slice.

The November Election

By Dr. Hallie Farmer

So many of the voters of Alabama are busy trying to decide whether they love Ike or Adlai, that they are overlooking the fact that there are other choices to be made in November in addition to the great choice.

There are Congressmen to be elected in November. These Congressmen have as much to do with determining public policy as does the President. Voters would do well to give some thought to selecting Congressmen who will help—not hinder — the President they select, in carrying out his program. A Democratic President with a Republican Congress or a Republican President with a Democratic Congress cannot be expected to carry through a constructive program. Voters need to remember that our government is run by parties—not by individuals.

DR. HALLIE FARMER

The Amendments

Alabama voters need to remember that there are four constitutional amendments to be considered in November, also. Certainly this is better than having to make decisions on 24 amednments as we did in May. On the other hand, many voters may feel that they should be permitted to have at least one election free from amendments, particularly an election which is as important to the nation as is the Election of 1952. Be that as it may, we do have the amendments to vote on, and so we might as well give some thought to them.

The Constitution of Alabama requires that Constitutional amendments be published for four separate weeks in a newspaper in each county (Amendment XXIV). If you are interested in reading these amendments, look for them in your county paper during the month of October.

One amendment proposes to extend the term of the county sheriff from four to six years. An amendment designed to accomplish this was proposed in 1944 and was rejected by a decisive vote. Now the voters are asked to reconsider the action which they took at that time.

Tax assessors, tax collectors and probate judges are the county officers now serving six year terms and permitted to stand for re-election. One argument in favor of this amendment is that it would bring the sheriff's term of office into line with that of other county officials. Some people opposing the amendment have suggested that we ought to make the terms of county officials uniform by repealing the amendment which gave other county officials six year terms, thus fixing a four year term for all county officials. An amendment to this effect was introduced at the last session of the legislature. It met with bitter opposition from the organizations of county officials who now have six year terms, and it was never brought to a vote in the legislature.

Provisions of the Sheriff Amendment

The amendment to be voted on makes two changes in article 138 of the Constitution which describes the office of sheriff.

1. It makes the term of office for which a sheriff is elected six years instead of four years.

2. It permits a sheriff to seek re-election at the end of his term. As the constitution reads now, he cannot be re-elected.

The question of the proper length of term for elected officials in a democratic society does pose some problems. If the term is too short, the public official does not develop a real acquaintance with his office before his term expires. If he cannot be re-elected, the office is in danger of being filled most of the time by an unexperienced person. If he can succeed himself he spends much of the time he ought to give his job running for re-election.

On the other hand, if an officer is elected for a long term, a county may find itself caught with a poor officer and be unable to get rid of him. A second difficulty is, of course, that an officer elected for long term is less responsive to the will of the people than an ofifcer elected for a short term. If an officer is elected for a long term and is also to be re-elected, as this amendemnt provides, he has a greater opportunity to build up a political machine through which he can perpetuate himself in office.

Of the 48 states, in the United States, 37 provide for terms of four years or less for shreiffs. In most of these states, sheriffs are permitted to stand for re-election.

The policy of denying re-election to officials is widely practiced in Alabama and applies to many state and county officials. The thought behind it seems to be that no individual should have the right to re-election. Some thought might be given to the fact that the people are denied the right to select the officers they want, by such a provision.

On the whole, it would seem that the voter trying to cast an intelligent vote on this amendment needs to consider the following questions.

1. Is it desirable for a sheriff to serve a long term, without allowing citizens in an election to pass judgment on his work?

2. Is it desirable for a sheriff to be permitted to stand for re-election after having served so long a term as six years?

If the answer to both of these questions is "yes", then vote "yes" on the amendment. If the answer is "no", then vote "no".

Susan Lovelady's Fourth Birthday

Miss Susan Lovelady daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Lovelady, was honoree at a party last Saturday in celebration of her fourth birthday at the home of her parents. Games were played and cake and ice cream was served. The guest list included: Phillip Hubbard, Clay Nordan, Gordon Wyatt, Stanley Bailey, Lucille Lovelady, Eddie Lovelady, Joan Anthony, Sandra Scott, Danny Bearden, Susan Whaley, Peggy Whaley, Lynn Frost, Lynn Rotenberry, Janet Rotenberry, and Carolyn Duncan. Mrs. Lovelady was assisted in serving by Misses Harriet Kendrick and Mary Catherine Cox.

Ready To Receive Applications For Public Housing

Mr. Jamès A. Wyatt, Executive Director of the Housing Authority of the Town of Montevallo, this week announces that the Authority is now ready to accept applications for rental of the 20 white and 32 colored units now under construction in the F. F. Crowe Village and Alex Scott Village, in Montevallo. These units are available to families of low income brackets in this area.

Mr. Wyatt states that preference will be given to disabled veterans and families of deceased or disabled veterans or service men, veterans or service men or their dependents, and low income families without available housing. The units will be awarded according to need.

Applicants are cautioned that the filing of an aplpication will require considerable time and they are advised to bring documentary evidence substantiating any claim for veteran's preference, social security or veteran's disability benefits and all necessary evidence with regard to income of each member of the family.

Applicants will please remember that order of receiving applications will have no bearing on the award of these units. Every eligible family will file an application before any units are awarded.

Applications may be filed in the office of the Housing Authority, Montevallo Times Office, between the hours of 9:00 and 11:00 a.m. and 2:00 until 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, beginning Monday, October 6.

Fire Prevention Week October 5-11

The Montevallo Fire Department and The Town Council are sponsoring the observance of Fire Prevention Week October 5 to 11.

The Fire Department will observe this period by "tightening up" its organization and polishing up its equipment so as to keep fully on the alert in doing its important job for the community. Some fire drills are planned for the program.

The Town Council commends the Fire Department for its good work in the past and for its plans to keep up the good work in the future.

All citizens are urged to cooperate in Fire Prevention Week. Look out for fire hazards and get rid of them. When you examine your property you may be surprised to find that you have fire hazards that should be remedied.

Do this next week. Many fires can be prevented — and prevention is better and cheaper than waiting for the Fire Department to put out the fire when it happens.

Mr. Teddy Ziolkowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Ziolkowski, left Montevallo Sunday and sailed Tuesday on the French Liner, Liberte. He will arrive in France on the 6th and will go on to Vienna and then proceed to Inssbruch, where he will study. Mrs. Ziolkowski and daughter will remain in Montevallo until they can join him in Austria.

Concert and Lecture Series Begins At Alabama College

ZINKA MILANOVE

First event of the 1952-53 Concert and Lecture Series at Alabama College at Montevallo will bring Zinka Milanove, world famous Metropolitan soprano to Palmer Auditorium on October 15 during her American Coast-to-Coast concert tour.

Local concert-goers will have an opportunity at eight o'clock that evening to hear an artist who has sung on every major opera and concert stage in the world, and under such outstanding conductors as Toscanini and Bruno Walter.

Mme. Milanove is primadonna Assoluta of the Metropolitan's Italian Wing and has sung fourteen times for Toscanini, including a performance as his soloist in Veridi's Requiem. She has also sung the leading darmatic soprano roles in the Vienna State Opera.

The dramatic soprano will be accompanied in her Montevallo concert by her brother, Bozidar Kunc, noted composer-pianist. Mme. Milanove, who has sung the world over, in concert halls of Europe, Latin America, Canada, as well as the United Stats, has just returned to this country from Norway, where her husband is the Yugoslav Ambassador.

Second event of the Concert and Lecture Series on the Montevallo campus will be the appearance of John Mason Brown, noted lecturer, author, and critic at 8:00 p.m. on November 13.

Associate editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, and author of such best-sellers as Morning Faces, Seeing Things, Seeing More Things, Still Seeing Things, Many A Watchful Night, and To All Hands, Brown will be the only lecturer of the 1952-53 Series at Alabama College.

Other attractions of this season will be the appearance in early spring of Herbert Levinson, violinist, and concert master for the Birmingham Symphony Orchestra; Gary Grafman, outstanding young pianist, who will come to the campus on January 19; and Jose Limon and Dance Team, scheduled for a return engagement March 30. This will be their second performance at the Montevallo campus during the past three years.

Helena H. D. Club

The Helena Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting September 18 with 11 members present.

Miss Cotney showed us how to clean our sewing machines.

After concluding the business, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. George Lee Green.

Mrs. J. P. Johnson, formerly of Montevallo and now of Montgomery, visited Mrs. Lena Duran last week end.

Mrs. Alma O'Barr, of Birmingham, arrived today to spend a few days with Mrs. Lena Duran.

John's Patched Britches

The "patched-britches legend" of Senator John Sparkman is examined caustically in the October issue of the American Mercury which went on sale throughout most of Alabama today. The article on Sparkman is written by the Mercury's Alabama-born editor, William Bradford Huie, who attended the same high school in Morgan County as the senator.

"Sparkman will always have to wear patched britches," Mr. Huie declares, "because he'll always be a-bustin' his britches a-tryin' to straddle every fence he comes to."

The article on Sparkman is written in the author's best satirical manner. It is carried in the section of the Mercury called "Draughts of Old Bourbon," and Mr. Huie chuckles at what he calls the senator's "oleaginous" qualities.

"We may as well face it," the article relates, "the Alabama influence in this country is growing. There was a time back in 1925 when Alabama was no more than the first province in the alphabet, a benighted area of red hills and red necks, beset by the boll weevil, and known only for two elegant yarn spinners, Cotton Tawn Heflin and Florian Slappey. The state was a punching bag for Henry Mencken, who was in his prime as editor of the Mercury.

"Today, Alabamians have infiltrate deverywhere. Sparkman is on his way to the Presidency; federal money is pouring into the state like oil through the Big Inch; Yankee industrialists are competing for its plant sites; New Deal social workers have taught Alabama's women how to space babies; the state has an abundance of government power, government fish, and government water closets; and, Lord save us, an Alabamian has even succeeded Mencken as editor of the Mercury.

"It took ninety years, but the South has risen again, with Alabama in the vanguard. So let the Yankees beware! Our grand-daddies will be avenged. W're going to occupy and pillage; we'll burn down the barns and confiscate the gold at Fort Knox; our secret protocols call for the re-establishment of slavery on the centennial of the Emanciaption Proclamation."

"SILENT VOICES"

Present day newspapers have a continual flow of news releases, editorial comment, speeches and various other types of propaganda arriving in every mail. It is impossible to review or print all such material. However, occasionally we receive one that we consider outstanding and worthy of reproduction. Such an article is "Silent Voices", an address by Cecil deMille before the VFW Distinguished Guest Banquet in Los Angeles. We wish space permitted the reproduction of the entire address but since this is not possible we will briefly review the more interesting parts.

Mr. deMille in considering the recent political conventions says:

"I attended one of those conventions and watched the other on television. The process of a Republic choosing its leader may seem a little vigorous — even a little odd — at times perhaps a little humorous. Nevertheless, it's produced the best government in the world, and is the best way found so far to choose the candidates for President. By the grace of God and hard work by the dele gates of both parties, two fine, human, honest and upright, square-shooting men have been chosen.

'But a slogan came from one of those conventions that puzzled me a little: We Never Had It So Good.

'We do have much more of some things than we had years ago. When I was born in 1881, the national debt was two billion, seventy-seven million. When I married in 1902, the national debt was two billion, one hundred and seventy-five million. When I came to Hollywood in 1913, the national debt was two billion nine hundred million. This month, Mrs. deMille and I celebrated our Golden Wedding Anniversary and the national debt is two hundred and sixty billion dollars.

'No wonder we never had it so good. We're like the man who mortgaged the old homestead to go out on a last glorious binge. Well, we're having the biggest national binge in history.

'To most of us, two hundred and sixty billion dollars is just a lot of zeros, but put it into $10.00 bills, place them end to end, and you'll have a 'short snorter' that'll reach five times to the moon and back.

'We certainly have never had it so good. But who's going to pay the bill when the mortgage comes due? You know and I know who's going to pay that mortgage—your children and your children's children until the third and fourth generation. Maybe we've never had it so good, but what a headache we've got coming to us when we wake up!"

The distinguished motion picture producer refered to the men who died in World War II and in Korea and asked his audience if they will have died in vain, like those in Flanders Field. The speaker continued: "The heroic dead lie restless in their graves because of our past failures. Their sleep is not made easier by some of the things still going on.

'Do they rest well as they watch the working of an invisible government—not elected by the people—whose seven or eight leaders can stop every wheel turning in the United States—can seal every harbor and tie up every railroad in the United States—can stop every miner's pick—can paralyze the assembly line of industry—can still the whir of the great geenrators and blot out the light, darken the cities and towns and homes from the Atlantic to the Pacafic.

'These seven or eight men, who are the invisible government, have the power to strangle the entire nation within twenty-four hours, while their fighting brothers on the battlefront desperately need the tools of war.

'As Secretary Lovett said: "No enemy nation could have so crippled our production as this work stoppage. No form of bombing could have taken out of production in one day 380 steel plants and kept them out nearly two months. The weird and tragic thing is that we've done this to ourselves."

'Secretary Lovett has painted the tragic effects of this crippling of production. But what was its purpose? That men must pay tribute for their right to work.

'The invisible government believes in collectivism. They do not believe in the rights of the individual. They believe in the power of mass organization, controlled by themselves. The Constitution does not worry them because they control the right to work of their subjects—and the right to work is the right to live! They do not believe the people own the government; they believe the government owns the people—and to a great extent, they control the government.

'The world conflict today is a conflict between the individual and organized power. It is a war for the survival of the individual and the survival of free enterprise. And I'm talking about the survival of the American people when I talk about the survival of American business. Some better way must be found for the settling of Labor-Management disputes than the destruction of the industries that support them both. It is American business — big and small — that gives you prosperity — not government hand-outs."

With regard to Communism in Hollywood Mr. deMille concluded his address with: "But we've never had it so good. We're driving a stolen hot rod down the speedway of collectivism and making glorious whoopee on borrowed and inflated money. But just around the curve is the wall of communism. If we smash into that we can write liberty, justice and freedom off as a total loss.

'You will forgive me for having mad a speech perhaps more serious than you expected from a Hollywood film producer.

'There are other kinds of time—war time—a very troubled peace time—and Hollywood has its communist problems like other communities. But I wish the rest of the country were as alert to communism as the overwhelming pro-American element in Hollywood is. Hollywood knows its responsibility to America in times like these that try men's souls. Hollywood sings and plays and dances for the entertainment of the world. Hollywood wears the tinsel and spangles of glamor and illusion. But underneath this, her heart is sound. Her vision is clear."

VETERANS' COLUMN
STATE DEPT. OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By E. J. Sullivan

The care of the disabled veteran has been an obligation of governments throughout recorded history.

The Oriental Empires had pension systems for those who were drafted into service. It was the custom in those days to levy tribute from conquered cities, and usually at the beginning of a campaign certain cities were designated from which the loot and tribute were to be set aside for the benefit of veterans. Even as in our own Revolutionary War the payments of these benefits was primarily intended to insure good service on the part of the soldiers. The Greek City states established a definite preference for veterans as to legislative and magisterial offices. They also provided for care of children of those who died in battle and paid pensions to those who could prove permanent injury. The Roman Empire provided for a division of spoils among veterans and paid a greater share of the loot to those who had been wounded in action. Some of those habits were adopted by this country, and as late as 1851 the United States Soldiers Home received more than one hundred thousand dollars in money which had been levied against Mexico by the commanding General of the United States Army during the Mexican War.

We are told that late in the Sixteenth Century soldier in England returning from the wars rioted, committeed crime and filled the streets as beggars. Perhaps this aftermath was responsible to a considerable degree for the passage of the first English Pension Law which came about in 1592. This law paid pensions retroactively to the year in which British defeated the Spanish Armada, in 1588. The cost of these pensions was charged to the local parish or counties and those who were caught begging forfeited the right to pension.

The first British hospital built for the care of veterans was Chelsea Hospital. This was constructed late in the Seventeenth Century. Domiciliary care for lame and infirm soldiers was provided.

Following the founding of the Colony in America at Plymouth in 1626 it was decreed that if any man shall be sent forth as a soldier and shall return maimed he shall be maintained competently by the colony during his life.

The General Assembly of Virginia as early as 1624 said that those wounded in fighting with Indians were to be cured at the public charge, and that in case any be lamed he was to be maintained by the country according to the person and his quality.

So it is clear that the responsibility if a government to its defenders has been acknowledged from the beginning of this country and actually, from the beginning of recorded history.

On The Farms Of Shelby County

We don't know anyone who says that his new auto is no good because it quits running when its first tank of gas gives out.

Neither do we know anyone who refuses to use a checking account for the sole reason that he has to put more in if he wishes to continue drawing money out.

We do know some people who expect certain pasture crops to furnish continuous grazing without replacing plant foods and minerals.

One Ky. 31 Fescue pasture we wrote about nearly three years ago in this column is an example. At that time dairy records showed good milk production on fescue, and the dairyman was well pleased.

The next year, still unfertilized, results were fair.

This year, although the fescue is making good growth, the dairy records show a decrease in milk production when the cattle are grazing the still unfertilized fescue.

The farmer has ignored the fact that nitrogenous fertilizers make proteins, and proteins are necessary for milk production.

The suggested solution: Replace used up nitrates and minerals just as you refill your gas tanks, directly in proportion to the amount of use.

The checking account comparison is a little inaccurate, as we draw a little less from accounts than we put in, due to various charges, but, thanks to the miracle of growth, water, sunshine, bacteria, and soda and also natural soil fertility we can draw from the land far more than we put in, as long as we help maintain the proper balance.

Teachers Meet At Helena

Shelby County teachers will visit all of the junior and senior high schools in the county this year. Each of the monthly teachers meetings will be held in a different school.

The meeting on October 2 will be held in the Helena Junior High School. Religious Emphasis Week will be observed in the general assembly program. Dr. Ian Stewart, lecturer and author, will be the guest speaker.

Honor Week At Alabama College

Professor Howell H. Gwin, professor of English at Mississippi State College, addressed students and faculty of Alabama College at eight o'clock Tuesday night in Palmer Auditorium as highlight of annual Honor Week observation on the campus.

An annual session designed to explain the honor code and honor system, foundations for the unique Student Government at the college, Honor Week officially began on Monday night with dormitory discussion groups.

In these groups, students were led by their house presidents and court members to discuss the privileges and duties held for them under the honor system.

In impressive candlelight ceremonies copies of the Honor Code were signed by students in their dormitories on Wednesday night.

Montgomery, Ala. — Governor Gordon Persons last week placed large photographs of Democratic candidates Stevenson and Sparkman in the lobby of the Alabama capitol building.

Eisenhower's Montgomery county campaign manager, "Frenchy" Yarbrough immediately demanded the same privilege for his candidates, pointing out that the capitol building is non-partisan property of all citizens.

For four days Yarbrough attempted to see Persons, or get a word from him. He made no progress whatever until a newspaper reporter, G. C. Long, wrote a story about the situation.

After the story had been set in type, and just before it was to be printed, Persons suddenly became available. When the story of his unavailability was just about to be printed, he gave his okay for pictures of Eisenohwer and Nixon to be displayed in the capitol.

The Study Club

The Montevallo Study Club held its first meeting of the year Tuesday night at 7:00 at the home of Mrs. T. E. Watson. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Leslie Hubbard, Mrs. Milton Orr, Jr., and Mrs. James A. Wyatt. A buffet supper was served to members of the club. The dining table was decorated with dahlias.

After supper a business meeting was held and a program was presented. Mrs. James A. Wyatt, secretary, read the club constitution, and Mrs. L. C. Parnell, parliamentarian, talked on parliamentary law.

Thompson Warriors Are Rolling On

The Thompson Warriors rolled one step closer to their fourth consecutive Shelby County Football championship at the Columbiana High School football stadium last week.

A powerful running attack led by David Butler, combined with the brilliant passing by James Harris, and rugged backfield action by the entire Thompson line, compelled the Warriors to break down a strong Columbiana defense and pile up three touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Standouts in the Thompson line were Durbin, Mooney, Epps, Payne and Smitherman.

The Thompson Warriors play hosts to Prattville High School at the Buck Creek Stadium here this Friday.

Lund Addresses Sylacauga Club

Dr. F. Edward Lund spoke before the Sylacauga Exchange Club last Thursday noon on the basic faults of American Foreign policy.

Having spent 18 years in the Orient, receiving part of his education at the Kuling American school and the Shanghai American school in China, Dr. Lund brought to his audience a personal knowledge of the Orient, giving color and authenticity to his statements.

Mr. J. R. Simpson of Birmingham, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Rogan, received 25 blue ribbons and second prize at the State Fair for beautiful roses that he has grown at his home.

Foreign Students Are Guests Of Honor

Alabama College students from outside the continental United States will be guests of honor at a campus-wide party Saturday, October 4, at the Camphouse.

Sponsored by the YWCA, this party is an annual event planned primarily to welcome new foreign students to the Montevallo campus.

The party will get under way at four o'clock Saturday afternoon when students meet to hike to the camp house, where refreshments and entertainment will be planned and directed by Virginia Buster, YWCA social chairman, and Jackie Screws.

Among the students from outside the United States, on campus this year are: Colette Papp, Mexico City, Mexico; Jacqueline Liot, Seine et Oile, France; Hiroko Oikawa, Japan; Christel Yaeger, Bad-Kreusnach, Germany; Rixie Torre, Ciales, Puerto Rico; Edwina Lopez, Camuy, Puerto Rico; Sopia Chaves, Bogota, Colombia, S. A.; Dora Behar, Bogota, Colombia; Maria Altura, Bogota, Colombia.

Helena Sabogal, Bogota, Colombia; Bertha Sabogal, Bogota, Colombia; and Olga Vallejo, Bogota, Colombia.

The Unattainable Is College Play

The College Theatre under the direction of Dr. W. H. Trumbauer will present "The Unattainable", by W. Somerset Maugham October 7, 8, and 9. Each of the performances will be given in Reynolds Hall on the Alabama College campus at 8:00 p.m. The play will be presented in the round which will limit the audience to 200 for each performance. Reservations should be made early by contacting Dr. Trumbauer.

The cast selected by Dr. Trumbauer for Montevallo's first Theatre in The Round includes Carol Philpot, June Segler, John B. Mader, Lena N. Jeter, Betty Joe Benton, Leonard M. Davis and William J. Kennerly.

Postoffice Gets High Rating

Montevallo Postmaster Morris Watson this week announces that the results of the recent inspection by the Post Office Department have revealed the highest score ever attained by the local Post Office. The postmaster feels that this record is a result of the splendid manner in which the employees of the local post office conduct their duties.

According to Mr. Watson the inspeciton scored the post office 97 points on books, records, accounts, etc., and 98 points on building, equipment and grounds.

VOL. 20 MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA, OCTOBER 9, 1952 NO. 23

Ala. College Library comp

The November Election

By Dr. Hallie Farmer

"Amendments? I'm not interested in amendments," said one Alabama citizen. "The only thing I am interested in is the next president. That election is too important to waste time on amendments."

Well, we will have to live with the next president for four years. We will have to live with the Alabama Constitution and its amendments a lot longer than that. A little thought given to them before election day might pay dividends in the shape of better government and lighter burdens for a long time after the president elected in 1952 is nothing but a name in a history book. Alabama voters would do well to think of this.

DR. HALLIE FARMER

The Motor Vehicle Tax Amendment

Amendment No. 1 provides that no money derived from taxes, licenses or fees levied by the state on automobiles, gasoline or oil shall be expended for anything except construction, maintenance and repair of public roads and bridges, or payment of debts contracted for such construction. The amendment shall not apply to any such taxes now levied for school purposes nor shall it affect the vehicle use tax imposed in lieu of a sales tax.

Indeed, as one studies this amendment, the disarming quality of it is impressive. It applies only to state taxes. It carefully excludes from regulation by the amendment, funds allotted to powerful agencies in the state who might oppose it. The municipalities keep their right to tax motor vehicles, gasoline and oil. The education forces will not suffer, nor will public welfare.

Nor should the amendment arouse the antagonism of the taxpayer, for it levies no new taxes. It does not even change the purposes for which the taxes are used. Aside from a small part of the revenue derived from these taxes which goes into the general fund of the counties, they are now spent for roads and bridges.

Ear Marked Funds

Why, then, the voter may ask, is an amendment necessary? It is necessary, say the supporters of the amendment, to prevent the legislature from ever diverting these funds from the purpose for which they are now used. If this amendment is approved by the voters in November, highway funds will be forever removed from the control of the legislature. No matter how badly other state services may need money these taxes may never be used to relieve their distress. They will be forever set apart for roads and bridges.

The problem here is a more important one than appears on the surface. The whole problem of earmarking state revenues in the Constitution and preventing the state legislature from controlling their expenditure is involved.

There are two ways of handling state funds. One is to put all state revenues into a general fund and place the responsibility of deciding how the money shall be spent on the legislature. The other is to levy taxes for a specific purpose, fix this purpose in the constitution, and give the legislature as little power as possible over the expenditures of receipts from state taxes.

The latter method is known as earmarking. Naturally state agencies favor the earmarking of state funds. It gives them a sense of security. It decreases their dependence on the legislature, and enables them to engage in long range planning with assurance that their plans will not be hampered by lack of funds.

When a state earmarks its funds by constitutional amendments, it creates an inflexible system of state financing. It is impossible for the legislature to adjust state expenditures to meet state needs by shifting its revenues from one use to another. The only way that new demands can be met is by levying new taxes.

Alabama is one of the states which has gone fartherest in earmarking its revenues. It has been estimated that 90 per cent of Alabama's revenues are earmarked. Only ten per cent is left under the control of the state legislature. Any business man who had only ten per cent of his capital available for use as he saw fit in his business would feel that he was in a bad way. The State of Alabama may at any moment find that it is in a bad way, too.

The full effect of this earmarking of state revenues is felt in a period of depression. At such a time the legislature of a state with its revenues in a general fund can move to meet state needs by adjusting its expenditures. But a state legislature in a state with 90 per cent of its funds earmarked for specific purposes finds itself helpless.

Alabama had one experience of this kind. In 1933 Alabama teachers were unpaid because the state's education funds were exhausted. There were state departments with surplus funds, but, because they were earmarked, they could not be spent for education. The needs of education had to be met by levying a new tax, the sales tax.

We did not learn the lesson we should have learned from that experience. Since that time we have earmarked the income tax and the one-cent increase in the sales tax.

The question before the voters on November 4, in amendment No. 1 is not shall these taxes be spent for roads and bridges? They are now being spent for roads and bridges. The question is shall these revenues be earmarked, as 90 per cent of the other state taxes have been, and so be placed beyond the control of the legislature?

If your answer to this question is "yes" you should vote for the amendment. If your answer is "no" you should vote against it.

The growth of mining and manufacturing and the building of railroads were the outstanding developments in Alabama's economic history between 1880 and 1900. Coal was being mined in Alabama at a lower cost than in any other state, and iron ore was being produced at 82 cents per ton, as compared to $1.10 in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Aldrich Crowe Heads Ike Group In New Jersey

Dr. Aldrich C. Crowe, of Ocean City, has been appointed New Jersey state chairman of a national professional committee for Eisenhower and Nixon.

The committee was formed several weeks ago at a meeting in Chicago, as a voluntary step by a group of physicians to promote the election of the Republican candidates for president and vice president.

Heading the national body are Dr. John W. Cline, of San Francisco; Dr. Ernest E. Irons, of Chicago, and Dr. Elmer L. Henderson, of Louisville. They all are past presidents of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Crowe, as state chairman, has appointed chairmen in each of New Jersey's 21 counties. Dr. Samuel Hughes, of Wildwood, is Cape May County chairman.

The committee will enlist the support of allied professional groups to the Eisenhower-Nixon standard through personal contact and distribution of literature.

It was emphasized that it has no official connection with the American Medical Association.

Dr. Crowe is a past president of the Medical Society of New Jersey. He is a native of Montevallo, the son of Mrs. F. F. Crowe.

Siluria Soldier Puzzles Chinese By Cross Word Puzzle

With the 2nd Infantry Div. in Korea — Pfc. Richard Carroll of Siluria, Ala., recently became a crossword puzzle addict in Korea, but for a different reason than most people.

Instead of using the game to kill time, he used it to kill communists. And the only ones who were puzzled were the Reds.

Carroll and his machine-gun crew were called to give fire support to an infantry night patrol, but were given no specific target. While looking at a crossword puzzle, they got the idea of applying the checked pattern to the enemy territory in front of them.

Taking the crossword puzzle they simulated the moves they would make if they were a Communist ambush party. Then they transferred the moves from the puzzle to the terrain and fired at the predetemined "square."

The result was 17 enemy casualties in five minutes of firing, the American patrol reported. Later, the crew used the method for another firing mission.

"Our guessing was about 90 per cent correct," Carrol said, "and we've actually become rabid crossword fans."

Carroll is a gunner on a half-track in the 82nd Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion. His weapon is a "quad-fifty" machine-gun, which is actually four .50 caliber guns timed to fire as one.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carroll of Siluria.

Alexander McGillivray, who spent most of his life in Alabama, was at one time known as the Emperor of two Indian tribes, the Creeks and the Seminoles.

Pete Jarman Gets University Honor Down In Australia

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 4—A soft-spoken American diplomat from Alabama was given an honorary degree in doctor of law at the Melbourne University here in recognition of his work in cementing friendship between the U. S. and Australia.

He is Ambassador Pete Jarman, who received the degree from Sir Charles Lowe, chancellor of the university, who declared that it is the highest honor the school can confer.

Ambassador Jarman, a graduate of the University of Alaabma, and a former congressman from Alabama, told the gathering that he considered it an honor to the United States rather than to himself.

Ambassador Jarman was born in Greensboro, Ala., grew up in Livingston. He has been U. S. Ambassador to Australia for nearly four years.

Mayor Appeals For Legion Membership

My commission expires December 6, 1955.

Between 1890 and 1900, population in Alabama's Wiregrasse section increased more than 65 per cent, with Covington County's population hike being greater than that of Jefferson County.

In the late 1890's and early 1900's, the splendid success of the cultivation of sugar cane in the Wiregrass led to the prediction that this section would become a great sugar cane area, surpassing even the cane fields of Louisiana.

On The Farms Of Shelby County

At Experiment, Georgia, the rolling red hills so similar to Shelby's are farmed by the same sort of fine folk and subject to just the same sort of weather.

The staff of the progressive state experiment station there have been the originators of many valuable new fruit and field crop varieties and many improvements in methods of food processing, soil testing, and cattle raising.

Page 49 of the current Farm and Ranch magazine tells of the development of Empire cotton varieties by U.S.D.A. cotton breeder Wilfred W. Ballard at that station.

From 1937 to June 1942 Mr. Ballard's "Man Friday" was this writer, George Starcher. If, at times, I can be of service to the farmers of our area it will be due in large part to five year's training in detailed observation and valuation of what I saw, under direction of that exacting and precise scientist. It is good to see his work praised in a national magazine.

We have been fortunate in being able to get, through the North Central Soil Conservation District, 250 pounds of certified Alabama strain reseeding crimson clover, 40 pounds broadleaf caley peas, and 25 pounds ball clover to be loaned to cooperators to introduce those crops in the county. While we do not expect any of these to reach immediate success the way Chapel Hill Rescue did in its first year here, we do feel some farmers will find one or more of them fill a need for them.

J. H. Edwrads, who sold his Mostellers farm recently and bought one near Wilton, had the largest bush and bog harrow we have ever seen at work on his farm last week. Pulled by the E. Falkner bulldozer, it was a 6,500 pound double gang harrow. Did a fine job, too.

Falkner left there to clear ten acres for W. C. Martin, Montevallo, and do some other work for farmers in that vicinity before moving to the M. B. Bates farm at Vincent for a week of clearing land for Fescue.

The Vincent F. F. A. boys didn't win the color of ribbon they wished with their state fair exhibit. However their comparison of the rights and wrongs of pasture development attracted large crowds and told a valuable story. And the boys did the major part of the work, too, a thing we feel should carry more weight in judging than at present.

Your Hands Are NOT Tied at the Ballot Box Nov. 4th!

Here Is How To Vote for a Great American

EISENHOWER

for President

and Still Support Your Democratic Candidate for Local Office

Every Alabama voter has both the legal and the moral right to split his ticket in the general election.

This is what a majority of true Alabama Democrats – disgusted with corruption, stupidity and betrayal of the South–are going to do.

To VOTE for "IKE"

and Your Local Democratic Candidates

1 Do NOT put your X in the circle at the top of any column on your ballot. Leave those circles blank.

2 Place your X before the names of these electors who will cast their votes for Eisenhower:

(X) William E. Brooks, Jr.
(X) John B. Byrd
(X) L. A. Carroll
(X) Robert S. Cartledge
(X) Offa B. Cosby
(X) Leander Isbell
(X) J. F. Moore
(X) Paul G. Parsons
(X) John A. Posey
(X) Arthur South
(X) Carl Weigand

3 Place your X before the names of all the other Democratic candidates printed in the Democratic column on the ballot. DO NOT put your X before the names of the electors in this Democratic column.

EISENHOWER is a true supporter of Democratic principles and policies in the tradition of Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson. Be a patriot — not a partisan. Help elect this great American!

CITIZENS FOR EISENHOWER COMMITTEE

W. M. Blount, Chairman

To The People Of Shelby County:

Again I want to express my deep appreciation to you for making it possible for me to be the Democratic nominee for Probate Judge of Shelby County at the General Election to be held in November 4th, 1952.

Due to the busy season in the Probate office, it will be almost impossible for me to see all of you before that date.

However, I want to assure you that I will be most grateful for your vote and support. I promise to render the kind of service the people of Shelby County deserve.

Sincerely yours,

VETERANS' COLUMN
STATE DEPT. OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By E. J. Sullivan

Here's some information for you Korean Veterans who are planning on enrolling in college, or have already enrolled. It's a pretty good possibility that those Veterans Administration Subsistence and tuition checks will not start arriving until at least the latter part of November. Possibly even December. This means that most of you are going to have to dig down in your pockets, or float a loan from someone in order to pay your initial enrollment fees, buy books and supplies and meet living expenses until you receive your subsistence check. Korean Veterans will have to pay their own tuition out of their subsistence check. And the school has to certify to the VA that the student has atended classes for a month before his voucher can even be made up. Most colleges and universities are reluctant to set up installment systems to allow ex-GIs to pay as they go. However, some schools do have a deferred payment schedule, which, in most cases, is about the same plan used for needy or temporarily broke non veterans. It's certainly going to be most difficult for most students under the GI Bill to get by for the first two or three months. A spokesman for the better business bureau has recommended that any GI student needing cash should go to his banking institution, where interest rates are reasonable. It is recommended that you hang on to your mustering out pay. It is estimated that 100,000 veterans will enter institutions of higher learning this fall. The law provides full time payments to veterans enrolled in educational institutions of $110 a month for a veteran without dependents; $135 a month for a veteran with one dependent and $160 a month for a veteran with more than one dependent.

Application for combat pay

Application for combat pay may be made by any Korean Veteran who may be eligible. Forms may be had at the post offices, or at this office. Any one that served in the combat zone under fire of the enemy is eligible for $45 a month if he served as much as six days consecutive in any one month.

Social Security Work Privileges Are Extended

Persons receiving old age and survivors insurance benfits can now earn as much as $75 a month without losing their benefits, according to M. C. Folmar, manager of the Birmingham office of the Social Security Administration.

The amount of wages a person getting benefits is permitted to earn in a month without losing his payment has been raised from $50 to $75, beginning with the month of September. In case a beneficiary is self-employed, he can accept his benefit checks if his net earnings from self-employment do not average more than $75 a month, that is, more than $900 for his taxable year. Beneficiaries who work in employment not covered by the Social Security Act, and those who have reached the age of 75, may cash their checks regardless of how much they earn.

Mr. Folmar pointed out that this "work clause" applies not only to the retired worker, but also to a wife, widow, child, or parent who is receiving benefits based on the social security account of a retired or deceased worker. Any beneficiary who is working for wages should notify the Social Security Administration promptly if he earns over $75 in one month. A self-employed beneficiary should notify the Administration as soon as he sees that his net earnings are likely to average more than $75 a month for the taxable year.

Oil Men Going To Convention

A large group of oil men from this county will attend the two day annual convention of Alabama Oil Men in Montgomery on October 12-13, when problems and trends of the petroleum industry will be discussed, J. L. Hill, chairman of the Shelby County Petroleum Industries Committee said today.

Feature speakers at the Monday session will be Joseph P. Walsh, New Pork, General Counsel, Sinclair Refining Company and Richard Harkness, will known NBC News Commentator.

Walsh's topic will be, "Trends in Government Control of Business." Harkness will discuss "aNtional Issues."

Other speakers will be Edward A. O'Neal, Florence, Ala., former president American Farm Bureau Federation, who will discuss the Road Fund Protection Amendment. W. G. Teal, Birmingham, Ala., chairman of the Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, will report on "P. I. C. Activities." Teal also will preside at the meeting.

Registration will be held in the lobby of the Whitley Hotel at 9:00 A. M. October 13. The oil men will be welcomed to Montgomery by the Capitol City's Mayor W. A. Gayle.

Climax of the session will be a fellowship dinner and floor show featuring singers, comedians, and dancers.

About 500 Alabama oil men are expected to attend the convention. Jim Britton, Montgomery, executive secretary of the Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, is in charge of arrangements and the convention program.

Put Your Lazy Garments To Work

Do you have any "lazy garments" that need to be put to work in your wardrobe? The Home Economics II clothing class of the Montevallo High School has been a place of activity as the members went about making some of their old unused and unappealing winter apparel come alive through remodeling. Most everyone has some garments that have been pushed back into the closet because they are no longer as wearable as they have been in the past. The girls took an inventory of their fall clothes they had on hand and found some "lazy garments," clothes that were not being used.

The students found from their study that it is not always profitable to remodel a dress. The "lazy garments" were studied to see if they could be made attractive enough to wear. The students then considered how much time would be required to make them wearable, the cost of remodeling the garment and whether or not it would be worn after remodeling.

The class found after studying these points that some garments from their inventory could be made wearable with just a little repair. Garments that only needed rehemming were rehung. Others fitted the band of their skirts; some found it necessary to fit the skirts through the hips and band. One student shortened and rehemmed the sleeves of a blouse.

Others discovered it would take a little more time and effort to make their garment wearable. One student had a number of good wool dresses that she could not wear because of an allergy to wool. She decided to make jumpers from the dresses so she could wear blouses with them and protect her skin. Another student decided she would enjoy a sweater more if the sleeves were shortened. Pulled places and holes in sweaters were mended in order to make them wearable.

The students now know from experience that old clothes can be converted into usuable and attractive garments. If you want your fall wardrobe perked up for the season try putting those "lazy garments" to work. — Ernestine Williams, Student Teacher, Montevallo High School, Home Economics Department.

Homecoming At Calera High School

October 3, was our "Homecoming" day in which Jemison defeated us by a score of 12-0. From the opening kick-off Jemison drove all the way down to the goal-line and after three plays on the goal-line they scored, Calera took the kick-off and was threatening to score but lost the ball on downs. About two minutes before the half we completed a pass which put us on our goal-line. But the half ended and we failed to score.

Jemison scored again in the third quarter and Calera kept on threatening to score.

At the half time Lois Ford was crowned "Miss Homecoming." She was escorted by Hugh Tomlin, attendants and their escorts were Leila Timmerman escorted by Charles Alverson, Gerrie Pugh escorted by Billy Jones.

The Dance was very successful too. There was a good crowd, and everyone had fun.

We appreciate everyone who helped to make our "Homecoming" day a success.

The November Election

By Dr. Hallie Farmer

A Correction

My attention has been called to the fact that part of my discussion of the amendment concerning the term of the sheriff was misleading. The change in the Constitution proposed by this amendment is to extend the term of the sheriff from four to six years. Amendment 35, passed in 1938, permits a sheriff to stand for re-election. The question which voters should consider is the combination of the longer term with the right to stand for re-election.

The Highway Amendment

Two other states besides Alabama are voting on a highway amendment on Novemebr 4. Arizona and Georgia are voting on the question of earmarking funds for highways. In Georgia, where the tradition of earmarking state revenues is not as firmly established as it is in Alabama, the amendment is meeting bitter opposition on the ground that state funds should not be earmarked. Twenty-one other states have already enacted amendments similar to the one now being proposed in these three states.

Local Amendments

There are two local amendments offered for the approval of Alabama voters on November 4. They relate to two counties—Fayette and Blount. The two amendments are identical in wording and may be considered together.

They permit any municipality in these counties to promote local industries and to encourage the location of new industries by:

1. Purchasing, constructing or leasing factories and equipment.
2. Leasing, selling, or giving for cash or credit, such property to any industry.
3. Becoming a stockholder in industry.
4. Lending its credit to industries.
5. Becoming indebted to the amount of fifty per cent of the assessed value of taxable property of the municipality in order to secure funds for buying the property or buying the stock mentioned above.

This debt may be a general obligation of the municipality and a special tax may be levied for paying it.

These amendments are similar to six of the local amendments presented to the voters in the May primary and rejected by them. Much of what I said concerning these amendments is applicable to the two amendments concerning Blount and Fayette Counties, and I shall repeat some of the things which I said at that time.

One cannot help wondering how it happens that those individuals and organizations who have been so deeply concerned about the evils of "socialism" in England and in Washington, have so completely ignored these proposals to put government in business in Alabama. Does the threat of government control to "free enterprise" increase with distance? Or is it easier to shout about distant dangers than to attack those close at hand? For these amendments are designed to permit the municipalities in the counties mentioned above to engage in business, permit towns and cities to become stockholders in "any corporation, asscciation or company." This, of course, makes them liable to loss of the money invested as any other stockholder is liable.

These municipalities may also lend their credit to business enterprises, and the bonds issued for this purpose may be made general obligations of the municipality, that is, they must be paid out of taxes if the return from the business in which they have invested will not pay the debt. Provision is made for a two per cent general tax levy to repay the principal and interest of these bonds. The only protection given the taxpayers by this amendment is the right to vote approval or disapproval of the whole scheme.

DR. HALLIE FARMER

The history of state and local government in the United States contains many instances of governments engaging in business enterprises. The record has little to encourage the practice. For every record of success there are multiplied records of failure. Local financial history is full of defaulted payments, bankruptcies, debt burdens or debt repudations by local governments who engaged in the business enterprises which failed.

These amendments are clearly based upon the assumption that there is no risk in business and that the enterprises in which these municipalities propose to invest their money will inevitably succeed. That is, of course, most unsound. History would seem to show that they are more likely to fail than they are to succeed.

Section 94 of the constitution forbids the Legislature to authorize any county, town or subdivision of the State to lend its credit or grant public money to any individual, association or corporation, or become a stockholder by issuing bonds or otherwise.

That section of the constitution was the product of long and bitter experience in Alabama as well as in other states. The voters of Alabama would do well to think carefully before they set it aside.

Miss Ruth Stovall Attends Council

Miss Ruth Stovall, State Supervisor of Homemaking Education in Alabama and a member of the Advisory Board of the Future Homemakers of America, will attend a meeting of the National Executive Council and Advisory Board in Chicago October 15-18.

This is the second consecutive year which Miss Stovall has served as a member of the National Advisory Board. She is secretary of the Board for 1952-1953.

One of the major concerns of the Board and Council will be planning for the 1953 National FHA Convention.

BPW Club

The Montevallo Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its next meeting on Tuesday, October 21. Dr. Floris Herbert, Alabama College physician, will address the group. The public is invited to attend the meeting in Reynolds Dining Room at 8:00 p.m.

Duran Leader In Cancer Society

Fred A. Duran, president of the First National Bank of Auburn, and long a leader in the work of the American Cancer Society of Alabama, will play a prominent part in planning the coming year's work of this national organization at its annual meeting in New York, Oct. 22-25.

Duran is a member of the National Board of Directors, a member of the National Executive Committee, a member of the new National Pre-Budget Committee, and chairman of elections for the southeastern states. He is treasurer of the Alabama division of the society and a member of the State Executive Committee.

For his continuous activity in recent years, Duran has become recognized as a state regional and national leader in the American Cancer Society's work.

He will be accompanied to the convention in New York by Mrs. Lillian G. Meade of Birimngham, executive director of the Alabama division of ACS; and Judge J. C. McGough of Fayette, Alabama, a lay delegate to the convention.

Mrs. Meade is the only woman who serves on a 4-member committee known as the National Fiscal Advisory Committee of the ACS.

Judge McGough will be attending his third National Convention as a lay delegate from this state. He is also a member of a regional committe for the Southeast for the purpose of recommending a rotation system for national directorships.

FRED A. DURAN

Dr. John Day Peake of Mobile, chairman of the State Executive Committee, Alabama division of ACS, and chairman of the Cancer Committee of the Alabama Medical Association, was elected as medical delegate to attend the convention, but will be unable to attend because of prior commitments.

Art Department Shows Paintings

The Art Department of Alabama College is currently displaying a group of water color paintings and lithographs done by Richard Zoellner, Professor of Art at the University of Alabama.

Miss Dawn Kennedy, head of the Art Department of Alabama College has scheduled this exhibit for display through October 26. This collection can be seen on the second floor of Comer Hall on the Alabama College campus.

Zoellner, who teaches painting and graphic arts at the University has work on display in the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia; The Brooklyn, Seattle, Chattanooga and Philadelphia Museums of Art; the Dayton Art Institute, Dayton, Ohio and in many private collections.

In Escambia County, where they recently struck oil, you can tell the poor farmers from the rich ones. The poor ones have to wash their own Cadillacs.

State Secretary Streamlines Record System

Mrs. Agnes Baggett, Alabama Secretary of State, explains the recently-installed modern system of keeping corporation records, a responsibility of her office. Montgomery Business Man James H. Godwin, right, is shown with Mrs. Baggett as they study one of the typewritten cards from the new index system, which makes the reports almost instantly available. The streamlined system, evolved by Mrs. Baggett after several months of work, and several years of planning, replaces an out-moded former system where heavy, leather-bound books were used with the records written in long-hand. The new system is more efficient, speedier, and more economical. Godwin is manager of the Montgomery Production Credit Association.

Funeral Services For W. E. Montgomery

Funeral services for W. E. (Bill) Montgomery, age 56, who died of a heart attack at his home here last Sunday, October 12, were held Tuesday at the Montevallo Presbyterian Church. The Rev. T. F. Wallace, of LaFayette, La., officiated. Burial was in Montevallo cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Helia Montgomery; one son, A-2C W. R. Montgomery, stationed at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.; one sister, Mrs. Ed Jenkins, Montgomery; one brother, W. S. Montgomery, Birmingham.

Active pallbearers were Joe Hereford, Atlanta; John Cahoon, Bessemer; James A. Wyatt, John Hardy, Cooper Shaw, Lee Wilson, Montevallo.

Honorary pallbearers were N. C. Cady, Birimngham; Jim Oakley, Centreville; W. A. Kaufman, Atlanta; Dr. L. C. Parnell, Dr. W. J. Mitchell, W .M. Wyatt, P. C. Wilson, S. M. Mahan, G. P. Rogan, Putnam Porter, Pat Wyatt, Hal Anthony, Owen Bridges, Bloomer Wilson, all of Montevallo.

Mr. Montgomery was a veteran of World War I. A military service was conducted at the graveside by members of Hendrick-Hudson Post No. 96, of the American Legion, of which the deceased was a member.

Fifth District Teachers Meeting

Superintendents, supervisors, principals and teachers of Jefferson, Blount, St. Clair, Shelby, Walker, Chilton, and Talladeag counties will meet at Alabama College Saturday morning at 10 a.m. for the annual fall meeting of the fifth district of the Alabama Education Association.

Principal speakers of the meeting will be Dr. Louis E. Armstrong, Director of Indian Springs School; Dr. Frazer Banks, Superintendent of the Bimingham schools; Miss Frances Nungester, President of the Alabama Education Association; and Mr. Raymond Fowler, Secretary Treasurer of the Alabama Teacher Retirement Board.

Dr. F. Edward Lund, President of Alabama College, will welcome the educators when the meeting gets under way at 10 a.m. in Comer Hall. Mr. Charles F. Bryan, national authority on folk music and member of the faculty of Indian Springs School will present a program of authentic American folk tunes. Bryan will also demonstrate the dulcimer, a stringed musical instrument; popular in the early days of the United States, but no longer in wide use.

Mrs. Charlotte Peterson, President of the Fifth District of the A. E. A. and Assistant Principal and Supervisor of the Montevallo Laboratory School, will preside at all meetings.

DAR Meeting

The October meeting of David Lindsay Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was held at Reynolds Hall on Monday night, with Miss Annabeth Cash as hostess.

Mrs. E. D. Reynolds entertained the group with a most interesting report on her recent trip to Mexico.

Sixteen members and two visitors were present.

PTA Meeting Held October 8

Mr. Arthur R. Garrett presided at the first meeting of the Montevallo Parent-Teacher's Association as its new president. The meeting was held in the High School Auditorium, 7:30 Wednesday evening, October 8.

After introduction of the new faculty member, Mr. Fred Barlow, Junior 7th grade, Mrs. J. P. Kelly gave a fitting and inspiring devotional.

Following this the outline of the program for the year was presented to the members. This will be based on the Evaluation Committee's report of Montevallo School, and the Faculty Study, made last spring. November's program will be a panel discussion of the School Community, and Educational Needs of Children, made up of three parents and three teachers with Miss Nona Sparks, elementary teacher, as moderator. A panel discussion for December will deal with the Program of Studies and Pupil Activities program with Miss Ann Grove, Junior High School teacher, as moderator, with three parents and three teachers on the panel.

Mary B. Roberts, State Mental Health Association member, will speak on Good Mental Health for the January meeting. February's speaker is to be announced later. County Superintendent W. W. Elliott will speak on "The Invisible Wall between Home and School" for the March program.

Parents again will take part in the April program which will deal with "The Patient Years for Parents."

Officers of the Montevallo P. T. A., besides Mr. Garrett are: Mrs. Pauline Rogan, first vice-president, Mrs. W. E. Robinson, second vice-president, Miss Susie Dement, secretary, Mrs. J. P. Kelly, treasurer, Miss Mary Peters, historian and Mr. W. J. O'Neal, parliamentarian. The Trustees are M. P. Jeter, Mr. Pete Givhan and Mr. Lee Barclay.

To The People Of Shelby County:

Again I want to express my deep appreciation to you for making it possible for me to be the Democratic nominee for Probate Judge of Shelby County at the General Election to be held in November 4th, 1952.

Due to the busy season in the Probate office, it will be almost impossible for me to see all of you before that date.

However, I want to assure you that I will be most grateful for your vote and support. I promise to render the kind of service the people of Shelby County deserve.

Sincerely yours,

L. C. Walker

County Wide FHA And FFA Meetings

This year the County Schools have decided to have four county meetings for F. H. A. and F. F. A. These meetings will be open to the entire membership of the local chapters in the four schools in the county which have been affiliated with the State and National Organizations. The first meeting was held in Columbiana on Wednesday night, October 8, beginning at 7:00 p.m. and ending at 10:00 p.m. The Columbiana F. H. A. and F. F.A. chapters were in charge of the program and social activities for the evening. Outstanding features of the evening program were a talk on leadership and by the State F. F. A. President, Winfred Dairs of Mill Town and a talk on How F. H. A. Can Help Me by the State F. H. A. President Janice Jordon from Straughn High School in Covington County. Also, an impressive initiation ceremony of Columbiana Chapter "Green hands" was carried out by their officers. After the progam, the entire group enjoyed square dancing. Refreshments were served by the Columbiana Chapters.

The next County meeting will be held at Montevallo High School on December 10.

Thompson P.T.A.

Dr. Lund, President of Alabama College will address the Thompson P. T. A. at the regular meeting on Monday evening, October 20, in the school auditorium. Dr. Lund's subject will be "Education for Useful Living."

Mr. A. E. Dennis will sing "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Caton announce the birth of a son on October 13.

VETERANS' COLUMN
STATE DEPT. OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By E. J. Sullivan

It seems that there are still lots of people who do not know that a widow of a War One Veteran is entitled to a pension after the death of her husband, even though his death is in no way connected with his war service.

In addition to bringing this to attention of those who may be entitled to the pension some day, I thought you War One Veterans would also like to be brought up to date on the present law.

In addition to widows, children are also entitled to what is called the non-service death pension. In order that the widow and children to be eligible for benefits, there are certain provisions must have been met by the veteran while he was in service. First, he must have served in World War One before November 12, 1918, or April 2, 1920, if he served in Russia. He must have been discharged under condition other than dishonorable after 90 days, or more military service. If he did not serve 90 days, his dependents would be entitled, anyway, provided his discharge was due to a disease or disability incurred in line of duty.

In order to be eligible, the widow must have married the veteran before December 14, 1944, and she must have lived with the veteran continuosly until his death, unless the reason they were not living together was due to no fault of the widow.

Children under the age of 18 years, are also entitled to this non-service pension. Or, if the child is in school, the pension may be received until it reaches the age of 21 years.

In order to be eligible the income of the widow, if she has no dependents, must not be over $1400. If she has childern under 18 years of age, her income must not be over $2700.00 per year.

She will receive $48 per month with no dependents, $60 with one dependent and $7.20 for each additional child. If there is no widow, one child will draw $26 and two children, $39 and three children, $52 per month. Each child must be under 18 years of age.

Fifth District Teachers Meet

Miss Frances Nungester, Decatur, president of the Alabama Education Association, will address the teachers of District V at their meeting Saturday, October 18, at Alabama College. Mrs. Charlotte Peterson, Montevallo, ditsrict president, has announced that many teachers are expected to attend from city and county systems in Blount, Chilton, Jefferson, St. Clair, Shelby, Talladega, and Walker counties.

Meeting with the teachers for the first period of the morning session will be members of Future Teachers clubs and chapters. Later they will have their own program of reports and discussions. It has been planned by Miss Joyce Palmer, Woodlawn High School, and Miss Tena Baker, Woodlawn FTA Sponsor.

The Rev. Minar Triplett, pastor of the Methodist Church, Montevallo, will give the devotional. President F. E. Lund of Alabama College will welcome present and future teachers. Dr. Louis E. Armstrong, director of Indian Springs School, will outline what youth expects of schools in "Speaking for Youth."

Music will be provided by Charles F. Bryan, nationally known for his collection of folk songs. Mr. Bryan, who is director of music at Indian Springs, will accompany himself on the dulcimer.

Discussion of proposed legislation to be recommended by the Association will be led by Miss Nungester. Developments in retirement and social security will be described by Raymond D. Fowler, Montgomery, secretary of the State Teachers Retirement System.

Reports of activities of national and state teachers' organizations will be made by Dr. J. W. Letson, Bessemer; Miss Zora Ellis, Talladega; and Mrs. Maude Clements, Jefferson County.

The meeting will be held at 10:00 a.m. at Comer Hall. It will conclude with a distirct luncheon at which Dr. L. Franzer Banks, Birmingham superintendent, will speak.

Lloyd C. Thrash On Wisconsin

Norfolk, Va., — Marine Private First Class Lloyd C. Thrash, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Thrash, Montevallo, Ala., is serving as a member of the Marine Detachment aboard the battleship, USS Wisconsin. His ship recently returned from the Northern European aea where she participated in "Operation MAINBRACE."

The operation was the first large scale test of the organization for the defense of the northern flank of the North Atlantic Treaty nations.

During Mainbrace the local man and his shipmates visited ports in the United Kingdom and in Norway.

Thrash has been a member of the Wisconsin's Marine Complement since February 1951. Prior to that time he was stationed at Portsmouth, Va. He entered the Marine Corps on June 27, 1950.

After World War II, the Wisconsin was placed in Mothballs, along with a major portion of the United States Fleet. The huge battleship was recommissioned at Norfolk, Va., on March 3, 1951. Trips to Cuba, Europe and Nova Scotia followed, and in November 1951, the Wisconsin reported for duty on combat area missions in Korean waters.

The ship was relieved after many shore bombardment assignments, and she returned to the United States in April, 1952.

Another visit to Europe followed in June and July 1952, and the Wisconsin returned to Norfolk, Va., in time to join forces with other ships sailing for the NATO operation during the latter part of August.

LOOK — LOOK — 3 houses and lots for sale. Plenty of room for another house, and to raise chickens. Bargain. See the owner, R. B. Galloway, Montevallo.

Farm Bureau Drive Nov. 3-8

H. A. Pauly, President of the County organization announce this week that Shelby County will not hold their Membership Drive the week of October 20-25 due to extreme urgency of farm work going on at this particular time, but will be held two weeks later on NOVEMBER 3-8th. Members have already been notified to mail their dues in, so that this much of the work for solicitors will be spent on new members, and other follow up work. Dues can be mailed in to H. A. Pauly, President or W. Boyce Morris, Sec.-Treasurer, of Columbiana.

Recent Changes In Social Security

One result of recent changes in the social security law is that the Birmingham social security office is no longer suggesting to self-employed people who retire in 1952 that they should wait until January 1953 to apply for old-age insurance benefits.

Martin C. Folmer, manager of the Birmingham social security office explains that earnings from self-employment go into the social security records only once each year, but a period of at least 18 months must be used to determine the average earnings in which benefits amounts are based. For this reason, a self-employed person who retired and claimed payments in 1952 under the old law would have only his 1951 earnings spread over 18 months in figuring the monthly average. Before the new law was passed the Birmingham social security office was explaining to self-employed people that they might get higher payments by waiting until January 1953 to make their applications.

The changed law, Mr. Folmer explains, provides that self-employed people can start getting retirement payments in 1952 and can then have their payments refigured in 1953 after their 1952 earnings have been reported. The payments will then be based on average monthly earnings based on the combined total of 1951 and 1952 earnings divided by twenty-four months. The additional payments will be made retroactive for the months in 1952 for which the individual received payments. Similar provisions are provided for the survivors of self-employed people who die in 1952.

People 65 or over who are considering retirement may get further information at the Birmingham social security office, 1825 First Avenue, North. The Telephone is 4-1696.

Biggest car buy in History

Never before has a car given you so much for the money!

Ford's 101-h.p. Mileage Maker Six with new free-turning overhead valves, is the newest high-compression, low-friction Six you can buy. And Ford's Strato-Star V-8, with new 110 high-compression horsepower, is the most powerful engine ever offered in a low-priced car.

Ford's New Automatic Ride Control brings a smoother, "heavy car" ride into the low-price field for the very first time. Its new lower center of gravity, wider front tread, diagonally mounted rear shock absorbers and new springing team up to take bounce out of bumps, tilt out of turns.

Yes, Ford's the very first car in America to give you so much style, so much comfort and so much power for the money. Only Ford in its price class is completely new in looks, for example, with wider, lower, longer, stronger bodies . . . with new Full-Circle Visibility that lets you see in all directions . . . and with a new steering system that makes steering easier, parking a cinch.

Two-tone colors illustrated, white sidewall tires optional at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

Come in and TEST DRIVE FORD

You can pay more . . . but you can't buy better!

How To Put Buttons On

To save clothing, mending, time and temper put buttons on clothing to stay.

"If put on right in the first place," says Kathleen Thompson, API Extension clothing specialist, "neither ordinary wear nor washing and ironing should loosen buttons."

Pointing out how to put on buttons so they won't burge, she says to use thread strong enough for the weight of the button; use taps or other reinforcement underneath, and perhaps most important, arrange for a shank of thread which gives room for the buttonhole to slide under the button with out pull on the fabric.

"When sewing on a button," says the specialist, "lay a pin or darning needle over the top and sew over it. Then withdraw the pin and wind thread around the shank underneath. Fasten the thread on the wrong side of the garment, first with a buttonhole stitch, then with a couple of over-and over stitches."

Tips On Buying Electric Iron

There are some mighty important things to keep in mind when buying an electric hand iron.

Stella Mitchell, API Extension home management specialist, states that about 1,000 watts is desirable for fast heating. A dial to control heat is needed. It should be located where it is easy to read and move when ironing. Also, select a iron with a handle made of heat resistant material, such as plastic or wood, shaped to fit the hand comfortably, she says.

Shelby County Cotton Classing

Mr. Arthur E. Jackson, Jr. in charge of the USDA — Cotton Classing Office in Birmingham has just informed us that adequate personnel and facilities are available for classing the entire cotton crop of Shelby County. Every gin community in the county is organized as a cotton improvement group and farmers can take advantage of this service simply by requesting that the ginner cut the samples from his bales of cotton and mail them to the classing office. Mr. Jackson states that his office can give very prompt service this season; in most cases classification cards are mailed for return to the farmer on the same day that the cotton is received at the classing office.

These cards show the grade and staple of each bale and by consulting qquqoted cotton prices the farmer can determine approximately what his bale is worth.

Store your frying fat in paper cups that take up less room in your refrigerator and can be thrown away when empty.

Farm Suggestions

By A. A. Lauderdale
County Agent

Great Interest In Feed And Grazing

Grazing and feed crops become more impotrant each year to Alabama farmers who market livestock and livestock products.

A. W. Jones, API Extension marketing specialist, points out that abnormal weather conditions, such as last summer's drouth, make it necessary for livestock producers to get back into heavy production as quickly as possible. And feed and grazing crops will help do the job.

Jones adds that the need for greater effort in growing grazing, hay, and forage is pointed up by the fact that in the 15-year period from 1935 to 1950, per-acre yields of hay increased only five per cent while corn yields increased 56 per cent.

Calves Turn Up Heels At Vegetable Fat Diet

Butterfat cannot be replaced by vegetable fat in diets fed calves, according to Dr. T. W. Gullickson of the National Dairy Council.

He used 100 calves in his experiment, and all of them fed the vegetable oil died by the time they were three months old calves whose diets were switched to butterfat before they were three months old lived.

J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairymen, believes that new products sold to replace butterfat may be cheaper, but they may not be healthful too. Taste alone is not a test for food products, he adds.

Egg Consumers Want

More Grade A quality eggs may be produced by keeping floor litter and nesting material clean and dry, gathering eggs in a wire basket at least twice a day, cooling eggs before packing, and then keeping them cool.

VETERANS' COLUMN
STATE DEPT. OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By E. J. Sullivan

It seems that many Korean Veterans are having quite a bit of trouble in getting lined up on the job training program under the Korean GI Bill. Many of these veterans, having applied for training, have received letters from the Veterans' Administration telling them that their application has been disapproved because the business establishment with whom they are connected has not been approved to train veterans under the Bill.

Under the provision of the law, veterans are not permitted to train under the GI Bill until the establishment offering the training has been approved. Here in the State of Alabama, the State Department of Education has been designated as the approving agency. This means that the Department of Education must make some sort of an inspection to determine whether or not the establishment is in position to adequately train those who wish to learn a trade. As we all know the Department of Education at the present time does not have sufficient personnel to cover the entire state for approving these establishments. Then, too, we must realize that it takes quite a bit of money to set up such approval system. From what we can learn, the Veterans' Administration has made no financial allowances for such approval system. Early this week were approved to give training under the World War II GI Bill. However, they were approved under the laws which governed that particular time and now must be RE-APPROVED under Public Law 50, which is commonly referred to as the Korean GI Bill.

You who are attending the the Department of Education started its inspectors out to cover the state to examine the establishments which have applied for approval to train Korean veterans and it appears that this program will soon be functioning. It is true that many business establishments State Schools of higher learning, will not have any trouble in getting your course approved because these institutions are already approved by the State Department Of Education. High Schools must apply individually to the Department of Education to be approved.

The Cherokee occupied the northeastern part of Alabama. They were a part of a much larger group which occupied eastern Tennessee, western North Carolina and northern Georgia. The Cherokees were probably of the same stock as the Iroquois Indians to the north. The Chickasaws lived in the northwest section of the area. To the south of them lived the Choctaws. The central and southeastern parts of the present State were the lands of the Muscogees, usually called the Creeks.

Put On Buttons So They Will Stay

To save clothing, mending, time and temper, put on buttons and other fastenings to stay, Mrs. Rebecca McGaughy, vocational homemaking teacher at Montevallo High School, suggests to the home seamstress. If put on right in the first place, neither ordinary wear nor washing and ironing should loosen buttons, zippers, or snaps.

To put on buttons so they won't budge, remember to use thread strong enough for the weight of the button; to use tape or other reinforcement underneath if the fabric is thin; and, perhaps most important, to arrange for a shank of thread which gives room for the buttonhole to slide under the button without pull on the fabric. When sewing on a button, lay a pin or darning needle over the top and sew over it. Then withdraw a pin and wind thread around the shank underneath. Fasten the thread on the wrong side of the garment, first with a buttonhole stitch, then with a couple of over and over stitches.

Zippers hold best if they are stitched on by machine rather than by hand. Stitch the zipper tape to the fold of the goods, close to the metal of the zipper, then trim off any extra fabric to the width of the tape and stitch so there will be no loose ends to catch in the zipper.

One of the most time saving fasteners is the snap fastener which is hammered on rather than stitched. These fasteners now come in light and heavy weight, plain and in color. The hammering gadget comes with them. Mrs. Rebecca McGaughy advises that snap fasteners should be used on firm fabric and are best suited to sports or work clothes. On thin or fragile cloth a pound-on fastener may strain or break through and leave a hole. Machine stitching on both sides of the row of snap fasteners is recommended to take part of the pull and save strain on the fabric.

The first white men known to have reached and explored the present State of Alabama were those in an expedition led by the Spanish explorer, Hernando DeSoto. In May, 1539, DeSoto's expedition approached the town of Coosa, in what is now Talladega County.

The area which today is Alabama was originally claimed and occupied by four large Indian confederations. Each confederation was made up of many tribes which were loosely connected. The four confederations were the Cherokee, the Chickasaw, the Choctaw, and the Muscogee.

In all likelihood, the Chickasaws, Choctaws and Creeks came into Alabama from west of the Mississippi River. Each tribe within the four great confederations had its own chief, chosen by the warriors to act as a leader, and named for life.

Today there are more than 5.000 miles of railroad tracks in Alabama, and waterway transportation is constantly being improved and expanded. Alabama's Highway System embraces more than 7,000 miles of public roads.

Hanging Out The Washing

Shelby County 4-H girls are learning the art of "Hanging Out The Wash." At each of their meetings this month a demonstration is being given which shows them the correct way to hang out the wash. Points stressed are: Hang clothes on lines located near the laundry area to save steps and time; Keep clothespins within easy reach by using an apron with pockets or a bag that will hang on the line; Save energy when hanging out clothes by placing basket on a laundry cart or child's wagon. The girls are also taught how each article should be pinned on the clothes lines and that folding the clothes as they are removed from the line reduces wrinkles.

W. H. Gregory, Extension Livestock Specialist, Auburn was with us to talk on production and management problems.

Someone was telling me the other day that oldie about a tuft of cotton on a screen door keeping away flies. We tried it quite a while ago, but it hasn't worked out so well since the Reader's Digest ran an article on it a couple of years ago. I think the flies must have read the article.

TELLS A STORY...

Every month our employee magazine contains one or more pages of pictures of telephone employees who have been promoted to management. That speaks well of employee opportunity in the telephone business.

Management jobs at Southern Bell are filled by promotions through the ranks. Last year there were 819 promotions to supervisory positions. There were also 5,834 promotions to higher non-supervisory jobs, and 615 promotions to higher management positions.

This policy of opportunity and recognition for the individual employee means good management and better telephone service for you. Coupled with good pay, fair treatment and one of industry's best employee benefit programs, it explains why more than half of the employees we had 20 years ago are still with the Company.

A Personal Message To The People Of Shelby County:

I am a candidate for Probate Judge. I want to give you some personal service from the Probate Office of Shelby County.

I have lived in Calera and operated a successful Real Estate business for 27 years, eight years of which I served as Mayor of Calera, during which time Calera was cleaned up as it had never been before. A sanitary water and sewer system was put in for the town, together with many other improvements. In fact, my experience and knowledge of law concerning local government fit me to render the very best service possible to you, if elected Probate Judge.

I am now assisting the "Old Age Pension Program" to get the Legislature to provide funds to meet Federal funds already allocated for the aged.

Truly, a vote for A. B. Baxley is a vote for the best interest of Shelby County. Won't you help me help you?

Regardless of your party affiliation, if you split your ballot, you will not regret making a cross mark before the name of A. B. Baxley. This will not affect your vote nationally.

Drives Week At Alabama College

This week is known as "Drives Week" on the campus of Alabama College, a week's intensive campaigning to raise funds for all the charity drives to which students normally contribute.

Heading the Drives Week committee are Audrey Evans, Roanoke, Va.; and Elsie Singley, Greensboro, Ala.; to lead students in raising funds for March of Dimes, Anti-Tuberculosis Association, World Student Service Fund, Red Cross, and others.

The campaign opened Monday with a parade through the campus at 12 noon, featuring posters distinguishing the various organizations included in the Drive. Monday afternoon the first fund-raising event of the week was a Silver Tea in Reynolds.

Feature of the day Tuesday was a volley ball game between juniors and seniors. This event, complete with cheerleaders and a cheering section, took place at the field house.

Wednesday brought a reversal of Crook Week, when the seniors were auctioned to juniors for the evening.

Wednesday also featured two other entertainments to raise funds for the drive. The Sociology Club sponsored a Hallowe'en party in Reynolds at 8:00 p.m. and W R S R, college radio station, held its first Campus Convocation of the year. An audience participation show, complete with door prizes and gifts for contestants, the admission fees charged for this event all go to Drives Week.

Highlight of the week's activities came Thursday, when all events of that day were devoted to World Student Service Fund campaigning. Carolyn Aycock, the WSSF chairman, Hartselle, planned Thursday's entertainments to begin with the annual WSSF convocation at 11:00 a.m., with Jack Gleason, Regional Secretary of WSSF, as principal speaker. WSSF activities continued through the day with a Bingo Party in the Tea House at 4:30 that afternoon and the annual Faculty-Student Stunt Night in Palmer at 8:00 that evening.

Drives Week campaigning will continue Friday with a square dance at the Field House, sponsored by the Recreation Association. Saturday the week's activities will close with a car washing party on the campus during the morning and a pie sale Saturday night.

Everyone may join the Drive by bringing their automobiles to the campus Saturday morning and getting them cleaned up at the car wash party. The pie sale, sponsored by the Dietetics Club, will be in Reynolds immediately following the campus movie in Palmer.

All funds raised during the week will be divided on a percentage basis among the individual drives.

Dr. Aldrich Crowe, of New Jersey, is visiting his mother, Mrs. F. F. Crowe. Mr. and Mrs. Geurard, of Marion, spent some time with them Wednesday.

Wheeler Foshee gets Promotion

Gainesville, Ga., October 22 — Cadet Wheeler R. Foshee, son of Mr. John Wheeler Foshee, Montevallo, has been named Sergeant 1st Class in the permanent promotions just announced at Riverside Military Academy of this city and Holly, Florida.

Promotion in the Riverside Corps of Cadets is based on military, academic, and conduct records throughout the year, plus a trial period each fall in which special emphasis is placed on developing and measuring leadership. Promotion is open to all Cadets and awarded to those found to measure up to the Riverside tradition of excellence that has given the Academy highest official Army rating as an Honor School on twenty-nine annual inspections since first designated in 1923.

Dr Farmer Leads Panel Discussion

Dr. Hallie Farmer, professor of History at Alabama College led a panel discussion as part of the program of the Joint Legislative Council of Alabama which met on the Alabama College campus, Saturday, October 25.

The panel discussed "Implications of the Current Political Situation;" Mrs. Beryl McClaskey spoke on "Women's Role in the World Picture," and new officers to serve for the next two years were elected.

The new officers are: Mrs. Eugene Bruton of Birmingham, representing the state Nurses Association, vice president; Mrs. Eunice Sisson, Montgomery, representing W C T U, recording secretary; Miss Lelah Brownfield, Montevallo, representing the American Association of University Women, treasurer; and Mrs. Josephine Roberts, Gadsden, representing the Business and Professional Women's Club, auditor.

Mrs. Lell Munkettrick, Birmingham, President of the Joint Legislative Council of Alabama presided at all sessions, which were held in Comer Hall.

Study Club Met With Mrs. Phillips

The Montevallo Study Club met Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 at the home of Mrs. N. E. Phillips with Mrs. T. Bridges as co-hostess. The home was beautifully decorated with orchid and white chrysanthemums.

After a business meeting the guest speaker, Miss Ellen-Haven Gould, Professor and Head of the Speech Department, Alabama College, spoke on "The Theatre Today." Afterwards a social hour was spent and refreshments were served.

Among those who were unfriendly to the white men i nearly Alabama were the Alibamons and some tribes of the Creek confederation. Bienville led an expidition up the Alabama River against unfriendly Indians, destroying a number of their villages. However, most of the warriors escaped.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Criswell announce the birth of a son, Troy Glenn.

Girl Scout Week Observed By Local Scout Council This Week

As a highlight of National Girl Scout Week, Mrs. Leslie Goehegan, who is a member of the Professional Girl Scout Staff in Birmingham, and a member of the Regional Committee, met with the Scout Council of Montevallo, the leaders, the mothers, and the scouts on Thursday afternoon, October 30, at 3:00 in the "Little House", to discuss leadership and scouting programs. Following the address there was an informal tea.

This year, the Scout Council feels most fortunate in having Miss Mary Carson, who is an assistant professor in the Department of Physical Education and Health at Alabama College, as leader of the Intermediate Scouts; and Mrs. Vick Williams as leader of the Brownies, with Mrs. Herrick of Calera as her assistant. Through the inspiring leadership of Mrs. A. W. Vaughan, Deputy Commissioner and Program Chairman, the Council is looking forward to a year of enthusiastic accomplishment.

The Council was happy to have as its special guest Mrs. F. G. Hamner, Chairman of the Training committee of the Jefferson County Board of Girl Scouts, who accompanied Mrs. Goehegan.

Home Economics Class Finds Tools Are Necessary For Sewing

What would you think of a carpenter who tried to build a house without the necessary tools? The Home Economics I girls of Montevallo High School are finding out that it is just as important to have the proper equipment in constructing a garment.

This does not mean that a large sum of money needs to be spent for small sewing equipment, but that it is important to know what to look for in making selections.

Some of the smaller sewing equipment that we all need even in constructing the most simple garments are: needles, pins, scissors or shears, measuring tapes, thread, thimble, tracing wheel, tailor's chalk and pincushions. Do you know what to look for in selecting each of these?

We know that needles run from size 1 to size 12, but do you know what size to use on your particular piece of material? No. 1 is the coarsest and No. 12 is very fine. Since most of the homemaking girls are working on medium weight cotton materials they have found that a No. 8 is the best size needle for this material. The types of needles most commonly used are: Crewel for embroidery, darning needles, with long eyes, suited for darning. Sharps are the small eyed needles commonly used for sewing.

Pins, too, have characteristics which should be noticed before purchasing. After comparing different kinds of pins, this clothing class found that silk pins, or dressmaker's pins, meet their needs very satisfactorily. These pins are made of steel or brass with a tin coating. There is less probability of rust marks on the fabric when the latter is used.

A tape measure meeting all standard may be purchased for ten cents. These standards are: 1. A metal tip at each end to prevent fraying. 2. Made of cloth. 3. Numbered on both sides with numbers going in the opposite directions.

Good scissors might make your sewing budget run a little high, as you cannot get good steel very cheaply. Scissors made of good steel may be sharpened, and those made of poor steel cannot. Scissors are less than six inches long. But, shears are more than six inches long and have different sized handles.

Perforations may be marked with tracing wheel and tracing paper, tailors' chalk, or tailors' tacks. If a tracing wheel is not available, a finger nail file will make a good substitute for marking pour perforations. — Submitted by Joyce Heaslett, Student Teacher, Vocational Home Economics, Montevallo High School.

New Hunting Reserve Opened by State

Montgomery, Ala. — Conservation Director Earl M. McGowin announced that permits are available to sportsmen wishing to hunt a new 25,900 acre public hunting area opened in Coosa County by an agreement between the state and three Alabama companies.

McGowin said permits for hunting small game for a period of one week or turkeys for two-day periods may be had on request from the Conservation Department.

The new hunting area, called the Coosa Management Area, has been placed under supervision of conservation officials by the Coosa River Newsprint Co., the Kaul Lumber Co., and the Alabama Power Co.

Its boundaries have been posted to prohibit hunting without a permit. Hunters allowed permits are asked to report the game taken from the area, the amount of game seen and other information which will aid game management. Future permits will have to be denied, McGowin said, if hunters do not cooperate and help collect the information needed.

Season dates open on the area in accordance with normal state regulations, and permits are available at the Conservation Department in Montgomery on request.

Game experts from the Conservation Department's Game and Fish Division have begun planting of food strips on the Coosa area. An attempt will be made to provide year round cover and food crops in the area, so that game stocks can increase or replenish themselves.

The three companies who donated game rights on the land agreed to have the area managed by the state, with the stipulation that hunting should be free to the public.

Helen Lawrence Howell Smith Wed

Miss Helen Virginia Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Lawrence, became the bride of Mr. Robert Howell Smith on Sunday, October 26, in the Methodist Church at Calera, Ala.

The ceremony was solemnized at mums and smilax. The Rev. Robmums an dsmilax. The Rev. Robert Westwood officiated.

Mrs. James Vance of Meridian, Miss., and Victor T. Young of Montevallo presented the nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of chantilly lace and satin. The bodice was fitted, and the long tight sleeves ended in a point over the fingers. The full skirt ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught to a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book topped with stephanotis and centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Nell Barnette served her sister as matron of honor. Wearing a floor length dress of green brocade taffeta, she carreid a French bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Patricia Lawrence, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Ann and Linda Jones, nieces of the groom, were flower girls. The bridesmaids were Miss Betty Smith, sister of the groom, and Miss Estelle Lawrence, cousin of the bride. They all wore gowns and mits of pink brocade of taffeta and carried French bouquets like that of the matron of honor.

Mrs. Lawrence, mother of the bride, wore a dress of grey crepe with pink accessories. Her corsage was a purple orchid. The bridegrooms mother, Mrs. Smith, was dressed in navy with matchnig accessories. She also wore an orchid corsage.

Wayne Villadson served as best man. Ushers were Wallace C. Lawrence of Aiken, S. C., Billy Joe Lawrence of Gadsden and Leroy Anthony of Calera.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Lawrence. The color scheme of green and white was used in the dining room and the bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white flowres. Mrs. D. E. Day served the cake, and Mrs. F. E. Lawrence poured punch. Assisting in the dining room were Mesdames Tommy Baker, Johnnie Farrington, O. E. Eddings, Marion Jones, Elwood Armstrong, Frances Anthony, and Misses Jackie Dement, and Ruth Armstrong. Mrs. D. M. Corroll registered the guests.

The bride wore a teal blue suit with navy accessories for her wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains. Upon their return, the couple will be at home in Birmingham.

Hunting Season Opened Oct. 15

Montgomery, Ala., — The off-cial season for taking of rabbits throughout the state and squirrels north of U. S. Highway 80 opened Oct. 15 and the first half of the split dove season for 1952 opened Oct. 17 at 12 noon.

Conservation Director Earl M. McGowin urged hunters to use care in their shooting and in handling of fire i nthe woods of the state. With the arrival of the hunting seasons each year the number of accidental forest fires jumps rapidly.

Also, hunting accidents and accidential shootings associated with hunting trips annaully take the lives of several persons in the state.

The director said the danger of having large areas of our forest destroyed is great dur ng the hunting season because the fall usually is one of the dryest periods of the year.

McGowin asked hunters to be careful of their cigerattes and camp or warming fires and not to use fires to smoke out game.

Bicolor Lespedeza, the perennial legume used for quail food and shelter, is ready for seed harvest. If the seed is not to be harvested, it will fall to the ground later on this winter to provide late winter and early spring food.

Working cooperatively with the State Department of Conservation and the North Central Soil Conservation District, the Future Farmer Chapters of Columbiana, Vincent, Montevallo and Siluria are planting 134 pounds of seed and 10,000 plants of bicolor this year.

Montevallo F. F. A. chapter is going to make a model conservation farm of the Woolley farm on the Siluria highway. The application has been singed for SCS assistance in planning. The fifty pounds of "Alabama" reseeding crimson clover loaned to the chapter by the district will be planted on this farm.

SHELBY REPORTS 14 DEATHS FROM HEART DISEASE

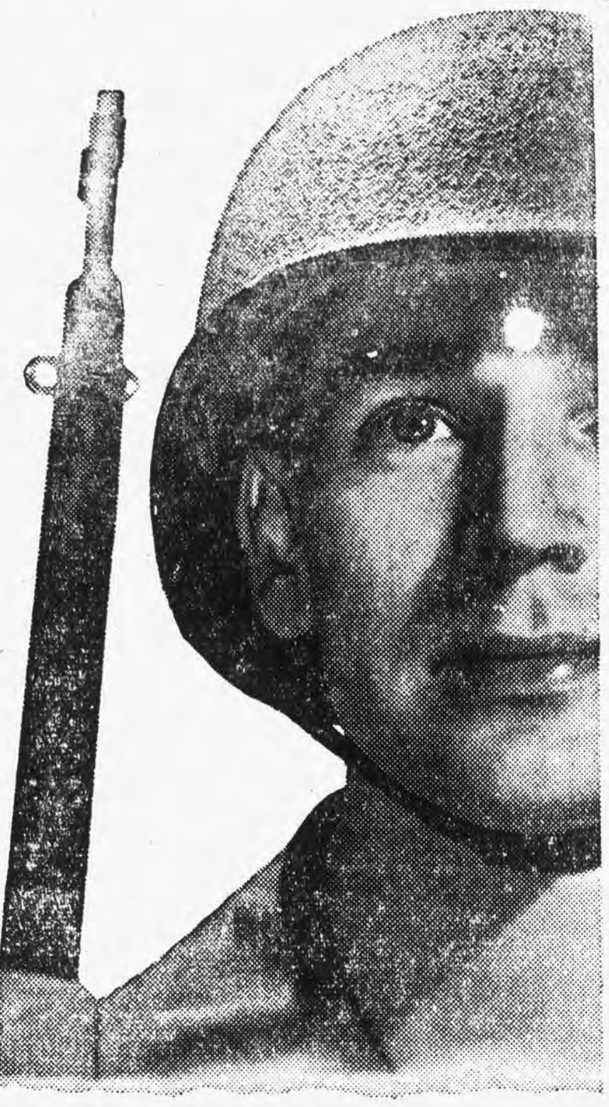

Montgomery, Ala. — Each of the 67 counties contributed to the state's total of 2,057 heart disease deaths reported in April, May and June, the State Department of Health announced today. Shelby County's contribution was 14.

The State Health Department announcement pointed out that it was based upon provisional reports prepared by the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics. These may differ slightly from the final reports not yet available.

Heart disease has long been the most fatal form of illness by far, not only in Alabama but throughout the country.

"WE'RE RICH", SAYS HARRY

In case you are disturbed at reports that small loans, the kind that worried husbands make to pay for food the family has already eaten, or for taxes on the salary they alraedy spent, increased over $150,000,000 last August, think nothing of it. The U.S. owes $264 billions, and Senator Wright Patman, (Dem.) of Texas told a bankers' meeting in Des Moines, Ia., that it "will probably never be paid."

"This is a stratling statement," he said, "but I do not believe that anyone should be disturbed by it. The fact is, our expanded economy needs this additional credit."

So relax! Our family economy has expanded too. And certainly most of us need that additional credit.

Who says we can't spend ourselves rich?

WHO DO THEY MEAN?

It is pretty difficult to think of anything more cynical or more decadent than a national administration that seeks to perpetuate itself in power by means of such slogans as "Don't Let Them Take It Awey," and "You Never Had It So Good."

What do Truman & Co. take us for? Plainly, they take us for a lot of self-centered, spoiled brats. The appeal is to me-and-mine, to a childish detremination to hang onto our lolly-pop today if it kills us of colic tomorrow.

There is no place under such slogans for a patriotic though, a generous thought or an adult thought. They need only one more "Gimme, Gimme, Gimme."

Ringing slogans? Sure, they ring. But the Dealers have substituted a ten-cent store cash register for the Liberty Bell.

Thompson Defeats John Carroll 39-12

Thompson High celebrated its annual homecoming with a smashing 39-12 victory over the John Carroll Cavaliers of Birmingham at Buck Creek Stadium. Harris, Lacey, Davenport and Butler provided the punch in the backfield while Durbin, Patterson, Mooney, Ross, and Smitherman did yoeman work in the line.

The entire effort of the celebration this year was keyed to the purpose of purchasing a grand piano for the new auditorium. All home rooms in the school contributed to the queens race and to the food sales. Consequently, most of the purchase price for the piano has been realized, and another dream of the friends and students of this school is about to be realized.

The entire school participated in a parade during Friday afternoon when Miss Melba Jo Brannon, a senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burrel Brannon, reigned as Queen. The floats carried comic strip characters depicting presidential election episodes and ideas to arouse the citizenry to the importance of voting in the coming election.

Trucks for the floats were donated by the local business people.

Future Homemakers of Alabama Observe FHA Week Nov. 2 to 8

Governor Gordon Persons has proclaimed the week of November 2-8 as Future Homemakers of America Week in Alabama. Chapters of the Alabama Association, Future Homemakers of Aemriac are now observing this week as their very own.

The proclamation is as follows:

Whereas, the Alabama Association, Future Homemarkers of America is a youth organization for pupils studying home economics in high schools of Alabama; and

Whereas, the Future Homemakers of America is an organization which is an integral part of the home economics education program in the Alabama public schools and is sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education; and

Whereas, there are more than 21,000 girls enrolled in homemaking classes in Alabama; and

Whereas, these high school girls are learning to be homemakers and better citizens of their community, State and Nation; and

Whereas, the success of the home influences the progress of our State and Nation:

Now, therefore, I, Gordon Persons, Governor of Alabama do hereby join with other governors in the United States, and proclaim the week of November 2-8, 1952, as Future Homemakers of America Week.

The various types of programs and activities which chapters have planned for this week include:

Sunday, Church Day when members will make church a special occasion; Monday, publicity day as a time the chapter will use every publicity medium of their school to announce FHA Week and interpret their organization to the public; Tuesday, community day with chapter members offering their services to needy individuals and worthy charitable or civic groups; Wednesday, school day when chapters will present skits, the emblem service or other entertainments at school assemblies; Thursday, family day with every member planning her own family fun night; Friday, fun day, a day of parties and entertainments for chapter members; and Saturday, fun-d day when ingenious means will be used to raise money for chapter projects.

How Can I Improve My Appearance? Junior Homemaking Class Girls Answers

"How can I improve my appearance?" This is the question that members of the class of Junior III Homemaking have been asking themselves for the past two weeks in their study of Personal Appearance. They learned new "beauty hints" and aids which, if used, can help any girl make herself more attractive.

If you feel that your appearance needs "renovating," try these 'aids' which we pass on to you:

The most important thing is to know and acquire the attributes of an attractive person — they are, briefly: Good health, Personal cleanliness, Clear skin and appropriate make-up; Well cared for hands, feet, and legs; Healthy hair that is becomingly arranged; Clean, healthy teeth; Clear and sparkling eyes; Good posture, Well selected clothes, and a sparkle or radiance from within.

A review of the common health habits will give an understanding of the factors which contribute to good health.

A knowledge of what is involved in being completely clean both "within" and "without," and its effect on appearance should be given careful thought.

In working toward a clear, and smooth skin, analyze your skin conditions; if there are defects, learn the causes of them and give the skin the proper treatment. In applying make-up use the right amount which will give your face a nice, natural color.

Your hands are a vital part of you, so give them the care they need, manicure nails properly, over come nail troubles, and practice graceful hand movements.

To give your hair the adequate care, keep it brushed, massage to stimulate circulation, and shampoo regularly. Wear hair arranged becomingly to fit the individual shaped face.

When you begin to think about your feet as an "aid to beeuty," remember, "You are as young as your feet." Give them the deserved proper care, and wear shoes that are comfortable and correctly fitted.

By understanding the importance of proper posture you will become more conscious of your standing, walking, and sitting positions.

Your figure — whether tall and and slim, or short and stout — determines your style of clothes and the colors you should wear. When selecting colors to wear choose those which best suit your personal coloring.

Try these aids to beauty, plus a gleam and radiance from within, notice the after-effects, and you will discover a "NEW LOOK."

"My Heart's In The Highlands" Friday, November 21 at 8 p. m.

"My Heart's in the Highlands" has been called a "poetic caprice" that needs no more explanation than does food or drink. "It is one of the simplest, and one of the best of the author's works. Its theme is life—the mere living—built around a fable of a fond but decidedly third rate poet-father and his hero-worshipping little boy. The struggling poet and his starving family are not only undefeated by poverty; they are practically indifferent to it. Life, whatever it may mean, is accepted without question, without rancor. People are innately good and kind; there is new and everlasting beauty in the world that will survive even the terrible war threatening to destroy its vitals. The play is dedicated: To the pure in heart; To the poet in the world; To the lowly and great, whose lines are poetry; To the child grown old, and the child of childhood; To the heart in the highlands.

The public is invited.

The cast of characters is as follows:

M.H.S. Homecoming Friday Night

The Annual Montevallo High School Homecoming game will be played tonight at the local field with Calera.

Beginnin gFriday at 1:30 there will be a parade leaving the elementary school building going down through town, and while in town there will be a pep rally led by the cheerleaders in front of the Strand Theatre.

The game will begin at 7:30. Miss Ann Cox, homecoming queen, will be crowned at the dance after the game in the High School Auditorium.

Business Study Is Popular Course At Thompson High

An electric typewriter and a 4-drawer file cabinet is being added to the present equipment in the business department at Thompson High School.

Enrollment in this department of the school includes 31 per cent of the stuednts in the high school.

A number of the students taking business courses belong to the Future Business Leaders of America Club whose President is Jerry Bishop, a senior. This club sponsors projects in banking, school scrapbook, and career choices, a series of career meetings when visiting speakers from various occupations appear before the group to give information the students desire.

Dr. R. H. Johnson, Principal, has said that the physical arrangement of the department will be remodeled as soon as feasible in order that the plan for courses will more nearly duplicate actual business procedure.

The nearness of the school to the city of Birmingham is one of the reasons the business course offerings of the school are popular with the students.

Mrs. Henry W. Peete is head of this department.

The visiting minister at the morning services at the Montevallo Presbyterian Church will be Dr. John R. McMahon of Wetumpka.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hamilton of Birmingham were visitors in Montevallo Tuesday. Their main purpose was to vote, but they took occasion to make a few pop-calls on several of their friends while here.

John Mason Brown, Noted Lecturer At Alabama College November 13

John Mason Brown, noted lecturer, author, and drama critic, will appear at Alabama College, Thursday evening, November 13, as second attraction of the 1952-53 Concert and Lecture Series.

A speaker of rare wit, Mr. Brown, who is an associate editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, will speak at 8 p.m. from the stage of Palmer Auditorium.

One of America's most popular lecturers, John Mason Brown is also widely known for his numerous books and his regular column in the Saturday Review of Literature. His books, "Seeing Things", "Seeing More Things," and "Still Seeing Things," are compilations of these articles. Another recent Brown best-seller is "Morning Faces", his gay and perceptive stories of his two young sons. Also noted for his books on theatrical history, the drama expert is author of "The Modern Theatre in Revolt."

A native of Louisville, Kentucky, John Mason Brown began his career on the staff of the Louisville Courier-Journal and was graduated cum laude from Harvard University.

He studied at the Bake Workshop at Harvard and after graduation became associate editor of Theatre Arts Monthly, later becoming drama critic of the New York Post and New York World-Telegram.

During World War II Brown went into the Navy, and drawing upon his talents as actor and critic, he created a new kind of battle serivce as radio interpreter of the events of the invasion to the ship's crew. He must have performed this task well for out of it came two books, "To All Hands," and "Many A Watchful Night."

Featured popularly over New York radio and television networks, John Mason Brown, an interpreter of human drama, has had his success attributed to his "communication of ideas of genuine importance in a style that is witty and graceful."

It has also been said of John Mason Brown that since the age of nine, when he saw Robert Mantell's "King Lear," he has been one of the country's most violently stage-struck individuals. From that day he planned and prepared himself for work in the theatre, until now one of his fellow critics says, "John Mason Brown is the only one really trained for the job. The rest of us are just interested in the theatre."

Following Brown's lecture on Thursday, November 13, other events of the Concert and Lecture Series at Alabama College will be appearances of Herbert Levinson, concert master with the Birmingham Symphony; Gary Grafman, outstanding young pianist; and Jose Limon, with his South American modern dance team.

Physical Education Specialists From Six Counties Meet At Alabama College

More than 100 school administrators and physical education instructors from six counties met on the campus of Alabama College this week for a special school of instruction in physical education and recreation.

Visiting consultant for the one-day school of instruction, directed by Dr. Margaret McCall, head of the physical education department of Alabama College, was Simon McNeely, specialist in physical education from the United States office of education.

Meeting on the Montevallo campus Tuesday, physical educators from six counties, Autauga, Bibb, Chilton, Coosa, Shelby, and Jefferson, saw demonstrations of physical education programs for grades one through twelve, heard panel discussions of problems in physical education in Alabama, and were taken on a guided tour of the campus, including a visit to the college's new 28 acre lake.

Opening with a welcome address by Dr. F. Edward Lund, Alabama College president, the morning program at the college Field House was devoted to an instructional period in physical education in the elementary schools of Alabama, while the afternoon session was centered chiefly around physical education in Alabama's high schools.

Visiting demonstrators were: Mrs. R. H. Johnson, Thompson School, Siluria, who demonstrated teaching in first and second grades; a demonstration by the fourth and fifth grades of the Alabama College Laboratory School; Mrs. Barbara H. Barron, instructor in physical education at Woodlawn High School, Birmingham, who presented a demonstration of a class in physical education for girls; and Mr. Jesse Meeks, of Shades Valley High School, Homewood, who directed a demonstration of tumbling and self-testing activities for high school boys.

A panel discussion of problems in physical education confronting the elementary schools of Alabama was led by Miss Anita King, Shelby County Supervisor of instruction.

Members of her panel were Simon McNeely, U. S. office of Education; Miss Katherine Farrah, Supervisor of Music, Alabama College Laboratory School; Robert C. Brown, Superintendent of Education, Bibb County; Miss Elizabeth Mays, principal of elementary school, Vincent; James H. Boockholdt, Superintendent of Education, Chilton County; Mrs. Vertie Mae Langston, Jemison; Dr. M. L. Orr, head, Department of Education, Alabama College; and Mrs. R. H. Johnson, Thompson School, Siluria.

During the afternoon session another panel discussed, problems in physical education confronting Alabama's secondary schools. Led by Miss Rebecca Behannon, supervisor of health, and recreation at Alabama College Laboratory School, the panel members were: Simon McNeely; S. H. Hurt, Director, Alabama College Laboratory School; Mrs. Wilbur Kaley, Jefferson P.T.A. Council president; I. F. Simmons, Superintendent of Education, Jefferson County; Sellers Stough, principal of Phillips High School, Birmingham, Miss Jimmie Houlton, girls' physical education instructor, Shades Valley High School, Birmingham, and Jesse Meeks, Shades Valley High School.

Safety Is Urged By Sgt. O'Gwynn

"The Pedestrian is usually at fault when an accident occurs," warned Sgt. Charles E. O'gwynn, at the 4-H Council meeting Saturday.

He also emphasized, "The pedestrian should carry a light or at least a white handkerchief in his hand when he walks on the highway at night. Always walk on the left side of the road facing traffic. Be sure the road or street is clear before crossing."

Sgt. O'gwynn also showed a picture on highway safety.

Thirty-five 4-Hers and Adult leaders from 17 4-H Clubs were present. Preliminary plans were made for the annual rally to be held on Friday, April 10, the program to be a talent show by clubs. Adult leaders will be recognized the first week in March, during National 4-H Week.

W. M. Clark talked to the gorup on "Being a good 4-H Officer" and Elizabeth Collins directed the singing, accompanied by Mrs. Coy Stone at the piano.

After refreshments the girls and leaders were trained to give the November and December demonstration "Toys for Tots" and "Sandra Makes Fudge."

Present were: Helen Harrison, Helen Kaplan, Brenda Brown, Myra Bentley, Helen Salster, Lucretia Owens, Peggy Cobb, Mrs. Coy Stone, Columbiana; Eva Jean McQueen, Mary Evelyn Stamps, Jane Mooney, Marie Wooten, Drennen Wyatt, Tim Ross, Mrs. Lula Shirley, Camp Branch; Mrs. J. R. Martin, Bamford; Jeanette Posey, Ann Farris, Sue Nolen, Hariet Posey, Halsa Mathis, Martha Johnson, Iris Helen Martin, Siluria; Blair Mabry, Dave Thomas, Billy Hall, Mrs. R. J. ALABAMA'S PARKS AND FISHING LAKES

Montgomery, Ala.,—State Parks Chief James Segrest said today that 1,773,578 people visited Alabama's parks and public fishing lakes during the fiscal year 1951-52 which ended Sept. 30.

Segrest said this figure was an increase of more than 300,000 visitors above the total park and lake attraction last year. Of the persons served by the 14 state parks and 10 public fishing lakes, 1,586,-276 were residents of Alabama and 187,302 were tourists from other states.

Gulf State Park was the favorite during the year with 469, 818 visitors. Marion County Lake was most popular of the public fishing spots with a total of 104,200 visitors.

The State opened two new public lakes, Spiegner Lake and Marengo Lake, in July 1952. Spiegner had a total of 13,644 visitors and Marengo County Lake had 5,730.

The greater use of the state park and lake facilities during the past year was attributed principaly to better access reads and better roads inside the areas. An effort is being made by the Conservation and Highway Departments to make all the possible recreation areas accessible to the public.

VETERANS' COLUMN
STATE DEPT. OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By E. J. Sullivan

A wave of protest began sweeping the country last week when the Veterans' Administration announced that it plans to fire 2250 medical employees and close about 2800 VA hospital beds in an effort to get within the budget for the 1953 fiscal year. As you may know, appropriations to the Veterans' Administration were reduced by $31,000,000 in the 1953 budget and the VA said that it was necessary to make this drastic reduction in order to absorbe this cut.

In addition to the drastic reduction in force, the VA previously had knocked off 25 per cent from travel expenses of medical employees, cut its central office department of medicine and surgery staff by 5 per cent, slashed a million dollars from funds available for hospital consultants and attending visits, cut home town fee basis doctor care by $1,000,000, reduced funds available for home town dentist out-patient care by nearly $5,000,000 and discontinued funds for 385 veteran patients from its contract hospital bed funds. At least there was one bright spot in the picture when plans to cut food and drugs for VA hospital by 2 and one-half million dollars were cancelled. The four major Veterans' organizations, the American Legion, V. F. W., Disabled American Veterans and Amvets, were quick to denounce the move to reduce medical service to veterans. We find that almost 2100 beds will remain empty through the fiscal year 1953 because funds are not available to operate them. At the present time, the average daily patient load in VA hospitals all over the country is 102,000 but after the reduction goes into effect, the average daily patient load will be only 99,200. Of course we all know that it is a pretty tough job trying to get into the hospital at the present time if you don't have a service-connected disability and if your condition is not considered an emergency. It's only natural after the next six months, it will become more difficult to get medical treatment from the VA. If Congress does not make a supplemental appropriation to off set the budget cut, some hospitals will have to be closed, so says the Medical Advisory Council of the Veterans' Administration.

Children Home Board Urges Support

The Board of Directors of the Methodist Children's Home at Selma sent out an urgent call to Methodists in both Conferences when they met Wednesday at the Home. The financial situation of the Home was reviewed, and needs for the coming year studied. The Treasurer, R. N. Burson, Selma, presented the Auditor's Report, rendered by Aldridge, Borden, and Jones, Montgomer. This report indicated that the books of the Home were in good order, and all funds properly accounted for. Current balances in General and Building Funds may be sufficient, Burson said, to operate the Home until December 15. It may be necessary to borrow money, depending on how rapidly the current building project moves on. George P. Turner, architect, Birmingham, indicated that the two new homes now under construction may be completed as early as January 1, 1953.

Considerable discussion was given to the serious financial problem posed by a current proposal to divide the White Christmas offering in the North Alabama Conference. The Board expressed itself as being deeply concerned by a move to divide the offering. It was the general feeling that such a move would be disastrous to the future progress of the Home, that it would mean not only a curtailment in the number of children served; but it might actually be necessary to let facilities now being used for the care of children to stand idle.

Authority was given to transfer a ten acre tract to the Home For The Aged Trustees, to replace a ten acre tract recently condemned to provied a right of way for U. S. Highway 80.

Authority was also given the Exectuive Committee to select a site for an elementary school and to sell such a tract to the Board of Education of the City of Selma.

The architect, George P. Turner, Birmingham, Ala., was instructed to draw up further plans and estimates on the remodeling of the old administration building, erected in 1905 for a Boy's Military School. The Methodist Children's Home bought the building and occupied it in 1911. Forty years later, in 1951 it became no longer necessary to house children in the old quarters in this old main building. Eight new homes have been built and occupied since 1948 and two more new buildings are under construction ready to be occuiped on January 1, 1953.

The following officers were elected: K. E. Cooper, Birmingham, chairman; O. H. Delchamps, Mobile, vice chairman; Mrs. W. T. Morgan, secretary, and R. N. Burson, treasurer, of Selma. J. E. Wilkinson, Chris Heinz and Mrs. W. T. Morgan, Selma, were elected to serve as the Executive Committee. Max Livingston, superintendent and Hilda M. Livingston, associate superintendent, were re-elected for their fifth year.

Those present from Montevallo were Rev. and Mrs. M. L. Triplett.

One of the most exciting events of Mobile's brief history occurred in 1704 when The Pelican, a supply ship put in from France, with livestock, food, various kinds of merchandise, a number of soldiers, Catholic missionaries, and 23 girls. The girls had come to marry 23 men from among the settlers.

Miss Rebecca Grady, of Washington, D. C., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Emma Grady, and family this week.

National 4-H Club Day November 8

National 4-H Club Day will be observed Saturday, November 8. All Shelby County 4-H Clubs have been asked to observe this day by reporting good individual projetcs, sponsoring tours to good projects, use the theme "Serving As Loyal Citizens Through 4-H," window displays and exhibits highlighting 4-H project achievements.

Charles F. Brannon, secretary of agriculture has issued this proclamation. "Congratulations as you observe National 4-H Achievement Day, November 8. You, your parents, your local leaders and your communities can take pride in your 1952 accomplishments which are to be recognized on that day.

We in the Department of Agriculture know that you have invested hard work, continued effort, and much study in your 4-H projects and other 4-H activities. We are very proud of you who could and did complete your projects. We recognize that disappointments and disasters beyond our control, such as drought and flood, have hindered some of you this year. We are equally proud of you who tried so hard and gallantly in the face of these disappointments. In trying, you have used and improved your Head, Heart, Hands, and Health in the best 4-H tradition.

Your theme for the year 'Serving as loyal citizens trough 4-H,' is a new reminder of the fine training for citizenship which your program provides and the contribution it makes to well-informed, willing, and capable leadership for our country's future.

May the observance of National 4-H Achievement Day this year bring you new inspiration for the important work before you."

Thompson School Adopts New Plan

The course of study here has been enriched by the addition of an overflow period from the lunch break when students literally absorb all the facilities of the school in meeting for special interests. These groups cut across age and grade line and the only requirement is interest in the particular phase of work the group has chosen.

At present there are groups functioning in music, dramatics, and costume designing, art, various crafts including leather, several forms of recreational participation, and reading for pleasure.

Other groups will form during the year as students desire or need them. There is an unwritten law at this period that no student may study. There are a few students who find that they need rest at that time, students who do part-time work in the school, or after school hours.

The administration feels that this movement in the school is exemplary for much student enthusiasm for the plan has been shown.

Women's Clubs Make Tour of Homes

Shelby County Home Demonstration Clubs will make a tour of improved homes, have lunch, a short achievement day program and tea on Thursday, November 13.

The day's activities will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the C. M. Fowler home, Columbiana. The second stop will be the Barney Isbell's kitchen, the the P. A. Garret home, West Calera, the John Sample and Sam Knowles Homes, Spring Creek-Valley Grove. Lunch and program will be at the Spring Creek Presbyterian Church. The next stop is the new Albert Scott home. The last stop is that of the W. A. Jones remodelled home, Ebenezer, where you will b eentertained at tea.

Champion Typist To Give Lecture

Mr. George Hossfield of New York City, former world champion typist, will give a lecture-demonstration on typing in Comer Auditorium at 9 a.m. Wednesday morning, November 12.

Mr. Hossfield has won ten world championships in typing and has made a number of moving pictures demonstrating typing skill and speed. His demonstrations are extremely interesting to all people, whether they are typists or not.

The demonstration will be open to the public.

	$1,950.00

*An additional amount of $200.00 was added to the welfare fund to take care of immediate needs before funds from annual drives were collected, making total of $1,000.00 for the welfare program.

Mr. S. H. Hurt, Vice President of the Montevallo Community Chest Board, served as Chairman of the 1951-52 drive. The drive netted $2,067.02, of which $1,622.67 was cash and $444.35 was pledged. To date $2,009.87 has been collected with unpaid pledges amounting to $57.15. Mr. Stanley Mahan served as Treasurer for the Community Chest. Attached to this report is an operating statement for the year.

The following is a list of each agency that participated in the program:

Welfare — The welfare program of the Community Chest has been under the supervision of Mrs. Whatley of the Social Welfare Department of Alabama College. This agency received $1,000.00 for the year and has a balance of $220.83. The following amounts were paid through the welfare fund:

School lunches (white) (for Nov., Dec., Jan., and Feb.)	$ 333.00
Clothing (children)	237.06
Medical Supplies	25.00
School Lunches (negro)	184.11
	$ 779.17

Negro Schools — The Board decided that the allocation of $200.00 should be evenly divided between the Almont Elementary School and the Montevallo Nego High School and in addition both schools would receive 75 per cent of all funds collected in their drive. The high school received $44.70 which represented 75 per cent of the $59.60 they collected and the Almont School received $8.85 which was 75 per cent of $11.80 they collected. In addition to this the Almont School received $18.43 which represented the balance remaining from their 1950-51 budget. The expenditures for the negro schools are as follows:

Montevallo Negro High School

Shades for six windows	$ 132.25
Flag pole and stand spear	12.36
	$ 144.61

Almont Elementary School

Library books	$ 51.95
School Supplies	58.30
Instructional Supplies	16.01
	$ 126.26

Girl Scouts — The Girl Scouts requested and received $250.00 for their program.

Boy Scouts — The Boy Scout officials requested and received $200.00 for the promotion of their program.

High School Band — The High School Band requested and received $150.00. This amount was used to replace a trombone for the band.

Montevallo Elementary School — The Montevallo Elementary School requested $150.00 and received $100.00. This amount was used to purchase a film strip machine.

Operation — The Board allocated $50.00 for operation costs of the Community Chest. The following amounts were paid out for operational cost:

Stamps	$ 6.60
Posters	2.10
Printing	37.30
	$ 46.00

The 1951-52 Montevallo Community Chest Board would like to submit the following recommendations:

"All the money which became available could have been expended to good effect, but the Board has thought it wise to reserve a portion. Having received about $500.00 from the preceding board, we are transmitting a like amount to the board which shall follow. To succeeding boards, and to the Assembly, we recommend the practice of maintaining a reserve. Only by doing this could an unexpected increase in need or an unforseen emergency be readily met. The transmission of such a reserve enables an incoming board to operate on a cash basis while the annual drive is being conducted.

Respectfully submitted
T. E. WATSON, Chairman

Community Chest Drive Starts Tuesday, Nov. 18

The annual Montevallo Community Chest Drive for funds to conduct chest program during the 1952-53 year will begin Tuesday, November 18, according to Mr. Harold Anthony who is chairman of the drive this year.

Members of the Chest Board are: T. E. Watson, Chairman; Harold Anthony, Vice Chairman; Mrs. M. L. Triplett, Secretary; Hobart Vernon, Dr. Charles Gormley, Mrs. Leslie Hubbard, Mrs. Mary Whatley, Guy Milford, and Mrs. Paul Rogan. Mr. S. M. Mahan is treasurer.

The budget for the coming year has been established by the chest board after hearing the request of the various agencies which have expressed a desire to participate in the drive this year. The 1952-53 budget is:

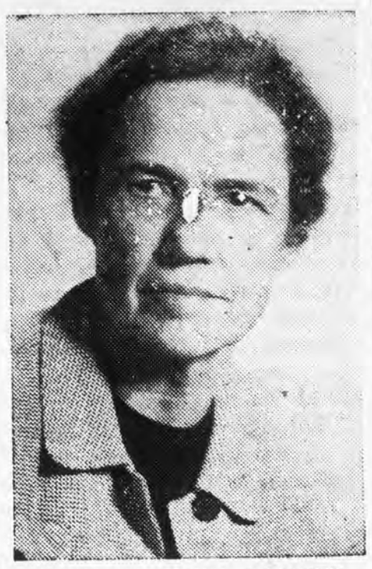

Girl Scouts, $150; Boy Scouts, $250; Negro Schools, $200; Elementary School, $150; High School Band, $150; Welfare, $1,050; Operating Expense, $50; and the total is $2,000.

Study Club Bridge Party Friday Night

Mrs. Frank Morgan, chairman of arrangements for the Benefit Bridge Party to be given by the Montevallo Study Club Friday night at Reynolds Hall, announces that reservations have been made for fifteen tables of bridge and canasta. Tickets are still available for both bridge and canasta and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. T. E. Watson.

A special feature of the party this year will be prizes of home-cooked delicacies made from recipes in the Study Club Cook Book which will be given for high score and for bingo. The cook books will be on sale at the party at $1.00 each for anyone who might wish to buy them.

The games will begin promptly at 8:00 p.m.

MRS. VIRGINIA BARNES

Faculty Members Exhibit Paintings

Two faculty members at Alabama College have paintings on exhibit in the current Jury Show of the Alabama Art League at the Montgomery Museum of Fine Arts.

Mrs. Virgina Barnes, Associate Professor of Art at Alabama College, has her painting, "Rooster", on display. "Chairs," by Miss Elizabeth Stockton, Alabama College Associate Professor of Foreign Languages, is also on exhibition at the Alabama Art League Jury Show.

Miss Stockton received her B.S. and M.A. degress from the University of Missouri, and has been a member of the Alabama College faculty since 1929. She has traveled extensively in Europe and Mexico.

A graduate of Alabama College, Mrs. Barnes received her Masters Degree from Columbia University with further study at the Hans Hofmann School of Fine Arts in New York. She has been a member of the faculty for thirteen years.

Mrs. Barnes was a member of the Jury which selected paintings for the Alabama Art League Jury Show.

Paintings will be on exhibit at the Montgomery Museum of Fine Arts all this month.

Call For Blood On November 24

The second call to duty is sounded to the citizens of this community by the coming of the Bloodmobile to Alabama College on November 24.

It will be at Tutwiler Hall for the public 11 to 12 a.m. and 1:00 to 2:15 p.m. For Alabama College students the hours will be 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Blood is desperately needed. Shelby County will be unable to meet the quota this year because jaundice on the east side of the county made it necessary to cancel visits to Vincent and Chelsea.

The Bloodmobile will not be back to Montevallo again until March 13, 1953. We believe many citizens want to give all they can for the boys in Korea, as well as for their own neighbors. If you can possibly come between 11:00 and 12:00 a.m. or 1:00 and 2:15 p.m., November 24, please do so. To help us to avoid bottlenecks:

Sign up in one of the following places: Mahan's Barber Shop, Alabama Power Company, Montevallo Times Office.

Or send a postal card to Mr. M. S. McGehee, Alabama Power Company, Montevallo, stating which hour you will come. Give name, address and telephone number.

We need 75 people from Montevallo between 11:00 and 12:00 a.m. and 1:30 and 2:15 p.m. The College girls have signed up for the rest of the day.

Please do not fail us. — Laura Hadley, County Chairman; M. S. McGehee, Montevallo, Chairman; Paul Bailey, Alabama College Sponsor.

Give A Book Buy A Book

Do you like who-dun-its? novels? biographies? Do you want to give a book for Christmas?

Come then to the book sale held by the Montevallo Business and Professional Women's Club, Wednesday afternoon, November 19 from 2:30 to 6:00 in Reynolds Hall dining room, and Thursday night, November 20 from 4 to 6 p.m., at the Town Hall.

The Business and Professional Women's Club is sponsoring the new Driving School which is a great success, but in spite of the generous help given by individuals and businesses in town, insurance and garage bills must be met!

Come, then, and help us out: give us books which you have enjoyed so someone else can enjoy them too; buy a book to pass a chilly evening at home or to give as a gift to someone who likes to read.

If you have books to give, call a member of the committee who will collect them: Mrs. Madge Carpenter, Mrs. Mildred Doyle, or Miss Josephine F. Eddy.

Dr. and Mrs. Leslie H. Hubbard announce the birth of a daughter, Nora Ann, on Saturday, November 8, at St. Vincent's Hospital in Birmingham. Mrs. Hubbard and little daughter returned home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Crisswell and baby, Roy Glenn, of Birmingham, visited their parents here Monday.

Get Out Vote For Christmas Seals

Now comes the time to get out vote for Christmas Seals and the fight against tuberculosis, announced Mr. R. J. Ozley, president of the Shelby County Tuberculosis Association.

The message of the Christmas Seal, how it has been fighting TB for 46 years, will be spread wide throughout Shelby County beginning next week.

Monday is the day millions of Seals will find their way into the homes all over Alabama.

The design of the 1952 Christmas Seal is a simple one. It features a glowing candle in an old-fashioned, brass candleholder, the glow of the candle reflecting on the red double-barred cross which has become the tarditional insignia of the crusade against TB.

There are at least 10,000 known cases of tuberculosis in Alabama right now, and it is estimated by health authorities this number would be doubled if all cases were found.

Ninety-four cents of every dollar contributed in this annual drive stays in Alabama to fight the disease at home, while six cents supports the search for new drugs and new methods of attacking this killer on the national level.

Alabama rates at the bottom of all states in providing facilities to curb TB. More hospital beds, more trained medical personnel, and more money to treat victims are the outstanding needs.

Christmas Seals tell this story, and the money they bring in helps keep the problem before the people throughout the year.

Every Alabama county is active in this campaign. Leaders are out to make this the most successful Christmas Seal Sale in history.

Shelby County P-TA Meeting

The Shelby County Council of Parents and Teachers met at the Columbiana High School Tuesday, October 21 at 6:30 p.m.

A delicious dinner was served by the Columbiana P.T.A. under the direction of Mrs. G. C. Moore, Jr., Columbiana P.T.A president. The program was a panel discussion on The Relationship of the Council to the Local P.T.A. Council chairmen taking part were Mrs. N. E. Revis, membership, who also served as moderator, Mrs. W. T. Green, P.T.A. Magazine, Mrs. Elizabeth Batson, school beautification, Miss Anita King, Parent Education and Mrs. Homer Walton, health, who was assisted by Miss Dottie Walton, health nurse for the county. Local Parent-Teacher units were Calera, Camp Branch, Columbiana, Pelham, Montevallo, Siluria, Wilsonville and Vincent. School principals present were Mr. D. B. Smith, Vincent; Mr. L. F. Rogers, Columbiana; Mrs. Wilson Durden, Camp Branch and Mrs. Sara Walker, Pelham.

The next Council meeting will be in Siluria. Date to be announced later. — Mrs. Ross Mullins, Reporter.

Farm Suggestions

By A. A. Lauderdale
County Agent

Steps Needed to Improve Dairying

The year 1953 can be a banner one in the Alabama dairy business if herd owners will follow a few simple precautions, believes Pete Turnham, API Extension dairyman.

He said if cows are bred to bulls with a high production index and then placed on dairy herd improvement association tests to determine how much money they are returning monthly, a big step will be made in the right direltion, Once cows are on test they can be fed according to production, which in most cases means a saving to the dairymen.

"Therefore," urged Turnham, "put dairying in a sound basis in 1953 by breeding, feeding, testing, and growing replacements according to Extension Service recommendations."

Care of Farm Tractor During Winter Months

Even though tractors normally are only used for light work during winter, proper maintenance jobs on them should be done at regular times.

In fact, J. T. Gaillard, API Extension machinery specialist, says a tractor doing a very light job, such as pumping water or sawing wood, should be brought up to the operating temperature and kept there while running. This will prevent engine damage and save fuel.

Pasture Land

Now is the time to "clean up" pasture land and get the seedbed prepared for sedding in February or March. If lime is needed, it should be applied during land preparation. If land is turned this fall, clods pulverized, and land smoothed, the only preparation needed next spring will be to just freshen the crust with a section harrow or weeded just ahead of sowing the seed.

During the war years there was a familiar slogan, "The difficult we do immediately. The impossible takes a little longer." Shucks, the motto on my desk says, "The difficult we put off until tomorrow. The impossible we don't fool around with at all."

SCS Supervisors Hold Meeting

"Save our soil, save our nation, save it by soil conservation" is the theme of the 10th annual meeting of the Alabama Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors at the Whitley Hotel, Montgomery, November 13 and 14.

The program will include addreses by such well known personalities as R. Y. Bailey, P. O. Williams, J. C. Cannon, Donald Hastings, Congressman Albert Raines and Association president D. L. Yarbrough.

A tour of Montgomery for supervisors, their wives, and guests will include visits to the Capitol, Whitehouse of the Confederacy, Archives Building and the Cattle Coliseum.

Tour Of Farm Of Homer Jackson

The Homer Jacksons, senior and junior of Oakhaven farm, Wilsonville took visitors, and us, on a tour of that farm just before the showers ended our fall drought. We were surprised to find that there was still sufficient grazing to carry their large herds of Whiteface cattle.

Early planted oats and crimson clover, and Ky. 31, fescue and ladino were the two combinations being grazed now. A two and one-half acre planting of button clover is up to a fine stand, as is the large field of Chapel Hill Rescue grass and crmison clover.

One of the visitors, Roy Eastis, was particularly interested in the button clover. "I believe the Chapel Hill Rescue and button clover I have in combination on my farm will be the best winter grazing for our county."

Erperiences of these and many other District cooperators prove the great value of sericea for summer grazing, and reseeding, or as early planted small grains and legumes for winter grazing.

Miss Helen Hood, of Birmingham, spent last week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hood.

Now that America has developed a jet which will average over 600 miles an hour, the flight from Montgomery to Birmingham can be reduced to one hour and six minutes — six minutes for the flight and one hour for the trip to the airport.

Now all those political experts can go into hibernation for another three years and seven months.

Capt. Frazee To Address Students

Captain Mary E. Frazee, Women's Medical Specialist Corps, will address a group of students of Alabama College on Thursday, November 13th at 10 a.m.

Outlining commissioned opportunities offered in the Women's Medical Specialist Corps of the United States Army, Captain Frazee will explain the details leading to a rewarding career as a dietitian, physical therapist, or occupational therapist. The audience will receive information concerning the commissioned rank, eligibility, pay and advancement opportunities offered by the Army through it's WMSC program.

Captain Frazee is WMSC representative from the Military Personnel Procurement Division, Headquarters Third Army, and will conduct similar programs throughout the week November 10 to 15 at other Alabama schools of higher learning.

Commissioned in July 1945, Captain Frazee has served as physical therapist of various Army hospitals in the States and overseas. She is a native of Mt. Dora. Fla.

Bob Bruner Jasper Rotarian Is Candidate

One of Jasper's outstanding citizens will be run for the Rotary District 238 governorship at the statewide convention scheduled in Montgomery in January.

Bob Bruner, long active in Rotary and other civic work in Jasper will be presented as a candidate, the Jasper Rotary Club has announced.

Mr. Bruner, who is manager of the J. C. Penney Store here, has compiled an enviable record in Rotary. He first became a member of Rotary at Selma where he was connected with the Penney store. Later he served as president of the Selma club, was sergeant-at-arms and a member of the board of directors.

He came to Jasper in 1937, immediately became active in Rotary work and was named president in 1940. He has served five years as secretary of the local club and is now on the board of directors.

For 12 years he has not missed attending a Rotary club meeting weekly, and has attended practically all state conventions plus one internatiinal meeting in Cleveland.

A veteran, Mr. Bruner entered service in 1942 and was discharged three yeas later with the rank of major. He is active in civic affairs and has served as treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce and has been active in community chest drives and in church activities at the First Methodist Church here.

A native of Tennessee, he was born in Knoxville in 1903. Mr. Bruner was graduated from Knoxville high in 1921 and attended Emory University in Atlanta. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha.

Mr. Bruner is married to the former Miss Grace Jackson of Miami, Fla. He is the father of a daughter, who is married to a Rotarian. He has two grandsons.

NEW HIGH-COMPRESSION POWER!

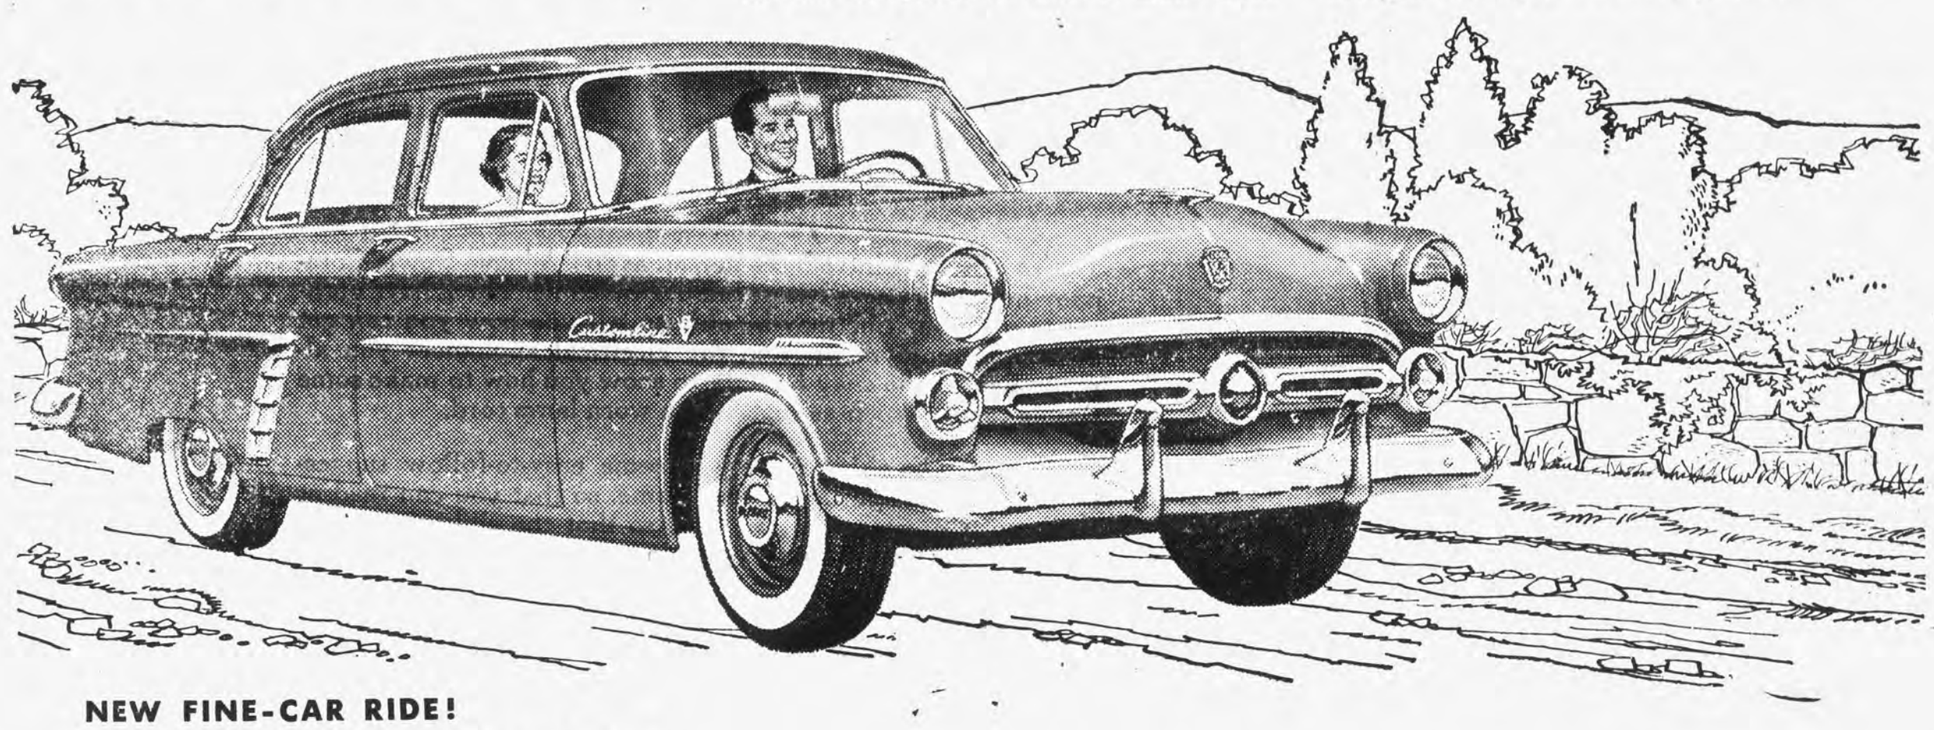

No other low-priced car has ever offered an engine to match the power of Ford's 110-h.p. Strato-Star V-8. Nor do they offer the modern high-compression, low-friction design of Ford's 101-h.p. Mileage Maker Six. And both engines have Ford's gas-saving Automatic Power Pilot.

MEET AMERICA'S LOWEST-PRICED V-8!

NO OTHER MAKER GIVES YOU SO MUCH CAR FOR YOUR MONEY!

Start with Ford's style. A glance will tell you that no other car, within hundreds of dollars, can match those sweeping lines . . . that smart, curved one-piece windshield. Then take comfort. No other low-priced car offers so much usable inside space. And don't forget power and ride. A "Test Drive" will show you that you'd have to go into a higher-priced bracket to match Ford in these departments. No, there's no doubt about it! Ford's your best car buy for '52!

NEW FINE-CAR RIDE!

"Test Drive" a '52 Ford out on any rough, rutted road . . . or try it on those tough curves that used to "throw" you. That's where Ford's Automatic Ride Control really shows its stuff. This "team" of new ride features levels bumps . . . cuts tilting on turns.

Navy Department Needs Typists

Miss Edythe Malcolm, Civilian Navy Representative of the Navy Department, Washington, D. C., is in Birmingham, Ala., for a limited time only, to interview stenographers and typists for positions with the Navy Department in Washington, D. C.

The positions are under the Federal Civil Service system and carry GS-3 and GS-4 Civil Service ratings with entrance salaries of $2950 and $3175 per year — salaries being based on a 40-hour work week.

Under the present regulations, vacations with pay are earned each year and 13 days sick leave with pay are earned yearly. The minimum age for employment is 18 years and the positions are available in Washington, D. C. only.

Qualification requirements for the positions include the ability to type 40 words and pass a general clerical test. Applicants for stenographic positions must be able to take dictation at the rate of 80 words a minute.

Interested applicants will be given full information regarding living conditions and recreational opportunities. The Navy Department will make accomodations and will assist in obtaining permanent housing for all applicants who are selected for employment.

Miss Malcolm is located at the Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Birmingham. Interviewing hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. For special appointments call 4-1741.

Speckled Trout Fishing Rodeo

Baldwin County's big fishing event, The Speckled Trout Rodeo, will be held November 20-29 this fall.

This 10 day fishing contest is conducted so that the visiting fishermen and fisherwomen have the same advantage as the local fellow who has fished Baldwin waters all his life.

Prizes are awarded each day for the largest (by length) fish caught. Four winners each day: Out of County Fisherman, Out of County Fisherwoman, Baldwin County Resident Fisherman and Baldwin County Resident Fisherwoman: receive a cottage for one week at South Baldwin's Gulf of Mexico Resort and a Rod and Reel. Outboard Motors are awarded for the largest fish caught during the rodeo and the grand prize is a 14 foot boat complete with 7.5 h.p. Outboard Motor.

There's fishing for all the family in safe waters, truly an ideal vacation made to order for the whole family.

The contest opens 5 a.m. November 20 and closes 2 p.m. November 29, 1952. Complete information and rodeo tickets are available at the Rodeo Headquarters, Gulf Shores, Alabama.

After having survived a yellow fever epidemic, the colony of Mobile was to be hit by an even more terrible disaster in March, 1711. The little settlement on Twenty-seven-mile Bluff found itself in the path of a terrible flood. The Mobile River became a raging torrent, swollen from the Alabama, Tombigbee, Coosa, Tallapoosa, and Black Warrior rivers. It forced settlers to leave their cabins to flee to the fort which was located on higher ground. Soon, however, the swirling waters lapped at the walls of the fort, and then poured inside. All belongings of the settlers were buried beneath the muddy torrent, or were swept away and rushed down to the sea.

Older People Increase Faster

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama's old people, those 65 years of age and older, increased more than 5 times as fast between 1900 and 1950 as the population as a whole.

The State Department of Health called attention today to a state-by-state tabulation prepared by the Federal Security Agency's Committee on aging and geriatrics, showing that this state's population increased during that half-century by 8.1 per cent. It also shows that this state's men and women above 64 had increased by 45.8 per cent. In the United States as a whole, the population increase amounted to 14.5 per cent during that time. The increase in those 65 and older in the entire country amounted to only 36.1 per cent, or only slightly more than twice the increase in the population as a whole.

Bid Her Welcome

WHEN she introduces herself as an Alabama Power Company home service advisor, bid her welcome. She'll have nothing to sell you. She may be able to tell you how you can get even more enjoyment from the electrical appliances you already have. She may be able to show you how to make some simple repair—such as replacing a worn lamp cord.

She may be able to give you some easy-to-follow suggestions about the lighting in your home, so that you can read or work with greater comfort. . . . so that the children can do their homework without eyestrain.

There is no charge for the services of our home service advisors. Well trained, capable women, their sole duty is to help our home customers get the most value from their electrical appliances and electric service.

A request to our nearest office will bring an early visit from one of them.

DAR Meeting Monday Night

David Lindsay, D. A. R., met on Monday night with Mrs. A. W. Vaughan, Mrs. W. H. Lyman, the Regent, presiding. The meeting was opened with the ritual, led by Mrs. B. F. Roden, and with the reading of the President General's message by Miss Annabeth Cash.

Reports from the recent Board meeting and dedication exercises at Kate Duncan Smith School were made by Mrs. T. H. Napier, Mrs. A. W. Vaughan, Mrs. C. G. Sharp, and Mrs. Lyman.

Miss Emma Dendy gave a most innteresting and instructive talk on "Historic Homes in Alabama", including King House, on the campus of Alabama College.

The hostess served a salad plate to each of the fifteen members present.

Randolph Gentry On U. S. Vessel

Far East (Delayed) — serving here aboard the ammunition ship USS Mount Katmai, is Rudolph P. Gentry, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Gentry of Route 1, Montevallo, Ala.

The fast-working crew of the Mount Katmai transfers the vital cargo of ammunition to combatant vessels while both ships are underway. To accomplish this, the ship must keep pace with battleships, cruisers, destroyers and aircraft carriers.

The Mount Katmai was the first ammunition ship to arrive in the Far East at the outbreak of Korean hostilities, and served for 17 months before returning to the United States.

She returned in April to begin her second tour of duty here.

24 Enrolled In Driver Training

The Montevallo Business and Professional Women's Club, sponsor of the Montevallo Driver Training school, reports an enrollment of 24 in the driving school for the first semester of the 1952-53 school year.

This program designed to train drivers of all ages in the safe operation of motor vehicles will be offered the second semester of the current school year. Anyone interested in registering for this training is urged to contact Mr. Sidney Seegers at the Montevallo High School.

Instruction includes classroom work as well as actual driving. All driving is done in a specially fitted dual control eqiupped automobile. Sidney Seegers, Montevallo High School supervisor of mathematics, is in charge of all driver training instruction.

The entire Montevallo community has contributed to the success of this progarm. Individual contributors include: Victor Scott, Jack Albright, J. A. Brown, Leslie Hubbard, M. L. Orr, Jr., and W. H. Trumbauer.

P-TA Meeting Panel Discussion

The Novemebr meeting of the Montevallo P.T.A. which met last week featured an interesting panel discussion of the Evaluation Committee's report of the Montevallo school.

The panel consisted of Miss Nona Sparks, Moderator and Elementary School supervisor; Mr. Guy Milford of the High School faculty, Mrs. Sara Phillips of the elementary school; Mrs. Alvin McGaughy and Mr. M. S. McGehee representing the parents of Montevallo.

The panel members discussed the School Community and the Educational Needs of Youth; how best the parents and teachers could meet the recommendations of the committee. The audience participated at the end of the discussion.

Arthur Garrett, P.T.A. president, announced the next months meeting which will be held December 2nd at 7:30 p.m. in the High School Auditorium. The program for that time will consist of another panel group.

Don't work salt and pepper into hamburger meat before the patties are cooked or you are likely to have meat that is too compact. Shape the patties lightly and then sprinkle them with salt and pepper as they are turned on the grill.

The Pelican, supply ship which brought the first white women to Alabama, also brought a less welcome guest, the dread yellow fever. Many settlers died from the disease, and others were sreiously ill for weeks.

The first rebellion ever staged in Alabama was led by women. The 23 women who had been brought to the new world to marry Mobile settlers revolted against eating cornbread.

The Housing Authority of the Town of Calera, Alabama, Calera, Alabama, will receive bids for furnishing all labor, materials, equipment and services required for the construction of Oliver Court Apartments, Rural Non-Farm Housing Project No. Ala. 85-1, Calera, Alabama, consisting of nineteen (19) dwelling buildings, containing thirty-eight (38) dwelling units, and one (1) management and maintenance building; and of Newton Apartments, Rural Non-Farm Housing Project No. Ala. 85-2, Calera, Alabama, consisting of two (2) dwelling buildings, containing six (6) dwelling units, until 2:00 p.m., C.S.T., on Dec. 9, 1952 at the office of The Housing Authority of the Town of Calera, Alabama, Calera, Alabama at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

102. Only bids submitted by Contractors licensed as required by Act 297 of The Alabama Legislature, entitled, "An Act to Regulate General Contracting", approved September 2, 1935, will be considered. Contractors' registration number to be included on his bid form.

103. Proposed forms of contract documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of The Housing Authority of the Town of Calera, Alabama, Calera, Alabama, and at the office of Minch, Kershaw, and Crump, Architects and Engineers, 230 S. Perry Street, Montgomery, Alabama. Copies of the documents may be obtained by depositing $50.00 with The Housing Authority of the Town of Calera, Alabama, for each set of documents so obtained. Such deposits will be refunded to each person who returns the plans, specifications and other documents in good condition within 10 days after bid opening.

104. A certified check or bank draft, payable to The Housing Authority of the Town of Calera, Alabama, U. S. Government bonds, or a satisfactory bid bond executed by the bidder and acceptable sureties in an amount equal to five percent (5%) of the bid shall be submitted with each bid.

105. The successful bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory performance and payment bond or bonds.

106. Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the specifications must be paid on this project.

107. The Housing Authority of the Town of Calera, Alabama, reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informalities in the bidding.

108. No bid shall be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days subsequent to the opening of bids without the consent of The Housing Authority of the Town of Calera, Alabama.

Solon E. McGraw Died At Vincent

Solon E. McGraw, Sr., widely known merchant and civic leader, died November 6 after a long illness.

Mr. McGraw, a lifelong resident of Vincent, was one of the founders of the McGraw Brothers general merchandise store in Vincent, and has been manager of the store many years.

He was a member of the Shelby County Board of Education, a former member of the Shelby County Board of Revenue and a former Mayor of Vincent, an office in which he served three terms.

He was a deacon in the Baptist Church and a member of Zamora Temple, Shrine.

Funeral services were held at 3:30 p.m., Friday at the Vincent Baptist Church. Burial was in Vincent Cemetery with Service Funeral Home of Sylacauga directinng.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Signa W. McGraw; a son, Solon E. McGraw, Jr., of Huntsville; two brothers, R. T. McGraw, Sr., Vincent, and L. E. McGraw, Eastland, Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Lucy M. Darden of Sylacauga, and Miss Mary McGraw of Vincent.

When Mobile was an infant settlement, the needs of livelihood were supplied in two ways. Indians brought in many of the things needed by the settlement, and trades were made. The rest of the needs were supplied from France, with supply ships from the motherland putting in at the harbor regularly.

I'm real glad they have finally made a movie out of "Ivanhoe". I'm sure there must be thousands of backward readers like myself who studied the famous novel in the eighth grade and who have always wondered how it ended.

Overnight attendance in the eight parks with cabins and other facilities for guests served a total of 59,659 persons during the past fiscal year. This compared with a total of 57,192 cabin guests last year.

Champion Typist Lectures Here

By 1962 at least 80 percent of the typewriters used by business will be electric typewriters, said George L. Hossfield, nationally known authority on typewriting methods and techniques and ten times winner of the World's Professional Typewriting Championship, at a meeting on the Alabama College campus at Montevallo this morning.

Mr. Hossfield spoke on "Modern training and teaching methods to develop typing skill" at the meeting which included secretarial science department faculty and students, neighboring high school students interested in typewriting and other visitors from surrounding districts. Though this director of Underwood Corporation's teachers advisory service is making a national educational lecture-demonstration tour of teacher training colleges and universities, this visit at Alabama College was the only scheduled stop in the state of Alabama.

At 14 years of age Mr. Hossfield entered a business school in Paterson, New Jersey and at the end of three months type 54 net words a minute in a 15 minute test. His first competitive typing resulted in winning the Eastern States Novice Championship, where after five and a half months of study, he wrote 75 net words a minute for 15 minutes. At the end of one year he won the World's Novice Championship with 98 net words a minute for 15 minutes, then Mr. Hossfield went on to take the World's Amateur Championship and the World's Professional Championship. He has the distinction of being the only one to have ever won the World's Professional Typewriting Championship ten times.

Cutting sweet corn off the cob for canning is made much easier by using a shoehorn instead of a knife. The wide end of the horn, which is sharpened, conforms to the curvature of the average ear of corn, making it easy to shear off the kernels.

In the early days of Alabama when Mobile was first being settled, smaller Indian tribes in the area were generally friendly. At times, Governor Bienville allowed some tribes to move near the fort where the whites gave them protection against Indian enemies. Included in this group were the Choctaws, and the Tensaws, who came from West of the Mississippi River.

AAUW Sponsors Belgian Countess

A. A. U. W. and the Alabama College International Relations Club are sponsoring an address by Contess D'Astremont Lynden on Monday, November 17, at 7:30 p.m. in Reynolds Hall. The Countess is from Blegium and is in this country through the courtesy of the Belgian Embassy.

She will speak on womens' ailments in her own land and their role in international affairs.

We feel that we have a rare opportunity to hear so colorful and able a personality. The college and community are invited.

The regular November meeting of A. A. U. W. will be on the 4th Tuesday as usual.

Miss Dorothy Perkins Named Secretary By Mr. Selden

Greensboro, Ala. — Miss Dorothy Perkins of Tuscaloosa, Red Cross worker and former teacher in the schools of her home town, has been named executive secretary to Armistead I. Selden, Jr., newly elected congressman from the Sixth Alabama Dsitrict.

In announcing the appointment of Miss Perkins to head up his office force in Washington, Mr. Selden said:

"I feel most fortunate in getting a person of Miss Perkins' ability, experience and background for this important job. She comes to me highly recommended, and I believe that she will serve the people of my district most effectively. Her personnel experience with the Red Cross especially equips her for this position."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Herbert Perkins, of Tuscaloosa, she was born and reared in the Druid City. She attended the Tuscaloosa schools, and when in her junior year at Tuscaloosa High, she was selected as a member of the Druid Chapter, National Honor Society.

Majoring in public school music, she graduated from the University of Alabama with an A.B. degree. While a student at the University, she taught music in the city schools. After her graduation, she spent three years in Lamar County as a teacher of public music. In 1943 she went into defense work at Brookley Field. The following year, she came back to Tuscaloosa as supervisor of the music program in the elementary schools and junior high.

Miss Perkins joined the American Red Cross in 1945, and spent two years in Europe. She was stationed in both Austria and Germany. Since her return to this country, she has continued with the Red Cross. She spent a year at the VA Hospital in Jackson, Miss., as assistant field director. In 1948 she became general field representative and did this work in Georgia until a few weeks ago, when she transferred to Middle Mississippi.

Miss Perkins is a Methodist, and has been active in the work of the Wesleyan Foundation.

Many Noteworthy Things Have Been Done By Montevallo High Vocational Classes

There is something interesting at Montevallo besides the beautiful women at Alabama College—there is a very active Vocational Agriculture Department in the high school.

In the very few years that Montevallo has had a department a variety of accomplishments has been recorded and M. Thornton, Agriculture Teacher, has many additional goals which students are striving for.

Charles Roberson who is in the adult class has a son Allen, in the FFA. Allen did not have space to carry out a variety of projects so he carries a broiler project continuously. He has a house where he can have 300 baby chicks and 200 at 6 wekes of age at one time. The chicks are moved when they reach 6 weeks and 12 weeks of age respectively to make room for a new brood. Through this method Allen is able to sell 2400 each year at retail price. The chicks average 3 pounds each.

Ed Holcombe is another FFA member who sells 2400 broilers each year using the 300 in two groups method. Ed has been in FFA for three years and was second place winner in the state electrical contest last year.

J. A. Putman was an FFA member for two years and is now a member of the young farmer class. J. A. started in the broiler business with 2 cheap houses with a capacity of 7500. An additional house was built recently for 5000 more and concrete block house is nearing completion that will hold an additional 5000. He hopes to be able to construct a house within the next few months that will bring his yearly capacity to a total of 90,000. Last year J. A. sold 27,000 at 16 cents net profit per bird. He runs 4 groups per year at present or 70,000 per year.

One of the most unique projects of the Montevallo FFA Chapter was the construction of a 20 cow grade A dairy barn for Tommy Baker. Tommy was looking for assistance in getting set up in dairying. Mr. Thornton put the questions to his FFA members and they were all for constructing the barn. Tommy was told by many that it was folly to have a group of teen-age boys out building an expensive barn but the blocks went up. The barn is located on a hill with excellent drainage. The barn was completed after a few months by FFA members under the supervision of Mr. Thornton and Tommy paid the boys a fair wage. In fact, Tommy liked their work so well that he has an FFA boy helping him after school hours and full time during the summer.

Here's what Tommy is doing for himself. He borrowed $12,000 to get started in the dairy business. At the end of the first year he had repaid $5000 of the loan. He has 63 cows. He is milking 20 Guernseys now and has a gross income of $1000 per month. His farm consists of 170 acres. Thirty acres have recently been cleared. Tommy has his pasture program well under way. He is also a member of the young farmer class.

The FFA boys have done much around town by landscaping homes and public buildings, improving and organizing a summer recreation program for the city park, being instrumental in getting a post treating plant established, and setting orchards. The chapter now has a pickup truck donated by local dealers. The truck is used for making field trips and transporting equipment and supplies for the department. — E. L. McGraw.

Stock Fish Ponds

The Alabama Conservation Department advises that for best results ponds should be stocked with fish at this season of the year.

The first step in securing an application for fish is the comply with Malaria Control Regulations and obtain a permit from the Health Department.

Any owners having newly constructed ponds should have them registered with the County Health Department and be ready for fish when sufficient water is available.

AAUW Meeting

The regular November meeting of AAUW will be held Tuesday, November 25 in Reynolds Hall. Miss Mamie Bishop will give a book report on Seymour C. Harris' "How Shall We Pay For Education?" The program has been arranged by the Social Studies Committee. Hostesses will be Dr. Eva Golson, Miss Lelah Brownfield, Mrs. Murray C. Flynn.

My Heart's In The Highlands

"My Heart's In the Highlands," will be presented by the College Theatre at Alabama College, in Palmer Auditorium Friday night, November 21 at 8:00 p. m., as the second production of the year.

Written by William Saroyan, the play has been called a "poetic caprice" with its theme of life built around a fable of a fond but decidedly third rate poet-father and his hero-worshipping boy.

Presented under the direction of Dr. Walter H. Trumbauer, College Theatre director.

Leading parts are played by Dorothy Floyd, Wetumpka; June Tramel, Gadsden; Sue Dobbins, Gadsden; Martha Womack, Montgomery; Edna Jackson, Decatur; Nell Freeman, Spring Hill; Janice Thornton, Anniston; and Lucy Burge, Birmingham.

The cast includes Beverly Vawter, Congers, New York; Betty Washington, Wedowee; Delores Brumfield, Prichard; Dorothy McRae, Calera; and Barbara Richards, Russellville; Wylene Thomas, Semmes; Betty Jean Smith, Albertville; Annemarie Hey, Huntsville; Sandra Weary, Carlisle, Pennsylvania; Clarie Fisher, Congers, New York; Betty Fowler, Birmingham; Joyce Greathouse, Gadsden; and Patricia Allred, Elba.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my appreciation to friends and neighbors, also Rev. L. W. Stamps and Bro. B. B. Curry for their kindness and words of comfort during the illness and death of my father, Mr. I. F. Overholser. — Mrs. V. B. Lehman.

Donors Needed For Blood Bank

Montevallo townspeople and College students are desperately needed to donate blood to the Bloodmobile, when it is on the Alabama College campus, Monday, November 24.

A blood bank will be set up in the basement of Tutwiler Fun Room for the general public, from 11:00 a. m., to 12:00 noon, and 1:00 p. m. to 2:15 p. m. Students may participate in the national blood donor program from 11:00 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Sign up in one of the following places if you will be able to contribute to this cause: Mahan's Barber Shop, Alabama Power Co., and the Montevallo Times Office. Or you may send a postal card to Mr. M. S. McGehee, Alabama Power Company, Montevallo, stating the hour you will be able to come. Give name, address, and telephone number.

Miss Laura Hadley is County Chairman, and Mr. M. S. McGehee, is Montevallo Chairman. The Alabama College blood program, headed by Dr. Paul Bailey, and sponsored by Beta Beta, honorary biology fraternity, is planning on a campus-wide basis in an effort to surpass last year's donations.

Latest reports of individual solicitation of donors among the students shows there will be an excellent turn out for this vital need.

Isaac F. Overholser

Mr. Isaac F. Overholser passed away last Thursday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. V. B. Lehman at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Overholser was eighty-six years old, a native of Hayes, Kansas, Charter member of Russell Masonic Lodge No. 155. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon from Enon Baptist Church, Rev. L. W. Stamps officiating and Bro. B. B. Curry assisted, burial in Enon Cemetery.

VA Office To Close

The Shelby County Department of Veterans' Affairs Office will be closed for the Thanksgiving Holidays, Thursday and Friday, November 27 and 28.

Housing Projects Taking Applications For Occupancy

Applications for admission to Montevallo's two low-rent housing projects, F. F. Crowe Village and Alex Scott Village, are being received at the office in the Montevallo Times building. The projects are expected to be ready for occupancy during January. Anyone interested in applying should make their application at an early date.

The sizes of the apartments range from one bedroom to three bedrooms in the white project and from one bedroom to four bedrooms in the Negro project. They will be distributed according to the size of the family. Rent will be based on aggregate family income. The rent will include cost of all utilities, except electricity. Gas ranges, electric refrigerators and gas space heaters will be furnished by the Authority.

Preference for eligibility will be: First, displaced families; Second, families of disabled or deceased Veterans and Servicemen; Third, families of Veterans and Servicemen.

Clothes For Needy School Children

Mrs. F. P. Givhan, Chairman of the Welfare Committee of the Montevallo Study Club, announces that arrangements have been made for the Montevallo High School to distribute clothing to needy children for those who would like to contribute.

Anyone who has anything suitable for high school children, ages 12 to 18, should take the clothing to the high school office. Clothing for elementary children should be taken to Mrs. Peterson's office in the elementary school.

If anyone is unable to take the clothing to the school, they may call Mrs. F. P. Givhan, Mrs. L. C. Parnell, or Mrs. G. P. Rogan and they will be glad to call for them. The committee would like to get the contributions to the children before Thanksgiving if possible.

Give Now To The Community Chest

Contributors to the Community Chest will need to be a little more liberal this year. The goal for the drive, set after a careful survey of requests, is eleven percent greater than last year. Early reports seem to indicate that the citizens of Montevallo are responding generously.

Additional funds are allotted this year to the welfare account, which provides lunches and other help for children who could not otherwise remain in school. Before such an expenditure is made there is a careful investigation by social workers from the College, who certify to the need for help.

When the Community Chest solicitor calls, remember the higher goal of this year's drive and make a larger contribution than usual. If for some reason you should not be visited during the drive this week, please see Mr. S. M. Mahan at the barber shop and make your pledge.

If the Electoral College wants to get more attention, it ought to get itself up a big time football team.

THE ONE-TWO PUNCH

On the heels of a national election that proved dramatically that union members do not vote as instructed by their leaders, came a second blow to big-unionism, the death of Phillip Murray.

Not so long ago, Mr. Murray was hailed as "the most powerful man in America" and the present situation within his 4,000,000 member CIO further attests to his stature. On his death the union's national convention was put off two weeks presumably to give the Executive Board time in which to make a careful choice between Executive Vice President Allan Haywood and UAW President Walter Ruether for the Murray crown.

Whether either can hold together the various factions as did Mr. Murray, is a question. And if CIO falls apart, will its member unions be absorbed by AFL or stand on their own feet?

The days of such labor behemoths may be numbered — which would be a break for the members.

Beta Club Formed At County High

A local chatper of the National Beta Club, a service-leadership organization for high school students of America, was established on November 10, at Shelby County High School, according to Leonard F. Rogers, Principal.

The National Beta Club, with over 1925 local chapters and approximately 49,000 members in schools of 16 states, is now in its twentieth year, and has been in continuous operation since 1933.

Objectives of this non-secret, leadership service organization are to encourage effort, to promote character, to stimulate achievement among its members, and to encourage and assist students to continue their education after high school graduation.

Leonard F. Rogers, Principal, was appointed as faculty sponsor for the local chapter.

Permanent officers for this year are: Mary Fancher, president, Earle Riley, vice president, Annette Thompson, secretary, Joan Nichols, treasurer.

The local organization is composed of the following students who have fulfilled the requirements necessary for membership in the National Beta Club.

Nina Pate, Joan Nichols, Nancy Taylor, Hylott Armstrong, Gwendolyn Farr, Billy Joe Brasher, James Harrison, Leonard Joiner, Flora Mae Bozeman, Annette Thompson, Hugh Sims, Jr., LaNelle Moore, Kyle Lyon, Mary Fancher, Eva Lee Lovett, Arland Carroll, Larry Skelton.

Earle Riley, Howell Horn, Jimmy Dennis, Bunny Crawford, Tyla Crenshaw, Juanita Morris, Merle Myers, Elaine Payne, Llewellyn Sims, Elner Mae Carden, Bobby Stinson, Carolyn Stone, Betty Ruth Watts.

The Study Club Met Tuesday

The Montevallo Study Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. C. Anderson with Mrs. G. P. Rogan as co-hostess.

Two new members, Mrs. Edward Lund and Mrs. James B. Higgins, were welcomed to the club. After a business meeting a very interesting program was given by Mrs. M. L. Orr, Sr., and Mrs. Eugene Reynolds. Their subject was "The King and I," a recent Broadway production, in kepeing with the theme of the program for the year, "The Contemporary Theatre." Both of the speakes had seen the play, which added color to the program.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was spent with the hostesses.

The next meeting will be on December 16, at the home of Mrs. F. P. Givhan, with Mrs. L. C. Parnell as co-ohstess. Mrs. Frank Baker and Mrs. T. Bridges will present a program on a current Broadway play.

137 TB Cases Now In Shelby County

"Let's stop taking TB for granted. Let's get out of that rut with this disease.

"A total of 111 people have died of tuberculosis in Shelby County the past 10 years. Right now there are 137 known cases living in our County, according to state Health Department records."

Coming on the opening week of the Annual Christmas Seal Sale, it was emphasized that Christmas Seals strike a heavy blow at TB. Funds from the sale are used to treat and hospitalize patients, as well as educate the public on ways to prevent the spread of this contagious killer.

The Christmas Seal Sale is one campaign in which the urge to give is left entirely to the individual. No high pressure methods will be used to insist on a contribution.

Tuberculosis leaders, instead, believe that when enough people wake up to the facts about the disease — that it can be prevented and can be cured — every public spirited citizen will join in the crusade of the Christmas Seal.

Leaders are stressing the use of Seals on all holiday mail and packages. They are convinced the little Seals are the very best missionaries in reminding the public of a disease that kills needlessly.

Any who have not received their Seals are urged to get in touch with the county chairman, who will be glad to send a supply.

H. A. Pauly Calls For Defense Of Cattle Growers

The American Farm Bureau Federation will be asked to come to the defense of cattle producers in Alabama and other states who have been subjected to "unjust and unfair" tax measures, says H. A. Pauly, president of the Shelby County Farm Bureau. The AFBF meeting in Seattle, Washington, December 7-11, will be attended by a large delegation from this state.

The Alabama Farm Bureau charged in a resolution adopted at its annual convention in Auburn this fall that livestock farmers were benig discriminated against by officials of the Bureau of Internal Revenue by enforcement of unjust interpretations of the income tax laws.

The Alabama resolutions urges that livestock producers and breeders be placed on a full basis of equality with other lines of business in the matter of income taxes, particularly with respect to defining capital gains as compared to ordinary income. It seeks to eliminate regulations which penalize cattlemen and prevent them from using a cash reporting system, sponsors said.

The question previously had been discussed by the Alabama Farm Bureau Executive Committee, and by a special convention group on cattle and sheep, headed by J. Bruce Henderson of Millers Ferry. Henderson, who is a member of the American FBF's Livestock Committee, said he would press the matter before the national group. Walter L. Randolph, Alabama Farm Bureau president, also is a member of the national organization's resolution committee which will make recommendations to the Seattle convention proper.

Farm Group Goes To Canada Fair

Carolyn Peinhardt, a member of the Cullman Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America left Saturday for The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Canada. Carolyn was awarded this trip when her calf which she showed in the District Dairy Show at Decatur won the championship title of the Junior Guernsey Division. She will join a group of FFA and 4-H members for the trip. Miss Evelyn Cotney, Northeast District Home Economics Supervisor, Montevallo, Ala., is chaperon for the girls on the trip.

The group left Birmingham on Saturday and arrived in Toronto, Canada, late Sunday. They are spending three days attending the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair at the Royal Coliseum in Toronto. The Coliseum has 26 acres under one roof. They will see the famous horse show in the Coliseum on Monday night. Exhibitors of the fair are from all parts of Canada and the United States. As the group returns from Canada they will stop over in Washington, D. C., where they will visit the capitol and other places of interest.

This trip is made possible through cooperation of the Alabama Guernsey and Jersey Cattle Clubs and the Alabam State Fair.

Carolyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peinhardt of Cullman. She is in the ninth grade at Cullman High School.

METHODIST FELLOWSHIP SUPPER AT WILTON

Members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship at Wilton have the answer to the question of what to do the day after Thanksgiving.

According to Ouida Byrd, Wilton MYF president, they are planning a barbecue supper at the Wilton Methodist Church Friday evening, November 28.

Scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m., the supper is designed to raise funds for financing a current MYF project.

Tickets for the supper are $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children. Thees may be secured from Ouida Byrd, or other members of the Wilton Methodist Youth Fellowship.

My sick friend was doing all right. As a matter of fact, he would soon have been home from the hospital if he hadn't suddenly taken a turn for the nurse.

Recreation Course December 8 to 11

"Recreation is now recognized as a basic human need," according to Helen M. Dauncy, a specialist in leadership trainging with the National Recreation Association in New York City who will be in Shelby County to conduct a course for recreation workers and teachers.

The training course will be at Columbiana in the afternoon from Monday, Dec. 8, through Thursday, Dec. 11 under the sponsorship of the Shelby County Board of Education and the National Recreation Association. The course is open to any interested person and all who take it are guaranteed a good time. Learning by doing is the basis of Miss Dauncy's teaching methods.

Mr. W. W. Elliott, the chairman of the planning committee, emphasized the fact that the course is not planned exclusively for professional recreation workers. The teachers will find in it new ways to keep their pupils out of mischief on rainy days; parents can learn much about things to do for fun in the home; volunteer leaders in young peoples groups and in adult groups who are looking for recreation ideas will get them at these training courses.

Those who are interested in taking the course and can attend all four days, either in the afternoon at Columbiana, or at Siluria, should contact one of the following people: W. W. Elliott, Mrs. C. E. Jones, Miss Anita King, L. F. Rogers, and Miss Ailene Bope, Columbiana. Dr. R. H. Johnson, and Mrs. Mary C. Martin, Siluria.

The Road to Health

Let's Give Thanks That The Fight Against TB Can And Will Be Won

That's the Thanksgiving message expressed this week by Mr. R. J. Ozley, president of the Shelby County Tuberculosis Association.

"Tuberculosis is curable and it is preventable. And the prevention and cure of the disaese is the purpose of the annual Christmas Seal Sale.

"We're thankful so many people are having a part in a great crusade because they buy and use Christmas Seals. Death rates have been dropping steadily since the first Seals were sold 46 years ago.

"But a strong fight still must be waged. The battle is only half won.

"There are active, infectious cases of TB in every Alabama county. Many of them are known cases, recorded on health department files, but there still are just as many unknown cases. A lot of people have TB and do not know it, because in the early stages TB gives no warning signs.

"Tuberculosis is everybody's responsibility, because it is a 'catching' disease. The purchase and use of Christmas Seals gives everybody a chance to discharge his responsibility in this once-a-year drive.

"Let's be thankful we have this opportunity — and give as generously as we can.

"Money contributed now will help hospitalize, treat and prevent TB the whole year through."

Welfare Payments Are Increased

Montgomery — State Welfare Commissioner Bill Dorrough says that welfare checks averaging four dollars above September were sent to Alabama's 99,161 needy cases in October.

Dorrough says that additional federal money and a reduced case load accounted for the $4.17 average increase. The checks averaged $28.72 each.

A drop of 659 cases as compared with September was mainly attributed by Dorrough to stricter laws that went into effect last month. He said approximately 2,200 cases were closed during the month and only about 1,600 new ones opened.

The Relative Responsibility law closed 587 cases, caused 83 applications to be denied and resulted in smaller payments in 94 instances, Dorrough added.

If all the automobiles in the world were put end to end, 98 per cent of the drivers would immediately pull out of line to pass the car ahead.

Montevallo Loses Final Grid Battle

The Childersburg Tigers defeated the Montevallo Bulldogs 47-13 in Montevallo's final game of the season.

The Bulldogs won the toss and elected to receive. They took the ball on the 40-yard line, made a first down and then were forced to punt. The entire first quarter was a hard-fought battle with neither team scoring.

Childersburg scored first in the second quarter on a 3-yard plunge following a 42-yard pass. The extra point was good. The Bulldogs came back with Anthony going over from 10 yards out. Gentry converted. The Tigers made two more in the second qaurter to make the score 19-7 at half.

Childersburg came back in the second half with a rally which the Bulldogs couldn't seem to stop. The Tigers scored twice in both the third and fourth quarters.

Montevallo's lone tally came on a 70-yard pass play from Anthony to Gentry in the 3rd.

Work Is Progressing On Bessemer Road

Road Commissioner Fred McClendon carried me last Saturday to see the progress that is being made on the construction of the road from Montevallo to Bessemer. What we saw was pleasing beyond measure. It revealed what will be in a few months the accomplishment of a dream of many people to see a hard-top road running from Montevallo through Dogwood Maylene and extending to Genery's Gap to connect with the road from Bessemer to that point.

* * *

Construction was started by the county crew last June 1st at Almont. Day by day the giant earth-moving machines have been creeping toward Genery's and they now lack only a few hundred yards of being there. In fact the work of grading the whole length of the road is about finished.

Trucks have already started to hauling base material at Almont and that work is about finished to Dogwood.

In connection with this project Dogwood will get a paved road extending from the western side of the village to the Peete place where the main road turns northward toward Ryan's.

The new road from Almont enters Dogwood back of the Big John place and goes smack up to the Dogwood school where it turns east and goes to the Peete place.

We have our County Board of Revenue to thank for this road. When the state had turned down many and every appeal of citizens for the road, the County Board was the only hope left. Mr. McClendon and Mr. Nash promised the people of the area that they would find some way to get the road.

Through the County Board the road was put on the Farm-to-Market program. Full support of all members of the Board was given to the project and now we can see our dream coming true some time next summer.

From the Helena Junction there will be built a mile of road extending from the junction with the new Bessemer road east to Helena where it will connect with the present paved road from Highway 31 at Acton and Pelham.

The present and past road building program of our county is up among the best in the counties of the state. Shelby stands ninth of Alabama counties in mileage of farm-to-market roads built. We now have 65 miles and with completion of the present projects for next year we will have well over a hundred miles.

The County board does its own road building with its own equipment and thereby saves a lot of money in cost of construction. Some of the road contractors do not like this plan, but the Board of Revenue figures it is better for the county to make a saving of money than to spend that saving for conrtactors profits.

The county is fortunate in the matter of base material for this road. Finest kind of sand, gravel and chert in the proper proportions is available in close proximity to the road. This material alone guarantees a good temporary road for this winter. It will be put on most of the road by the time bad weather sets in. Some parts of the county, we are told, are not so fortunate as West Shelby with respect to base material.

* * *

Construction of the Bessemer road is getting lots of advantages from the old WPA work that was done twelve or fifteen years ago. Much of the grading and foundation that was done then is being used. Bridges and culverts of stone and concrete that were built by WPA are being used for present construction of the road.

Best of all is the Cahaba River Bridge that was built by WPA. This is a stone and concrete structure that will be there when Gabriel blows his horn.

* * *

A new survey has been made of the road from the Jenkins place to Genery's. It will make the mountain much easier to get over. Two new steel and concrete bridges are under construction over Trigger Creek at the Jenkins place.

Another riot in the Jackson, Michigan, state prison last week. Sort of a reversal on the American political system. In this case the ins want out.

Do you know this about telephone taxes?

You may not realize how large a part of the money paid by telephone users goes to taxes.

Including the federal excise tax, a total of 29¢ out of every dollar received from Southern Bell customers last year was paid out in taxes to federal, state and local governments. To put it another way, the average amount of taxes was $2.67 a month per telephone.

Telephone taxes are necessary to the support of government, but they do mount up. Higher taxes of course have effect on the price you pay for telephone service.

The next time you pay your telephone bill, remember that a good part of it is taxes for government and national defense.

Montevallo FHA Discusses Dating

What is the best age to marry? Do you have to pet to be popular? What are some misunderstandings between parents and their children? These were some of the questions discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Montevallo F. H. A. Chapter held November 13, 1952.

Ouida Byrd introduced the panel members: Mrs. Mary Hood, Mrs. W. H. Trumbauer, Mrs. Don Lovelady, Misses Annette McBurnette, Anita Bradley, and Jane Triplett, who in turn presented their ideas and those of authorities on courtship and marriage.

During the discussion emphasis was placed on the importance of letting your parents know where you are going, who with, and the time to expect you back, thus avoiding many of the difficulties that occur when you start dating. Also have more than one friend. Don't tie yourself down too soon but when you do be sure that this is "the one" for you because it is easier to break an engagement than a marriage. You do not have to pet to be popular and the standards you set for yourself will be the ones that your date will meet. —Submitted by Mary Nelson, Student Teacher Vocational Home Economics Department, Montevallo High School.

On The Farms Of Shelby County

At the county training school Professor Thomas and his boys have a Chapel Hill Rescue seed patch planted September 16. It has made almost enough growth to begin grazing. These boys will not only have seed to sell, but will have a chance to study this new crop and decide what place it will have on their farms.

That completes a picture; every school in the county including the elaborate new Indian Springs School, that give agricultural training are now cooperating with the Soil Conservation District to study new crops useful in soil and water conservation and land utilization.

Thompson High School, Vincent High School, Montevallo High, Alabama College, and all Veteran Vocational Agricultural classes are already working closely with the district.

We had an interesting visit with Mr. Bristow Monday while he was directing clearing operations in a low area where he will plant Ky. 31 Fescue and Ladinno clover for the Shelby Iorn Company beef herds. He is having stock watering ponds dug in every separate pasture so that it will be easy to control grazing.

Cecil Davis, Shelby County veteran trainee, had only one pond dug, but located at the corner of four pastures and fenced it separately. Now he can have it open to whichever of the pastures he wishes to have his cattle in at any particular time.

With water available to every pasture without having to allow the cattle to pass through another pasture these men will be able to control grazing. Preventinng overgrazing of grasses and legumes is very important in getting the best results from your pastures.

THEY'LL NEED YOUR HELP

An aroused citizenry, by a record-shattering vote across the nation, rejected the socialistic "planned economy" that for twenty years has been gradually bringing toward eclipse the light of freedom.

But, asks Forrest E. Finley, a seasoned observer of the Washington scene, what about Congress? It will be faced with the same pressure to which other conngreses have yielded. "In fact," he says "the vanguard of the special project boys is already rolling into Washington."

"Will Congress be able to resist without help? Here, I think, is one of history's greatest challenges. If we are to enter a new era, we must measure up to this fresh new responsibility."

As an earlier patriot said: "Let none but Americans stand watch tonight."

Alabama Leads In Road Construction

Montgomery — Alabama has the biggest road construction program in the Southeas. That is the report of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The Bureau figures showed Alabama's approved program of road funds "being spent and to be spent" amounts to $61,744,000, and will include 967 miles of road.

Georgia came second in the list, with $60,496,000.

State Highway Department Director W. G. Pruett has figures on record showing that Alabama's entire road program envisiged for construction or start of construction within the next 12 to 15 months, totaling approximately $70,000,000.

The Alabama program can be broken down into the following projects:

1. Primary federal aid, or major highway projects, amounting to $42,000,000.

2. Secondary federal aid highways — farm-to-market federel roads, but not including county-state aid roads. Approximately $22,000,000 to be spent on such roads withing the next 12 months.

3. Urban program — under construction or getting ready for construction — $2,000,000.

In addition, there is an unprogrammed balance in federal aid of approximately $4,000,000, including state and federal aid funds.

Twelve Auto Deaths Reported In Shelby

Pointing out that 12 motor vehicle accident deaths were reported from Shelby County in April, May and June, the State Department of Health announced today that it was one of the 51 Alabama counties from which deaths of that kind were reported during that three-month period.

The state total, the Department said, was 211. The Jefferson total of 31 was the largest for any county.

The announcement was based upon provisional reports prepared by the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics. These may differ slightly from the final reports not yet available.

Children Attending School In Japan

Hokkaido, Japan — Two children of M-Sgt. and Mrs. James J. Wallace of Wilton, Ala., are attending school on the Japanese island of Hokkaido.

Shirley A., 6, and Carol E., 7, are students at a school for dependents of American military personnel in Japan.

Their father is serving in Japan with the 1st Cavalry Division.

Sergeant Wallace, who arrived in the Far East in January 1951, brought his family with him from Wilton.

Uncle Ab came down from the mountains to have a look at this new-fangled television. After an hour or so of intent looking, he gave his report: "The dresses some of them womenfolk is wearin' remind me of a barbwire fence—they protect the property without hindering the view."

Shelby County's Goal For Christmas Seal TB Fund Is $1,269.00

Shelby County does not have a quota in the Christmas Seal Sale, said Mr. R. J. Ozley, chairman of the drive here.

"This is one drive in which it's up to the citizens to decide what they want to give.

"We do have a goal, however, a goal of $1,269.00.

"The goal has an economic basis. It is a conservative figure of what our county is capable of raising in the Seal Sale.

"It's a friendly game aimed at giving everybody a chance to have a part in the fight against tuberculosis.

"A small contribution now from a lot of people will mean an economic gain for the future. We shall be helping save lives of citizens who will be valuable in the growth and progress of our county in years to come.

"We're very eager to reach our goal, along with the other 66 Alabama counties. But whether you give or not will be left entirely up to you. No high-pressure methods will be used to insist on a contribution.

"We believe our citizens are conscious of the evils of TB. It's a disease that causes much tragedy and heartbreak, needlessly. It can be prevented, can be eradicated wholly from our county, state and nation.

"Won't you please remember this when you take part in the Christmas Seal Sale?"

Why You Should Buy Christmas Seals

This Thanksgiving season we all have much to be thankful for. We are thankful, most of all, for good health.

Those of us who are enjoying good health often find it difficult to realize just what its loss can mean.

The occurence, for instance, of a case of Tuberculosis in a family can and does disrupt the entire family.

If it occurs in the father, the loss of income over a long period of time can reduce the family to poverty.

If it occurs in the mother, the household is completely upset and the children must be deprived of the mother's care for a long period of time.

If a younger member of the family is the victim, he or she must give up, for a period of months or years, practically all those things from which they derived their greatest pleasure.

Many are now victims of Tuberculosis and many will be stricken within the next year.

Probably no more than one-half of the total number of cases are known to have the disease.

Tuberculosis is preventable and most cases are also curable, although, even with the modern methods, cure may require several years of treatment.

The Shelby County Tuberculosis Association, the County Board of Revenue and Control, the practicing physicians of the county and the County Health Department combined forces two years ago to combat this widespread menace.

During the time that this team has been working together many new cases have been found, many paients have been sent to the Sanitorium, who could not otherwise have gone, drugs have been bought for many other patients who were treated at home, and supplies have been furnished patients to help to prevent the spread of the disease to others.

For the first time, progress is being made in the fight against Tuberculosis.

The extent of the financial participation of the Tuberculosis Association in this crusade against Tuberculosis depends entirely on funds derived from the sale of the Christmas Seals. Your liberal purchase of Christmas Seals is a sound investment in the future security of yourself and your family.

It is earnestly urged that you buy more Christmas Seals this year than ever before and thereby aid in the eventual eradication of the most devastating of the communicable diseases.

In San Antonio, Texas, a 65-year-old delegate to a convention of Alcoholics Anonymous fell and broke his hip. As he was being carried off to a hospital he declared: "If I'd been drunk, this never would have happened."

Aim tells about the woman who ordered 50 cents worth of steak and told the grocer, "If I'm not at home just tell the delivery boy to poke it thru the keyhole."

Thompson High Christmas Bazaar

The annual Christmas Bazaar sponsored by the P. T. A. here will be held this year on December 5 and 6, at the Buck Creek Y building. The sale will start at noon on Friday and continue through noon on Saturday.

There will be a country store, a white elephant booth, booths with Christmas corsages and decorations, and bakery products. Coffee, doughnuts and hot dogs will be sold.

Friday evening there will be special entertainment features.

Mrs. Helen Johnson is in charge of the arrangements and she states that the plans this year are much bigger than last, and that everyone is urged to check the Bazaar for bargains in Christmas shopping.

Dade County Florida officials raided a nudist colony near Miami and found sunbathers lolling in the raw in a rustic "nature garden." The resentful nudists claimed they were "covered by a zoning law". Not much protection on a cold morning, we'd say.

Help The Volunteer Fire Department! Don't Obstruct And Hinder It

Again it appears that people generally are unwittingly and unintentionally hindering the performance of duties of the Montevallo Fire Department by the manner in which so many spectators and curosity seekers rush out upon the streets as quick as the fire alarm is sounded.

This matter has become so serious that it has come to the attention of the Town Council with the urge that Town take some sort of action to restrain people from putting themselves and their cars in the way of the fire truck and the fire figthers.

When a fire alarm is sounded, the first necessity is that the streets be kept clear and open so the fire fighters can get to the fire truck and then get the truck to the scene of the fire.

It seriously hinders this action when so many people jump in their cars and start out helter-skelter in every direction before the fire boys can get to their station.

When the fire whistle blows, all cars should immediately stop wherever they are and pull to the side of the street for a few minutes, so as to make clear for the firemen to get their arrangements all made.

As people are doing now, they not only obstruct prompt action by the firemen, but they also create a hazard for the men who must rush to the truck and then to the scene of the fire.

This situation must be remedied. If people will not do it themselves, the Town Council will have to adopt and enforce such measures as are necessary to betterment.

Dr. Minnie Steckel Died Monday

DR. STECKEL

Dr. Minnie L. Steckel, student counselor and professor of psychology at Alabama College, died at her home in Montevallo, Monday morning, December 1.

Well known in Alabama and national educational organizations, Dr. Steckel was the author of many psychological and educational articles and books. She received her A.B. degree from the University of Kansas and her M.A. and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Chicago.

Born in Woodbine, Kansas, Dr. Steckel was a member of numerous honorary and professional organizations. Before coming to Alabama College in 1930 she served as high school principal, superintendent of public schools, and public school psychologist in North Dakota and Iowa.

Active in Alabama women's organizations, Dr. Steckel was a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club, and last year served as Finance chairman of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs. She was also a member of the Alabama Mental Hygeine Society, the American Psychological Associations, Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology, Sigma Xi, Phi Gamma Mu, Delta Phi Alpha, Alpha Lambda Delta, and American Association of University Women.

Scholarship for women has been named for her by the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs.

Funeral services were held at Valley Chapel in Homewood Monday afternoon. Survivors include a brother, Dr. George W. Steckel of Sayre, Oklahoma, and two sisters, Mrs. Grant Williams of Denver, Colorado, and Mrs. Rudolph Malek of Seattle, Washington.

Lighting, Sue Baughn, Heflin; Coat check, Mary Aline Foshee, Sylacauga; Restoration, Hanna Gillion, Greenville; Invitations, Aurelia Morgan, Selma; and Publicity, Pat Hornung, Mobile.

Junior Class Theme "White Christmas"

A "White Christmas" theme will be carried out in activities of the Junior Class week end December 5, on the campus at Alabama College.

A party by juniors to honor the graduating class, is the first event scheduled. Directed by Jean Taylor, Haleyville, and Lucy Underwood, Russellville, co-chairman of the entertainment committee, there will be dancing girls, singers, hillbilly bands and game tables to transform the Fun Room of the Senior Dormitory into a rollicking Casino Friday evening.

Other committee chairmen for the party are Annette Clements, Birmingham, decorations; Celeste Dominey, Clayton, refreshments; and Shirley Martin, Birmingham, restoration.

Saturday will feature Open House in Hanson Hall, junior dormitory. Mary Britt, Selma, is directing Open House activities in which juniors will guide parents and other visitors through their dormitory and introduce them to their new House mother, Mrs. Frances B. Witty.

Alice Jane White, junior class president from Bessemer, will lead the Christmas dance from a gift-wrapped package background, onto a dance floor where "snow" will be drifting about as a Craig Field orchestra plays "White Christmas."

VETERANS' COLUMN
STATE DEPT. OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By E. J. Sullivan

I know that veterans all over the State of Alabama have been quite interested in reading about the reduction in funds in the operation of our Veterans Administration Hospitals. As a matter of fact, some of you probably have your application already on file for hospitalization with the Veterans' Administration. Now just what are the chances of getting hospital treatment from the VA in the near future?

Well, the VA has recently announced that veterans will be admitted to its hospitals on the basis of nine new priority groups based on laws passed by Congress and administrated by the VA. Those priority groups are set up to establish an equal rule governing the use of vacant beds for all persons eligible for admission or transfer to particular VA hospitals.

Well, after emergency admissions comes one group which includes War veterans and those who served since June 27, 1950, the start of the Korean War, who need to be in the hospital on account of service connection. Next we have group two which includes peacetime veterans who need to be hospitalized for service connected disabilities, or who were discharged disabilities incurred in line of duty. Group three are veterans whose hospitilization has been requested by authorized officials for the purpose of observation and examination. Group four are wartime, post-Korea and peacetime veterans with service connected disabilities or with line of duty discharged who are now in non-VA hospitals but who have been requested that they be transferred to a VA hospital. Group five includes wartime, post-Korea and peacetime veterans who are now being hospitalized by the VA for treatment of non-service connected disabilities but whose transfer from one hospital to another has been requested by authorized officials for medical reasons. Group six are wartime, post-Korea and peacetime veterans with compensable service connected disabilities or discharged for line of duty disabilities requiring hospitalization for non-service disabilities.

Next we have group seven and in this group are wartime, post-Korea and certain veterans retired from the armed forces for physical disabilities who have no compensable service connected disabilities and are not discharged for line of duty disabilities but who are required hospital treatment for non-service connected diasbilities.

In group eight are non-veterans whose hospitalization has been requested by authorized officials excepting U. S. armed forces personnel, whose hospitalization is directed by the Veterans Administration Central Office in Washington. And last, group nine, which includes all eligible Veterans now in VA hospitals who have requested transfer for personal reasons but whose transfer is not necessary for medical reasons, and certain eligible veterans when VA has hospitalized in non-VA hospitals and who have requested transfer to VA hospitals for personal reasons but whose transfer is not necessary for medical reasons. There you have the nine priority groups.

Birmingham Electric Merged With Alabama Power

On November 25, stockholders of Birmingham Electric Company voted to merge the company with Alabama Power Company in accordance with the orders of Alabama Public Service Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission. Later in the day, Alabama Power Company stockholders also approved the merger.

The matter was presented to the Judge of the U. S. District Court at Birmingham, The Honorable Seybourn H. Lynne, today for an order approving and enforcing the order of the Securities and Exchange Commission in accordance with the Public Utility Holding Act, and the order was granted.

Thomas W. Martin, chairman of the Board of Alabama Power Company, stated: "This is a significant event in the history of Alabama Power Company. Starting in 1906 with a nominal capital of only $5,000, men of faith in the future of Alabama enlisted the necessary financial support to enable the Company to create or acquire facilities and bring them together in an integrated system. The system so created during the past quarter century has gained recognition as an efficiently operated, area-wide electric utility system. In this program our engineers have pioneered many technical advances."

Winners In A. I. A. Essay Contest

Birmingham, Nov. 19 — Sixteen Alabama high school seniors and seven teachers were awarded college scholarships and cash prizes today as winners of an essay contest on "What Industry Means to Alabama."

The awards were made at a luncheon given by the Associated Industries of Alabama at the Tutwiler Hotel. The contest was sponsored jointly by A. I. A. and Birmingham-Southern College in conjunction with the recent Industrial Exposition featuring the "Showcase of Alabama Industry" at the Alabama State Fair.

Divided into two categories—one pertaining to seniors from schools within Jefferson County, and the other to seniors in schools located outside Jefferson County — the contest provided two 2-year scholarships and six cash prizes to students in each group.

Taking top honors for the Jefferson County category was Kelley Nesmith of Hueytown High School. Mr. Nesmith received a two-year scholarship to Birmingham-Southern College as did Al Bailey, of Ramsay High School, who was judged second best among the Jefferson County entries.

Winning the two top honors and two-year scholarships in the outside Jefferson category, was Josephine Lovelace, Camp Hill High School and Raymond O'Neal Lolley, Uniontown High School who placed first and second respectively.

Thompson High Has Been Accredited

At the meeting of the 57th Annual Convention of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Memphis, Tenn., it was announced today that Thompson High School has been accredited for active membership.

This is the second school in Shelby County to gain such recognition, and of the more than 200 high schools in Alabama, about 80 are accredited by the Association.

Dr. R. H. Johnson is Principal, and is attending the Convention this week.

The latest is a story about a man who was watching a street sweeper clean up after a square dance, and remarked that the town must have had a fish fry. "Them ain't fish scales," said the sweeper. "They're toe nalis." No newspaper would print this without checking up on it though.

Vaccinating young pigs is much cheaper in the long run than taking a chance on hog cholera, the country's top hog killer.

Dr. Orr Announces March Of Dimes January 2 To 31

Science at last is moving rapidly toward an effective preventive of infantile paralysis, M. L. Orr, chairman, Shelby County March of Dimes Drive, declared here today.

Returning from Birmingham, where he attended a March of Dimes meeting, Mr. Orr said the latest polio news was very encouraging. Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, told the meeting that latest scientific advances foreshadow the certain conquest of polio as an epidemic disease, he reported.

At the meeting Mr. O'Connor explained the results of the 1951 and 1952 field trials with gamma globulin in which 55,000 children took part in Provo, Utah; Houston, Tex., and Sioux City, Ia. As a result, it was proved for the first time that paralytic polio in human beings can be prevented — even if only temporarily so far.

"There is no reason for undue optimism," said Mr. Orr. "In the first place, gamma globulin is not the final answer to preventing paralytic polio. It gives protection for only a limited time and there is not nearly enough of it to go around. There are 46,000,000 children and adolescents in the age group most susceptible to the disease.

"But the overall news is the best we have heard since the National Foundation launched the war against polio 15 years ago. It justifies our faith and makes us more determined than ever to increase the totals raised in the March of Dimes next January.

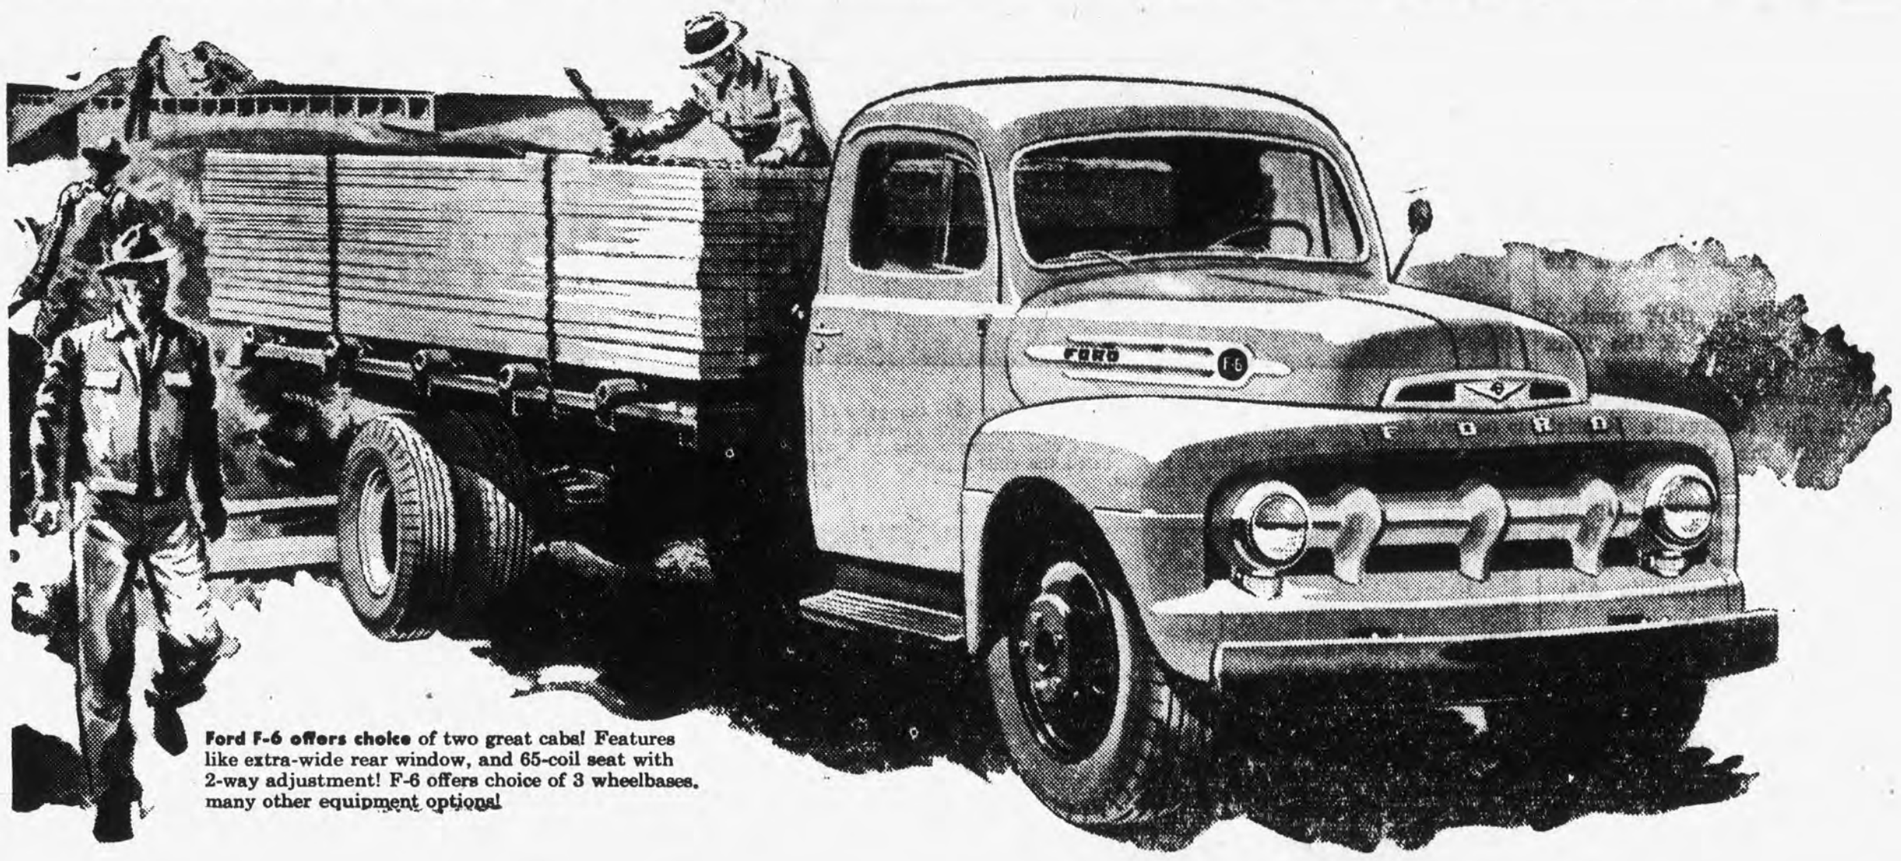

"We must be certain we have sufficient funds with which to continue this progress," he stated. "The prospects of conquering polio have never been so bright. But the dark side of the picture is gloomier than ever. The 1952 epidemic is the worst in history, recording more than 51,000 cases up to the first week in November.

"The staggering financial burden of patient care for this year alone will be about $28,000,000. By the end of this year, the March of Dimes will have provided direct assistance in 1952 to at least 90,000 patients stricken in this and previous years."

The 1953 March of Dimes will be held January 2-31, Mr. Orr added, with plans for the participation of a record number of volunteers.

When A Little Boy Loses His Arms And Can't Play, Even Rugged Truckers' Hearts Respond

Centreville, Ala.—Five-year-old James Allen Brewster of Centreville, Alabama didn't know he had so many friends.

But when folks learned about the sawmill accident that cost the youngster both of his arms, they rallied around 23 states and several hundred dollars have been put into a trust fund, so James Allen can have some new, artificial arms. He needs them to play with a lot of nice new toys he got after the accident.

Picture is Displayed

The jars have a slit cut in the top. And, they have pictures of James Allen pasted inside.

The idea came to Cecil Sutley, stocky 42-year-old driver for Jack Cole Co., after he had stopped in Centreville and asked about the youngster.

He fixed up the first mustard jar bank right there at the Twix and Tween Cafe.

When contributions began to come in, The Cestreville Baptist Church and the Centreville Kiwanis Club, two leading organizations in the campaign to help the child, set up a trust fund. It is known as the James Allen Brewster Trust Fund, Centreville, Ala.

Should Help

Sutley said he felt the mustard jar banks should help out. A driver for 18 years, Sutley is well known to fellow drivers throughout the state.

"We'll never miss the change we drop in those jars," he said. "Maybe it will help make up for some of the things James Allen will miss. The first thing he needs is a pair of artificial hands, so he can play again."

Mr. J. W. Price, Mr. Jamie Meigs and Mr. Robert Jamison have been appointed as Guardians of the James Allen Brewster Trust Fund. Mr. Price is acting as Chairman of the group.

Mustard Jar Bank—That's what Cecil Sutley, driver for Jack Cole Company is setting up for little James Allen Brewster, 5, of Centreville, who lost both arms in a sawmill accident a month ago. Sutley, who learned of the case during a stop in Centreville, gathered up some of the big mustard jars, pasted the child's picture on them, and sent them to truck stops throughout Alabama.

Father and Son—Mr. S. A. Brewster and his son James Allen Brewster are pictured above. Mr. Brewster lost one arm in a sawmill accident many years ago, and about six weeks ago his son James Allen Brewster lost both arms in a sawmill accident. Many people over the nation have contributed to a trust fund for the education of young Brewster.

Holiday Houses Open Saturday

On Friday and Saturday, December 13th and 14th, five of Birmingham's most attractive homes, which will be decorated and arranged for the Christmas Season, will be shown as the Holiday Houses of 1952 of the Women's Organization of the Independent Presbyterian Church of that city.

The Holiday Houses of 1952 are the homes of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McNabb, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Shepherd, Dr. and Mrs. Clifford L. Lamar, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Upchurch, and D. and Mrs. J. B. Williams.

These homes will be open on Saturday from 11 am. to 6 p.m. and on Sundays from 2 to 6 p.m. Tea will be served each afternoon in the church parlors which will be festive with Christmas decorations and music. Tickets for the tour and tea combined will be sold at the church and at each Holiday House. "What a grand surprise! I wasn't expecting you so soon. When you phoned from the station and said you were back, I could hardly believe it. And now you're really here. It's wonderful!"

Good news travels fast . . . especially by telephone. The usefulness of telephone service can be beyond price in moments of happiness as in moments of anxiety. When such moments come, you are thankful for the quick reassurance a telephone call can bring.

Day in and day out, your telephone proves its value in so many ways.

High Milk Producers Mean Higher Profits

Good cows produce milk at a lower feed cost. John R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman, says this statement is based on a study of records on 46,439 individual cows from 27,153 herds in all parts of the U. S.

The survey showed that a cow producing 5,000 pounds of milk returned $134 above feed cost, or less than half the cost of producing milk. On the other hand, a cow producing 11,000 pounds returned $297, and a 17,000 pound producer returned $448. The cow producing 11,000 pounds of milk ate $41 worth of feed more than the cow that gave 5,000 pounds of milk.

Parrish adds that Alabama dairymen have some animals in all levels of production, but few of these cows produce over 9,000 pounds of milk. The 1951 Dairy Herd Improvement Association average was a little less than 5,000 pounds. However, this would have been higher if there had been favorable weather to produce more pasture and hay.

With these facts in mind, Parrish urges Alabama dairymen to use sound culling, feeding, breeding, and other herd management practices for more profitable dairying in 1953.

Time To Breed Cows For Fall Freshening

Cows that freshen in the fall produce more milk than those that calve at other seasons of the year.

"This being true," states Pete Turnham, API Extension dairy specialist, "now is an excellent time to breed cows to insure a constant supply of milk for next fall. Cows bred now will drop a calf early next September. This is the time when most milk will be needed because of the heavy school demand."

Turnham adds that cows bred to top quality bulls will mean extra dairy dollars for the farmer .And through artificial breeding of dairy cows, many dairymen can go a long way toward building a porfitable herd. Ask the local county agent for complete details.

Cost Of Price Support

The Department of Agriculture reported a drop of 80 per cent in the cost of price support programs during the 1951-52 fiscal year.

Betty Jean Smith Freshman President

An Albertville speech major will lead the Freshman Class as president during their first year at Alabama College.

Miss Betty Jean Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olen D. Smith, of Albertville, was chosen along with seven other officers of the freshman class during recent elections on the campus. Dora Duncan, Alexander City, was also candidate for president.

A liberal arts major from Andalusia, Sarah Booth, was selected from two other candidates as class vice president. Her opponents were Joan Munroe, Selma, and Syd Riggs, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Willodean Ruff, a Montgomery sociology major, was elected secretary of the class. Other candidates for this position were Ella McCrory, Greensboro; and Miriam Oglesby, Birmingham.

The treasurer, Ednell Chandler Linden, was also elected from three candidates. Others seeking this office were Shelah Saul, Birmingham; and Margaret Spence, Mobile.

Edna Jackson, liberal arts major from Decatur, will serve as freshman justice to the Student Court. Others running for the position of justice were: Marell Goodwin, Pinson; and Ann Oliver, Montgomery.

Three senators to represent the freshmen in the student senate were selected from ten candidates. There are Joyce Greathouse, Gadsden; Ida Jo Harrison, Opp; and Jean Missildine, Billingsley.

Other senatorial candidates were: Mildred Callen, Chickasaw; Betty Sue Fowler, Birmingham; Libby Kirkland, Montgomery; Beth Mathews, Birmingham; Norma Turman, Birmingham; Sylvia Weaver, Flat Top; and Betty Weiss, Mobile.

A HELPING HAND

Freshen Your Hats After A Rain

Ever get caught in the rain in your best new felt hat, and feel really sick about the shapeless result? There's a neat trick you can use that will make the hat just as good as new.

Put your tea kettle on and get the steam going good. Now, take crumpled tissue and stuff the hat so that it will hold its shape. Hold the hat over the spout of the tea kettle, sponging it gently with a soft cloth or a soft brush. Be very gentle, and you'll find that the spots will disappear and your hat will be as good as new.

If the hat had a veil and it doesn't perk up again with the steam treatment, just put a piece of wax paper over it and press quickly. It will be just as stiff as when you bought it.

Seal His Fate

Have You Bought Yours?

Christmas Seals are big guns in the fight against TB, the number one infectious killer in Shelby County, in Alabama and the nation.

"Have you bought yours yet?" asked Richard J. Ozley, Columbiana, president of the Shelby County Tuberculosis Association.

"This year's Seal shows one little candle, a candle burning in the window of hope — hope that someday TB can be knocked out. You can help keep that one little candle bright if you buy and use Christmas Seals."

More tuberculosis hospital beds, more money to run them and more adequate facilities to detect TB in the early stages are the greatest needs in Alabama.

This is the message of the Christmas Seal. The death rate from this disease has been forced down 85 per cent since the first Seals were sold 46 years ago.

But tuberculosis still strikes down too many people. This sad fact is emphasized by medical leaders who long ago announced TB can be prevented.

Christmas Seals will do their part if given a chance. "Have you bought yours yet?"

Local American Legion Post Has Best Record In Its History

Hendrick-Hudson Post No. 96 of the American Legion in Montevallo is on a membership "spree' that far out-distances any record of the past, and is still rolling higher and higher.

This week it is reported that the total membership of the Post has reached 171, the largest number of veterans ever to pay Post dues for one single year. In the membership contest of November 11 the local Post won all prizes offered by the Alabama Department.

A new higher goal has been set for January first at which time the Post is shooting for a total of 200 members.

What The Legion Does

The group of war veterans who are in Post 96 are men who manifest an interest in community affairs, in their personal attitudes as well as through the American Legion activities. Here are some of the community projects the Legion supports in this community:

1. Keeping on hand a relief fund that is available for aid to members who need it from time to time.
2. Sends a boy to Boys' State each year.
3. Makes annual donation to the Community Chest.
4. Donates to a fund known as "A Gift for the Yanks Who Gave."
5. Sponsors an oratorical contest in the high school each year.
6. Backs up and supports all programs for Americanism.

Mrs. S. J. McGaughy Died December 2

Mrs. S. J. McGaughy died at the family home in Montevallo at 12 noon on Tuesday, December 2.

She leaves to mourn her death, her husband, S. J. McGaughy; four sons, Luther, Alvin, George and Earl, all of Montevallo; three daughters, Mrs. Lena Chickscale, of Talladega; Mrs. Glennie Dee Clark, of Montevallo; Mrs. Mary Florence Turnbach, of Gadsden; 15 grandchildren; four brothers, Isaac Woody of West Blockton; William Woody, of Miami, Fla.; Seman Woody, of Birmingham; one sister, Mrs. Arthur Holcomb, of Montevallo; one uncle, Berry Woody, of Jemison.

Mrs. McGaughy was a member of Montevallo Baptist Church, the Sunday School Class and W.M.U., all of which she loved and attended faithfully until her health failed a few months ago.

Funeral services were conducted from the Montevallo Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. Officiating were Rev. Edward Glover, Rev. Clarence Clinkscale of Talladega, and Rev. Fred B. Pearson, of the First Baptist Church of Selma. Burial was in Montevallo Cemetery.

Shelby County Home Club News

1953 holds big plans for Shelby County Home Demonstration Clubs. Council officers will begin these plans at a luncheon meeting Friday in the Old Courthouse Auditorium.

Plans will include work to be included at the annual workshop, on Tuesday, January 12, and preliminary plans for attaining 1953 objectives, observing National Home Demonstration District meeting at Tuscaloosa, the Council Budget, Special Interest Demonstrations, Camp, Achievement Day, Dress Revue, Council funds, Roses, 4-H Rally, Annual Campaigns, and the equipment in extension kitchen.

Officers expected for the planning meeting are Mrs. F. E. Williams, president; Mrs. E. R. Naish, Mrs. F. R. Walls, vice presidents; Mrs. Carlos Warren, secretary; Mrs. W. A. Jones, treasurer; Mrs. Roma Steen, reporter; Mrs. Dean Holcombe, parliamentarian; Mrs. H. A. Pauly, Farm Bureau; Mrs. Leon Barton, Rural Youth; Mrs. George Bentley, citizenship and Mrs. Frank Wyatt, community activities.

Appeal Is Made To Goodfellows

Montevallo's Chief Goodfellow, Dr. Charlie Acker, this week appeals to all the people of the community to send in your contributions to the Goodfellows. These contributions will enable the organization to give Christmas gifts to the needy children of the community who otherwise would not be able to have Christmas toys, fruits, candy and such.

The Goodfellows through a cooperative plan with other Goodfellow organizations, will use the money received to purchase supplies at cost. The Montevallo Goodfellows will receive their supplies and will establish a store for the distribution of the gifts to children who will be notified.

Contributions are urgently needed for this worthy program. Anyone interested in becoming a Goodfellow may send their gifts to the Goodfellows, Montevallo Times, Montevallo, Alabama.

After eating Thanksgiving out anytime you enter a cafe, always ask for a table near a waiter.

Thompson High School News

Miss Kittye Clyde Crumpton was selected here today by the Senior Class and the Faculty to represent Thompson High School in the Good Citizenship Pilgrimage program.

Miss Crumpton is the first President of the newly formed Student Council here; secretary of the Beta Club; secretary of the Senior Class; President of the F. T. A.; Business Manager of the school annual, and last year represented Siluria at Girls' State.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Onley Crumpton of Siluria.

P.-T.A. committees will be hosts on Friday, December 12, at the school cafeteria, selling chicken dinners starting at 5:30. The proceeds from this sale will be used to purchase shrubbery for the new school plant here. The dinners will sell for one dollar each, and delivery to requested places will be made.

Mrs. John Kroell is general chairman of arrangements.

Calera Contract On Public Housing Bid For $314,400

The Calera Housing Authority received bids for the construction of 44 units of low-rent houses December 9. Eight bids were received. Low bidder was the Southeastern Manufacturing Company of Tuscaloosa, with a bid of $314,400.

Mr. Z. S. Cowart, Chairman of the Authority, states that Mr. Julius Pilgreen, Executive Director, will go to Atlanta on Thursday to complete the details and arrangements for award of the contract.

Construction time will be 200 days under the conditions of the specifications. This contract climaxes more than two years of planning by the Calera Authority in conjunction with Public Housing Administration. When completed the units will be available for rental only to families of low income. Each unit will be furnished with stove, refrigerator, water heater and space heaters.

FFA And FHA Joint Meeting

The county-wide joint F. F. A.-F. H. A. meeting will be held at Montevallo high school on December 17 at 7 p.m. All local members and those from the other high schools in the county are expected to attend. It is possible that over 300 will be in attendance. Beverly Doyle, president of Montevallo F. H. A. and Alton Smitherman, pres. of F. F. A., are in charge of making all the arrangements.

* * *

F. F. A. boys have completed six new bleachers for the school auditorium and the boys plan to complete enough to total 16.

* * *

Bill Norris, Joe Anderson, Guy Cupp, Jimmie Rochester and Marshall Nannini cooperated with the Study club in getting the Christmas tree placed on the corner by the post office.

Fifteen F. F. A. members will go along with 20 adults to visit the Alabama Flour Mills at Decatur on December 18. E. E. Aldridge, Montevallo Milling Co., is sponsoring the trip. A. L. Little and his G. I. on-the-farm trainees will be on the trip. Other invited guests include Dr. M. L .Orr and Mr. S. H. Hurt.

* * *

Fourth period vocational home economics girls and vocational agriculture boys are planning some joint classes dealing with how to make repairs around the home. Other topics of interest will be discussed.

D. A. R. Meeting

Mrs. T. H. Napier was hostess to David Lindsay Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, on Monday night.

The meeting was opened with the ritual and the pledge to the flag in unison.

Miss Annabeth Cash read the president general's message from the D. A. R. magazine, and presented Miss Eloise Meroney, who gave a most interesting talk on "Christmas Cutoms in Alabama," followed by a delightful reading of Julian Lee Rayford's "The First Christmas Dinner."

During the social hour the hostess served delicious refreshments to the fourteen members present.

VETERANS' COLUMN
STATE DEPT. OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By E. J. Sullivan

Here's some information for you ex-GIs who are thinking about building a home with a GI loan. Just every day, veterans come into our office seeking information about getting a GI loan. Even though the Government has relaxed the down payment requirements on new homes, I'm sorry to say that this hasn't done anything to improve the GI loan situation. As a matter of fact, GI guaranteed loan have just about dried up in most parts of the country. People are not willing to make loans at four per cent. There are some lending institution which may make these loans but they still require that you have a substantial down payment and agree to pay off your mortgage within a period of ten or twelve years. If you are unable to find someone who will put up the money, you can still make an application for a direct loan from the Veterans' Administration. However, our information is that these direct loans are few and far between. At the present time, the VA in Alabama is getting just about enough money to make eighty to a hundred loans every three months and the last time a check was made with the Regional Office in Montgomery, there were about 500 or 600 applications on the waiting list. When the Veterans' Administration receives your letter inquiring about a direct loan, they put it on file and you will take your place in the line with the wanting to make such a loan. Finally, when all those ahead of you have been given a chance to make a direct loan, you will be notified that your name has finally come up for consideration. Just how long this will be for those applying now, we are unable to say.

Alan T. Gresky At Oak Ridge Plant

Oak Ridge, Tenn., November 6, 1952 — Alan T. Gresky, son of Mrs. Luda K. Gresky of Montevallo, Ala., and Mr. John L. Gresky, of Birmingham, Ala., played a key role in the development of the chemical process to be used in the recently completed Idaho Chemical Processing Plant at Arco, Idaho. Mr. Gresky is a member of the Chemical Technology Division of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The Laboratory is the lagest Atomic Energy Commission laboratory in the United States, and is operated for the AEC by Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Company, a division of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation. The Oak Ridge National Laboratory is prominent in the field of reactor design and development as well as being the foremost producer of radioactive isotopes for use in Medicine, Pharmacy, Agriculture and Industry.

Mr. Gresky, 35, is a graduate of the University of Alabama in the field of chemistry. He entered the field of atomic energy in 1946.

Pontiac For 1953 Reduces Prices

Pontiac, first General Motors Division to unveil its 1953 cars, today announced price reductions up to $100.00 on certain models with no price increases on any models in the line, in spite of an entirely new and larger body, longer wheelbase, completely new interiors and a long list of new mechanical and engineering features.

This announcement was made by R. M. Critchfield, General Manager of Pontiac Motor Division. The new 1953 models went on display last Saturday.

Pontiac list prices for 1953 start at $1788.36 for the Chieftain Special Six, two-door sedan. Pontiac's DeLuxe Chieftain Eight, four-door sedan, which is expected to account for about 50 per cent of next year's volume, carries a list price of only $2009.51. Price reductions on Station Wagons run from $28.00 to slightly in excess of $100.00.

All 1953 Pontiacs will be offered with either a six or eight cylinder engine with G. M. Hydra-Matic Drive and Power Steering optional. See it now at Shaw Motor Co. in Montevallo, your local Pontiac dealer.

Gifts From The Preserving Pot

"Gifts from the Preserving pot" was the demonstration in Home Demonstration Clubs in November.

Food leaders made amber and carrot-orange marmalades. They stated that marmalades have the combined characteristics of jellies and preserves, counting pulp and the fruit skin suspended in jelled juice; citrus fruits are especially desirable for their flavor and pectic contact; the pectin is extracted more rapidly by cooking the fruit before the sugar is added; the fruit is added in slices or shreds and is cooked until clear.

These leaders gave the demonstration in their clubs; Mrs. F. R. Walls, Mrs. J. C. Murdock, Yellow Leaf; Mrs. L. L. Bartin, Mrs. Nina Kent, Siluria; Mrs. Charles Cordes, West Calera; Mrs. Frank Wyatt, Klien; Mrs. W. H. Chapman, Columbiana; Mrs. J. M. Sorrell, Calera; Mrs. J. P. Woods, South Calera; Mrs. Tom Knowles, Spring Creek-Valley Grove; Mrs. W. J. Strickland, Mrs. George Lee Green, Helena; Mrs. J. M. Denson, New Hope; Mrs. Irval Arnold, Mrs. J. L. Campbell, Acton; Mrs. Roma Steen, Mrs. W. J. Bailey, Mrs. W. L. Brasher, Sterrett; Mrs. Thomas Gillen, Mrs. A. D. Glover, Mt. Era; Mrs. W. A. Jones, Mrs. Frank Green, Ebenezer; and Mrs. J. W. Willis, Mrs. H. P. Cox, Saginaw.

Amber Marmalade was made from this recipe. 1 orange, 1 grapefruit, 1 lemon, and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Use 1 of each and select yellow-smooth, thick-skinned fruit, free from blemishes, remove peel and slice very thin. Parboil 3 times, as follows: add 1 quart of cold water, bring to boiling, cook for 5 minutes, and discard water after each boiling. Cut pulp into thin slices, removing seeds and rag. Combine pulp and drained parboiled peel.

Weight or measure fruit, pulp, juice and parboiled peel. Add twice that quantity of water. Boil mixture rapidly 40 minutes before measuring for amount of sugar.

Weight or measure mixture and add equal amount of sugar. Add salt and boil mixture rapidly for 25 minutes, or until jelly stage is reached. If a thick marmalade is desired, boil longer, but watch it carefully to prevent scorching. Let stand until slightly cool. Then stir to distribute fruit. Put into pint jars. Process in a water-bath canner at 212 degrees F. for 15 minutes.

Westinghouse To Build A Large Manufacturing Plant Near Here

The Montevallo Times

VOL. 20 MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA, DECEMBER 18, 1952 NUMBER 33

Location Is 52-Acre Site At The Lawler Farm

Westinghouse Electric Corporation will build an ultramodern plant for the manufacture of welding electrodes and brazing alloys near Montevallo, it was announced today.

Otis O. Rae, of Atlanta, Georgia, manager of the company's Southeastern District, and Tom Turner, Vice President, Motor and Control Division, Buffalo, New York, revealed the plan fo rthe new plant at a press conference and luncheon which included as guests, area civic and business leaders and Westinghouse officials. The plant will be located on a 52-acre site at the Lawler Farm, two and one-half miles east of Montevallo on state Highway 25.

The new plant will be the first welding electrode plant in the South. "Its principal products—welding electrodes," Mr. Rae said, "will supply all of the South and the Pacific Coast states, and the brazing alloys manufactured here will be shipped throughout the United States."

Plans call for a one-story steel and brick structure running more than 400 feet along state Highway 25, and the most modern materials handling system available.

Mr. Turner said, "Westinghouse included this welding electrode plant in its $296 million dollars expansion because of the increased activity in metal working industries in the South, and the resulting expanded market for welding products."

This plant will more than double the company's production capacity in this line of products.

"In addition to welding electrodes for normal industrial use, it will be equipped to produce some of the newest and latest types of electrodes that are being developed for Armed Forces' requirements.

"Although there are many preliminary architectural details to be settled, we hope construction can be started in February," Mr. Turner declared. "Our target date for completion is September, 1953. If those schedules are met, full operation of the plant should be possible by early 1954.

"This plant," the Westinghouse Vice-President continued," is in addition to our welding electrode plant at Trafford Pennsylvania. The space vacated in Buffalo by moving the brazing alloy production to Montevallo will be used for expanding normal Buffalo products."

Explaining the operation of the plant, James O. Clevenger, manager of the Arc welding department of the Motor Control Division said "We will take hot rolled steel rod of the type manafactured in this area and draw it to size and per-complete circuit of the plant—baking, and packaging operations. The plant will have the last word in materials handling equipment. From the moment the raw materials enter the center of the plant on a Southern Railroad siding, they will be moved by conveyors through a complete circelt of the plant—through all of the manufacturing operations including giant baking ovens—and come out again as packaged products, ready for shipment on a railroad siding parallel to the incoming tracks."

"With an eye to the future," Mr. Clevenger said, "Westinghouse has purchased enough ground from the Lawler Farms to permit the Montevallo-Calera plant to be expanded if this becomes feasible."

At least 95 per cent of the new

Westinghouse Names R. E. Ballentine As Plant Manager

Birmingham, Dec. 18—The appointment of Rechard E. Ballentine as plant manager for the Westinghouse welding-electrode plant soon to be constructed at Montevallo was announced here today by James O. Clevenger, manager of the Arc-welding Department, Westinghouse Motor and Control Division.

The announcement was made at a luncheon meeting today of business and civic officials of this area at the Mountain Brook Club, where detailed plans for the new plant were revealed by Tom Turner, Vice-President in charge of the Westinghouse Motor and Control Division, Buffalo, New York.

Until completion of the new plant, which is expected in September of 1953, Mr. Ballentine will continue in his present function as development engineer on brazing alloys for the division.

Mr. Ballentine has been associated with Westinghouse since 1940 when he joined the Westinghouse Research Laboratories in Pittsburgh. He was promoted to his present position in 1946.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1915, Mr. Ballentine attended the Carnegie Institute of Technology. Prior to joining Westinghouse he was associated for six years with the Otis Steel Corporation.

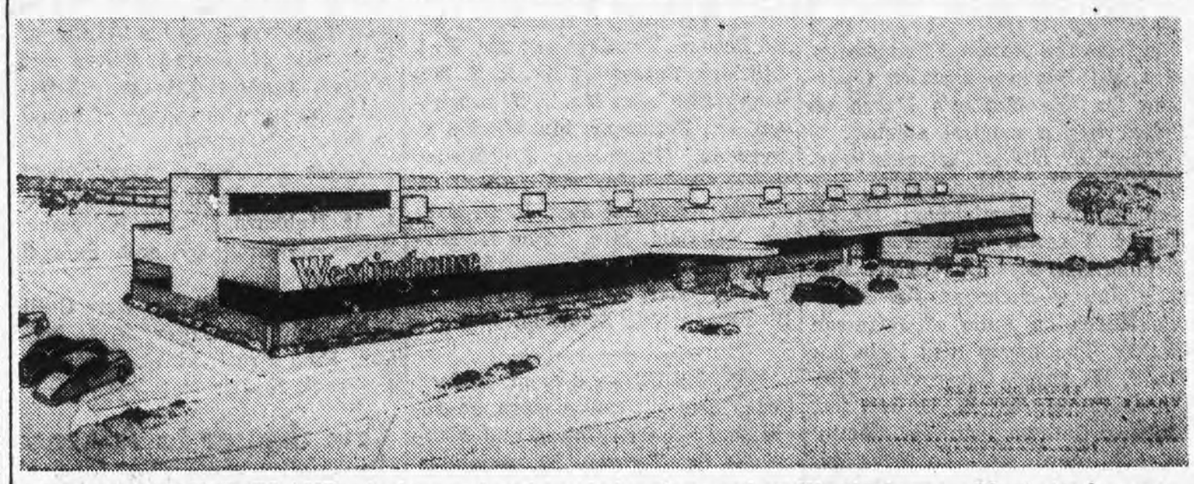

Mr. and Mrs. Ballentine and their children will relocate in Montevallo sometime during the summer 1953.

Goodfellows Will Distribute Gifts To Local Children

Dr. Charlie Acker, Chief Goodfellow for Montevallo, this week announces that a total of $215.25 has been contributed by Montevallo Goodfellows toward providing for Santa Claus to visit the underprivileged children of the community. Names of those who have thus far contributed are listed elsewhere in this paper. Money is still needed and everyone is urged to send in their contribution to Dr. Acker or the Montevallo Times.

Word has been received by the Montevallo Goodfellows that a Howard Hall truck will bring the toys, fruit and candy to Columbiana Friday night. A delegation of Goodfellows from the Montevallo Rotary Club will journey to Columbiana with a truck provided by the Montevallo Motor Company and bring back enough supplies for the 150 children of this community who have been notified by

Montevallo Plans For Extensions To Gas And Water Systems

It may now be said that the basic reason why Montevallo was able to secure the location of the Westinghouse plant was its ability o supply he plant with necessary natural gas and water.

The construction of our municipal natural gas system, served by Southern Natural Gas Company, two years ago, provided the enswer in advance to any industry that might consider gas as a prerequisite to location here. That stands for Westinghouse and any others who might be intreested.

When the prospect of Westinghouse coming here was first mentioned, the Montevallo Water Board promptly assured the company that they could depend upon Montevallo furnishing them necessary water at the plant site.

Therefore, the Water Board employed Goodwin Engineering Company to make plans and specifications for providing the water requirements of Westinghouse—also for the necessary improvement and expansion of the city's water plant for present and future requirements of the community.

Goodwin has completed the preliminary estimates. They have been presented to the Water Board. Financiers have assured the Water Board that he proposal of Goodwin will stand up under bond requirements.

So, we will be able to furnish water to Westinghouse, also to expand our community supply.

A large main will be built from the present terminus of the city system to the Westinghouse plant site, together with a 300,000 gallon storage tank near the plant.

WESTINGHOUSE — Our Santa Claus

Westinghouse Electric Corporation gives us this week the biggest piece of news that we have ever had the privilege of recording for the Montevallo area in the announcement that the company has chosen to establish near here "an ultramodern plant for the manufacture of welding electrodes and brazing alloys."

The plant is to be located on a 52-acre site, part of the Lawler Farm, two and a half miles east of Montevallo, on State Highway 25, and on the Southern Railway.

"At least 95 per cent of the new plant's working force will be hired in the Shelby County area," Westinghouse officials said.

While Westinghouse is one of our country's biggest manufacturing industries, it must be realized that, after all, it is composed of people—good people—who want a good place to live and rear their families while they go about their business duties and operations.

It is natural for them to have this very important consideration in mind when they pick a place to set up a factory. We may be sure that our area was screened very closely by Westinghouse before they chose to come here—and we may very justly take pride in the fact that they found here the basic human and spiritual values they desired in the people whom they might choose as neighbors, as well as the material values necessary to their industrial operations.

Mr. Otis Rae, Southeastern District Manager for Westinghouse, said: "The decision to locate in Montevallo proves that we consider this a progressive area with a very bright future—a community which Westinghouse is proud to call its 'home'. We will make every effort to prove by our actions that Westinghouse is a good neighbor in all respects. The key supervisors who come here from other company plants will be the sort of folks who will want to become a part of your community and do their share in helping you make it an even finer place to live and work."

Fair enough, Mr. Rae, and now you and your folks may come in and be at home with us. What we have, we are glad to share with you and you can be sure that we appreciate your coming to be one of us.

The Study Club

The Montevallo Study Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. P. Givhan, with Mrs. L. C. Parnell as co-hostess. The home was beautifully decorated with flowers and Christmas motifs. As the guests arrived they were served refreshments. Mrs. L. H. Hubbard poured coffee.

Mrs. Frank Baker presented a review of the Broadway comedy, "Mrs. McThing," by Mary Chase.

After the program, Mrs. L. H. Hubbard, President, presided over the business session.

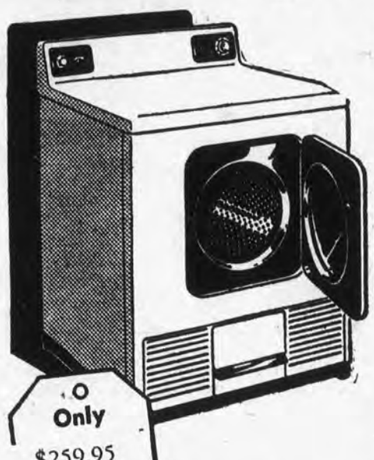

The next meeting will be held on January 27 at the home of Mrs. Eugene Reynolds, with Mrs. W. J. Kennerly as co-hostess.

At Christmas Season we should:

1. Forget what we have done for others.
2. Remember what others have done for us.
3. Ignore what the world owes us and think what we owe the world.
4. Put our rights in the background, our duties in the middle distance, and our chances to do a little more than our duty in the foreground.
5. Look to see that our fellowmen are just as real as we are, and try to look behind their faces to their hearts hungry for joy.
6. Close our book of complaints against the management of the universe, and look for places to sow seeds of happiness.
7. Stoop down and consider the needs and desires of little children.
8. Remember the weakness and loneliness of people who are growing old.
9. Stop asking how much our friends love us and ask ourselves whether we love them enough.
10. Bear in mind the things that other people have to trouble their hearts.
11. Make a grave of our ugly thoughts and a garden for our kindly feelings with the gate open.
12. Believe that the blessed life which began in Bethlehem is the image and brightness of eternal love.

F. F. A. Boys like Christmas Because:

1. Of the spirit of good will among men.
2. We are given a vacation from school.
3. Our families will be reunited.

Farm Training

This column is prepared by E. J. Sullivan, Veterans' Service Officer, State Department of Veterans' Affairs, Shelby County. His office is located on the second floor of the Reporter Building, Columbiana, Alabama. I have some information for you Korean veterans who have been planning on taking farm training under the new Korean GI Bill. It seems that there has been some delay in getting these applications approved and the situation as it exists in Alabama seems to be the same all over the nation.

The Korean GI Bill allows veterans to enroll in a farm training program and receive subsistence allowance from the Veterans' Administration while they are learning.

Right now, there seems to be a little catch to this farm training program for these reasons: Before a veteran can enroll in a program and receive subsistence allowance, the program must be approved by the State Approval Agency. In Alabama, the State Approval Agency has been designated as the Department of Education. After a program has been designated, it is only natural that the veterans training be closely supervised to be sure that he is really receiving training which will eventually enable him to operate his own farm without any assistance from anyone else.

We all know that in order to set up such a program, we must have teachers who are thoroughly schooled in Agriculture. In addition, we must have a number of clerical personnel to take care of all book work involved. In order to set up such a program, it is absolutely necessary that a certain amount of money be available. It so happened that when Congress passed the Korean GI Bill, no provisions were made to pay for the cost by State Agencies for administering the various programs. The department of education can not supervise the program without the money. No money has been made available by the Federal Government. Right at the present time the Farm training program seems to be at a standstill.

Retail Sales Show Increase

Retail Sales in Alabama rose 4 per cent in August over July for all concerns, according to an 88 per cent sample of firms reporting to the State Department of Revenue.

"Retail Trade Report" a monthly publication of the University of Alabama Bureau of Business Research states that general merchandise stores showed the largest rise — 18 per cent — with gains of 12 to 14 per cent, recorded by clothing stores, secondhand stores, and miscellaneous concerns.

The only groups listing a drop in sales were automobile, lumber and building material, and tabulating equipment concerns, the Trade Report said.

Although almost two thirds of the state's 67 counties reported all retail sales below August 1951, the change from July 1952 to August 1952 for Shelby County was a 1.6 per cent increase.

Food sales which account for 17 per cent of the retail sales in the state were up 5 per cent in August over the preceeding month. Drug store sales were also up slightly—3 per cent— over July and clothing sales which account for 3.45 per cent of the state's toal sales were up 12.2 per cent over July and 12.6 per cent over August 1951.

Big New '53 FORD
THE NEW STANDARD OF THE AMERICAN ROAD!

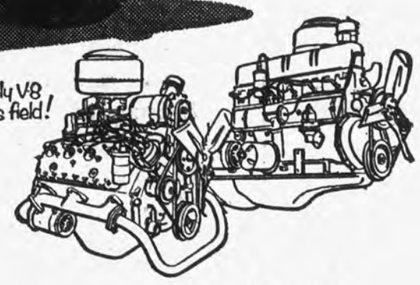

Fordomatic Drive, Overdrive, white sidewall tires optional at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

With 41 "Worth More" features . . .
it's worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it!

This '53 Ford sets an entirely new standard for the American Road. For in the big new Ford you'll find 41 "Worth More" features that give you more of the things you want... more of the things you need... than ever before in low-priced car history.

You'll find the "Go" you need to handle today's long-distance driving. You'll enjoy Ford's new Miracle Ride that brings you the smooth, quiet riding comfort you need for today's level parkways or rough, rutted byways . . . plus nearly effortless steering, braking, and parking. And you'll see beauty that belongs wherever you may drive.

When you see this new Ford at your Ford Dealer's, you'll understand why it is worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it. You'll agree that here, indeed, is the New Standard of the American Road!

CHOICE OF V-8 OR SIX

Ford's famous 110-h.p. high-compression Strato-Star V-8 has a partner for thrifty "Go" in the 101-h.p. low-friction, high-compression Mileage Maker Six. Ford Automatic Power Pilot gives high-compression "Go" with regular gas.

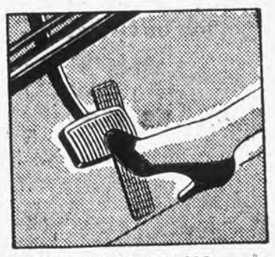

A few of the 41 "Worth More" features in the 1953 Ford

NEW MIRACLE RIDE—Not just more responsive spring and shock absorber action, not just foam rubber cushions, but a balanced ride that gives you a new concept of comfort.

SHIFT TO FORDOMATIC—and you'll never shift again. It's the finest, most versatile automatic drive ever. And remember, Ford also offers the smooth and thrifty Overdrive.

POWER-PIVOT PEDALS — are suspended from above to eliminate dusty, drafty floor holes. They give more unobstructed floor space and provide easier pedal operation.

CENTER-FILL FUELING — prevents hose marks, and makes "filling up" easier from either side of gas pump. Shorter gas filler pipe gives you trunk space for an extra suitcase.

FULL-CIRCLE VISIBILITY—with huge, curved, one-piece windshield, a car-wide, one-piece rear window and big picture windows all around—gives you visibility unlimited.

WESTINGHOUSE TO LOCATE NEAR HERE

plant's working force will be hired from the Shelby County area, Westinghouse officials said. Announcement will be made when applications for employment can be filed. A skeleton force from the Buffalo plant will come to Montevallo, and instructors from the company's other welding operation will come in temporarily to give on-the-job training to new employes.

"Of course the industrial growth of the South was a factor in our decision to come here," Mr. Rae said. "Westinghouse in recent years has located a number of its new plants in the South. In fact, we have located three plants in Ala., in the past two years—the one we are announcing today, a lamp plant just into production at Reform, and a District Manufacturing and Repair plant in Birmingham. Several weeks ago we broke ground for a new electric meter plant at Raliegh, North Carolina, and a flourescent lighting fixture plant at Vicksburg, Mississippi. We have other lamp plants at Richmond, and Owensboro, Kentucky, Little Rock, Arkansas, and Paris, Texas. A new Westinghouse subsidiary plant at Hampton, South Carolina, produces Micara, a laminated plastic rapidly growing in popularity for many industrial uses in addition to its extensive use in Westinghouse products of all types.

"We are happy to have found such an ideal location for this welding electrode plant," Mr. Rae said. "The Shelby County area offers industry a great many advantages. There is a good labor supply, the tax structure is fair to new industry, and there are available utilities and rail transportation. We looked the South and Alabama over thoroughly for just this sort of community. We needed something closer to our markets, so that we could offer prompt customer service. In the Montevallo-Calera area, we found all of these features plus a readily available supply of steel in the form and quantity necessary. But above all, the thing we liked most, is that the community seems to really want us as a neighbor.

"The decision to locate in Montevallo proves that we consider this a progressive area with a bright future—a community which Westinghouse is proud to call 'home!' We will make every effort to prove by our actions that Westinghouse is a good neighbor in all respects. The few key supervisors who come here from our other company plants will be the sort of folks who will want to become part of your community and do their share in helping you make it an even finer place to live and to work."

Mr. Rae expressed his and the company's thanks for the help of leading state, county and city officials and organizations who assisted Westinghouse in its search for and acquisition of the new plant site, declaring:

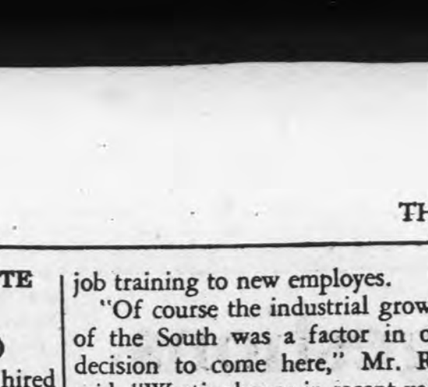

"We are very grateful for the wonderful cooperation and assistance we received from everyone. Of special importance in bringing us to Alabama was Thomas W. Martin, chairman of the board of Alabama Power and Light Company and A. V. Wiebel, President of Tennessee Coal and Iron Division of the United States Steel Corporation at Birmingham; and officials of the Southern Railroad.

"Also important were these folks from the Montevallo-Calera area: W. M. Wyatt, Mayor of Montevallo; and O. C. Farris, Mayor of Calera; Probate Judge L. C. Walker of Columbiana; F. P. Givhan, president of Montevallo's Chamber of Commerce; and Roy Downs, president of Central State Bank at Calera.

"Without the help of all these folks, our job of finding this new Westinghouse home would have been infinitely more difficult."

In addition to Mr. Turner, Mr. Rae and Mr. Clevenger and a number of other Westinghouse executives from Pittsburgh, Pa., Buffalo, N. Y., Atlanta, Ga., and Birmingham, attended today's announcement. From Buffalo, Richard A. Ballentine, manager of the new Montevallo plant. From the Pittsburgh offices; W. W. Wendelken, construction project engineer.

From the Southeastern District offices in Atlanta were: W. F. Harwood, district welding supervisor, and L. E. Moser, application data manager of the Southeastern District. From Birmingham: J. M. Oliver, Manager of the Birmingham Office.

Eugene Baldwin Flying In Japan

Japan Air Defense Force — 2nd Lt. Eugene F. Baldwin, of Montevallo, Ala., an all-weather fighter pilot with the 68th "Lightning Lancers" squadron charged with the air defense of southern Japan, climbs into the cockpit of his U. S. Air Force F-94 jet interceptor prior to a mission for the Japan Air Defense Force. Since his arrival in the Far East in July, 1952, Lieutenant Baldwin has been awarded the Korean Service Medal and United Nations Service Ribbon for flying round-the-clock intercept missions.

Following recall to active duty in October, 1950, he graduated from pilot training in February, 1952, and attended the Air Force instrument School at Moody AFB, Ga., and the all-weather jet interceptor school at Tyndall AFB, Fla., before going overseas. Lt. Baldwin's mother, Mrs. T. W. Embry lives at Vincent, Ala.

"Messiah" Is Sung By 75 Voice Chorous

Alabama College alumnae who are former members of the College Glee Club returned to the campus from all parts of the state December 13 to sing in the Music School's 30th annual "Messiah" performance.

At 8 o'clock in Palmer Auditorium last Saturday evening, Handel's majestic oratorio was sung by a chorus of more than 75 voices, composed of members of the College Chorus and College Chorale, in addition to the alumnae guest singers.

Harrison D. LeBaron, Director of the School of Music, directed the Messiah presentation, a traditional event of the Yuletide season on he campus since 1933.

The choral group sang eight choruses from the Christmas and prophetic portions of Handel's masterpiece, accompanied by Mrs. Maxine C. Davis, pianist; and also Putnam Porter, organist.

Farm Suggestions

By A. A. Lauderdale
County Agent

Fall Breeding is One Key To Good Dairying

Efficient milk production is every dairy farmer's goal in Alabama. And efficient production means more money in the bank.

Pete Turnham, API Extension dairyman, says one good way to increase dairy income is to breed dairy cows so they will freshen in the fall. He points out that fall freshening cows produce more milk.

Cows that drop a calf in the spring are bothered by flies and other insects. Also, these cows will be at the peak of milk production when pastures start getting dry and unpalatable. On the other hand fall freshening cows will be near the end of their production period at this time, and adverse heat won't bother them.

Protect Farm Heating Lamps From Breakage

Infrared heat lamps are coming into wide use on Alabama farms for brooding chicks, pigs, and turkeys.

William T. Cox, API Extension specialist in farm buildings, warns that these lamps can be dangerous if they are not properly protected against breakage.

The 250-watt R40 lamp is the one most commonly used on farms. These lamps can be obtained in either hard glass or regular glass. The hard glass lamp will not break as easily as the regular lamp, but it costs about three times as much.

Cox states that the higher cost of the hard glass lamps has limited their use, but they are safer. For example, the regular infrared heat lamp will beak if it is hot when a pig's nose, wet glove, dripping water, or chicken droppings come in contact with it.

Good Land Use Means Livestock Production

On many Alabama farms there are areas of open land where row crops cannot be grown continuously without serious erosion damage.

"Many such areas have already eroded to the point where they are no longer fit for cultivation," declares S. R. Doughty, API Extension soil conservationist.

He adds that now is a good time to get such land ready for planting sericea, kudzu, and other sod crops to be grazed by livestock. When livestock graze these soil-saving crops, meat is produced for sale but most of the plant food is returned to the soil.

New Broiler Publication Available

County Agent A. A. Lauderdale announced today that a new publication on broiler production has just been released by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and is available free at his office.

The new circular, "More Profits From Alabama Broilers", was written by John P. Weeks, Extension Poultry Specialist. It will be of value to the beginner and the experienced broiler grower. Such important subjects as starting, feeding, management, and flock health are clearly outlined.

Mr. Lauderdale says that those who wish to get this bulletin, outlining the latest recommendations on our rapidly expanding broiler program, can call by his office or request it by mail.

Picture Films Are Now Available

More than 50 different 16mm motion picture films are now available for loan to Montevallo and Calera civic, social, and educational groups from Southern Bell Telephone Company's film library, S. C. Stutts, local company manager announced today.

Since the library is maintained as a public service, no charge is made for the use of the films, Mr. Stutts said.

The popularity of these films throughout the state is indicated by the large number of people who view them each month. In November nearly 20,000 adults and children attended showings held at 340 group meetings.

The library offers films on a wide variety of subjects such as motor vehicle safety, telephone courtesy and fire hazards in the home.

A complete listing of films and information on how to borrow them may be obtained at the telephone company's business office at 1817 4th Avenue, North, Bessemer, Alabama, telephone number 5-9011, Mr. Stutts said.

W.S.C.S. Held Its Mid-Year Meeting

The mid-year meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Tuscaloosa District was held on December 9th at the First Methodist Church in Tuscaloosa with Mrs. L. B. Luckie To Get Special Training

A. R. Luckie selected by Southern Bell Telephone Company to receive special instruction at the company's state offices in Birmingham completed his training last week.

A supervisor in the telephone company's plant department, Mr. Luckie studied the latest practices in job planning to give the subscriber the highest type of telephone service possible. Major points stressed during the course included the elimination of potential accident hazards and the elimination of unnecessary operations that might result in slower service for telephone applicants.

Mr. Luckie has been an employee of the company for 11 years.

184 Gift Packages Distributed By The Goodfellows

The Montevallo Goodfellows distributed 184 packages of fruit, nuts, candy and toys to the needy children of this area Tuesday. These packages were made possible through contributors to the Goodfellow fund by individuals and organizations in the community.

By purchasing supplies in large quantites with other county Goodfellows, each child can be supplied at an average cost of $2.00

A group of Goodfellows from the Rotary Club journeyed to Columbiana Friday night and brought back a truck load of supplies which we used to make up individual packages by members of the Study Club on Monday. Ladies from the Yomaso Club spent Tuesday distributing the gifts.

Dr. Charlie Acker, Chief Goodfellow states that money is still needed and urges everyone to send their contribution to this newspaper.

Christmas Gifts Are Not Always Brought by Santa

In America it is always Santa Claus, dashing from rooftop to rooftop in his sleigh, that brings Christmas gifts to the children. But it is not always Santa who brings the gifts to children in other lands.

In Holland it is St. Nicholas, dressed in bishop's robes of black, wearing a mitre and carrying the crozier. And he arrives on a white horse.

English children look for a Santa Claus who closely resembles our own and gifts are tied to Christmas trees.

In Finland, Santa has elves who passes out gifts for him.

In Italy there is no Santa Claus. Instead, they have a beneficent old witch, Befona, who sails through the air on a broom stick on Christmas Eve.

Brazil has Papa Noel, very much like Santa. He wears a red suit and travels in a sleigh drawn by reindeer. However, he enters the house through a window.

Spanish children place their straw-filled sleeves on the window sills so that the Magi may feed their horses while they leave gifts. The older people fill an Urn of Fate from which gifts are drawn on Christmas Day.

THE JOY OF CHRISTMAS . . . Much of the joy of Christmas for mothers and fathers is watching the thrill children get from finding toys under the tree. These children express their joy on Christmas morning. Much of the joy for the children is the anticipation of and mystery in Santa's visit and the guessing about what the old fellow will bring.

The Indian was a fine physical specimen. The average Indian was tall, erect, and muscular. He had high cheek bones, and sharp piercing eyes. His complexion was cinnamon-brown or copper. Compared to the Indian, the white man seemed so colorless that the Indian called him "pale face."

Bay and Rosemary Christmas Tradition

Bay and rosemary have also been represented among our Christmas plants from time immemorial. An ancient writer says: "Rosemarie and Baies that are most faire were stuck about the houses and the churches at the time of Christmas."

According to tradition it was the bay tree, with its lance-like leaves and purple berries, that sheltered the holy family during a thunderstorm. Accordingly it was believed that lightning will never strike a bay tree.

The association of the rosemary plant with Christmas also goes back to the early childhood of our Lord, namely to the flight into Egypt to escape the wrath and jealousy of King Herod. Its branches are said to have held the little garments of the Christ-Child that were placed upon them by the Virgin Mother. Originally, its flowers were supposed to have been white, but the plant changed the color of its blossoms to lavendar, same as Mary's cloak.

Sometimes several families lived together in one small dwelling. They slept either on the ground or on split logs. Soft animal skins served for both padding and cover. Cherokee boys liked to sleep under panther skins, for they thought it made them strong and cunning like the panther.

Sometimes groups of relatives owned what was called a "hot house, in which they all slept when the weather as very cold. Near the cabins, family storehouses were located. Here the Indians kept their food, extra clothing, and weapons. After the white man came, Indians learned to build log houses.

Two Initiates In Music Fraternity

Two Alabama College music school seniors, Mary Brown of Mobile and Janice Wilson of Birmingham were initiated into Pi Kappa Lambda, honorary music fraternity, at special initiation ceremonies held on the Montevallo campus last week.

Both girls are piano students of Miecislaw Ziolkowski, Professor of Music at Alabama College; and both plan to do graduate work in music after receiving their Bachelor's degrees in June.

Founded in 1918 on the campus of Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, Pi Kappa Lambda stresses excellence in musical performance and interpretation. Psi chapter located at Alabama College was founded in 1947. Only two members are initiated into Psi chapter each year, both initiates being senior music students.

This year's initiation and banquet was held in Alabama College's Reynolds Hall. Putnam Porter, assistant professor of music and the president of Psi chapter, presided at the initiation banquet and initiation ceremonies.

XXXMAS KISSES

Mistletoe Bestows Good Fortune

VERY few people don't know what a sprig of mistletoe means at Christmas time—especially when there's a pretty girl standing beneath it! But few people realize that this very pleasant custom has its root in age-old superstitions.

The lore of primitive days contains many references to mistletoe.

According to an ancient Norse legend, the sun god was slain by an arrow fashioned from the mistletoe plant. He was resurrected by his mother's tears, which falling upon the plant, were crystallized into pearly berries. Because of this magical healing, it was ordained that mistletoe should grow neither on heaven nor earth, but suspended between. That is the reason, runs the legend, that mistletoe is found growing on trees.

Mistletoe was of special significance to the Druids, ancient pagan priests of England, who cut it off trees with a golden knife used only for that purpose. They believed it possessed wonderful powers of healing and acted as a protection from witchcraft. During the December religious rites, it was bestowed upon individuals as a special mark of honor.

Because of its supposed salutary properties, mistletoe was often hung over the doors of primitive houses as a sign of good-will. Belief in magic has disappeared, but this custom still remains. And a kiss under the mistletoe still has beneficent effects. Try it and see for yourself!

Cultivation was carried on by means of crude plows and hoes. Iron in early Alabama was very scarce; so most plows were made of wood. They did not last very long and this added to the pioneer's burden. The hoe was widely used, and women and children helped with the work of raising corn and other crops.

Watch Out For Marked Birds

Auburn, Ala., — Dr. Arnold O. Haugen, head of the Alabama Co-operative Wildlife Research Unit here, urged hunters and trappers today to forward to him all leg bands and ear clips found on game animals and birds killed in Alabama.

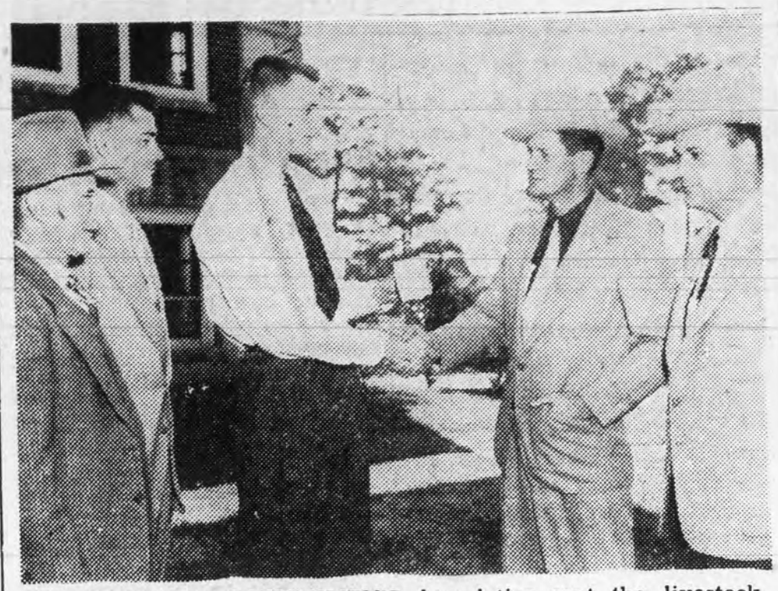

Dr. Haugen said the success of research projects being conducted by his unit depends on receipt of these bands and clips. Hunters should watch for them in doves, squirrels, rabbits and foxes, he said.

Also, the Fish and Wildlife Service desires to receive all leg bands taken from waterfowl killed in Alabama.

Through these markings, wildlife experts are able to determine the best means to improve game and waterfowl populations and habitats, thereby improving the state's hunting.

Bands and clips should be mailed to Wildlife Research Unit, Auburn, Ala.

Guard Against Christmas Fires

Montgomery, Ala. — The State Division of Forestry joined the National Board of Fire Underwriters today in an appeal to home owners to keep Christmas merry by guarding against Christmas tree fires.

Every year at the yuletide season, hundreds of Americans die of burns suffered in fires started by flaming Christmas decorations.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters lists the following suggestions for holiday safety:

1. Do not leave tree lights burning when no one is home.

2. Choose a small tree. It's less dangerous than a large one.

3. Don't set it up until a few days before Christmas. Until then keep it outdoors.

4. Place it in the coolest part of the house, away from fireplaces or raidators. And don't let it block an exit.

5. Stand it in water, or use a live tree planted in a tub of earth.

6. Never use cotton or paper for decoration on or around the tree.

7. Do not put electric trains under the tree.

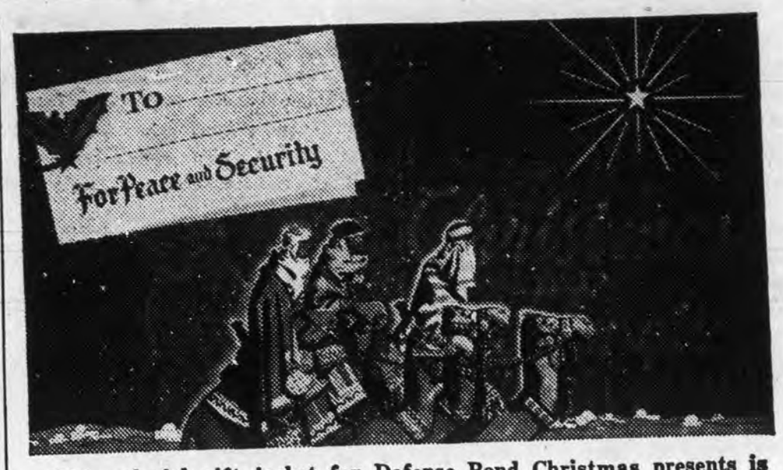

8. Use only electric lights, never candles, and see that the wires are not frayed. Be sure the lighting sets you choose are marked as having been inspected by Underwriter's Laboratories, Inc.

9. Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning tree lights on and off. Don't plug or unplug them beneath the tree.

10. Throw away all gift wrappings as soon as the presents have been opened; don't let them pile up near the tree.

Christmas Rose Enhances Yule's Festival Mood

AMERICANS usually decorate their homes at Christmas time with holly, evergreens, or hothouse plants. Recently, however, they have found a new friend in the Christmas-rose. Nurserymen say this plant's popularity has skyrocketed in the last few years.

The Christmas-rose is not really a rose at all but belongs to the crowfoot family. It is a small plant no more than a foot high when mature. Nevertheless, it can put forth seven or eight small white roselike blooms tinged with pink.

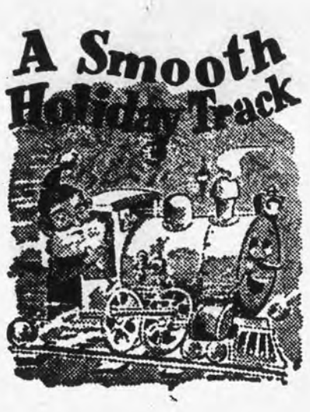

Called by botanists Helleborus niger or black hellebore, it gets this name from its black stalks. The Christmas-rose is no freak, no super-precocious flower or early-blooming plant. This ligitimate child of winter flowers naturally in December or January. It withstands snow and low temperatures, demanding only some sort of shelter from the snow.

Helleborus niger does not propagate well in the United States. Hence, most of the tiny plants are imported from Belgium and the Netherlands. They develop best only in the western part of those countries where they thrive in soil peculiar to the region.

The ancient Romans knew about the Christmas-rose and eagerly sought it for medicinal use. They believed that eating the roots would "clear the brain, cure stupidity and relieve insanity."

"Let him sail to Anticyra," said the poet, Horace, of an ill friend. Anticyra was a Greek town where the black Hellebore flourished.

The Helleborus family is indigenous to southern Europe and the Mediterranean regions. The Christmas-rose variety came originally from Austria.

The Indian tribes of early Alabama lived in towns or villages scattered from one end of the present State boundary to the other. All villages were laid out in about the same way. On the highest ground within the village stood the house of the chief. Sometimes a mound would be built in the center of the town and the chief's house would be erected on this mound. Near the chief's house were the houses of his attendants, those who took care of his wants and needs.

The houes of the more important families of the Indian tribe were grouped around the chief's home. But these houses were on a lower ground than the chief's The least important member of the tribe lived the greatest distance from the chief.

In early days, the Indian's cabin was made of bark or of the skins of animals stretched over poles. A small opening, which had an animal skin hung over it, served as a door. Some of the cabins were lined with clay for greater protection from the weather.

Noel Preparations Started in Norway In Middle of Year

CHRISTMAS just couldn't help being the event of events in Norway when grandmother was a girl.

Without exaggeration, preparation for Christmas actually began six months before December 24. Everything which was used—food, clothing, household furnishings—was prepared in the home. Even the leather for shoes was tanned from hides raised on the homestead.

The cloth for apparel, from the skin out, was woven on hand looms. Cobblers came to the house and made the shoes; dressmakers and tailors came. Everyone in the household had to have a new wardrobe for Christmas and, since tailors and cobblers and dressmakers could not be at all places at once, it was necessary to get an early start.

When the butchering was finished—in October or November—the suet was melted and the candles were made. The children always had a hand in making the little ones for use on the Christmas tree. And they usually made one which had three prongs which, placed at the very top of the tree, represented the three wise men.

The Rose of Christmas Was Young Girl's Gift

THE Christmas rose blooms at an unusual season, from December to March, with white, sometimes pinkly colored blooms. Because of the soft tinge of pink, the flower has been given the name Christmas rose.

Legend tells us that when the Wise Men were journeying toward Bethlehem, they came upon a young girl who was tending her sheep. The girl complained to an angel that she had no gift for the Holy Child, whereupon the entire pathway to Bethlehem was flowered with glistening white Christmas roses.

Madelon, the girl, offered the flowers, and when the fingers of Jesus touched them they became suffused with pink.

Corn Bread Topping Puts A "New Face" On Meat Pie!

Look for the smiles that will light up family faces when you serve meat pie with delicious, crusty corn bread topping.

Here's a dish that has a winning way with left-over roast beef and plenty of good vegetables. It's practically a meal in itself, and it takes so little time to prepare.

Your meat pie with corn bread topping can be served at the table in its baking dish. As the serving spoon breaks through the corn bread crust, you'll love the wonderful aroma that greets you, and really welcome the good flavor that has been sealed in by the corn bread. There will be no cold second helpings because the corn bread tends to hold the heat in.

Meat Pie With Corn Bread Topping
(A good way to use left-over meat and vegetables)

Filling:
- 1 cup cooked, diced carrots
- 1 cup cooked, diced celery
- 1 cup cooked. diced potatoes
- ½ cup cooked peas
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- 3 cups diced left-over roast beef
- 2 cups celery

Topping:
- ¾ cup self-rising corn meal
- ⅓ cup self-rising flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1¼ teaspoon baking powder
- 1 egg yolk
- ⅔ cup milk
- 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

(If plain corn meal and flour are used, add ½ teaspoon salt and 1½ teaspoon baking powder.)

Combine all filling ingredients in a 1½-quart greased casserole. Sift together corn meal and other dry ingredients. Combine beaten egg yolk, milk, and melted fat. Add to dry ingredients, mixing only until moistened. Pour batter evenly over meat and vegetables in casserole. Bake in a 400°F. oven, for 20 to 25 minutes, until the corn bread just starts to shrink from the sides of the casserole. Yield: 6 servings.

The splendid spirit of the season shines in the hearts of men.

Ways To Rid Cattle Of Contagious Warts

Warts on cattle are often spread throughout a group of calves by contact.

W. H. Gregory, API Extension livestock marketing specialist, says that one good way to remove some warts is to clip them off and paint the stumps with tincture of iodine. Unusually large or deep rooted warts should be treated by a veterinarian.

Other successful ways to remove warts include the use of a wart vaccine or castor oil applied to warts daily. When the vaccine is used, repeated injections are necessary.

"Disinfecting stalls and pens will usually prevent spread of the warts," adds the specialist.

'Old Bossie' Has Sweet Tooth, Too

Everyone who has watched cattle grazing on improved pastures has noticed how much better cattle like fertilized grass than unfertilized pasture.

Research tests at one state experiment station indicates that the preferred grass has a higher sugar content. And J. R. Parrish, API Extension diary specialist, explains that this is brought about by a proper balance of nitrogen and phosphorus, which are needed for the formation of sugar in the plant.

Parrish believes the moral is that the cow is a good judge of the kind of job her owner does in fertilizing his pastures.

Pasteurized Milk Curbs Diseases

Montgomery, Ala. — The gradual introduction of pasteurization into Alabama milk plants has borne rich fruit in the curbing of a number of diseases, according to Dr. D. G. Gill, State Health Officer.

"The pasteurization of milk has been making rapid headway in this state," he said today. "At the present time some 95 per cent or more of the state's commercial milk supply receives this portection. There are few crossroads stores indeed where you cannot get pasteurized milk if you want it."

The State Health Officer listed typhoid fever, diarrhea, tuberculosis of the bones and joints, scarlet fever, septic sore throat, food poisoning, diptheria and undulant fever as some of the diseases that would undoubtedly be much more prevelant if pastuerization of milk were not so widely practiced here.

And speaking of politics again, I heard a fellow this week remark, "Gosh, I'll be glad when this campaign is over. It has got to where you can't believe half of what you say."
